EVENING EDITION.

TUESDAY.....MAY 7, 1889

FIGARO is the Official Journal of all the Leading Theatres in San Francisco, and the only paper that publishes their full programmes

AMUSEMENTS, ETC.

Leavitt's New Bush Street Theatre.

Johnson & Slavin's minstrels introduce several new acts for this, their last week at the Bush.

Of their performance at the Bush the Chronicle says: "A minstrel performance with anything novel in it is almost as rare as a white blackbird, and yet the modern miracle was presented last evening by Johnson & Slavin's Minstrels at the Bush Street Theatre. It is an actual fact, incredible though it may seem, that there were new songs, new jokes and new attractions of different kinds, all of which served to take the performance out of that well worn and dreary rut which is known as the minstrel show. The troupe has three very clever minstrels in it, Carroll Johnson, Bob Slavin and Burt Haverly, and a number of lesser lights who add to the interest and fun of the entertainment. Bob Slavin has, or seems to have, a good deal of originality about him, and Carroll Johnson and Burt Haverly do not appear to feel bound to travel in the beaten track all the time. Jay Quigley, too, aids materially in carrying out the fun of the evening, and looks so preternaturally solemn that the contrast with the others is laughable in itself. Taking it all in all, singing, dancing and acting, the Johnson & Slavin Minstrels are the best that have been in San Francisco for a long time.

The new features of Johnson & Slavin's Minstrels this week are new songs by Johnson and others, and the clever sketch act, A Wedding at Uncle Jeff's, and the very funny burlesque on the Little Tycoon, entitled the Little Fly-Coon, in which Johnson, Slavin, Haverly and all the company appear, with the gems of the opera introduced in the burlesque.

That mercurial comedian, Nat C. Goodwin, puts in his appearance next week in two most amusing pieces. In the first one, "Lend Me Five Shillings," he plays Golightly in his usual bright, vivacious style, and is favorably spoken of in the New York Herald in the part as the "spontaneous and magnetic comedian." In the three-act farcical comedy of "Turned Up," that concludes the bill, the same journal says of his Bones, "the lean, lank and cadaverous undertaker," that "Goodwin is great all the way through, in enunciation and inflection as well as in action."

Mr. Goodwin is supported by his own company, among whom are Bob Hilliard, one of New York's former idols of dudedom, a notedly handsome man, Miss Lizzie McCall, Miss Nanette Comstock, Miss Marion A. Erle and others.

For casts see extra programme advertised elsewhere in FIGARO.

Baldwin Theatre.

Mr. Sothern produces his comedy success, The Highest Bidder, for his last week at the Baldwin. The result is an emphatic success. Mr. Sothern ought to have made The Highest Bidder the opening piece of his engagement. Mr. Bishop has a part thoroughly in harmony with his individuality, and he portrays it with all his well known comedy powers. All the company, in fact, appear to much better advantage in The Highest Bidder, Lord Chumley being more of a one-character piece.

"The Highest Bidder" will do a very large week's business. It is a most delightful evening's entertainment.

The Bostonians English Opera Company open their season at the Baldwin on Tuesday, May 14th, in "Pygmalion and Galatea." Seats on sale Thursday.

Alcazar Theatre.

The Two Orphans is the attraction, with Miss Effie Ellsler and Miss Ethel Brandon in the leading roles, for the last week of Miss Ellsler's engagement. The play is a remarkable melodrama and presents a strong round of characters and picturesque dramatic situations. It is finely mounted and excellently acted, and the cast is admirably made up by Miss Ellsler's company, Mr. Stockwell and the Alcazar Theatre stock. Fanny Young's Mother Frochard is a splendid bit of work.

Miss Ellsler has maintained and, if possible, has added to the high estimate in which she has been held by the San Francisco public.

Miss Brandon's testimonial benefit last evening filled the house to the doors. The floral tenders were very beautiful, and the whole event was a worthy tribute to this popular ac

Mattie Vickers, a favorite Eastern soubrette actress, makes her first San Francisco appearance at the Alcazar next week, in "Jacquine; or, Paste and Diamonds," supported by her own company.

New California Theatre.

Manager Hayman definitely announces the opening of the New California Theatre for Monday evening, May 13th, with Booth and Barrett as the inaugural attraction. They have chosen Othello as their opening piece. Seats for the first night were sold at public auction to-day at 11 A. M. in the auditorium of the Baldwin Theatre; Shainwald, Buckbee & Co., auctioneers. The sale is probably the largest premium sale ever held in this city. All the boxes, orchestra seats (except a few undesirable ones), all the balcony and front rows of the dress circle were sold. The theatre was well filled, and the bidding was very spirited. The regular sale of seats for all the performances will commence on Wednesday at Sherman & Clay's music store.

Orpheum Opera House.

Reilly & Wood's Big Show, headed by the famed Vaidis Twin Sisters, are in their goodby week at the Orpheum this week. This is a specialty company of acknowledged first-class talent in its every department—a company of artists whose acts in finish and style have been endorsed by the press everywhere.

The company embraces such names as Delaur & Debrimont, Melville & Stetson, Napier & Marzello, John G. Sparks, to say nothing of Pat Reilly, the best of Irish character specialists and comedians.

See list of company in programme announcement elsewhere on this page.

The Big Show draws big houses.

The Bunch of Keys Company will give a week's performance of Charley Hoyt's lively farcical comedy at the Orpheum next week.

Morosco's Amphitheatre.

Managers Morosco & Byrnes have put in a most complete fireproof partition between the stage and the auditorium, from wall to wall of their big theatre. It is constructed of iron lathings on both sides of the studding. The decorators are just finishing the immense ceiling of the theatre with harmonious panels.

George Turner, a young and popular character actor, appears here this week as Tom Trunnion in the five-act drama of The Yankee Sailor in Brazil. Mr. Darrell Vinton re-appears in the strong part of Palmedo. Mr. Dale plays Manuel.

The play gives pictures of the social and slave life in Brazil and abounds in dramatic incidents.

Time nor seasons have no influence on Morosco's business—it is always good.

Matinees Sundays, at 2 P. M. Admission, 10 cents. Front reserved seats 10 cents extra.

The Battle of Vicksburg.

The grand panorama of the Battle of Vicksburg at the Panorama Building, corner of Eddy and Mason streets, is one that no American should fail to see. It gives a grand view of the battle with the conflict at its height on the land and the bombardment from the river with the correct positions of the engaging forces and the proper placement of the ironclads in the bombardment. It is a great painting, and excels the Battle of Waterloo in graphic power and vivid reality. Destruction reigns on every side. The burning buildings, the bursting shells, the desperate charges, the hand-to-hand conflicts, and the dying and wounded, all depict with startling realism one of the hottest conflicts in history.

Open from 9 A. M. to 6 P. M.

Vienna Garden Theatre

Not to take in the Vienna is to miss seeing one of the prettiest rural places in the city, and one that by the good management of Mr. A. Larsen, ably assisted by his director of amusements, Mr. Geo. H. Wood, "the somewhat different comedian," has become one of our most popular family resorts.

The new people for this week are Young Whistler, Prof. Pasco, Rosina Evans, Sadie Fairfield, Minnie Ellsworth, Amy Walters and Billy Wetson.

Manager Wood gives us another genuine sensation this week in the scientific exhibitions of Young Whistler and Prof. Pasco. Edwin Barry, the Gottlobs, Jos. D. Green and Bob Harrison introduce new specialties this week.

Business is steadily good at this commodious gothic cottage embosomed among the trees. Prices, 10 and 20 cents.

Bella Union Theatre.

The new faces this week are Dolly Sharpe, Sam Lang, Campbell & Nibbe and John Mortell.

Campbell & Nibbe's laughable satire, entitled Scenes in Stockton, opens the evening's entertainment, with all the company in the cast.

Wm. Devere, Conchita, George Drew, Burnell, Ida Howell, Rose Sidell and the Stanley Sisters are still ahead as favorites.

The ladies of the company come in for a full share of the applause and crowd the male contingent very closely.

Hallinan's Cremorne Theatre.

John D. Linden, Gibbons & Ford and Judd London are the new people for this week.

Hayes & Marion, the black stars, in another of their specialties; Miss Flora Hastings, Ruby Everett, Jennie Haywood and May Morrell continue their success of last week.

Johnnie Cain, the odd and funny comedian, contributes his specialties in a manner that brings down the house, and the Cremorne plays to large patronage every night in the week.

Original Theatre Comique.

The entertainment commences with a few remarks from Frisco's Favorite Funmakers with an original grand finale by the company. Charles Morrell with his gripsack full of fun and Tommy Morris in another of his amusing sketches fill in the middle part of the programme.

The Comique presents an entire new bill this week, with songs and afterpiece.

The comical farce-comedy, Mixtures, is the interlude act.

The laughable farce, The Boomers, with all the company in the cast, concludes the bill and the evening's fun.

The Comique's company is a strong one. It is a neat, compact minor theatre, and for many years has been a popular one.

Eureka Music Hall.

This is one of the neatest and most popular of our minor theatres. Manager Welterstein runs a very strong company.

Edith Morrison, Laura White, Maggie Gordon, Stella Merriam, Stella Walton, Pearl Iola, Chas. Berkeley, Charles Franks, Geo. C. Dunham and others appear in a round of specialties acts and afterpiece. The specialty people are all good, and do their best to make the evening enjoyable.

Berkeley & Howard, the society sketch artists, make their re-appearance this week in their celebrated international melange, Enlisted.

Franks & Morrison give another of their original musical specialties, Nic-Nacs, and Geo. C. Dunham is down for a neat turn.

The Eureka gives a matinee every Sunday.

Sunday, May 12th, fourth annual picnic of the Societa Operata Italiana Di Mutuo Soccorso at Seaside Gardens.

The Siege of Sebastopol.

Pain's Siege of Sebastopol is a most realistic picture of war. The exhibition occupies the block bounded by Hayes, Baker, Lyon and Fell streets.

The Hayes street cars take you directly to it.

Before the immense auditorium with raised seats for thousands is an artificial lake, 250 by 75 feet, representing the Bay of Sebastopol. On the far side is the fortified city, with built-up counterparts of its forts and towers, with the famed Malokoff in the centre.

Prior to the storming, lightning, rifle drills cutlass drills, cavalry exercises, spy capturing, and other incidents of camp life are exhibited.

When the assault begins fire opens all along the line, and as the battle rages the noise of explosives, the blowing up of forts and the great flashes of flames become thrillingly exciting.

You feel the shock of the explosions and see the walls tottering before you as the assaulting forces charge the great Malokoff, and you fee like raising a cheer as the French flag is raised over its ruins.

After the burning of the city comes the pyrotechnic pean of victory. Here is where Messrs. Pain of London, the getters up of the exhibition who supply the British Navy with all their signa rockets, bombs, etc., and furnish all the fireworks for the royal celebrations excel. Flights of rockets and bombs fill the air, sending down showers of gold and silver: the lake becomes alive with fiery fountains, and its far shore with meteoric fireworks and standing pieces, forming at every performance the best pyrotechnical display and one of the most bounteous ever given in San Francisco.

Performances given Tuesday, Thursday and Saturday evenings. The intervening time will be required to repair the damages of the bombardment and replace the $1,000 worth of pyrotechnics used at every performance.

Numbered reserved seats on sale at Sherman, Clay & Co.'s music store, and at the newsstands in the principal hotels.

Mechanics' Pavilion—The 6 Days' Race.

The six days and six nights' go-as-you-please race commences at the Mechanics' Pavilion Thursday evening at 10 o'clock, and promises from the value of the purses and the class of contestants entered to turn out the greatest event of the pedestrian kind ever on this coast. There is a prize purse of $2,500 in addition to the gate money to be divided among the winners. James Albert, the champion of the world, with a record of 621 miles in six days, has come here to run against Hart, Moore, Howarth, Vint and others. Dan Herty, with a record of 605 miles, is another emigrant from the East with the first purse as his object.

As the walkers have decided that none others than those who cover 525 miles during the six days shall be entitled to any share of the gate receipts, the race will be for blood from the start.

It is sufficient to add that Frank Hall manages the race to warrant that everything will be fair and square.

The following pretty fable is going the rounds of the newsy English papers: Colonel McCaull, manager of one of the New York theatres, was not satisfied with the gloomy expression on the contenances of his chorus girls, and proceeded in his usual gruff manner to explain to them the necessity of coming before an audience with a seventy-five-dollar-a-week smile on their faces. He wound up his lecture with: Good heavens, girls! will nothing enliven you? What would you do if I raised your salaries? All laughed heartily at the idea except one, who, in a still, small voice, answered, Drop dead! De Wolf Hopper, the comedian, who was s and was so much ple of the owner of the v priateness of the repl her acquaintance and her.

FULL PROGRAMMES of all the Leading Theatre in San Francisco can be found in FIGARO—the only paper that has them.

THE NEW CALIFORNIA THEATRE.

The New California Theatre, which opens Monday night with Booth, Barrett and company, will be a handsome and commodious and an elegantly and richly appointed one. It will step out in the march of improvements with some innovations in style and architecture. The circles will not be marked by any novel changes. The boxes will be. They are of the new balcony projecting style, circular in form, Moorish in design, modified by East Indian architectural finish. The ceiling is divided into partial arches and elegantly frescoed. The decorations of walls and ceiling are yellow and gold on a blue background, richly ornamented with a fretwork of mouldings, Moresque arches, wood carvings and plaster work. The curtains and canopies of the boxes are of Oriental designs.

The lower floor and half of the first balcony have red plush opera chairs. The rear rows of the first balcony have ash folding opera chairs and the upper balcony high-backed benches. The first balcony extends far out over the dress circle, and its curved and slanting ceiling is beautifully frescoed.

Just inside the arched main entrance a broad iron stairway leads up one side to the upper balcony and one on the other side to the first balcony. Besides these, broad iron stairways on both sides of the building lead from several exits in both balconies to the court, which surrounds the theatre on three sides inside the hotel building, and opens out on Pine street through Central place.

The stage is supplied with all modern appliances and improvements. It is open to the audience nearly the entire width of the building, leaving but narrow passageways on the sides for entry and exit. The scenery and the flies are all suspended above the stage, balanced by an elaborate system of weights in the cellar, and will be let down and run up instead of being run on from the sides. Below the stage there is a high and roomy basement, with a cellar below it. Dressing-rooms are in the rear, provided with every convenience.

The New California will be a worthy successor to the old one, and keep alive its prestiges and memories. We congratulate Manager Al Hayman upon his administration of so perfect a theatre.

SPECIALTY SQUIBS.

C. H. Ross, the enterprising publisher of Chaff, the Fresno Advertiser, has enlarged his paper to eight pages. It is a readable little paper and contains in addition to the society notes the house programmes of the leading theatres.

The six days and six nights' go-as-you-please race at the Mechanics' Pavilion starts with Jas. Albert, Dan Herty, Vint, Guerrero, Hart, Moore, Howarth and thirty-two others in the race on Thursday at 10 P. M.

They are having a six days' go-as-you-please race at Madison Square Garden, New York, which started at midnight on Saturday. We will not be afraid to compare the time records of our race, which starts in the Mechanics' Pavilion on the 9th, with the New York one. We have the most noted pedestrians in our race.

Johnson & Slavin's Minstrels present a new programme at the Bush this week. The town is taking the minstrels in.

The Call opines that 'Carroll Johnson is a very clever minstrel, has a fine voice, is a neat dancer and has plenty of genuine humor. He deserves to rank with Billy Emerson, the king of minstrels," but Bob Slavin's monologue specialty takes the cake in quaint humor.

The Siege of Sebastopol is reproduced every Tuesday, Thursday and Saturday night. It is a big show.

Besides the vaudeville company at the Vienna, those experts in the manly art, Young Whistler and Prof. Pasco, give a three-round boxing contest every night that are so warm that the Vienna's audiences "bile" over with excitement.

The Comique presents an entire new bill this week. Charley Morrell and Tommy Morris contribute excellent specialty turns, and J. H. Burns is good in character parts.

W. J. Scanlan has made a very great success in England, where he has already ac-

PROFESSIONAL PICKINGS.

Booth and Barrett close their three nights' engagement in Salt Lake to-night, and take a special train for this city after the performance. They will arrive here on Friday and proceed to Del Monte for a resting, returning to this city on Monday morning.

We have the "Last Days of Pompeii" in San Francisco in June.

Effie Ellsler and Ethel Brandon are the pathetic "orphans" at the Alcazar this week. Frank Weston plays the nice young man in knee-breeches and a sword, and Stockwell makes a deal of fun out of the valet Picard.

The auction sale of seats Tuesday for the opening night of the New California Theatre yielded $4 970 in premiums. The first box sold, held at $25, brought $210 premium. The other nine boxes realized from $95 to $17 50 advances. In selling the seats—held at $3—purchasers took their choice in parquette circle and dress circle, and nearly all the seats were sold in these circles at premiums ranging from $13 50 to $5 The regular sale of seats commenced to-day at Sherman, Clay & Co.'s, where seats for any night in the week can be secured.

Louis Wesley has been engaged by Hoyt & Thomas to play Rats in A Tin Soldier Co.

Geo. Thorne will probably play Louis Harrison's part in The Pearl of Pekin next season.

Archie Boyd will have $150 a week next season for playing Joshua Whitcomb in The Old Homestead.

Webster & Brady have already booked their successful She production far into next season.

Harry Edwards has sold his collection of bugs to the National Museum of Washington for the reported sum of $20,000.

Mrs. Potter announces that she will play Rosalind as a rough and tumble boy. It is the audience thet must not tumble.

Mr. Richard Stahl has started with the Said Pasha Co. for California. Mr. Stahl's new opera, called The Sea King, will be produced early next season.

The coming will be the sixth season of William Redmund and Mrs. Thos. Barry as joint stars.

Clara Louise Kellogg is booked through the West for a Spring tour.

Hutchinson, Kansas, is to have a new $85,000 opera house.

Herrmann does Broadway, New York, with the other dudes, regularly, whenever he is in town. But he has never been detected mashing.

Harry Battenbury has joined the Said Pasha Co. and Stuart Harold has closed with it.

Lizzie McCall, with whom the late "Betsy B." had a dispute about stockings and their contents some years ago—things that male critics are supposed to know nothing about—is one of Nat Goodwin's company.

Margaret Mather has a new play which she intends to produce soon.

The Two Orphans, with Effie Ellsler and Ethel Brandon as the parentless heroines, with L. R. Stockwell and Frank Weston in the leading supports, will be given for the last week of Effie Ellsler at the Alcazar.

Sothern appears in his comedy success of The Highest Bidder at the Baldwin this week.

The New California Theatre opens on Monday night with the Booth & Barrett Company in Othello, which will keep the stage the week out. Booth as Othello and Barrett as Iago Monday, Tuesday, Thursday and Friday nights. On Wednesday and Saturday nights they will change characters.

Mattie Vickers, follows Effie Ellsler at the Alcazar Theatre. The engagement is for two weeks.

They have a lightning driller at the Siege of Sebastopol that knocks out old lightning himself in quickness of movement. When he gives his rifle a twirl it makes the stars blink.

The partnership between Robson and Crane comes to an end May 11 h, which will be the date of their last performance at the Star Theatre.

Miss May Amber, a young and clever actress will be the leading lady of Louis James' company next season.

Next Monday night at the Gaiety Theatre in Dublin, W. J. Scanlan will make his first appearance in Ireland.

Rose Coghlan opens her next tour in Jocelyn at the Baldwin Theatre in San Francisco in August.

It is stated that Edward Harrigan is trying to secure a lease of Amberg's Theatre on Irving Place, New York, for next season.

Hallen and Hart begin their next season in Later On August 25 in Chicago.

Manager M. B. Leavitt has booked He, She, Him and Her for a summer engagement at the Bush Street Theatre.

A. C. Wheeler (Nym Crinkle) has written a play for little Tommy Russell in which he will star next season.

M. B. Leavitt is building a new theatre in Denver at a cost of $250,000. It will be called the Broadway Theatre, and will open to the public Sept. 2.

Patti Rosa produced a new play called Myrtle April 8 h in Birmingham, England. In June Miss Rosa will begin an engagement of two weeks in Paris.

April 22 J. K. Emmet began an extended engagement at the Fourteenth Street Theatre, New York, appearing in a new play called Uncle Joe, or Fritz in a Madhouse.

James O'Neil has closed a successful season and gone to his home in New London, Conn., for the summer. He will be man-

EVENING EDITION.

WEDNESDAY.....MAY 8, 1889

FIGARO is the Official Journal of all the Leading Theatres in San Francisco, and the only paper that publishes their full programmes

AMUSEMENTS, ETC.

Leavitt's New Bush Street Theatre.

Johnson & Slavin's minstrels introduce several new acts for this, their last week at the Bush.

Of their performance at the Bush the Chronicle says: "A minstrel performance with anything novel in it is almost as rare as a white blackbird, and yet the modern miracle was presented last evening by Johnson & Slavin's Minstrels at the Bush Street Theatre. It is an actual fact, incredible though it may seem, that there were new songs, new jokes and new attractions of different kinds, all of which served to take the performance out of that well worn and dreary rut which is known as the minstrel show. The troupe has three very clever minstrels in it, Carroll Johnson, Bob Slavin and Burt Haverly, and a number of lesser lights who add to the interest and fun of the entertainment. Bob Slavin has, or seems to have, a good deal of originality about him, and Carroll Johnson and Burt Haverly do not appear to feel bound to travel in the beaten track all the time. Jay Quigley, too, aids materially in carrying out the fun of the evening, and looks so preternaturally solemn that the contrast with the others is laughable in itself. Taking it all in all, singing, dancing and acting, the Johnson & Slavin Minstrels are the best that have been in San Francisco for a long time.

The new features of Johnson & Slavin's Minstrels this week are new songs by Johnson and others, and the clever sketch act, A Wedding at Uncle Jeff's, and the very funny burlesque on the Little Tycoon, entitled the Little Fly-Coon, in which Johnson, Slavin, Haverly and all the company appear, with the gems of the opera introduced in the burlesque.

That mercurial comedian, Nat C. Goodwin, puts in his appearance next week in two most amusing pieces. In the first one, "Lend Me Five Shillings," he plays Golightly in his usual bright, vivacious style, and is favorably spoken of in the New York Herald in the part as the "spontaneous and magnetic comedian." In the three-act farcical comedy of "Turned Up," that concludes the bill, the same journal says of his Bones, "the lean, lank and cadaverous undertaker," that "Goodwin is great all the way through, in enunciation and inflection as well as in action."

Mr. Goodwin is supported by his own company, among whom are Bob Hilliard, one of New York's former idols of dudedom, a notedly handsome man, Miss Lizzie McCall, Miss Nanette Comstock, Miss Marion A. Erle and others.

For casts see extra programme advertised elsewhere in FIGARO.

Baldwin Theatre.

Mr. Sothern produces his comedy success, The Highest Bidder, for his last week at the Baldwin. The result is an emphatic success. Mr. Sothern ought to have made The Highest Bidder the opening piece of his engagement. Mr. Bishop has a part thoroughly in harmony with his individuality, and he portrays it with all his well known comedy powers. All the company, in fact, appear to much better advantage in The Highest Bidder, Lord Chumley being more of a one-character piece.

"The Highest Bidder" will do a very large week's business. It is a most delightful evening's entertainment.

The Bostonians English Opera Company open their season at the Baldwin on Tuesday, May 14th, in "Pygmalion and Galatea." Seats on sale Thursday.

Alcazar Theatre.

The Two Orphans is the attraction, with Miss Ethe Ellsler and Miss Ethel Brandon in the leading roles, for the last week of Miss Ellsler's engagement. The play is a remarkable melodrama and presents a strong round of characters and picturesque dramatic situations. It is finely mounted and excellently acted, and the cast is admirably made up by Miss Ellsler's company, Mr. Stockwell and the Alcazar Theatre stock. Fanny Young's Mother Orchard is a splendid bit of work.

Miss Ellsler has maintained and, if possible, has added to the high estimate in which she has been held by the San Francisco public.

Miss Brandon's testimonial benefit last evening filled the house to the doors. The floral tenders were very beautiful, and the whole event was a worthy tribute to this popular actress.

Mattie Vickers, a favorite Eastern soubrette actress, makes her first San Francisco appearance at the Alcazar next week, in "Jacquine; or, Paste and Diamonds," supported by her own company.

New California Theatre.

Manager Hayman definitely announces the opening of the New California Theatre for Monday evening, May 13th, with Booth and Barrett as the inaugural attraction. They have chosen Othello as their opening piece. Seats for the first night were sold at public auction to-day at 11 A. M. in the auditorium of the Baldwin Theatre; Shainwald, Buckbee & Co., auctioneers. The sale is probably the largest premium sale ever held in this city. All the boxes, orchestra seats (except a few undesirable ones), all the balcony and front rows of the dress circle were sold. The theatre was well filled, and the bidding was very spirited. The regular sale of seats for all the performances will commence on Wednesday at Sherman & Clay's music store.

Orpheum Opera House.

Reilly & Wood's Big Show, headed by the famed Vaidis Twin Sisters, are in their good-by week at the Orpheum this week. This is a specialty company of acknowledged first-class talent in its every department—a company of artists whose acts in finish and style have been endorsed by the press everywhere.

The company embraces such names as Delaur & Debrimont, Melville & Stetson, Napier & Marzello, John G. Sparks, to say nothing of Pat Reilly, the best of Irish character specialists and comedians.

See list of company in programme announcement elsewhere on this page.

The Big Show draws big houses.

The Bunch of Keys Company will give a week's performance of Charley Hoyt's lively farcical comedy at the Orpheum next week.

Morosco's Amphitheatre.

Managers Morosco & Byrnes have put in a most complete fireproof partition between the stage and the auditorium, from wall to wall of their big theatre. It is constructed of iron lathings on both sides of the studding. The decorators are just finishing the immense ceiling of the theatre with harmonious panels.

George Turner, a young and popular character actor, appears here this week as Tom Trunnion in the five-act drama of The Yankee Sailor in Brazil. Mr. Darrell Vinton re-appears in the strong part of Palmedo. Mr. Dale plays Manuel.

The play gives pictures of the social and slave life in Brazil and abounds in dramatic incidents.

Time nor seasons have no influence on Morosco's business—it is always good.

Matinees Sundays, at 2 P. M. Admission, 10 cents. Front reserved seats 10 cents extra.

The Battle of Vicksburg.

The grand panorama of the Battle of Vicksburg at the Panorama Building, corner of Eddy and Mason streets, is one that no American should fail to see. It gives a grand view of the battle with the conflict at its height on the land and the bombardment from the river with the correct positions of the engaging forces and the proper placement of the ironclads in the bombardment. It is a great painting, and excels the Battle of Waterloo in graphic power and vivid reality. Destruction reigns on every side. The burning buildings, the bursting shells, the desperate charges, the hand-to-hand conflicts, and the dying and wounded, all depict with startling realism one of the hottest conflicts in history.

Open from 9 A. M. to 6 P. M.

Vienna Garden Theatre

Not to take in the Vienna is to miss seeing one of the prettiest rural places in the city, and one that by the good management of Mr. A. Larsen, ably assisted by his director of amusements, Mr. Geo. H. Wood, "the somewhat different comedian," has become one of our most popular family resorts.

The new people for this week are Young Whistler, Prof. Pasco, Rosina Evans, Sadie Fairfield, Minnie Ellsworth, Amy Walters and Billy Wetson.

Manager Wood gives us another genuine sensation this week in the scientific exhibitions of Young Whistler and Prof. Pasco. Edwin Barry, the Gottlobs, Jos. D. Green and Bob Harrison introduce new specialties this week.

Business is steadily good at this commodious gothic cottage embosomed among the trees. Prices, 10 and 20 cents.

Bella Union Theatre.

The new faces this week are Dolly Sharpe, Sam Lang, Campbell & Nibbe and John Mortell.

Campbell & Nibbe's laughable satire, entitled Scenes in Stockton, opens the evening's entertainment, with all the company in the cast.

Wm. Devere, Conchita, George Drew, Burnell, Ida Howell, Rose Sidell and the Stanley Sisters are still ahead as favorites.

The ladies of the company come in for a full share of the applause and crowd the male contingent very closely.

Hallinan's Cremorne Theatre.

John D. Linden, Gibbons & Ford and Judd London are the new people for this week.

Hayes & Marion, the black stars, in another of their specialties; Miss Flora Hastings, Ruby Everett, Jennie Haywood and May Morrell continue their success of last week.

Johnnie Cain, the odd and funny comedian, contributes his specialties in a manner that brings down the house, and the Cremorne plays to large patronage every night in the week.

Original Theatre Comique.

The entertainment commences with a few remarks from Frisco's Favorite Funmakers with an original grand finale by the company. Charles Morrell with his gripsack full of fun and Tommy Morris in another of his amusing sketches fill in the middle part of the programme.

The Comique presents an entire new bill this week, with songs and afterpiece.

The comical farce-comedy, Mixtures, is the interlude act.

The laughable farce, The Boomers, with all the company in the cast, concludes the bill and the evening's fun.

The Comique's company is a strong one. It is a neat, compact minor theatre, and for many years has been a popular one.

Eureka Music Hall.

This is one of the neatest and most popular of our minor theatres. Manager Walterstein runs a very strong company.

Edith Morrison, Laura White, Maggie Gordon, Stella Merriam, Stella Walton, Pearl Iola, Chas. Berkeley, Charles Franke, Geo. C. Dunham and others appear in a round of specialties acts and afterpiece. The specialty people are all good, and do their best to make the evening enjoyable.

Berkeley & Howard, the society sketch artists, make their re-appearance this week in their celebrated international melange, Enlisted.

Franks & Morrison give another of their original musical specialties, Nic-Nacs, and Geo. C. Dunham is down for a neat turn.

The Eureka gives a matinee every Sunday.

Sunday, May 12th, fourth annual picnic of the Societa Operata Italiana Di Mutuo Soccorso at Seaside Gardens.

The Siege of Sebastopol.

Pain's Siege of Sebastopol is a most realistic picture of war. The exhibition occupies the block bounded by Hayes, Baker, Lyon and Fell streets.

The Hayes street cars take you directly to it.

Before the immense auditorium with raised seats for thousands is an artificial lake, 250 by 75 feet, representing the Bay of Sebastopol. On the far side is the fortified city, with built-up counterparts of its forts and towers, with the famed Malokoff in the centre.

Prior to the storming, lightning, rifle drills, cutlass drills, cavalry exercises, spy capturing, and other incidents of camp life are exhibited.

When the assault begins fire opens all along the line, and as the battle rages the noise of explosives, the blowing up of forts and the great flashes of flames become thrillingly exciting.

You feel the shock of the explosions and see the walls tottering before you as the assaulting forces charge the great Malokoff, and you fee like raising a cheer as the French flag is raised over its ruins.

After the burning of the city comes the pyrotechnic pean of victory. Here is where Messrs. Pain of London, the getters up of the exhibition who supply the British Navy with all their signal rockets, bombs, etc., and furnish all the fireworks for the royal celebrations excel. Flights of rockets and bombs fill the air, sending down showers of gold and silver: the lake becomes alive with fiery fountains, and its far shore with meteoric fireworks and standing pieces, forming at every performance the best pyrotechnical display and one of the most bounteous ever given in San Francisco.

Performances given Tuesday, Thursday and Saturday evenings. The intervening time will be required to repair the damages of the bombardment and replace the $1,000 worth of pyrotechnics used at every performance.

Numbered reserved seats on sale at Sherman, Clay & Co.'s music store, and at the newsstands in the principal hotels.

than those who cover 525 miles during the six days shall be entitled to any share of the gate receipts, the race will be for blood from the start.

It is sufficient to add that Frank Hall manages the race to warrant that everything will be fair and square.

The following pretty fable is going the round of the newsy English papers: Colonel McCaull, manager of one of the New York theatres, was not satisfied with the gloomy expression on the countenances of his chorus girls, and proceeded in his usual gruff manner to explain to them the necessity of coming before an audience with a seventy-five-dollar-a-week smile on their faces. He wound up his lecture with: Good heavens, girls! will nothing enliven you? What would you do if I raised your salaries? All laughed heartily at the idea except one, who, in a still, small voice, answered, Drop dead! De Wolf Hopper, the comedian, who was star and was so much pleased of the owner of the voice, pliableness of the reply, her acquaintance and ex her.

FULL PROGRAMMES of all the Leading Theatre in San Francisco can be found in FIGARO—the only paper that has them.

THE NEW CALIFORNIA THEATRE.

The New California Theatre, which opens Monday night with Booth, Barrett and company, will be a handsome and commodious and an elegantly and richly appointed one. It will step out in the march of improvements with some innovations in style and architecture. The circles will not be marked by any novel changes. The boxes will be. They are of the new balcony projecting style, circular in form, Moorish in design, modified by East Indian architectural finish. The ceiling is divided into partial arches and elegantly frescoed. The decorations of walls and ceiling are yellow and gold on a blue background, richly ornamented with a fretwork of mouldings, Moresque arches, wood carvings and plaster work. The curtains and canopies of the boxes are of Oriental designs.

The lower floor and half of the first balcony have red plush opera chairs. The rear rows of the first balcony have ash folding opera chairs and the upper balcony high-backed benches. The first balcony extends far out over the dress circle, and its curved and slanting ceiling is beautifully frescoed.

Just inside the arched main entrance a broad iron stairway leads up one side to the upper balcony and one on the other side to the first balcony. Besides these, broad iron stairways on both sides of the building lead from several exits in both balconies to the court, which surrounds the theatre on three sides inside the hotel building, and opens out on Pine street through Central place.

The stage is supplied with all modern appliances and improvements. It is open to the audience nearly the entire width of the building, leaving but narrow passageways on the sides for entry and exit. The scenery and the flies are all suspended above the stage, balanced by an elaborate system of weights in the cellar, and will be let down and run up instead of being run on from the sides. Below the stage there is a high and roomy basement, with a cellar below it. Dressing-rooms are in the rear, provided with every convenience.

The New California will be a worthy successor to the old one, and keep alive its prestiges and memories. We congratulate Manager Al Hayman upon his administration of so perfect a theatre.

Webster & Brady have already booked their successful She production far into next season.

They have a lightning driller at the Siege of Sebastopol that knocks out old lightning himself in quickness of movement. When he gives his rifle a twirl it makes the stars blink.

Rose Coghlan opens her next tour in Jocelyn at the Baldwin Theatre in San Francisco in August.

Manager M. B. Leavitt has booked He, She, Him and Her for a summer engagement at the Bush Street Theatre.

Margaret Mather has a new play which she intends to produce soon.

Mattie Vickers, follows Effie Ellsler at the Alcazar Theatre. The engagement is for two weeks.

Lizzie McCall, with whom the late "Betsy B." had a dispute about stockings and their contents some years ago—things that male critics are supposed to know nothing about—is one of Nat Goodwin's company.

Mr. Richard Stahl has started with the Said Pasha Co. for California. Mr. Stahl's new opera, called The Sea King, will be produced early next season.

The coming will be the sixth season of William Redmund and Mrs. Thos. Barry as joint stars.

Clara Louise Kellogg is booked through the West for a Spring tour.

Geo. Thorne will probably play Louis Harrison's part in The Pearl of Pekin next season.

Archie Boyd will have $150 a week next season for playing Joshua Whitcomb in The Old Homestead.

Hutchinson, Kansas, is to have a new $85,000 opera house.

Besides the vaudeville company at the Vienna, those experts in the manly art,

PROFESSIONAL PICKINGS.

Agnes Evans, for three years the soprano of the Parlor Match Co., has declined a re-engagement with the company.

Belle Thorne, of The Pearl of Pekin, is in great demand. Numerous offers have been made her for next season.

Since it has become known in the East that N. C. Goodwin will play Bones, in Turned Up, and produce the best characters from his repertoire during his trip to California, the writers there say the comedian is doing right in "putting his best foot forward, as California will stand no nonsense." On the contrary, we will stand plenty of nonsense—if it is good nonsense.

Krewolf, treasurer of Hoyt's Brass Monkey Co., who skipped with $5,000 about a month ago, has been heard from in Washington Territory.

Another California boy, Edwin F. Stevens, late comedian of the Tivoli, makes his first appearance at the Casino, N. Y., May 10th. The Casino people expect and hope he will make a great hit. Stevens had not been in town twenty-four hours before Aronson signed him for a three years' contract. He will play the leading bouffe role in the revival of The Brigands, and plays in the same cast with such aristocratic stage beauties as Lillian Russell, Isabelle Urquhart and Fanny Rice. The Casino is the Mecca of theatrical hopes in the comic opera line, and the translation of Stevens is as sudden as it is deserved.

Archie Gunter has secured the English copyright to his last book, "That Frenchman," and he expresses himself as follows in regard to dramatic authors: "I tell you there is no use talking, the poor author who relies on royalties and percentages gets left every time. I have had several plays of my own produced and precious little have I seen in the way of large profits. I am not the only one. There is Hoyt, of Hoyt & Thomas. He made just $2,500 off the Bunch of Keys. Sanger, his manager, made $100,000. Bartley Campbell is credited with having made a large fortune out of My Partner. No such thing. Aldrich, who put on the play, made the money, a cool $60,000. Campbell's share was $10 a night. There have been a good many romances afloat about Bartley Campbell's money. But don't it strike you as funny that he didn't leave any when he died? They will tell you he spent it all. Well, the truth is he didn't make so much after all. The managers wouldn't let him."

School-childrens' night Saturday night at the Siege of Sebastopol, when all school-children having printed invitations can procure tickets of admittance for 15 cents to see the great show upon presenting the same at Sherman, Clay & Co.'s, or at the Sebastopol box office on Hayes street.

Emma Abbott will build a monument to her late husband at a cost of $85,000. When she dies her body will be cremated and her ashes placed in the same tomb.

Henry Irving has signed a contract with Abbey for the season of 1891 for the United States. Abbey will give Irving 33 per cent of the gross receipts and will pay the salaries of the company and the transportation of the company and scenery. To Miss Terry he gives 7 per cent of the gross receipts wherever they play.

Charlie Drew, so long comedian with the Carleton Opera Company, will play the part hitherto performed by Charlie Reed in A Brass Monkey next season.

Anson Pond is re-writing Her Atonement, and will probably produce it in England during the coming season. He goes over in August.

King Cole II., in Philadelphia, did not achieve the success anticipated. In fact the papers of that city damn it with the faintest imaginable praise.

Marie Stone, Jessie Bartlett Davis, Tom Karl, McDonald, Barnabee, Cowles and Hoff are in the cast of Pygmalion and Galatea, with which the Bostonians open.

It is rumored that a certain percentage of the profession is burning up St. Louis because St Louis refuses to accept dramatic pablum it does not like, even if New York endorses it. St. Louis did not like Chumley. Well, San Francisco did not hanker after it much. But it is clapping its hands over The Highest Bidder.

At one time this year there were 721 companies playing throughout the country. This includes permanent stock companies, and excludes a few Western companies which start out from San Francisco to forage over the Pacific Coast. Over 200 failed in three months, nearly sixty closed for reorganization and several played in spells, like Katherine Coleman and Florine Arnold, who opened and closed their season over three times during the same number of months. Of the reorganized ones, Kate Claxton and McKee Rankin are still on the road. Dan Sully has played the longest season, having continued uninterrupted, excepting blizzard week, ever since July, 1887.

Booth and Barrett closed their engagement in Salt Lake Wednesday night, and took a special train for this city after the performance. They will arrive here on Friday and proceed to Del Monte for a resting, returning to this city on Monday morning.

Louis Wesley, the variety performer, well known on this coast, has been engaged by Hoyt & Thomas to play Rats in A Tin Soldier Co.

We have the "Last Days of Pompeii" in San Francisco in June.

Effie Ellsler and Ethel Brandon are the pathetic "orphans" at the Alcazar this week. Frank Weston plays the nice young man in knee-breeches and a sword, and Stockwell makes a deal of fun out of the valet Picard.

FIGARO is the Official Journal of all the Leading Theatres in San Francisco, and the only paper that publishes their full programmes.

AMUSEMENTS, ETC.

Leavitt's New Bush Street Theatre.

Johnson & Slavin's Minstrels, endorsed by the press everywhere as an A 1 minstrel company, are giving us the last chance to see their excellent qualities at the Bush this week.

The Chronicle says of this company: "Taking it all in all, singing, dancing and acting, the Johnson & Slavin Minstrels are the best that have been in San Francisco for a long time."

The new features of Johnson & Slavin's Minstrels this week are new songs by Johnson and others, and the clever sketch act, A Wedding at Uncle Jeff's and the very funny burlesque on the Little Tycoon, entitled the Little Fly-Goon, in which Johnson, Slavin, Haverly and all the company appear, with the gems of the opera introduced in the burlesque.

—o—

That mercurial comedian, Nat C. Goodwin, puts in his appearance next week in two most amusing pieces. In the first one, "Lend Me Five Shillings," he plays Golightly in his usual bright vivacious style, and is favorably spoken of in the New York Herald in the part as the "spontaneous and magnetic comedian." In the three-act farcical comedy of "Turned Up," that concludes the bill, the same journal says of his Bones, "the lean, lank and cadaverous undertaker," that "Goodwin is great all the way through, in enunciation and inflection as well as in action."

Mr. Goodwin is supported by his own company, among whom are Bob Hilliard, one of New York's notabilities, a handsome man and a good actor; Miss Lizzie McCall, Miss Nanette Comstock, Miss Marion A. Erle and others.

For casts see extra programme advertised elsewhere in FIGARO.

Baldwin Theatre.

Mr. Sothern produces his comedy success, The Highest Bidder, for his last week at the Baldwin. The result is an emphatic success. Mr. Solhern ought to have made The Highest Bidder the opening piece of his engagement. Mr. Bishop has a part thoroughly in harmony with his individuality, and he portrays it with all his well known comedy powers. All the company, in fact, appear to much better advantage in The Highest Bidder, Lord Chumley being more of a one-character piece.

"The Highest Bidder" will do a very large week's business. It is a most delightful evening's entertainment.

—o—

The Bostonians English Opera Company open their season at the Baldwin on Tuesday, May 14th, in "Pygmalion and Galatea." This company first gained prominence as the Boston Ideals. They have of late years been noted for their complete rendering and extensive production English operas.

The principal artists comprising the company are: Marie Stone, Jessie Bartlett Davis, Juliette Corden, Carlotta Maconda, Josephine Bartlett, Louise Bianchi, Tom Earl, W. H. McDonald, H. C. Barnabee, Edwin Hoff, Eugene Cowles, Geo. Frothingham and Fred Dixon.

Pygmalion will be repeated Thursday night and Saturday matinee.

The Musketeers will be given on Wednesday and Saturday nights.

Friday night, The Bohemian Girl.

Alcazar Theatre.

The Two Orphans is the attraction, with Miss Rose Eytinge and Miss Ethel Brandon in the leading roles, for the last week of Miss Eytinge's engagement. The play is a remarkable melodrama and presents a strong round of characters and picturesque dramatic situations. It is finely mounted and excellently acted and the cast is admirably made up by Miss Eytinge's company. Mr. Stockwell and the Alcazar [illegible] took [illegible] Tuesday evening [illegible] Miss Eytinge has maintained the high estimate in which she has been held by the San Francisco public by her impersonation of the blind orphan Louise and Miss Brandon's companion orphan is as worthily sustained.

Nellie Vickers, a favorite Eastern soubrette [illegible] makes her first San Francisco appearance at the Alcazar next week in "Jacquine, or Paste and Diamonds," supported by her own company.

New California Theatre.

Manager Hayman opens the New California Theatre Monday night, with Booth and Barrett as the inaugural attraction. They have chosen Othello as their opening piece, Mr. Booth playing Iago and Mr. Barrett Othello. There will be a rush for seats, and the opening of the elegant new theatre and the appearances of Booth and Barrett will be a marked event in the theatrical annals of this city.

Seats are in demand, and can be secured at Sherman, Clay & Co's music store for any night of the week.

Orpheum Opera House.

Reilly & Wood's Big Show, headed by the famed Vaidis Twin Sisters, are in their good-by week at the Orpheum this week. This is a specialty company of acknowledged first-class talent in its every department—a company of artists whose acts in finish and style have been endorsed by the press everywhere.

The company embraces such names as Delaur & Debrimont, Melville & Stetson, Napier & Marzello, John G. Sparks, to say nothing of Pat Reilly, the best of Irish character specialists and comedians.

See list of company in programme announcement elsewhere on this page.

The Big Show draws big houses.

The Bunch of Keys Company will give a week's performance of Charley Hoyt's lively farcical comedy at the Orpheum next week.

Morosco's Amphitheatre.

Managers Morosco & Byrnes have put in a most complete fireproof partition between the stage and the auditorium, from wall to wall of their big theatre. It is constructed of iron lathings on both sides of the studding. The decorators are just finishing the immense ceiling of the theatre with harmonious panels.

George Turner, a young and popular character actor, appears here this week as Tom Trunnion in the five-act drama of The Yankee Sailor in Brazil. Mr. Darrell Vinton re-appears in the strong part of Palmedo. Mr. Dale plays Manuel.

The play gives pictures of the social and slave life in Brazil and abounds in dramatic incidents.

Time nor seasons have no influence on Morosco's business—it is always good.

Matinees Sundays, at 2 P. M. Admission, 10 cents. Front reserved seats 10 cents extra.

Next week, George Turner in the sensational drama, The Russian Serf.

The Battle of Vicksburg.

The grand panorama of the Battle of Vicksburg at the Panorama Building, corner of Eddy and Mason streets, is one that no American should fail to see. It gives a grand view of the battle with the conflict at its height on the land and the bombardment from the river with the correct positions of the engaging forces and the proper placement of the ironclads in the bombardment. It is a great painting, and excels the Battle of Waterloo in graphic power and vivid reality. Destruction reigns on every side. The burning buildings, the bursting shells, the desperate charges, the hand-to-hand conflicts, and the dying and wounded, all depict with startling realism one of the hottest conflicts in history.

Open from 9 A. M. to 6 P. M.

Vienna Garden Theatre.

Not to take in the Vienna is to miss seeing one of the prettiest rural places in the city, and one that by the good management of Mr. A. Larsen, ably assisted by his director of amusements, Mr. Geo. H. Wood, "the somewhat different comedian," has become one of our most popular family resorts.

The new people for this week are Young Whistler, Prof. Pasco, Rosina Evans, Sadie Fairfield, Minnie Ellsworth, Amy Walters and Billy Wetson.

Manager Wood gives us another genuine sensation this week in the scientific exhibitions of Young Whistler and Prof. Pasco. Edwin Barry, the Gottlobs, Jos. D. Green and Bob Harrison introduce new specialties this week.

Business is steadily good at this commodious gothic cottage embosomed among the trees. Prices, 10 and 20 cents.

Bella Union Theatre.

The new faces this week are Dolly Sharpe, Sam Lang, Campbell & Nibbe and John Mortell.

Campbell & Nibbe's laughable satire, entitled Scenes in Stockton, opens the evening's entertainment, with all the company in the cast.

Wm. Devere, Conchita, George Drew, Burnell, Ida Howell, Rose Sidell and the Stanley Sisters are still ahead as favorites.

The ladies of the company come in for a full share of the applause and crowd the male contingent very closely.

Hallinan's Cremorne Theatre.

John D. Linden, Gibbons & Ford and Judd London are the new people for this week.

Hayes & Marion, the black stars, in another of their specialties; Miss Flora Hastings, Ruby Everett, Jennie Haywood and May Morrell continue their success of last week.

Johnnie Cain, the odd and funny comedian, contributes his specialties in a manner that brings down the house, and the Cremorne plays to large patronage every night in the week.

Original Theatre Comique.

The entertainment commences with a few remarks from Frisco's Favorite Funmakers with an original grand finale by the company, Charles Morrell with his gripsack full of fun and Tommy Morris in another of his amusing sketches fill in the middle part of the programme.

The Comique presents an entire new bill this week, with songs and afterpiece.

The comical farce-comedy, Mixtures, is the [illegible] act.

The laughable farce, The Boomers with all the company in the cast, concludes the bill and the evening's fun.

The Comique's company is a strong one. It is a neat, compact minor theatre, and for many [illegible] popular one.

Eureka Music Hall.

This is one of the neatest and most popular of our minor theatres. Manager Walterstein runs a very strong company.

Edith Mortimer, Laura White, Maggie Gordon, Stella Merriam, Stella Walton, Pearl Iola, Charl Berkeley, Charles Franks, Geo. C. Dunham and others appear in a round of specialties acts and afterpiece. The specialty people are all good, and do their best to make the evening [illegible]

The Siege of Sebastopol.

Pain's Siege of Sebastopol is a most realistic picture of war. The exhibition occupies the block bounded by Hayes, Baker, Lyon and Fell streets.

The Hayes street cars take you directly to it.

Before the immense auditorium with raised seats for thousands is an artificial lake, 250 by 75 feet, representing the Bay of Sebastopol. On the far side is the fortified city, with built-up counterparts of its forts and towers, with the famed Malokoff in the centre.

Prior to the storming, lightning, rifle drills, cutlass drills, cavalry exercises, spy capturing, and other incidents of camp life are exhibited.

When the assault begins fire opens all along the line, and as the battle rages the noise of explosives, the blowing up of forts and the great flashes of flames become thrillingly exciting.

You feel the shock of the explosions and see the walls tottering before you as the assaulting forces charge the great Malokoff, and you fee like raising a cheer as the French flag is raised over its ruins.

After the burning of the city comes the pyrotechnic pean of victory, Here is where Messrs. Pain of London, the getters up of the exhibition, who supply the British Navy with all their signal rockets, bombs, etc., and furnish all the fireworks for the royal celebrations excel. Flights of rockets and bombs fill the air, sending down showers of gold and silver: the lake becomes alive with fiery fountains, and its far shore with meteoric fireworks and standing pieces, forming at every performance the best pyrotechnical display and one of the most bounteous ever given in San Francisco.

Performances given Tuesday, Thursday and Saturday evenings. The intervening time will be required to repair the damages of the bombardment and replace the $1,000 worth of pyrotechnics used at every performance.

Extra performance Saturday night—children's night—when all school children having proper vouchers of invitation can exchange them for tickets of admission at 15 cents a piece.

Numbered reserved seats on sale at Sherman, Clay & Co.'s music store, and at the newsstands in the principal hotels.

Mechanics' Pavilion—The 6 Days' Race.

The six days and six nights' go-as-you-please race commences at the Mechanics' Pavilion Thursday evening at 10 o'clock, and promises from the value of the purses and the class of contestants entered to turn out the greatest event of the pedestrian kind ever on this coast. There is a prize purse of $2,500 in addition to the gate money to be divided among the winners. James Albert, the champion of the world, with a record of 621 miles in six days, has come here to run against Hart, Moore, Howarth, Vint and others. Dan Herty, with a record of 605 miles, is another emigrant from the East with the first purse as his object.

As the walkers have decided that none others than those who cover 525 miles during the six days shall be entitled to any share of the gate receipts, the race will be for blood from the start.

It is sufficient to add that Frank Hall man-

PROFESSIONAL PICKINGS.

Edwin Stevens made a successful debut in The Brigands at the Casino, N. Y., May 9 h.

Salvini's daughter, Gabriell, inherited from her father a talent for the stage. She has already distinguished herself in amateur circles and despite her father's objection will soon become a professional. She is a typical Italian woman, medium in height, dark and passionate, with a full share of feminine capriciousness.

Extra Edition is the name of a new musical comedy that will be brought out this month. It is written by an editor, and is a satire on the trials of a managing editor of a big daily newspaper in New York.

Captain Swift, successful in London and New York, is a fizzle in Australia. It was written by a native of that part of the world, who now realizes the profound fact that a dramatist can be like a prophet—not without honor, save in his own country.

Mr. Charles R. Gardner will arrive in San Francisco early in July next with a novel attraction he calls "a speaking spectacular pantomime," under the name of He, She, Him and Her, written by Chas. P. Brown. Mr. Toma Hanlon, a singing "phenomenon" and Mr. George H. Adams are two of its features.

Emma Abbott will build a monument to her late husband at a cost of $85,000. When she dies her body will be cremated and her ashes placed in the same tomb.

At one time this year there were 721 companies playing throughout the country. This includes permanent stock companies, and excludes a few Western companies which start out from San Francisco to forage over the Pacific Coast. Over 200 failed in three months, nearly sixty closed for reorganization and several played in spells, like Katherine Coleman and Florine Arnold, who opened and closed their season over three times during the same number of months. Of the reorganized ones, Kate Claxton and McKee Rankin are still on the road. Dan Sully has played the longest season, having continued uninterrupted, excepting blizzard week, ever since July, 1887.

Louis Wesley, the variety performer, well known on this coast, has been engaged by Hoyt & Thomas to play Rats in A Tin Soldier Co.

We have the "Last Days of Pompeii' in San Francisco in June.

Effie Ellsler and Ethel Brandon are the pathetic "orphans" at the Alcazar this week. Frank Weston plays the nice young man in knee-breeches and a sword, and Stockwell makes a deal of fun out of the valet Picard.

Fanny Davenport will continue under the management of Klaw and Erlanger next season, appearing in La Tosca only.

Webster & Brady have already booked their successful She production far into next season.

Mattie Vickers, follows Effie Ellsler at the Alcazar Theatre. The engagement is for two weeks.

Lizzie McCall, with whom the late "Betsy B." had a dispute about stockings and their contents some years ago—things that male critics are supposed to know nothing about—is one of Nat Goodwin's company.

Mr. Richard Stahl has started with the Said Pasha Co. for California. Mr. Stahl's new opera, called The Sea King, will be produced early next season.

The coming will be the sixth season of William Redmund and Mrs. Thos. Barry as joint stars.

Clara Louise Kellogg is booked through the West for a Spring tour.

Geo. Thorne will probably play Louis Harrison's part in The Pearl of Pekin next season.

Archie Boyd will have $150 a week next season for playing Joshua Whitcomb in The Old Homestead.

Hutchinson, Kansas, is to have a new $85,000 opera house.

It is rumored that a certain percentage of the profession is burning up St. Louis because St Louis refuses to accept dramatic pablum it does not like, even if New York endorses it. St. Louis did not like Chumley. Well, San Francisco did

Booth and Barrett closed their engagement in Salt Lake Wednesday night, and took a special train for this city after the performance. They arrived here today and proceeded to Del Monte for a resting, returning to this city on Monday morning.

The New York Truth intimates that Mary Anderson has been petted too much and spoiled in the petting. Of her illness it says: "There is really nothing the matter with her. If, instead of being a popular favorite and a big money-maker, she had been a dairymaid, she would have got up the next morning and milked the cows as usual. She was nursed into a condition of irritability that actually gave her friends uneasiness, and so they took her away from work. But she is not going about the streets howling for a husband, and she isn't looking for the blood of American reporters. Mary is too smart to be angry at so important a part of our national make-up as the American reporter. She knows how much he has done for her in bygone days, and when she wants to get married she won't find it necessary to shout for a husband."

Margaret Mather's coming Summer tour of this coast will cover a period of three months.

The American Musician says: "After Miss Eames and Mme. Nordica, comes news of the success of Miss Agnes Huntington. Her Paul Jones in Planquette's new opera of that name has captured the British public. Paul Jones is an American hero and the music is taking." We wonder how Planquette treats bold Paul Jones so as to make him capture the British public. He did some capturing of British things on his own account.

Agnes Evans, for three years the soprano of the Parlor Match Co., has declined a re-engagement with the company.

Belle Thorne, of The Pearl of Pekin, is in great demand. Numerous offers have been made her for next season.

Since it has become known in the East that N. C. Goodwin will play Bones, in Turned Up, and produce the best characters from his repertoire during his trip to California, the writers there say the comedian is doing right in "putting his best foot forward, as California will stand no nonsense." On the contrary, we will stand plenty of nonsense—if it is good nonsense.

Krewolf, treasurer of Hoyt's Brass Monkey Co., who skipped with $5 000 about a month ago, has been heard from in Washington Territory.

Archie Gunter has secured the English copyright to his last book, "That Frenchman," and he expresses himself as follows in regard to dramatic authors: 'I tell you there is no use talking, the poor author who relies on royalties and percentages gets left every time. I have had several plays of my own produced and precious little have I seen in the way of large profits. I am not the only one. There is Hoyt, of Hoyt & Thomas. He made just $2,500 off the Bunch of Keys. Sanger, his manager, made $100 000. Bartley Campbell is credited with having made a large fortune out of My Partner. No such thing. Aldrich, who put on the play, made the money, a cool $60,000. Campbell's share was $10 a night. There have been a good many romances afloat about Bartley Campbell's money. But don't it strike you as funny that he didn't leave any when he died? They will tell you he spent it all. Well, the truth is he didn't make so much after all. The managers wouldn't let him."

School-childrens' night Saturday night at the Siege of Sebastopol, when all school-children having printed invitations can procure tickets of admittance for 15 cents to see the great show upon presenting the same at Sherman, Clay & Co.'s, or at the Sebastopol box office on Hayes street.

The Call says: "The Cecillian Operatic Quartet has commenced its interior tour under fair auspices, meeting with a better reception in Petaluma, however, than in Oakland." That is encouraging.

Henry Irving has signed a contract with Abbey for the season of 1891 for the United States. Abbey will give Irving 33 per cent of the gross receipts and will pay the salaries of the company and the transportation of the company and scenery. To Miss Terry he gives 7 per cent of the gross receipts wherever they play.

Charlie Drew, so long comedian with the Carleton Opera Company, will play the part hitherto performed by Charlie Reed in A Brass Monkey next season.

Anson Pond is re-writing Her Atonement, and will probably produce it in England during the coming season. He goes over in August.

King Cole II., in Philadelphia, did not achieve the success anticipated. In fact the papers of that city damn it with the faintest imaginable praise.

Marie Stone, Jessie Bartlett Davis, Tom Karl, McDonald, Barnabee, Cowles and Hoff are in the cast of Pygmalion and Galatea, with which the Bostonians open.

Charlotte Tittel is to take Belle Archer's place in E. H. Southern's Company.

Olga Brandon will accompany the Kendals when they come here next season.

Nat Goodwin brings Nanette Comstock, the original Hole in the Ground telegraph girl.

The Bostonians will present eight different operas during the first fortnight of their engagement.

Mattie Vickers, who follows Effie Ellsler at the Alcazar, has some excellent and musical German specialties.

George H. Jessop is reported to have at last inherited that Irish estate about which he used to talk about so dreamily in his San Francisco days.

It is said that The Silent System, the little one-act play adopted by Leander Matthews from the French, and in which Coquelin was recently seen with Agnes Booth-Sabaffel, is being rewritten for Nat Good-

FRIDAY.....MAY 10, 1889

FIGARO is the Official Journal of all the Leading Theatres in San Francisco, and the only paper that publishes their full programmes.

AMUSEMENTS, ETC.

Leavitt's New Bush Street Theatre.

Johnson & Slavin's Minstrels, endorsed by the press everywhere as an A 1 minstrel company, are giving us the last chance to see their excellent qualities at the Bush this week.

The Chronicle says of this company: "Taking it all in all, singing, dancing and acting, the Johnson & Slavin Minstrels are the best that have been in San Francisco for a long time."

The new features of Johnson & Slavin's Minstrels this week are new songs by Johnson and others, and the clever sketch act, A Wedding at Uncle Jeff's, and the very funny burlesque on the Little Tycoon, entitled the Little Fly-Coon, in which Johnson, Slavin, Haverly and all the company appear, with the gems of the opera introduced in the burlesque.

—o—

That mercurial comedian, Nat C. Goodwin, puts in his appearance next week in two most amusing pieces. In the first one, "Lend Me Five Shillings," he plays Golightly in his usual bright, vivacious style, and is favorably spoken of in the New York Herald in the part as the "spontaneous and magnetic comedian." In the three-act farcical comedy of "Turned Up," that concludes the bill, the same journal says of his Bones, "the lean, lank and cadaverous undertaker," that "Goodwin is great all the way through, in enunciation and inflection as well as in action."

Mr. Goodwin is supported by his own company, among whom are Bob Hilliard, one of New York's notabilities, a handsome man and a good actor; Miss Lizzie McCall, Miss Nanette Comstock, Miss Marion A. Erle and others.

For casts see extra programme advertised elsewhere in FIGARO.

Baldwin Theatre.

Mr. Sothern produces his comedy success, The Highest Bidder, for his last week at the Baldwin. The result is an emphatic success. Mr. Sothern ought to have made The Highest Bidder the opening piece of his engagement. Mr. Bishop has a part thoroughly in harmony with his individuality, and he portrays it with all his well known comedy powers. All the company, in fact, appear to much better advantage in The Highest Bidder, Lord Chumley being more of a one-character piece.

"The Highest Bidder" will do a very large week's business. It is a most delightful evening's entertainment.

—o—

The Bostonians English Opera Company open their season at the Baldwin on Tuesday, May 14th, in "Pygmalion and Galatea." This company first gained prominence as the Boston Ideals. They have of late years been noted for their complete rendering and extensive production English operas.

The principal artists comprising the company are: Marie Stone, Jessie Bartlett Davis, Juliette Corden, Carlotta Maconda, Josephine Bartlett, Louise Bianchi, Tom Karl, W. H. McDonald, H. C. Barnabee, Edwin Hoff, Eugene Cowles, Geo. Frothingham and Fred Dixon.

Pygmalion will be repeated Thursday night and Saturday matinee.

The Musketeers will be given on Wednesday and Saturday nights.

Friday night, The Bohemian Girl.

Seats now on sale.

Alcazar Theatre.

The Two Orphans is the attraction, with Miss Effie Ellsler and Miss Ethel Brandon in the leading roles, for the last week of Miss Ellsler's engagement. The play is a remarkable melodrama and presents a strong round of characters and picturesque dramatic situations. It is finely mounted and excellently acted, and the cast is admirably made up by Miss Ellsler's company. Mr. Stockwell and the Alcazar Theatre stock. Fanny Young's Mother Frochard is a splendid bit of work.

Miss Ellsler has maintained the high estimate in which she has been held by the San Francisco public by her impersonation of the blind orphan Louise and Miss Brandon's companion orphan is as worthily sustained.

Mattie Vickers, a favorite Eastern soubrette actress, makes her first San Francisco appearance at the Alcazar next week, in "Jacquine; or, Paste and Diamonds," supported by her own company.

New California Theatre.

Manager Hayman opens the New California Theatre Monday night with Booth and Barrett as the inaugural attraction. They have chosen Othello as their opening piece, Mr. Booth playing Iago, and Mr. Barrett Othello. They will alternate their characters nightly. For full cast elegant new theatre and the appearances of Booth and Barrett will be a marked event in the theatrical annals of this city.

Seats are in demand, and can be secured at Sherman, Clay & Co's music store for any night of the week.

Orpheum Opera House.

Reilly & Wood's Big Show, headed by the famed Vaidis Twin Sisters, are in their good-by week at the Orpheum this week. This is a specialty company of acknowledged first-class talent in its every department—a company of artists whose acts in finish and style have been endorsed by the press everywhere.

The company embraces such names as Delaur & Debrimont, Melville & Stetson, Napier & Marzello, John G. Sparks, to say nothing of Pat Reilly, the best of Irish character specialists and comedians.

See list of company in programme announcement elsewhere on this page.

The Big Show draws big houses.

The Bunch of Keys Company will give a week's performance of Charley Hoyt's lively farcical comedy at the Orpheum next week.

Morosco's Amphitheatre.

Managers Morosco & Byrnes have put in a most complete fireproof partition between the stage and the auditorium, from wall to wall of their big theatre. It is constructed of iron lathings on both sides of the studding. The decorators are just finishing the immense ceiling of the theatre with harmonious panels.

George Turner, a young and popular character actor, appears here this week as Tom Trunnion in the five-act drama of The Yankee Sailor in Brazil. Mr. Darrell Vinton re-appears in the strong part of Palmedo. Mr. Dale plays Manuel.

The play gives pictures of the social and slave life in Brazil and abounds in dramatic incidents.

Time nor seasons have no influence on Morosco's business—it is always good.

Matinees Sundays, at 2 P. M. Admission, 10 cents. Front reserved seats 10 cents extra.

Next week, George Turner in the sensational drama, The Russian Serf.

The Battle of Vicksburg.

The grand panorama of the Battle of Vicksburg at the Panorama Building, corner of Eddy and Mason streets, is one that no American should fail to see. It gives a grand view of the battle with the conflict at its height on the land and the bombardment from the river with the correct positions of the engaging forces and the proper placement of the ironclads in the bombardment. It is a great painting, and excels the Battle of Waterloo in graphic power and vivid reality. Destruction reigns on every side. The burning buildings, the bursting shells, the desperate charges, the hand-to-hand conflicts, and the dying and wounded, all depict with startling realism one of the hottest conflicts in history.

Open from 9 A. M. to 6 P. M.

Vienna Garden Theatre

Not to take in the Vienna is to miss seeing one of the prettiest rural places in the city, and one that by the good management of Mr. A. Larsen, ably assisted by his director of amusements, Mr. Geo. H. Wood, "the somewhat different comedian," has become one of our most popular family resorts.

The new people for this week are Young Whistler, Prof. Pasco, Rosina Evans, Sadie Fairfield, Minnie Ellsworth, Amy Walters and Billy Wetson.

Manager Wood gives us another genuine sensation this week in the scientific exhibitions of Young Whistler and Prof. Pasco. Edwin Barry, the Gottlobs, Jos. D. Green and Bob Harrison introduce new specialties this week.

Business is steadily good at this commodious gothic cottage embosomed among the trees. Prices, 10 and 20 cents.

The Vienna gives a great programme next week, headed by William Courtright's Comedy Company, embracing Wm. Courtright, Henry Moore and Miss Freddie Stockmeyer. The other attractions are Imro Fox, Rich'd F. Stahl, Wellington, the Kirbys, Walter and Belle, Dick Turner, Mabel Clifton, Robzart and Miss Bessie Korolan.

Bella Union Theatre.

The new faces this week are Dolly Sharpe, Sam Lang, Campbell & Nibbe and John Mortell.

Campbell & Nibbe's laughable satire, entitled Scenes in Stockton, opens the evening's entertainment, with all the company in the cast.

Wm. Devere, Conchita, George Drew, Burnell, Ida Howell, Rose Sidell and the Stanley Sisters are still ahead as favorites.

The ladies of the company come in for a full share of the applause and crowd the male contingent very closely.

Big Bertha, Little Willie Stanley and Lew Spencer are the new people next week. Big Bertha and Little Willie, in conjunction with Campbell and Nibbe, appear in the laughable comedy, Statue Making and the Can-Can.

Hallinan's Cremorne Theatre.

John D. Linden, Gibbons & Ford and Judd London are the new people for this week.

Hayes & Marion, the black stars, in another of their specialties; Miss Flora Hastings, Ruby Everett, Jennie Haywood and May Morrell continue their success of last week.

Johnnie Cain, the odd and funny comedian, contributes his specialties in a manner that brings down the house, and the Cremorne plays to large patronage every night in the week.

Original Theatre Comique.

The entertainment commences with a few remarks from Frisco's Favorite Funmakers with an original grand finale by the company. Charles Morrell with his gripsack full of fun and Tommy Morris in another of his amusing sketches fill in the middle part of the programme.

The Comique presents an entire new bill this week, with songs and afterpiece.

The comical farce-comedy, Mixtures, is the first rude act.

The laughable farce, The Boomers with all the company in the cast, concludes the bill and the evening's fun.

The Comique's company is a strong one. It is a neat, compact minor theatre, and for many

Eureka Music Hall.

This is one of the neatest and most popular of our minor theatres. Manager Walterstein runs a very strong company.

Edith Morrison, Laura White, Maggie Gordon, Stella Merriam, Stella Walton, Pearl Iola, Chas. Berkeley, Charles Franks, Geo. C. Dunham and others appear in a round of specialties acts and afterpiece. The specialty people are all good, and do their best to make the evening enjoyable.

Berkeley & Howard, the society sketch artists, make their re-appearance this week in their celebrated international melange, Enlisted.

Franks & Morrison give another of their original musical specialties, Nic-Nacs, and Geo. C. Dunham is down for a neat turn.

The Eureka gives a matinee every Sunday.

Sunday, May 12th, fourth annual picnic of the Societa Operata Italiana Di Mutuo Soccorso at Seaside Gardens.

The Siege of Sebastopol.

Pain's Siege of Sebastopol is a most realistic picture of war. The exhibition occupies the block bounded by Hayes, Baker, Lyon and Fell streets.

The Hayes street cars take you directly to it.

Before the immense auditorium with raised seats for thousands is an artificial lake, 250 by 75 feet, representing the Bay of Sebastopol. On the far side is the fortified city, with built-up counterparts of its forts and towers, with the famed Malokoff in the centre.

Prior to the storming, lightning, rifle drills cutlass drills, cavalry exercises, spy capturing, and other incidents of camp life are exhibited.

When the assault begins fire opens all along the line, and as the battle rages the noise of explosives, the blowing up of forts and the great flashes of flames become thrillingly exciting.

You feel the shock of the explosions and see the walls tottering before you as the assaulting forces charge the great Malokoff, and you fee like raising a cheer as the French flag is raised over its ruins.

After the burning of the city comes the pyrotechnic pean of victory, Here is where Messrs. Pain of London, the getters up of the exhibition who supply the British Navy with all their signal rockets, bombs, etc., and furnish all the fireworks for the royal celebrations excel. Flights of rockets and bombs fill the air, sending down showers of gold and silver: the lake becomes alive with fiery fountains, and its far shore with meteoric fireworks and standing pieces, forming at every performance the best pyrotechnical display and one of the most bounteous ever given in San Francisco.

Performances given Tuesday, Thursday and Saturday evenings. The intervening time will be required to repair the damages of the bombardment and replace the $1,000 worth of pyrotechnics used at every performance.

Extra performance Saturday night—children's night—when all school children having proper vouchers of invitation can exchange them for tickets of admission at 15 cents a piece.

Numbered reserved seats on sale at Sherman, Clay & Co.'s music store, and at the news-stands in the principal hotels.

Mechanics' Pavilion—The 6 Days' Race.

The six days and six nights' go-as-you-please race commenced at the Mechanics' Pavilion Thursday evening at 10 o'clock, and promises from the value of the purses and the class of contestants entered to turn out the greatest event of the pedestrian kind ever on this coast. There is a prize purse of $2,500 in addition to the gate money to be divided among the winners. James Albert, the champion of the has come here to run against Hart, Moore, Howarth, Vint and others. Dan Herty, with a record of 605 miles, is another emigrant from the East with the first purse as his object.

As the walkers have decided that none others than those who cover 525 miles during the six days shall be entitled to any share of the gate receipts, the race will be for blood from the start.

John Morrissey — It passed through Eastern Pennsylvania spreading dire destruction as it went.

Geo. H. Wood (stepping up) — How many bloodhounds did they have?

Morrissey — Bloodhounds? What do you think I mean? I'm telling of the torn do yesterday.

Wood—Oh, beg pardon! I thought you were speaking of an Uncle Tom's Cabin Company.

Manager Jack Hallinan, of the Cremorne, who has managed the champion Australian heavy-weight, Peter Jackson, ever since he landed in San Francisco, has started with his invincible on an extended tour that will take in Virginia City, Chicago, New York, and be extended to England and Paris. Of course Jackson will give exhibitions of his prowess en route and hold himself ready to meet all comers.

Johnson & Slavin's Minstrels give Oakland its turn 14-15

In addition to the regular programme the Cremorne management gives an eight-round glove contest every Tuesday and Friday evening.

The six days and six nights' go-as-you-please race at the Mechanics' Pavilion started with Jas. Albert, Herty, Vint, Guerrero, Hart, Moore, Howarth and thirteen others in the race Thursday night at 10 P. M. Moore retired on the disabled list this morning. At 12 45 P. M. to-day the scores of the leaders were :

	Miles.	Laps.
Jas. Albert	200	3
Frank Hart	172	4
Gus Guerrero	170	6
Thos. Howarth	161	2
Joseph Klatt	151	1
Peterson	150	2

Johnson & Slavin's Minstrels present a great bill at the Bush for their last week. Take them in before they leave town.

The comedy and one-act pieces at the Cremorne this week are full of wit and humor and call for the entire Cremorne company.

Big Bertha will make her appearance, it is said, at the Bella Union next week.

The Siege of Sebastopol is reproduced every Tuesday, Thursday and Saturday night. It is a big show.

The Comique presents an entire new bill this week. Charley Morrell and Tommy Morris contribute excellent specialty turns, and J. H. Burns is good in character parts.

Besides the vaudeville company at the Vienna, those experts in the manly art, Young Whistler and Prof. Pasco, give a three-round boxing contest every night that are so warm that the Vienna's audiences "bile" over with excitement.

Extra Edition is the name of a new musical comedy that will be brought out this month. It is written by an editor, and is a satire on the trials of a managing editor of a big daily newspaper in New York.

Henry Irving has signed a contract with Abbey for the season of 1891 for the United States. Abbey will give Irving 33 per cent of the gross receipts and will pay the salaries of the company and the transportation of the company and scenery. To Miss Terry he gives 7 per cent of the gross receipts wherever they play.

We have the "Last Days of Pompeii" in San Francisco in June.

Charlie Drew, so long comedian with the Carleton Opera Company, will play the part hitherto performed by Charlie Reed in A Brass Monkey next season.

Marie Stone, Jessie Bartlett Davis, Tom Karl, McDonald, Barnabee, Conlan and Huff are in the cast of Pygmalion and Galatea, with which the Bostonians open.

Charlotte Tittell is to take Belle Archer's place in E. H. Southern's Company.

Nat Goodwin brings Nanette Comstock, the original Helen in the Ground telegraph girl.

The Bostonians will present eight different operas during the first fortnight of their engagement.

Maud Vickers, who follows Effie Ellsler at the Alcazar Theatre, has been engaged by Hoyt & Thomas to play Rats in A Tin Soldier Co.

Mattie Vickers, follows Effie Ellsler at the Alcazar Theatre. The engagement is for two weeks.

Lizzie McCall, with whom the late "Betsy B" had a dispute about stockings and their contents some years ago—things that male critics are supposed to know nothing about—is one of Nat Goodwin's company.

PROFESSIONAL PICKINGS.

They had a terrific half hour tornado in Southern New York and Pennsylvania yesterday that did great damage and caused considerable loss of life. It struck Barnum & Bailey's show during the afternoon performance at Williamsport (Pa.), and threw down all the canvas except the audience tent, which had about eighteen hundred people in it. The audience made a rush to get out and the wildest excitement prevailed. Fortunately the people passed out without serious results. One lady broke her wrist. The dressing-room and menagerie tents and the tent covering the freaks were all blown down flat. Three cages of animals were overturned and an antelope was so badly crippled that he had to be killed. Among the horses injured was Firebrand. The proprietors estimate their loss at $20,000. A number of performers were injured, among them being Schato, the Japanese, who was injured about the head and body; Mollie Thompson, the hippodrome rider, who was hit in the face by a stake; Nellie Flynn had her nose broken; Erie French, the skater, had a rib broken; Lillie Deacon was knocked senseless by a pole; Geo. Marks, the ticket-seller, received a scalp wound.

Johnny Williams, the comedian, who has been playing an extended season on the coast as the Bad Boy in "Peck's Bad Boy," has sued his partner and manager, Wm. B. Sissons, for an accounting of some $10,000 deposited in the Hibernia Bank, the proceeds of the earnings of the play. Mr. Williams' most fortunate show enterprise seems to have become allied with misfortune in the end, in partnership litigation.

Effie Ellsler: Sacramento 13-14, Portland week of 20th.

The two large mirrors that were in the old California Theatre will ornament the New California—the only things of the Old that will find places in the New.

Edwin Stevens, formerly of the Tivoli, made a successful debut in The Brigands at the Casino, N. Y., May 9th, in the character of Falcippa, the brigand chief. The wires say the critics and the public accept him. His engagement is for three years.

Jefferson and Shewell's "Shadows of a Great City closed its season at Chicago May 4th.

Col. John E. Warner will manage Nat C. Goodwin next season.

Booth and Barrett closed their engagement in Salt Lake Wednesday night, and took a special train for this city after the performance. They arrived here on Friday.

The New York Truth intimates that Mary Anderson has been petted too much and spoiled in the petting. Of her illness it says: "There is really nothing the matter with her. If, instead of being a popular favorite and a big money-maker, she had been a dairymaid, she would have got up the next morning and milked the cows as usual. She was nursed into a condition of irritability that actually gave her friends uneasiness, and so they took her away from work. But she is not going about the streets howling for a husband, and she isn't looking for the blood of American reporters. Mary is too smart to be angry at so important a part of our national make-up as the American reporter. She knows how much he has done for her in bygone days, and when she wants to get married she won't find it necessary to shout for a husband."

Margaret Mather's coming Summer tour of this coast will cover a period of three months.

The American Musician says: "After Miss Eames and Mme. Nordica, comes news of the success of Miss Agnes Huntington. Her Paul Jones in Planquette's new opera of that name has captured the British public. Paul Jones is an American hero and the music is taking." We wonder how Planquette treats bold Paul Jones so as to make him capture the British public. He did some capturing of British things on his own account.

Since it has become known in the East that N. C. Goodwin will play Bones, in Turned Up, and produce the best characters from his repertoire during his trip to California, the writers there say the comedian is doing right in "putting his best foot forward, as California will stand no nonsense." On the contrary, we will stand plenty of nonsense—if it is good nonsense.

School-childrens' night Saturday night at the Siege of Sebastopol, when all school-children having printed invitations can procure tickets of admittance for 15 cents to see the great show upon presenting the same at Sherman, Clay & Co.'s, or at the Sebastopol box office on Hayes street

The solicitous moralists of Philadelphia have become emotionally active in protecting the Indian from the ravages of the fierce circus manager; in fact, matters have gone so far that they have appealed, with prospects of success, to Indian Commissioner Oberly to prohibit a display of Indians and their gentle accomplishments from disfiguring the circus advertising posters.

Dixey, William Crane, George Knight, Sol Smith Russel, Nat Goodwin, Lillian Russel, Vernona Jarbeau, Pauline Hall, Lillian Conway, and Laura Joyce Bell have all appeared at various times in Rice's Evangeline.

Von Bulow proposes to come back to this country next March and give six concerts at the Metropolitan Opera House.

A drunken idiot shouted "Fire!" at the end of the first act of Nadjy at the Casino, New York, and was immediately yanked out of the parquet by a policeman.

Gustave Amberg has engaged Ernst Pasqual, the great German actor, for one hundred performances next season.

Salvini's daughter, Gabriell, inherited from her father a talent for the stage. She has already distinguished herself in amateur circles and despite her father's objection will soon become a professional. She is a typical Italian woman, medium in height, dark and passionate, with a full share of feminine capriciousness.

The Call says: "The Cecillian Operatic Quartet has commenced its interior tour under fair auspices, meeting with a better reception in Petaluma, however, than in Oakland." That is encouraging.

Captain Swift, successful in London and New York, is a fizzle in Australia. It was written by a native of that part of the world, who now realizes the profound fact that a dramatist can be like a prophet—not without honor, save in his own country.

Mr. Charles R. Gardner will arrive in San Francisco early in July next with a novel attraction he calls "a speaking spectacular pantomime," under the name of He, She, Him and Her, written by Chas. P. Brown. Mr Toma Hanlon, a singing "phenomenon" and Mr. George H. Adams are two of its features.

Louis Wesley, the variety performer, well known on this coast, has been engaged by Hoyt & Thomas to play Rats in A Tin Soldier Co.

Actor (in country town)—I hope you won't object to announcing in your paper that this will probably be the last chance to see me outside of the great cities, as I have received an offer from the Gotham Theatre for the next season at $500 a week. Editor—I'd print it with pleasure. And, by the way, please announce from the stage that now is the time to subscribe for the Pumpkinville Trumpet, as I have received an offer of $5 000 a week to run the London Times.

SATURDAY.....MAY 11, 1889

FIGARO is the Official Journal of all the Leading Theatres in San Francisco, and the only paper that publishes their full programmes.

AMUSEMENTS, ETC.

Bayli's New Fourth Street Theatre.

Johnson & Slavin's Minstrels, endorsed by the press everywhere as an A 1 minstrel company give their last performance Sunday night.

The Chronicle says of this company: "Taking it all in all, singing, dancing and acting, the Johnson & Slavin Minstrels are the best that have been in San Francisco for a long time."

The new features at Johnson & Slavin's Minstrels this week are new songs by Johnson and others, and the clever sketch act, A Wedding at Uncle Jolly's and the very funny burlesque on the Little Tycoon, entitled the Little Fly Coon, in which Johnson, Slavin, Haverly and all the company appear, with the gems of the opera introduced in the burlesque.

—o—

That mercurial comedian, Nat C. Goodwin, puts in his appearance next week in two most amusing pieces. In the first one, "Lend Me Five Shillings," he plays Golightly in his usual bright vivacious style, and is favorably spoken of in the New York Herald in the part as the spontaneous and magnetic comedian." In the three act farcical comedy of "Turned Up," that concludes the bill, the same journal says of his Bones, "the lean, lank and cadaverous undertaker," that "Goodwin is great all the way through in enunciation and inflection as well as in action."

Mr. Goodwin is supported by his own company, among whom are Bob Hilliard, one of New York's notabilities, a handsome man and a good actor; Miss Lizzie McCall, Miss Nanette Comstock, Miss Marion A. Erle and others.

For casts see extra programme advertised elsewhere in FIGARO.

Baldwin Theatre.

Mr Sothern puts in his last appearance in The Highest Bidder to-night.

"The Highest Bidder" has done large week's business. It is a most delightful evening's entertainment.

—o—

The Bostonians English Opera Company open their season at the Baldwin on Tuesday, May 14th, in "Pygmalion and Galatea." This company first gained prominence as the Boston Ideals. They have of late years been noted for their complete rendering and extensive production English operas.

The principal artists comprising the company are: Marie Stone, Jessie Bartlett Davis, Juliette Corden, Carlotta Maconda, Josephine Bartlett, Louise Bianchi, Tom Karl, W. H. McDonald, H. C. Barnabee, Edwin Hoff, Eugene Cowles, Geo. Frothingham and Fred Dixon.

Pygmalion will be repeated Thursday night and Saturday matinee.

The Musketeers will be given on Wednesday and Saturday nights.

Friday night, The Bohemian Girl.

Seats now on sale.

Alcazar Theatre.

The Two Orphans is the attraction with Miss Effie Ellsler and Miss Ethel Brandon in the leading roles, for the last week of Miss Ellsler's engagement. The play is a remarkable melodrama and presents a strong round of characters and picturesque dramatic situations. It is finely mounted and excellently acted, and the cast is admirably made up by Miss Ellsler's company, Mr. Stockwell and the Alcazar Theatre stock. Fanny Young's Mother Frochard is a splendid bit of work.

Miss Ellsler has maintained the high estimate in which she has been held by the San Francisco public by her impersonation of the blind Orphan Louise and Miss Brandon's companion Orphan is as worthily sustained.

Mattie Vickers, a favorite Eastern soubrette actress, makes her first San Francisco appearance at the Alcazar next week, in "Jacquine; or, Paste and Diamonds," supported by Harry W. Rich, a clever young comedian, and her own company. Miss Vickers is a soubrette of mercurial temperament who has a lively piece, that gives her an opportunity of presenting some very cleverly personated characterizations and specialty features.

New California Theatre.

Manager Hayman opens the New California Theatre Monday night, with Booth and Barrett as the inaugural attraction. They have chosen Othello as their opening piece, Mr. Booth playing Iago and Mr. Barrett Othello. They will alternate their characters nightly. For full cast see programme in FIGARO. The opening of an elegant new theatre and the appearances of Booth and Barrett will be a marked event in

Orpheum Opera House.

Reilly & Wood's Big Show, headed by the famed Vaidis Twin Sisters, are in their good-by week at the Orpheum this week. This is a specialty company of acknowledged first-class talent in its every department—a company of artists whose acts in finish and style have been endorsed by the press everywhere.

The company embraces such names as Delaur & Debrimont, Melville & Stetson, Napier & Marzello, John G. Sparks, to say nothing of Pat Reilly, the best of Irish character specialists and comedians.

See list of company in programme announcement elsewhere on this page.

The Big Show draws big houses.

The Bunch of Keys Company will give a week's performance of Charley Hoyt's lively farcical comedy at the Orpheum next week.

Morosco's Amphitheatre.

Managers Morosco & Byrnes have put in a most complete fireproof partition between the stage and the auditorium, from wall to wall of their big theatre. It is constructed of iron lathings on both sides of the studding. The decorators are just finishing the immense ceiling of the theatre with harmonious panels.

George Turner, a young and popular character actor, appears here this week as Tom Trunnion in the five-act drama of The Yankee Sailor in Brazil. Mr. Darrell Vinton re-appears in the strong part of Palmedo. Mr. Dale plays Manuel.

The play gives pictures of the social and slave life in Brazil and abounds in dramatic incidents.

Time nor seasons have no influence on Morosco's business—it is always good.

Matinees Sundays, at 2 P. M. Admission, 10 cents. Front reserved seats 10 cents extra.

Next week George Turner in the sensational drama, The Russian Serf.

The Battle of Vicksburg.

The grand panorama of the Battle of Vicksburg at the Panorama Building, corner of Eddy and Mason streets, is one that no American should fail to see. It gives a grand view of the battle with the conflict at its height on the land and the bombardment from the river with the correct positions of the engaging forces and the proper placement of the ironclads in the bombardment. It is a great painting, and excels the Battle of Waterloo in graphic power and vivid reality. Destruction reigns on every side. The burning buildings, the bursting shells, the desperate charges, the hand-to-hand conflicts, and the dying and wounded, all depict with startling realism one of the hottest conflicts in history.

Open from 9 A. M. to 6 P. M.

Vienna Garden Theatre

Not to take in the Vienna is to miss seeing one of the prettiest rural places in the city, and one that by the good management of Mr. A. Larsen, ably assisted by his director of amusements, Mr. Geo. H. Wood, "the somewhat different comedian," has become one of our most popular family resorts.

The new people for this week are Young Whistler, Prof. Pasco, Rosina Evans, Sadie Fairfield, Minnie Ellsworth, Amy Walters and Billy Wetson.

Manager Wood gives us another genuine sensation this week in the scientific exhibitions of Young Whistler and Prof. Pasco. Edwin Barry, the Gottlobs, Jos. D. Green and Bob Harrison introduce new specialties this week.

Business is steadily good at this commodious gothic cottage embosomed among the trees. Prices, 10 and 20 cents.

The Vienna gives a great programme next week, headed by William Courtright's Comedy Company, embracing Wm. Courtright, Henry Moore and Miss Freddie Stockmeyer. The other attractions are Imro Fox, Rich'd F. Stahl, Wellington, the Kirbys, Walter and Belle, Dick Turner, Mabel Clifton, Robzart and Miss Bessie Korolan.

Bella Union Theatre.

The new faces this week are Dolly Sharpe, Sam Lang, Campbell & Nibbe and John Mortell.

Campbell & Nibbe's laughable satire, entitled Scenes in Stockton, opens the evening's entertainment, with all the company in the cast.

Wm. Devere, Conchita, George Drew, Burnell, Ida Howell, Rose Sidell and the Stanley Sisters are still ahead as favorites.

The ladies of the company come in for a full share of the applause and crowd the male contingent very closely.

Big Bertha, Little Willie Stanley and Lew Spencer are the new people next week. Big Bertha and Little Willie, in conjunction with Campbell and Nibbe, appear in the laughable comedy, Statue Making and the Can-Can.

Hallinan's Cremorne Theatre.

John D. Linden, Gibbons & Ford and Judd London are the new people for this week.

Hayes & Marion, the black stars, in another of their specialties; Miss Flora Hastings, Ruby Everett, Jennie Haywood and May Morrell continue their success of last week.

Johnnie Cain, the odd and funny comedian, contributes his specialties in a manner that brings down the house, and the Cremorne plays to large patronage every night in the week.

Original Theatre Comique.

The entertainment commences with a few remarks from Frisco's Favorite Funmakers with an original grand finale by the company. Charles Morrell with his gripsack full of fun and Tommy Morris in another of his amusing sketches fill in the middle part of the programme.

The Comique presents an entire new bill this week, with songs and afterpiece.

The comical farce-comedy, Mixtures, is the interlude act.

The laughable farce, The Boomers, with all the company in the cast, concludes the bill and the evening's fun.

The Comique's company is a strong one. It is a neat, compact minor theatre, and for many years has been a popular one.

The Siege of Sebastopol.

Every night will be a special night at the Siege of Sebastopol next week, as new specialty features, war incidents and new styles of fireworks will be given at every performance.

Pain's Siege of Sebastopol is a most realistic picture of war. The exhibition occupies the block bounded by Hayes, Baker, Lyon and Fell streets.

The Hayes street cars take you directly to it.

Before the immense auditorium with raised seats for thousands is an artificial lake, 250 by 75 feet, representing the Bay of Sebastopol. On the far side is the fortified city, with built-up counterparts of its forts and towers, with the famed Malokoff in the centre.

Prior to the storming, lightning, rifle drills, cutlass drills, cavalry exercises, spy capturing, and other incidents of camp life are exhibited.

When the assault begins fire opens all along the line, and as the battle rages the noise of explosives, the blowing up of forts and the great flashes of flames become thrillingly exciting.

You feel the shock of the explosions and see the walls tottering before you as the assaulting forces charge the great Malekoff, and you fee like raising a cheer as the French flag is raised over its ruins.

After the burning of the city comes the pyrotechnic pean of victory. Here is where Messrs. Pain of London, the getters up of the exhibition, who supply the British Navy with all their signal rockets, bombs, etc., and furnish all the fireworks for the royal celebrations excel. Flights of rockets and bombs fill the air, sending down showers of gold and silver; the lake becomes alive with fiery fountains, and its far shore with meteoric fireworks and standing pieces, forming at every performance the best pyrotechnical display and one of the most bounteous ever given in San Francisco.

Performances given Tuesday, Thursday and Saturday evenings. The intervening time will be required to repair the damages of the bombardment and replace the $1,000 worth of pyrotechnics used at every performance.

Numbered reserved seats on sale at Sherman, Clay & Co.'s music store, and at the newsstands in the principal hotels.

Mechanics' Pavilion—The 6 Days' Race.

The six days and six nights' go-as-you-please race commenced at the Mechanics' Pavilion Thursday evening at 10 o'clock, and promises from the value of the purses and the class of contestants entered to turn out the greatest event of the pedestrian kind ever on this coast. There is a prize purse of $2,500 in addition to the gate money to be divided among the winners. James Albert, the champion of the world, with a record of 631 miles in six days, has come here to run against Hart, Moore, Howarth, Vint and others, and is leading the field so far.

As the walkers have decided that none others than those who cover 525 miles during the six days shall be entitled to any share of the gate receipts, the race will be for blood from the start.

Maurice Barrymore has apparently found a new ideafor the basis of his new comedy Transfusion, which is to be brought out this summer in San Francisco. The plot turns upon the fact that a bishop in England is lying dangerously ill. The physicians in attendance declare that nothing but the transfusion of a large quantity of human blood can save the patient's life. Only one person can be found who is willing to part with so much vital fluid, and he is a tramp. The operation is successfully performed, but the tramp's blood is supposed to influence the bishop's brain, and sometimes he acts with becoming dignity and propriety, while at others the tramp's instincts gain uncontrolled ascendency.

SPECIALTY SQUIBS.

Washington Irving Bishop, the mind-reader, died at the rooms of the Lamb Club, in New York, to-day, of hysterical catalepsy. Bishop was one of the strongest of impressional mediums, and for a number of years, when a young man, traveled as a medium. But being vain-glorious and unprincipled, and finding that he could make much more money in putting himself forward as a personal phenomenon, he denied and scouted his mediumistic gifts and went into the "expose" business.

Manager Joe Bignon, of the Elite Theatre, Tombstone, Arizona, and Miss Tillie Bouton, for a long time a member of the Elite Co., were married at Tombstone on May 6th. Mr. and Mrs. Bignon have gone to Phœnix, A. T., where Mr. Bignon will open his new theatre May 18th.

Cort's Standard, Portland, May 13th : Seven new stars—Hughes & Oxford, Ace Le Voy, Miller & Hughes, Bartenio and Miss Flora Story.

Gordon & Ritchie had a grand opening Sunday, May 5 h, of their zoological garden at Butte City The gardens were built at a cost of $25 000 and are perfect in every respect. They give a grand stage performance in the pavilion every Sunday afternoon. For the opening week they had a company of 25 artists, headed by the Pavanelli Troupe. A museum building is one of the interesting features, filled with animate and inanimate curios from all parts of the world. An exhibition is given every fifteen minutes in the museum Throughout the afternoon an excellent band is in attendance, and every possible attention is paid to the comfort of ladies and children.

John Morrissey — It passed through Eastern Pennsylvania spreading dire destruction as it went.

Geo. H Wood (stepping up) — How many bloodhounds did they have?

Morrissey — Bloodhounds? What do you think I mean? I'm telling of the tornado the other day.

Wood—Oh, beg pardon! I thought you were speaking of an Uncle Tom's Cabin Company.

Manager Jack Hallinan, of the Cremorne, who has managed the champion Australian heavy-weight, Peter Jackson, ever since he landed in San Francisco, has started with his invincible on an extended tour that will take in Virginia City, Chicago, New York, and be extended to England and Paris. Of course Jackson will give exhibitions of his prowess en route and hold himself ready to meet all comers.

Johnson & Slavin's Minstrels give Oakland its turn 14-15. See ad.

In addition to the regular programme the Cremorne management gives an eight-round glove contest every Tuesday and Friday evening.

The comedy and one-act pieces at the Cremorne this week are full of wit and humor and call for the entire Cremorne company.

Big Bertha will make her appearance, it is said, at the Bella Union this week.

The Siege of Sebastopol is reproduced every Tuesday, Thursday and Saturday night. It is a big show.

Extra Edition is the name of a new musical comedy that will be brought out this month. It is written by an editor, and is a satire on the trials of a managing editor of a big daily newspaper in New York.

Charlie Drew, so long comedian with the Carleton Opera Company, will play the part hitherto performed by Charlie

PROFESSIONAL PICKINGS.

Robson and Crane appeared for the last time together on May 12th at the Star Theatre, N. Y. Both were called to the front of the curtain after the play was over, and each made a very pretty speech, in which was expressed the highest regard for each other. They said the separation was due solely to the fact that it was for the artistic interest of each to work apart.

Ed. S. Gill, advance agent of the Grismer-Davies Co., was thrown from a runaway dummy, May 12th, in Seattle, and suffered a severe sprain of the right ankle. Edgar Weir, of the same company, was slightly bruised.

They had a terrific half hour tornado in Southern New York and Pennsylvania on Friday that did great damage and caused considerable loss of life. It struck Barnum & Bailey's show during the afternoon performance at Williamsport (Pa.), and threw down all the canvas except the audience tent, which had about eighteen hundred people in it. The audience made a rush to get out and the wildest excitement prevailed. Fortunately the people passed out without serious results. One lady broke her wrist. The dressing-room and menagerie tents and the tent covering the freaks were all blown down flat. Three cages of animals were overturned and an antelope was so badly crippled that he had to be killed. Among the horses injured was Firebrand. The proprietors estimate their loss at $20,000. A number of performers were injured, among them being Schato, the Japanese, who was injured about the head and body; Mollie Thompson, the hippodrome rider, who was hit in the face by a stake; Nellie Flynn had her nose broken; Erie French, the skater, had a rib broken; Lillie Deacon was knocked senseless by a pole; Geo. Marks, the ticket-seller, received a scalp wound.

Johnny Williams, the comedian, who has been playing an extended season on the coast as the Bad Boy in "Peck's Bad Boy," has sued his partner and manager, Wm. B. Sissons, for an accounting of some $10,000 deposited in the Hibernia Bank, the proceeds of the earnings of the play. Mr. Williams' most fortunate show enterprise seems to have become allied with misfortune in the end, in partnership litigation.

Effie Ellsler : Sacramento 13-14, Portland week of 20th.

The two large mirrors that were in the old California Theatre will ornament the New California—the only things of the Old that will find places in the New.

Edwin Stevens, formerly of the Tivoli, made a successful debut in The Brigands at the Casino, N. Y., May 9th, in the character of Falsacappa, the brigand chief. The wires say the critics and the public accept him. His engagement is for three years.

Jefferson and Shewell's "Shadows of a Great City closed its season at Chicago May 4th.

Col. John E. Warner will manage Nat C. Goodwin next season.

The New York Truth intimates that Mary Anderson has been petted too much and spoiled in the petting. Of her illness it says : "There is really nothing the matter with her. If, instead of being a popular favorite and a big money-maker, she had been a dairymaid, she would have got up the next morning and milked the cows as usual. She was nursed into a condition of irritability that actually gave her friends uneasiness, and so they took her away from work. But she is not going about the streets howling for a husband, and she isn't looking for the blood of American reporters. Mary is too smart to be angry at so important a part of our national make-up as the American reporter. She knows how much he has done for her in bygone days, and when she wants to get married she won't find it necessary to shout for a husband."

Margaret Mather's coming Summer tour of this coast will cover a period of three months.

Marie Stone, Jessie Bartlett Davis, Tom Karl, McDonald, Barnabee, Cowles and Hoff are in the cast of Pygmalion and Galatea, with which the Bostonians open.

The American Musician says : "After Miss Eames and Mme. Nordica, comes news of the success of Miss Agnes Huntington. Her Paul Jones in Planquette's new opera of that name has captured the British public. Paul Jones is an American hero and the music is taking." We wonder how Planquette treats bold Paul Jones so as to make him capture the British public. He did some capturing of British things on his own account.

Since it has become known in the East that N. C. Goodwin will play Bones, in Turned Up, and produce the best characters from his repertoire during his trip to California, the writers there say the comedian is doing right in "putting his best foot forward, as California will stand no nonsense." On the contrary, we will stand plenty of nonsense—if it is good nonsense.

Dixey, William Crane, George Knight, Sol Smith Russel, Nat Goodwin, Lillian Russel, Vernona Jarbeau, Pauline Hall, Lillian Conway, and Laura Joyce Bell have all appeared at various times in Rice's Evangeline.

A drunken idiot shouted "Fire!" at the end of the first act of Nadjy at the Casino, New York, and was immediately yanked out of the parquet by a policeman.

The Paris Opera House repertoire for the impending season will include Romeo and Juliet, Robert le Diable, Faust, La Juive and William Tell.

Von Bulow proposes to come back to this country next March and give six concerts at the Metropolitan Opera House.

Lately at the Theatre Celestines, Lyons, France, the stage carpenters struck because the head carpenter was fined for drunkenness. The curtain was lowered, and the Salvini's daughter, Gabriell, inherited from her father a talent for the stage. She has already distinguished herself in amateur circles and despite her father's objection will soon become a professional. She is a typical Italian woman, medium in height, dark and passionate, with a full share of feminine capriciousness.

The Call says : "The Cecillian Operatic Quartet has commenced its interior tour under fair auspices, meeting with a better reception in Petaluma, however, than in Oakland." That is encouraging.

Captain Swift, successful in London and New York, is a fizzle in Australia. It was written by a native of that part of the world, who now realizes the profound fact that a dramatist can be like a prophet—not without honor, save in his own country.

Mr. Charles R. Gardner will arrive in San Francisco early in July next with a novel attraction he calls "a speaking spectacular pantomime," under the name of He, She, Him and Her, written by Chas. P. Brown. Mr. Toma Hanlon, a singing "phenomenon" and Mr. George H. Adams are two of its features.

Louis Wesley, the variety performer, well known on this coast, has been engaged by Hoyt & Thomas to play Rats in A Tin Soldier Co.

Mattie Vickers, follows Effie Ellsler at the Alcazar Theatre. The engagement is for two weeks.

Lizzie McCall, with whom the late "Betsy B." had a dispute about stockings and their contents some years ago—things that male critics are supposed to know nothing about—is one of Nat Goodwin's company.

EVENING EDITION.

MONDAY.....APRIL 13, 1889

FIGARO is the Official Journal of all the Leading Theatres in San Francisco, and the only paper that publishes their full programmes.

AMUSEMENTS, ETC.

Leavitt's New Eighth Street Theatre.

That mercurial comedian, Nat C. Goodwin, puts in his appearance this week in two most amusing pieces. In the first one "Lend Me Five Shillings," he plays Golightly in his usual bright vivacious style, and is favorably spoken of in the New York Herald in the part as the spontaneous and magnetic comedian." In the three act farcical comedy of "Turned Up" that concludes the bill, the same journal says of his Bones, "the lean lank and cadaverous undertaker," that "Goodwin is great all the way through in enunciation and inflection as well as in action."

Mr. Goodwin is supported by his own company, among whom are Bob Hilliard, one of New York's notabilities, a handsome man and a good actor; Miss Lizzie McCall, Miss Nanette Comstock, Miss Marion A. Erle and others.

For caste see regular programme on first page.

Baldwin Theatre.

The Bostonians English Opera Company open their season at the Baldwin on Tuesday, May 14th, in "Pygmalion and Galatea." This company first gained prominence as the Boston Ideals. They have of late years been noted for their complete rendering and extensive repertory of English operas.

The principal artists comprising the company are: Marie Stone, Jessie Bartlett Davis, Juliette Corden, Carlotta Maconda, Josephine Bartlett, Louise Bianchi, Tom Karl, W. H. McDonald, H. C. Barnabee, Edwin Hoff, Eugene Cowles, Geo. Frothingham and Fred Dixon.

Pygmalion will be repeated Thursday night and Saturday matinee.

The Musketeers will be given on Wednesday and Saturday nights.

Friday night, The Bohemian Girl.

Alcazar Theatre.

Mattie Vickers, a favorite Eastern soubrette actress, makes her first San Francisco appearance at the Alcazar this week, in "Jacquine; or, Paste and Diamonds," supported by Harry W Rich, a clever young comedian, and her own company. Miss Vickers is a soubrette of mercurial temperament who has a lively piece, that gives her an opportunity of presenting some very cleverly personated characterizations and specialty features.

New California Theatre.

Manager Hayman opens the New California Theatre this evening, with Booth and Barrett as the inaugural attraction. They have chosen Othello as their opening piece, Mr. Booth playing Iago, and Mr. Barrett Othello. They will alternate their characters nightly. For full cast see programme in FIGARO. The opening of an elegant new theatre and the appearances of Booth and Barrett will be a marked event in the theatrical annals of this city.

The town will want to take in the New California to-night, but only those having reserves or going early will be able to get seats.

Seats can be secured at the box office of the New California for any night this week, and on Thursday and after for next week, when a grand production of The Merchant of Venice will be the bill.

Orpheum Opera House.

The Bunch of Keys Company will give a week's performance of Charley Hoyt's lively farcical comedy at the Orpheum this week with its three pretty Keys girls in all kinds of funny absurdities; with Grimes in his rollicking peculiarities with Teddy as assistant; with Snaggs as the bewildered landlord of the Grand View Hotel, half crazed by the going-ons of the lightning-rod agent, the drummer, the politician, the operatic artistes and the knock-him-out man. The Orpheum abjures physical specialties and switches off into mental specialties instead this week.

See list of company in programme announcement elsewhere on this page.

Oakland Theatre.

Johnson & Slavin's Minstrels will give performances in Oakland at the Oakland Theatre on Tuesday and Wednesday evenings. This will give our neighbors across the bay an opportunity to see one of the best of minstrel shows in their own theatre.

The new features of Johnson & Slavin's Minstrel bill will be new songs by Johnson and others, and the clever sketch act, A Wedding at Uncle Jeff's, and the very funny burlesque on the Little Tycoon, entitled the Little Fly-Coon, in which Johnson, Slavin, Haverly and all the company appear, with the gems of the opera introduced in the burlesque.

Morosco's Amphitheatre.

Managers Morosco & Byrnes have put in a most complete fireproof partition between the stage and the auditorium, from wall to wall of their big theatre. It is constructed of iron lathings on both sides of the studding. The decorators are just finishing the immense ceiling of the theatre with harmonious panels.

George Turner, a young and popular character actor, appears here this week in the sensational drama, The Russian Serf, as Paul Davenant.

Miss Essie Tittel closes her engagement with Morosco this week. She will be missed by the many warm friends and admirers she has gained for herself during her stay at the theatre, and they will all wish her success in her new venture.

Manager Morosco understands the tastes of his patrons. He presents attractive plays with a fully competent company, and the results are satisfactory to both manager and people.

Matinees Sundays, at 2 P. M. Admission, 10 cents. Front reserved seats 10 cents extra.

The Battle of Vicksburg.

The grand panorama of the Battle of Vicksburg at the Panorama Building, corner of Eddy and Mason streets, is one that no American should fail to see. It gives a grand view of the battle with the conflict at its height on the land and the bombardment from the river with the correct positions of the engaging forces and the proper placement of the ironclads in the bombardment. It is a great painting, and excels the Battle of Waterloo in graphic power and vivid reality. Destruction reigns on every side. The burning buildings, the bursting shells, the desperate charges, the hand-to-hand conflicts, and the dying and wounded, all depict with startling realism one of the hottest conflicts in history.

Open from 9 A. M. to 6 P. M.

Vienna Garden Theatre

Not to take in the Vienna is to miss seeing one of the prettiest rural places in the city, and one that by the good management of Mr. A. Larsen, ably assisted by his director of amusements, Mr. Geo. H. Wood, "the somewhat different comedian," has become one of our most popular family resorts.

The Vienna gives a great programme this week, headed by William Courtright's Comedy Company, embracing Wm. Courtright, Henry Moore and Miss Freddie Stockmeyer. The other attractions are Imro Fox, Rich'd F. Stahll, Wellington, the Kirbys, Walter and Belle, Dick Turner, Mabel Clifton, Robzart and Miss Bessie Korolan.

Business is steadily good at this commodious gothic cottage embosomed among the trees.

Prices, 10 and 20 cents.

Bella Union Theatre.

Big Bertha, Little Willie Stanley and Lew Spencer are the new people this week. Big Bertha and Little Willie, in conjunction with Campbell and Nibbe, appear in the laughable comedy, Statue Making and the Can-Can.

Wm. Devere, Conchita, George Drew, Burnell, Ida Howell, Rose Sidell and the Stanley Sisters are still ahead as favorites.

The ladies of the company come in for a full share of the applause and crowd the male contingent very closely.

Friday nights are devoted to amateurs, and some of the novices have shown decided talent, and as they are ambitious they will soon be classed among the professionals.

Hallinan's Cremorne Theatre.

Eight new artists at the Cremorne this week, an avalanche of novelties.

Ned Nestell, the Old Soldier, makes his reappearance after an absence of thirty-two weeks; the musical team, Leopold & Fortune; Miss Sadie Fairfield, song and dance artiste; the comedy team, Billadeau & Lysle; the champion of the Northwest, Paddy Welsh, who appears in a six-round contest with Jack Connelly of Minn., and the mammoth stock company.

Johnnie Cain, the odd and funny comedian contributes his specialties in a manner that brings down the house, and the Cremorne plays to large patronage every night in the week.

Friday, May 24th, the Cremorne gives a grand anniversary ball and supper.

Eureka Music Hall.

This is one of the neatest and most popular of our minor theatres. Manager Walterstein runs a very strong company.

Edith Morrison, Laura White, Amy Gottlob, Stella Walton, Pearl Iola, Ed. Soldene, Chas. Berkeley, Charles Franks and Geo. C. Dunham.

Franks & Dunham present their funny plantation sketch, Fooling the Woman, introducing camp-meeting songs, funny dances, funny situations, etc.

White and Walton in beautiful duets, Berkeley & Howard in their sketch, The Spooney Blacksmith, with anvil accompaniment, and Franks' version of the She Can-Can are the important features of this week's bill.

The favorite Miss Amy Gottlob makes her re-appearance this week.

The Eureka gives a matinee every Sunday.

Sunday, May 19th, fourth annual picnic of the Societa Operata Italiana Di Mutuo Soccorso at Seaside Gardens.

Original Theatre Comique.

The entertainment commences with a few remarks from the Beautiful Black Barristers, with an original grand finale by the company. Charles Morrell with his gripsack full of fun and Tommy Morris in another of his amusing sketches fill in the middle part of the programme.

The Comique presents an entire new bill this week, with songs and afterpiece.

The comical farce-comedy, Scenes in Asphaltum Level, is the interlude act.

The laughable farce, Nonsense, with all the company in the cast, concludes the bill and the evening's fun.

The Comique's company is a strong one. It is a neat, compact minor theatre, and for many years has been a popular one.

The Siege of Sebastopol.

Every performance will be a special one at the Siege of Sebastopol this week, as new specialty features, war incidents and new styles of fireworks will be given at every performance.

Pain's Siege of Sebastopol is a most realistic picture of war. The exhibition occupies the block bounded by Hayes, Baker, Lyon and Fell streets.

The Hayes street cars take you directly to it.

Before the immense auditorium with raised seats for thousands is an artificial lake, 250 by 75 feet, representing the Bay of Sebastopol. On the far side is the fortified city, with built-up counterparts of its forts and towers, with the famed Malokoff in the centre.

Prior to the storming, lightning rifle drills, cutlass drills, cavalry exercises, spy capturing, and other incidents of camp life are exhibited.

When the assault begins fire opens all along the line, and as the battle rages the noise of explosives, the blowing up of forts and the great flashes of flames become thrillingly exciting.

You feel the shock of the explosions and see the walls tottering before you as the assaulting forces charge the great Malokoff, and you feel like raising a cheer as the French flag is raised over its ruins.

After the burning of the city comes the pyrotechnic pean of victory. Here is where Messrs. Pain of London, the getters up of the exhibition, who supply the British Navy with all their signal rockets, bombs, etc., and furnish all the fireworks for the royal celebrations excel. Flights of rockets and bombs fill the air, sending down showers of gold and silver; the lake becomes alive with fiery fountains, and its far shore with meteoric fireworks and standing pieces, forming at every performance the best pyrotechnical display and one of the most bounteous ever given in San Francisco.

Performances given Tuesday, Thursday and Saturday evenings. The intervening time will be required to repair the damages of the bombardment and replace the $1,000 worth of pyrotechnics used at every performance.

Numbered reserved seats on sale at Sherman, Clay & Co.'s music store, and at the newsstands in the principal hotels.

Mechanics' Pavilion—The 6 Days' Race.

The six days and six nights' go-as-you-please race is drawing to a close at the Pavilion. There is a prize purse of $2,500 in addition to the gate money to be divided among the winners. James Albert, the champion of the world, is leading the field so far.

As the walkers have decided that none others than those who cover 525 miles during the six days shall be entitled to any share of the gate receipts, the walkers will have to make good time to get a share of the same.

It is sufficient to add that Frank Hall manages the race to warrant that everything will be fair and square.

It is stated that the Chicago Auditorium will be opened not later than December 9, and possibly on the 5th. Patti will appear in at least two operas in which she has never been seen in this country, Romeo and Juliet and Lakme. This company will number at least 300. One of the three tenors will be Delucia of Madrid. There will be two conductors, one of whom will be Ramaido Sapic. Some local talent will be utilized in the choruses. After the season in Chicago Patti will give six performances in the city of Mexico, four in San Francisco, six in New York and six in other places between. She is expected to reach Chicago December 2.

Nelly Farren is reported to have made the tart remark that Mrs. Langtry and Mrs. Potter are the luckiest women that ever went on the stage, as they are being taught to act at the expense of the public.

Ralph Delmore, of the Paul Kauvar Company, and Max Freeman, of the Casino, are both very ill in New York.

W. J. Florence and wife will sail for Liverpool June 6.

Maurice Barrymore has apparently found a new ideaf or the basis of his new comedy Transfusion, which is to be brought out this summer in San Francisco. The plot turns upon the fact that a bishop in England is lying dangerously ill. The physicians in attendance declare that nothing but the transfusion of a large quantity of human blood can save the patient's life. Only one person can be found who is willing to part with so much vital fluid, and he is a tramp. The operation is successfully performed, but the tramp's blood is supposed to influence the bishop's brain, and sometimes he acts with becoming dignity and propriety, while at others the tramp's instincts gain uncontrolled ascendency.

Miss Fanny Davenport closes her season in La Tosca May 20th, and will spend her vacation at her summer home at Canton, Pa.

FULL PROGRAMMES of all the Leading Theatre in San Francisco can be found in FIGARO—the only paper that has them.

SPECIALTY SQUIBS.

Manager Jack Hallinan, of the Cremorne, who has managed the champion Australian heavy-weight, Peter Jackson, ever since he lauded in San Francisco, starts to-morrow with his invincible on an extended tour that will take in Portland and the Northern route, Chicago, New York, and be extended to England and Paris. Of course Jackson will give exhibitions of his prowess en route in some of the larger cities and hold himself ready to meet all comers.

Globe Theatre, Washington, D. C., May 6th: Jas. R. Adams, Francilia, the American Quartette, Chas. E. Schilling, Heider & Bowers, Pauline Ames, Gilson & Miles and old favorites retained.

Cort's Standard, Seattle, W. T., May 13th: Matsada Sorakichi, Jas. H. Faulkner, the four Carlos and Zola Vera.

Washington Irving Bishop, the mind-reader, died at the rooms of the Lamb Club, in New York, Monday, of hysterical catalepsy. Bishop was one of the strongest of impressional mediums, and for a number of years, when a young man, traveled as a medium. But being vainglorious and unprincipled, and finding that he could make much more money in putting himself forward as a personal phenomenon, he denied and scouted his mediumistic gifts and went into the "expose" business.

The six days and six nights' go-as-you-please race at the Mechanics' Pavilion closes Wednesday evening at 10 o'clock.

Manager Joe Bignon, of the Elite Theatre, Tombstone, Arizona, and Miss Tillie Bouton, for a long time a member of the Elite Co., were married at Tombstone on May 6th. Mr. and Mrs. Bignon have gone to Phœnix, A. T., where Mr. Bignon will open his new theatre May 18th.

Cort's Standard, Portland, May 13th: Seven new stars—Hughes & Oxford, Ace Le Voy, Miller & Hughes, Bartenio and Miss Flora Story.

Gordon & Ritchie had a grand opening Sunday, May 5th, of their zoological garden at Butte City. The gardens were built at a cost of $25 000 and are perfect in every respect. They give a grand stage performance in the pavilion every Sunday afternoon. For the opening week they had a company of 25 artists, headed by the Pavanelli Troupe. A museum building is one of the interesting features, filled with animate and inanimate curios from all parts of the world. An exhibition is given every fifteen minutes in the museum. Throughout the afternoon an excellent band is in attendance, and every possible attention is paid to the comfort of ladies and children.

John Morrissey — It passed through Eastern Pennsylvania spreading dire destruction as it went.

Geo. H. Wood (stepping up) — How many bloodhounds did they have?

Morrissey — Bloodhounds? What do you think I mean? I'm telling of the tornado the other day.

Wood—Oh, beg pardon! I thought you were speaking of an Uncle Tom's Cabin Company.

Johnson & Slavin's Minstrels give Oakland its turn 14-15. See ad.

In addition to the regular programme the Cremorne management gives an eight-round glove contest every Tuesday and Friday evening.

The comedy and one-act pieces at the Cremorne this week are full of wit and humor and call for the entire Cremorne company.

Big Bertha will make her appearance at the Bella Union this week

The Siege of Sebastopol is reproduced every Tuesday, Thursday and Saturday night. It is a big show.

The Comique presents an entire new bill this week. Charley Morrell and Tommy Morris contribute excellent specialty turns, and J. H. Burns is good in character parts.

Isabella Coe, as the Schoolmarm in A Midnight Bell, is one of the most attractive features of the performance.

—Che Mah, the Chinese dwarf, the smallest liliputian on earth, aged fifty years, is small that you can cover him with an

PROFESSIONAL PICKINGS.

How is this for a twelve years' repertory, and two plump, easily earned fortunes. During their twelve years' partnership Robson & Crane, who dissolved their partnership relations on May 12th, have appeared in the following plays: Our Bachelors, Forbidden Fruit, Champagne and Oysters, Sharps and Flats, D. A. M., Our Boarding House, A. D. 1900, The Cherubs, She Stoops to Conquer, Twelfth Night, Comedy of Errors, Merry Wives of Windsor and The Henrietta.

Hans Von Bulow, the great pianist, is a man of short, sturdy figure, a little bald and very nervous. At a recent concert in New York, relates the Critic, it was noticed that he left the stage in the middle of a piece and returned with a stalwart mechanic, who removed the piano some distance to the left, and that he then sat down and finished the performance. I have learned since what the difficulty was. The day was warm and the theatre was warmer, and a lady who sat directly in the range of his vision was fanning herself vigorously—against time. He said that if she had only kept time with the music he could have stood it, but her false beat nearly drove him frantic.

It was a tough play to digest and the plot was entirely obscure. One night of its run—it had a run—a man with a puzzled look in his face walked out of the house, driven to drink by attempting to unravel the story. After stiffening himself up with a double-breasted cocktail he met the manager. He stopped him. "Say," he asked, "in the name of Julius Cæsar will you tell me what it is all about?" The manager smiled sadly and then in a confidential whisper said: "I'll tell you, but don't quote me. The truth is, this infernal Inter-State Commerce law comes pretty hard on us, and we had to leave the plot behind in the last town we played."—[N. Y. World. We have had that play in San Francisco.

Campanini, the once great tenor, takes his dinner in a New York Italian restaurant all alone and unnoticed now. How things have changed with him! Less than ten years ago all New York was at his feet. Now, with voice and money gone, he is unsought by the people who used to fawn upon him. The only singer who has been able to preserve her voice acceptably to middle age is Patti. Nilsson and Gerster lost theirs comparatively early, but Patti at forty-five still reigns queen of song, if her voice has deteriorated.

At a meeting of the "Theatrical Mechanics" Association held on Saturday, May 11th, the following office-bearers were elected for the ensuing term: Jas. T. Blaikie, president; D. F. Dodge, vice-president; T. E. McLeod, recording secretary; S. J. Ryan, financial secretary; Jas. Lang, John Morrissey, John Wilson, S. J. Simmons and Wm. Dove, trustees.

Mrs. Charles Watson, the leading actress in Rose Coghlan's company, died in New York suddenly May 4th.

Lillian Lewis, a wild Western actress, will be seen at Miner's Theatre, N. Y., this week in As In a Looking Glass.

Miss Fanny Davenport will be married to Melbourne McDowell at the end of her season, which closes May 20th.

Neil Burgess and A Country Fair continue to draw large audiences to Procter's Twenty-third Street Theatre, N. Y.

The Hanlons' Fantasma Co. are nearing the end of their tour, which closes May 18th in Lewiston, Maine.

Denman Thompson's local melodrama, The Two Sisters, will be the attraction at the Windsor Theatre, N. Y., this week.

Arthur B. Chase, the director of the Booth-Barrett combination, retains his interest in the opera house at Holyoke, Mass.

Margaret Mather's coming Summer tour of this coast will cover a period of three months.

Adelaide Moore will arrive from London on or about June 1st to prepare for her tour of this country in The Love Story.

Rose Coghlan expects to spend her Summer vacation in San Francisco, where she begins her next tour about the middle of August.

Klaw & Erlanger expect to spend $10,000 in the production of Geo. Jessop and Ben Teal's new play, The Great Metropolis.

John E. Warner, who managed Nat Goodwin when on his first starring tour, will resume his old position at the beginning of next season.

Robson and Crane appeared for the last time together on May 12th at the Star Theatre, N. Y. Both were called to the front of the curtain after the play was over, and each made a very pretty speech, in which was expressed the highest regard for each other. They said the separation was due solely to the fact that it was for the artistic interest of each to work apart.

Ed. S. Gill, advance agent of the Grismer-Davies Co., was thrown from a runaway dummy, May 12th, in Seattle, and suffered a severe sprain of the right ankle. Edgar Weir, of the same company, was slightly bruised.

Effie Ellsler: Sacramento 13-14, Portland week of 20th.

The two large mirrors that were in the old California Theatre will ornament the New California—the only things of the Old that will find places in the New.

Edwin Stevens, formerly of the Tivoli, made a successful debut in The Brigands at the Casino, N. Y., May 9th, in the character of Falcoppa, the brigand chief. The wires say the critics and the public accept him. His engagement is for three

SPECIAL CONCERTS A

The Call says: "The Cecillian Operatic Quartet has commenced its interior tour under fair auspices, meeting with a better reception in Petaluma, however, than in Oakland." That is encouraging.

Mr. Charles R. Gardner will arrive in San Francisco early in July next with a novel attraction he calls "a speaking spectacular pantomime," under the name of He, She, Him and Her, written by Chas. P. Brown. Mr Toma Hanlon, a singing "phenomenon" and Mr. George H. Adams are two of its features.

Lizzie McCall, with whom the late "Betsy B." had a dispute about stockings and their contents some years ago—things that male critics are supposed to know nothing about—is one of Nat Goodwin's company.

Col. John E. Warner will manage Nat C. Goodwin next season.

Marie Stone, Jessie Bartlett Davis, Tom Karl, McDonald, Barnabee, Cowles and Hoff are in the cast of Pygmalion and Galatea, with which the Bostonians open.

Since it has become known in the East that N. C. Goodwin will play Bones, in Turned Up, and produce the best characters from his repertoire during his trip to California, the writers there say the comedian is doing right in "putting his best foot forward, as California will stand no nonsense." On the contrary, we will stand plenty of nonsense—if it is good nonsense.

Dixey, William Crane, George Knight, Sol Smith Russel, Nat Goodwin, Lillian Russel, Vernona Jarbeau, Pauline Hall, Lillian Conway, and Laura Joyce Bell have all appeared at various times in Rice's Evangeline.

Lately at the Theatre Celestines, Lyons,

We have the "Last Days of Pompeii" in San Francisco in June.

Nat Goodwin brings Nanette Comstock, the original Hole in the Ground telegraph girl.

The Bostonians will present eight different operas during the first fortnight of their engagement.

Olga Brandon will accompany the Kendals when they come here next season.

A man died recently in Connecticut who smoked 2,000 herrings a day. If he had quit that bad habit in time and tackled "Seal of North Carolina" Plug Cut he would be alive to-day.

TUESDAY.....MAY 14, 1889

FIGARO is the Official Journal of all the Leading Theatres in San Francisco, and the only paper that publishes their full programmes.

AMUSEMENTS, ETC.

Leavitt's New Bush Street Theatre.

That mercurial comedian, Nat C. Goodwin, puts in his appearance this week in two most amusing pieces. In the first one, "Lend Me Five Shillings," he plays Golightly in his usual bright, vivacious style, and deserves the classification of the N. Y. Herald in the part, as the "spontaneous and magnetic comedian." In the three act farcical comedy of "Turned Up," that concludes the bill, the same journal says of his Bones, "the lean, lank and cadaverous undertaker," that "Goodwin is great all the way through, in enunciation and inflection as well as in action;" and the audience at the Bush evinced their concurrence of the Herald's judgment by their hearty peals of laughter generous applause and two decided recalls of Mr. Goodwin. None of Hoyt's pieces awakened more merriment, or sent audiences in better humor to their homes than does the very amusing bill that Mr Goodwin and his really clever company appear in. His nervous comicalities, facial expressions and by play in the complications of the first piece, and his funny make-up, dry humor, and, above all, his inebriated scene in the last, convulses the house with laughter, are rare specimens of comedy acting and magnetically effective.

Mr. Goodwin is supported by his own company, among whom are Bob Hilliard, one of New York's notabilities, a handsome man and a good actor; particularly good as Geo. Medway in "Hunted Down." Messrs. Robert Wilson, J. H. Browne and John Craven are in both casts; Mr. Craven giving a capital impersonation of an English sea-captain in the same comedy.

Miss Lizzie McCall, a handsome woman and an accomplished actress, gives able support in the leading female roles in both pieces. Miss Nanette Comstock, who does double duty creditably, and Misses Marion Earle, Weevie Vivian and Estelle Mortimer complete the well balanced and talented company.

The Examiner says, "The Bush street Theatre was crowded to its utmost capacity long before the curtain rose, and, so far as could be judged from the, reception given Mr. Goodwin's new play, there will be very few empty seats during the engagement."

For casts see regular programme on first page.

Baldwin Theatre.

The Bostonians English Opera Company open their season at the Baldwin this Tuesday evening, in "Pygmalion and Galatea." This company first gained prominence as the Boston Ideals. They have of late years been noted for their complete rendering and extensive repertory of English operas.

The principal artists comprising the company are: Marie Stone, Jessie Bartlett Davis, Juliette Carden, Carlotta Maconda, Josephine Bartlett, Louise Bianchi, Tom Karl, W. H. McDonald, H. C. Barnabee, Edwin Hoff, Eugene Cowles, Geo. Frothingham and Fred Dixon.

Pygmalion will be repeated Thursday night and Saturday matinee.

The Musketeers will be given on Wednesday and Saturday nights.

Friday night, The Bohemian Girl.

Alcazar Theatre.

Mattie Vickers, a favorite Eastern soubrette actress, makes her first San Francisco appearance at the Alcazar this week, in "Jacquine; or, Paste and Diamonds," supported by Harry W. Rich, a clever young comedian, and her own company. Miss Vickers is a soubrette of mercurial temperament who has a lively piece, that gives her an opportunity of presenting some very cleverly personated characterizations and specialty features.

The piece is one of those written to be a vehicle for the soubrette specialties of which some people never tire and which everybody likes once in a while. Mattie Vickers is a very capable soubrette star. She sings and dances well; she has some very attractive music, and she is an actress of decided ability. The dances, songs and medleys are in most instances new, and Mr. Rich, who supports Miss Vickers, is a clever, lively comedian.

New California Theatre.

Manager Hayman opens the New California Theatre this week, with Booth and Barrett as the inaugural attraction. The opening of an elegant new theatre and the appearances of Booth and Barrett will be a marked event in the theatrical annals of this city.

The new house is one of great stage capabilities and rich and artistic in the design and finish of its auditorium. It is lavishly beautification of characters. Two tragedians that the public verdict has placed at the head of their profession; whose great natural gifts years of experience has ripened into the perfection of dramatic impersonations. Certainly the ruling passions of the old tragedy, love, jealousy and revenge, are presented to us for the opening of the California by those accreditably worthy to impersonate the great roles of the play. Manager Hayman has done well to give his new theatre the strongest attraction in the Union for its opening.

The support moves harmoniously along with the play. The company is practically the same as that which supported the tragedians last year, except that Mr. John A. Lane plays Cassio—and plays it notably well too; otherwise there is scarcely a change in the company. Miss Gale gives to Desdemona, feelingly, the qualities of tenderness, pleading and affection, and Miss Kellogg is a good foil as Emilia.

Othello in its mounting and richness of scenery and stage effects is a study. All that art can do has been done for its production.

For full cast see programme in FIGARO.

The theatre was ablaze with a full and fashionable audience and its opening was a pronounced success.

Seats can be secured at the box office of the New California for any night this week, and on Thursday and after for next week, when a grand production of The Merchant of Venice will be the bill.

Orpheum Opera House.

The Bunch of Keys Company will give a week's performance of Charley Hoyt's lively farcical comedy at the Orpheum this week with its three pretty Keys girls in all kinds of funny absurdities; with Grimes in his rollicking peculiarities with Teddy as assistant; with Snaggs as the bewildered landlord of the Grand View Hotel, half crazed by the going-ons of the lightning-rod agent, the drummer, the politician, the operatic artistes and the knock-him-out man. The Orpheum abjures physical specialties and switches off into mental specialties instead this week.

See list of company in programme announcement elsewhere on this page.

Oakland Theatre.

Johnson & Slavin's Minstrels will give performances in Oakland at the Oakland Theatre on Tuesday and Wednesday evenings. This will give our neighbors across the bay an opportunity to see one of the best of minstrel shows in their own theatre.

The new features of Johnson & Slavin's Minstrel bill will be new songs by Johnson and others, and the clever sketch act, A Wedding at Uncle Jeff's, and the very funny burlesque on the Little Tycoon, entitled the Little Fly-Coon, in which Johnson, Slavin, Haverly and all the company appear, with the gems of the opera introduced in the burlesque.

Morosco's Amphitheatre.

Managers Morosco & Byrnes have put in a most complete fireproof partition between the stage and the auditorium, from wall to wall of their big theatre. It is constructed of iron lathings on both sides of the studding. The decorators are just finishing the immense ceiling of the theatre with harmonious panels.

George Turner, a young and popular character actor, appears here this week in the sensational drama, The Russian Serf, as Paul Davenant.

Miss Essie Tittel closes her engagement with Morosco this week. She will be missed by the many warm friends and admirers she has gained for herself during her stay at the theatre, and they will all wish her success in her new venture.

Manager Morosco understands the tastes of his patrons. He presents attractive plays with a fully competent company, and the results are satisfactory to both manager and people.

Matinees Sundays, at 2 P. M. Admission, 10 cents. Front reserved seats 10 cents extra.

The Battle of Vicksburg.

The grand panorama of the Battle of Vicksburg at the Panorama Building, corner of Eddy and Mason streets, is one that no American should fail to see. It gives a grand view of the battle with the conflict at its height on the land and the bombardment from the river with the correct positions of the engaging forces and the proper placement of the ironclads in the bombardment. It is a great painting, and excels the Battle of Waterloo in graphic power and vivid reality. Destruction reigns on every side. The burning buildings, the bursting shells, the desperate charges, the hand-to-hand conflicts, and the dying and wounded, all depict with startling realism one of the hottest conflicts in history.

Open from 9 A. M. to 6 P. M.

Vienna Garden Theatre

Not to take in the Vienna is to miss seeing one of the prettiest rural places in the city, and one that by the good management of Mr. A. Larsen, ably assisted by his director of amusements, Mr. Geo. H. Wood, "the somewhat different comedian," has become one of our most popular family resorts.

The Vienna gives a great programme this week, headed by William Courtright's Comedy Company, embracing Wm. Courtright, Henry Moore and Miss Freddie Stockmeyer. The other attractions are Imro Fox, Rich'd F. Stahll, Wellington, the Kirbys, Walter and Belle, Dick Turner, Mabel Clifton, Robzart and Miss Bessie Korolan.

Business is steadily good at this commodious gothic cottage embosomed among the trees.

Prices, 10 and 20 cents.

Bella Union Theatre.

Big Bertha, Little Willie Stanley and Lew Spencer are the new people this week. Big Bertha and Little Willie, in conjunction with Campbell and Nibbe, appear in the laughable comedy, Statue Making and the Can-Can.

Wm. Devere, Conchita, George Drew, Bursell, Ida Howell, Rose Sidell and the Stanley Sisters are still ahead as favorites.

The ladies of the company come in for a full share of the applause and crowd the male contingent very closely.

Friday nights are devoted to amateurs, and some of the novices have shown decided tal-

Hallinan's Cremorne Theatre.

Eight new artists at the Cremorne this week, an avalanche of novelties.

Ned Nestell, the Old Soldier, makes his reappearance after an absence of thirty two weeks; the musical team, Leopold & Fortune; Miss Sadie Fairfield, song and dance artiste; the comedy team, Billadeau & Lysle; the champion of the Northwest, Paddy Welsh, who appears in a six-round contest with Jack Connelly of Minn., and the mammoth stock company.

Johnnie Cain, the odd and funny comedian contributes his specialties in a manner that brings down the house, and the Cremorne plays to large patronage every night in the week.

Friday, May 24th, the Cremorne gives a grand anniversary ball and supper.

Eureka Music Hall.

This is one of the neatest and most popular of our minor theatres. Manager Walterstein runs a very strong company.

Edith Morrison, Laura White, Amy Gottlob, Stella Walton, Pearl Iola, Ed. Soldene, Chas. Berkeley, Charles Franks and Geo. C. Dunham.

Franks & Dunham present their funny plantation sketch, Fooling the Woman, introducing camp-meeting songs, funny dances, funny situations, etc.

White and Walton in beautiful duets, Berkeley & Howard in their sketch, The Spooney Blacksmith, with anvil accompaniment, and Franks' version of the She Can-Can are the important features of this week's bill.

The favorite Miss Amy Gottlob makes her re-appearance this week.

The Eureka gives a matinee every Sunday.

Sunday, May 19th, fourth annual picnic of the Societa Operaia Italiana Di Mutuo Soccorso at Seaside Gardens.

Original Theatre Comique.

The entertainment commences with a few remarks from the Beautiful Black Barristers, with an original grand finale by the company, Charles Morrell with his gripsack full of fun and Tommy Morris in another of his amusing sketches fill in the middle part of the programme.

The Comique presents an entire new bill this week, with songs and afterpiece.

The comical farce-comedy, Scenes in Asphaltum Level, is the interlude act.

The laughable farce, Nonsense, with all the company in the cast, concludes the bill and the evening's fun.

The Comique's company is a strong one. It is a neat, compact minor theatre, and for many years has been a popular one.

The Siege of Sebastopol.

Every performance will be a special one at the Siege of Sebastopol this week, as new specialty features, war incidents and new styles of fireworks will be given at every performance.

Pain's Siege of Sebastopol is a most realistic picture of war. The exhibition occupies the block bounded by Hayes, Baker, Lyon and Fell streets.

The Hayes street cars take you directly to it.

Before the immense auditorium with raised seats for thousands is an artificial lake, 250 by 75 feet, representing the Bay of Sebastopol. On the far side is the fortified city, with built-up counterparts of its forts and towers, with the famed Malokoff in the centre.

Prior to the storming, lightning rifle drills, cutlass drills, cavalry exercises, spy capturing, and other incidents of camp life are exhibited.

When the assault begins fire opens all along the line, and as the battle rages the noise of explosives, the blowing up of forts and the great flashes of flames become thrillingly exciting.

forces charge the great Malokoff, and you feel like raising a cheer as the French flag is raised over its ruins.

After the burning of the city comes the pyrotechnic pean of victory. Here is where Messrs. Pain of London, the getters up of the exhibition, who supply the British Navy with all their signal rockets, bombs, etc., and furnish all the fireworks for the royal celebrations excel. Flights of rockets and bombs fill the air, sending down showers of gold and silver: the lake becomes alive with fiery fountains, and its far shore with meteoric fireworks and standing pieces, forming at every performance the best pyrotechnical display and one of the most bounteous ever given in San Francisco.

Performances given Tuesday, Thursday and Saturday evenings. The intervening time will be required to repair the damages of the bombardment and replace the $1,000 worth of pyrotechnics used at every performance.

FULL PROGRAMMES of all the Leading Theatre in San Francisco can be found in FIGARO—the only paper that has them.

SPECIALTY SQUIBS.

The six days end six nights' go-as-you-please race at the Mechanics' Pavilion closes this evening at 10 o'clock. To be followed by a ball. At 4 P. M. to-day the score of the walkers were:

	Miles.	Laps.
Jas. Albert	521	1
Gus Guerrero	502	3
Crozier	444	2
Peterson	391	3
Old Sport	336	7
Skinner	257	5
Olty Goofty	200	4

Albert and Gus Guerrero will be the only walkers that will make 525 miles, and they will take the admission money between them.

Manager Jack Hallinan, of the Cremorne, who has managed the champion Australian heavy-weight, Peter Jackson, ever since he landed in San Francisco, starts to-day with his invincible on an extended tour that will take in Portland and the Northern route, Chicago, New York, and be extended to England and Paris. Of course Jackson will give exhibitions of his prowess en route in some of the larger cities and hold himself ready to meet all comers.

Cort's Standard, Seattle, W. T., May 13th: Matsada Sorakichi, Jas. H. Faulkner, the four Carles and Zola Vera.

John Morrissey — It passed through Eastern Pennsylvania spreading dire destruction as it went.

Geo. H. Wood (stepping up) — How many bloodhounds did they have?

Morrissey — Bloodhounds? What do you think I mean? I'm telling of the tornado the other day.

Wood—Oh, beg pardon! I thought you were speaking of an Uncle Tom's Cabin Company.

Johnson & Slavin's Minstrels give Oakland its turn to-night. See ad.

In addition to the regular programme the Cremorne management gives an eight-round glove contest every Tuesday and Friday evening.

The comedy and one-act pieces at the Cremorne this week are full of wit and humor and call for the entire Cremorne company.

Big Bertha will make her appearance at the Bella Union this week.

The Comique presents an entire new bill this week. Charley Morrell and Tommy Morris contribute excellent specialty turns, and J. H. Burns is good in character parts.

Isabella Coe, as the Schoolmarm in A Midnight Bell, is one of the most attractive features of the performance.

—Che Mah, the Chinese dwarf, the smallest liliputian on earth, aged fifty years, is so small that you can cover him with an ordinary plug hat.

—Next to waiting for a verdict, the most soul-horrowing employment is keeping the baby asleep.

Lillian Lewis, a wild Western actress, will be seen at Miner's Theatre, N. Y., this week in As In a Looking Glass.

Miss Fanny Davenport will be married to Melbourne McDowell at the end of her season, which closes May 20th.

Neil Burgess and A Country Fair continue to draw large audiences to Procter's Twenty-third Street Theatre, N. Y.

The Honlons' Fantasma Co. are nearing the end of their tour, which closes May 18th in Lewiston, Maine.

Denman Thompson's local melodrama, The Two Sisters, will be the attraction at the Windsor Theatre, N. Y., this week.

Arthur B. Chase, the director of the Booth Barrett combination, retains his interest in the opera house at Holyoke, Mass.

Rose Coghlan expects to spend her Summer vacation in San Francisco, where she begins her next tour about the middle of August.

Klaw & Erlanger expect to spend $10,000 in the production of Geo. Jessop and Ben Teal's new play, The Great Metropolis.

Effie Ellsler: Portland week of 20th.

The two large mirrors that were in the old California Theatre still ornament the New California—the only things of the Old that will find places in the New.

Marie Stone, Jessie Bartlett Davis, Tom Karl, M. Donaldi, Barnabee, Cowles

PROFESSIONAL PICKINGS.

Fears of seasickness and shipwreck prevented Frank Daniels from taking his contemplated trip to Europe, and Miss Bessie Sanson sails alone the salt seas over.

A man of our day who should make love as Romeo did would be charged with emotional insanity. A man who exhibited his jealousy as Othello did would be a guy, according to Brander Matthews' method of reasoning.

Gounod, the composer, signed a contract with B. F. Marx, of St. Louis, and Louis Nathal, of New York, by which he will give seventy five concerts in this country next season. He will begin his tour in this country in October.

The New York Truth has moved into more commodious quarters in the Vandell Building, Nineteenth street, N. Y,

Manager Heinrich Conrad and the Vienna Lady Fencers will leave for Europe on June 7th.

Featherbrain, which had a successful production at the Madison Square Theatre, N. Y, has been booked for a tour next season extending as far West as our Baldwin Theatre.

Edwin Booth, Stuart Robson and John S. Owens were boys together at Baltimore. Instead of showing a taste for the legitimate drama, their youthful ambitions soared circuswards, and they got into all manner of scrapes in their attempts to properly equip the cellar which formed their ring.

Booth and Barrett bring the scenery of Othello with them, and it is a notable part of the play. The opening scenes of Brabantio's house by moonlight, the Senate at night and the ducal courts are very fine. The artist has made a special study of the third act scene, in Cyprus. The view of the fortress walls of Famagusta was painted from photographs showing them as they stand to-day, while at the end is the entrance of the round Torre del Moro, the headquarters of Christofore Moro, supposed to be the Othello of Shakespeare. It is the first correct representation this scene has ever had in this country. The island home of Othello and Desdemona is shown in a Byzantine interior with a magnificent decoration of mosaic glass upon a ground of gold. The bedchamber of the last act is picturesque and beautiful, and is made effective with heavy draperies and a flood of moonlight coming in through the glass window and falling upon the bed.

How is this for a twelve years' repertory, and two plump, easily earned fortunes. During their twelve years' partnership Robson & Crane, who dissolved their partnership relations on May 12th, have appeared in the following plays: Our Bachelors, Forbidden Fruit, Champagne and Oysters, Sharps and Flats, D. A. M., Our Boarding House, A. D. 1900, The Cherubs, She Stoops to Conquer, Twelfth Night, Comedy of Errors, Merry Wives of Windsor and The Henrietta.

It was a tough play to digest and the plot was entirely obscure. One night of its run—it had a run—a man with a puzzled look in his face walked out of the house, driven to drink by attempting to unravel the story. After stiffening himself up with a double-breasted cocktail he met the manager. He stopped him. "Say," he asked, "in the name of Julius Cæsar will you tell me what it is all about?" The manager smiled sadly and then in a confidential whisper said: "I'll tell you, but don't quote me. The truth is, this infernal Inter-State Commerce law comes pretty hard on us, and we had to leave the plot behind in the last town we played."—[N. Y. World. We have had that play in San Francisco.

Behind the scenes. Just at the rising of the curtain at the New California Theatre on Monday night, good old Mrs. Saunders came in behind the scenes to see the glory of the new house, and revive the recollections of the old one—being one of the few surviving members of the old California company. Booth and Barrett both gave her the heartiest of welcomes. While she was talking with Booth, Barrett procured an arm chair, placed it in a position where Mrs. Saunders could see the play, and taking her by both hands in the kindest manner seated her into it, stooping down and kissing her on each cheek as he did so. Booth took him by the arm, and, in his quiet way, said: "Well, when you get through coquetting with that young lady, Barrett, we will go on the stage," and walked him off. No one relished the joke heartier than Mrs. Saunders.

Campanini, the once great tenor, takes his dinner in a New York Italian restaurant all alone and unnoticed now. How things have changed with him! Less than ten years ago all New York was at his feet. Now, with voice and money gone, he is unsought by the people who used to fawn upon him. The only singer who has been able to preserve her voice acceptably to middle age is Patti. Nilsson and Gerster lost theirs comparatively early, but Patti at forty-five still reigns queen of song, if her voice has deteriorated.

At a meeting of the "Theatrical Mechanics" Association held on Saturday, May 11th, the following office-bearers were elected for the ensuing term: Jas. T. Blaikie, president; D. F. Dodge, vice-president; T. E. McLeod, recording secretary; S. J. Ryan, financial secretary; Jas. Long, John Morrissey, John Wilson, S. J. Simmons and Wm. Dove, trustees.

Mrs. Charles Watson, the leading actress in Rose Coghlan's company, died in New York suddenly May 4th.

Since it has become known in the East that N. C. Goodwin will play Bones, in Turned Up, and produce the best characters from his repertoire during his trip to California, the writers there say the comedian is doing right in "putting his best foot forward, as California will stand no nonsense." On the contrary, we will

SPECIAL CONCERTS A

OUR THEATRE AUDIENCES.

The Call, in an article under the above heading, says: "When the old California Theatre was opened twenty years ago there was, in a social sense, but one audience in the city. By this we mean that one occasion brought out about all the people who were known in society. The difference between the San Francisco of 1869 and of 1889 is illustrated in the fact that an occasion will call out half a dozen audiences in the latter period for one in the former. Monday night, for example, the four hundred imagined themselves all assembled at the new California. But a call at the Bush Street Theatre discovered an audience equally elegant and of about equal social standing. At the Alcazar an entertainment of a different character attracted a large audience of perhaps less social pretention but still well-to-do people. On Tuesday evening the California had another audience composed in most part of people who were not present Monday, but still what is known as a fashionable audience. The Bush was likewise crowded by an audience of like character, who were not present Monday night. At the Baldwin the Bostonians gave their opening on Tuesday, which attracted an audience equal to any other of the week. In the five audiences we have alluded to comparatively few who formed a part of one were a part of the other. People seldom go to the theatre two nights in succession unless there is a particular reason why they should." The deduction arrived at is that we are a great show-going community and flourishing in growth like a green bay tree.

Billy Birch is to be one of the end men

We have the "Last Days of Pompeii" in San Francisco in June.

Nat Goodwin brings Nanette Comstock, the original Hole in the Ground telegraph girl.

The Bostonians will present eight different operas during the first fortnight of their engagement.

Lotta is laid up in New York from the effects of a fall.

FIGARO is the Official Journal of all the Leading Theatres in San Francisco, and the only paper that publishes their full programmes.

AMUSEMENTS, ETC.

Lewitt's New Bush Street Theatre.

That mercurial comedian, Nat C. Goodwin, puts in his appearance this week in two most amusing pieces. In the first one, "Lend Me Five Shillings," he plays Golightly in his usual bright, vivacious style, and deserves the classification of the N. Y. Herald in the part, as the "spontaneous and magnetic comedian." In the three-act farcical comedy of "Turned Up," that concludes the bill, the same journal says of his Bones, "the lean, lank and cadaverous undertaker," that "Goodwin is great all the way through, in enunciation and inflection as well as in action;" and the audience at the Bush evinced their concurrence of the Herald's judgment by their hearty peals of laughter, generous applause and two decided recalls of Mr. Goodwin. None of Hoyt's pieces awakened more merriment, or sent audiences in better humor to their homes than does the very amusing bill that Mr. Goodwin and his really clever company appear in. His nervous comicalities, facial expressions and by-play in the complications of the first piece, and his funny make-up, dry humor, and, above all, his inebriated scene in the last, convulses the house with laughter, are rare specimens of comedy acting and magnetically effective.

Mr. Goodwin is supported by his own company, among whom are Bob Hilliard, one of New York's notabilities, a handsome man and a good actor, particularly good as Geo. Medway in "Hunted Down." Messrs. Robert Wilson, J. H. Browne and John Craven are in both casts; Mr. Craven giving a capital impersonation of an English sea-captain in the same comedy.

Miss Lizzie McCall, a handsome woman and an accomplished actress, gives able support in the leading female roles in both pieces. Miss Nanette Comstock, who does double duty creditably, and Misses Marion Earle, Weevie Vivian and Estelle Mortimer complete the well balanced and talented company.

The Examiner says, "The Bush-street Theatre was crowded to its utmost capacity long before the curtain rose, and, so far as could be judged from the reception given Mr. Goodwin's new play, there will be very few empty seats during the engagement."

For casts see regular programme on first page.

Baldwin Theatre.

The Bostonians English Opera Company opened their season at the Baldwin Tuesday evening in "Pygmalion and Galatea." This company first gained prominence as the Boston Ideals. They have of late years been noted for their complete performances and extensive repertory of English operas.

They gave a very enjoyable rendering of Pygmalion, giving due effects to their individual parts in singing and acting and impressing their audience most favorably with their capabilities in concerted effects.

The company is evenly strong and well-balanced. Miss Marie Stone has a fine, sweet soprano, and is graceful and of good stage presence. Miss Jessie Bartlett Davis' rich contralto and good acting qualities are well known to San Francisco audiences. Mr. Tom Karl is a tenor robusto of acknowledged excellence, and Mr. Eugene Cowles is a splendid basso. Mr. Barnabee is a good comedian and singer. The second parts are well filled, the chorus strong and well drilled, and their stage groupings are effectively given.

The Musketeers will be given to-night and Saturday night.

Pygmalion will be repeated Thursday night and Saturday matinee.

Friday night, The Bohemian Girl.

For next week's repertoire see programme ad. in FIGARO.

Alcazar Theatre.

Mattie Vickers, a favorite Eastern soubrette actress, makes her first San Francisco appearance at the Alcazar this week, in "Jacquine; or, Paste and Diamonds," supported by Harry W. Rich, a clever young comedian, and her own company. Miss Vickers is a soubrette of mercurial temperament who has a lively piece, that gives her an opportunity of presenting some very cleverly personated characterizations and specialty features.

The piece is one of those written to be a vehicle for the soubrette specialties of which some people never tire and which everybody likes once in a while. Mattie Vickers is a very capable soubrette star. She sings and dances well; she has some very attractive music, and she is an actress of decided ability. The dances, songs [illegible] are in most instances new, and Mr.

New California Theatre.

Manager Hayman opened the New California Theatre Monday with Booth and Barrett as the inaugural attraction. The opening of an elegant new theatre and the appearances of Booth and Barrett will be a marked event in the theatrical annals of this city.

The new house is one of great stage capabilities and is rich and artistic in the design and finish of its auditorium. It is lavishly beautiful.

The play, Othello, had Booth for Iago and Barrett for the dusky Moore, with nightly alternation of characters; two tragedians that the public verdict has placed at the head of their profession; whose great natural gifts years of experience have ripened into the perfection of dramatic impersonations. Certainly the ruling passions of the old tragedy, love, jealousy and revenge, are presented to us for the opening of the California by those accreditably worthy to impersonate the great roles of the play. Manager Hayman has done well to give his new theatre the strongest attraction in the Union for its opening.

The support moves harmoniously along with the play. The company is practically the same as that which supported the tragedians last year, except that Mr. John A. Lane plays Cassio—and plays it notably well too; otherwise there is scarcely a change in the company. Miss Gale gives to Desdemona, feelingly, the qualities of tenderness, pleading and affection, and Miss Kellogg is a good foil as Emilia.

Othello in its mounting and richness of scenery and stage effects is a study. All that art can do has been done for its production.

For full cast see programme in FIGARO.

The theatre on its opening night was ablaze with a full and fashionable audience, and its opening was a pronounced success.

Seats can be secured at the box office of the New California for any night this week, and on Thursday and after for next week, when a grand production of The Merchant of Venice will be the bill.

Orpheum Opera House.

The Bunch of Keys Company will give a week's performance of Charley Hoyt's lively farcical comedy at the Orpheum this week with its three pretty Keys girls in all kinds of funny absurdities; with Grimes in his rollicking peculiarities with Teddy as assistant; with Snaggs as the bewildered landlord of the Grand View Hotel, half crazed by the going-ons of the lightning-rod agent, the drummer, the politician, the operatic artistes and the knock-him-out man. The Orpheum abjures physical specialties and switches off into mental specialties instead this week.

See list of company in programme announcement elsewhere on this page.

Oakland Theatre.

Johnson & Slavin's Minstrels will give performances in Oakland at the Oakland Theatre on Tuesday and Wednesday evenings. This will give our neighbors across the bay an opportunity to see one of the best of minstrel shows in their own theatre.

The new features of Johnson & Slavin's Minstrel bill will be new songs by Johnson and others, and the clever sketch act, A Wedding at Uncle Jeff's, and the very funny burlesque on the Little Tycoon, entitled the Little Fly-Coon, in which Johnson, Slavin, Haverly and all the company appear, with the gems of the opera introduced in the burlesque.

Morosco's Amphitheatre.

Managers Morosco & Byrnes have put in a most complete fireproof partition between the stage and the auditorium, from wall to wall of their big theatre. It is constructed of iron lathings on both sides of the studding. The decorators are just finishing the immense ceiling of the theatre with harmonious panels.

George Turner, a young and popular character actor, appears here this week in the sensational drama, The Russian Serf, as Paul Davenant.

Miss Essie Tittel closes her engagement with Morosco this week. She will be missed by the many warm friends and admirers she has gained for herself during her stay at the theatre, and they will all wish her success in her new venture.

Manager Morosco understands the tastes of his patrons. He presents attractive plays with a fully competent company, and the results are satisfactory to both manager and people.

Matinees Sundays, at 2 P. M. Admission, 10 cents. Front reserved seats 10 cents extra.

The Battle of Vicksburg.

The grand panorama of the Battle of Vicksburg at the Panorama Building, corner of Eddy and Mason streets, is one that no American should fail to see. It gives a grand view of the battle with the conflict at its height on the land and the bombardment from the river with the correct positions of the engaging forces and the proper placement of the ironclads in the bombardment. It is a great painting, and excels the Battle of Waterloo in graphic power and vivid reality. Destruction reigns on every side. The burning buildings, the bursting shells, the desperate charges, the hand-to-hand conflicts, and the dying and wounded, all depict with startling realism one of the hottest conflicts in history.

Open from 9 A. M. to 6 P. M.

Vienna Garden Theatre

Not to take in the Vienna is to miss seeing one of the prettiest rural places in the city, and one that by the good management of Mr. A. Larsen, ably assisted by his director of amusements, Mr. Geo. H. Wood, "the somewhat different comedian," has become one of our most popular family resorts.

The Vienna gives a great programme this week, headed by William Courtright's Comedy Company, embracing Wm. Courtright, Henry Moore and Miss Freddie Stockmeyer. The other attractions are Imro Fox, Rich'd F. Stahll, Wellington, the Kirbys, Walter and Belle, Dick Turner, Mabel Clifton, Robzart and Miss Bessie Korolan.

Business is steadily good at this commodious gothic cottage embosomed among the trees.

Prices, 10 and 20 cents.

Bella Union Theatre.

Big Bertha, Little Willie Stanley and Lew Spencer are the new people this week. Big Bertha and Little Willie, in conjunction with Wm. Devere, Conchita, George Drew, Burcell, Ida Howell, Rose Sidell and the Stanley Sisters are still ahead as favorites.

The ladies of the company come in for a full share of the applause and crowd the male contingent very closely.

Friday nights are devoted to amateurs, and some of the novices have shown decided talent, and as they are ambitious they will soon be classed among the professionals.

Hallinan's Cremorne Theatre.

Eight new artists at the Cremorne this week an avalanche of novelties.

Ned Nestell, the Old Soldier, makes his reappearance after an absence of thirty two weeks; the musical team, Leopold & Fortune; Miss Sadie Fairfield, song and dance artiste; the comedy team, Billadeau & Lysle; the champion of the Northwest, Paddy Welsh, who appears in a six-round contest with Jack Connelly of Minn., and the mammoth stock company.

Johnnie Cain, the odd and funny comedian, contributes his specialties in a manner that brings down the house, and the Cremorne plays to large patronage every night in the week.

Friday, May 24th, the Cremorne gives a grand anniversary ball and supper.

Eureka Music Hall.

This is one of the neatest and most popular of our minor theatres. Manager Walterstein runs a very strong company.

Edith Morrison, Laura White, Amy Gottlob Stella Walton, Pearl Ione Ed. Soldene, Chas. Berkeley, Charles Franks and Geo. C. Dunham.

Franks & Dunham present their funny plantation sketch, Fooling the Woman, introducing camp-meeting songs, funny dances, funny situations, etc.

White and Walton in beautiful duets, Berkeley & Howard in their sketch, The Spooney Blacksmith, with anvil accompaniment, and Franks' version of the She Can-Can are the important features of this week's bill.

The favorite Miss Amy Gottlob makes her re-appearance this week.

The Eureka gives a matinee every Sunday.

Sunday, May 19th, fourth annual picnic of the Societa Operata Italiana Di Mutuo Soccorso at Seaside Gardens.

Original Theatre Comique.

The entertainment commences with a few remarks from the Beautiful Black Barristers, with an original grand finale by the company, Charles Morrell with his gripsack full of fun and Tommy Morris in another of his amusing sketches fill in the middle part of the programme.

The Comique presents an entire new bill this week, with songs and afterpiece.

The comical farce-comedy, Scenes in Asphaltum Level, is the intermude act.

The laughable farce, Nonsense, with all the company in the cast, concludes the bill and the evening's fun.

The Comique's company is a strong one. It is a neat, compact minor theatre, and for many years has been a popular one.

The Siege of Sebastopol.

Every performance will be a special one at the Siege of Sebastopol this week, as new specialty features, war incidents and new styles of fireworks will be given at every performance.

Pain's Siege of Sebastopol is a most realistic picture of war. The exhibition occupies the block bounded by Hayes, Baker, Lyon and Fell streets.

The Hayes street cars take you directly to it.

plosives, the blowing up of forts and the grea flashes of flames become thrillingly exciting.

After the burning of the city comes the pyrotechnic pean of victory. Here is where Messrs. Pain of London, the getters up of the exhibition, who supply the British Navy with all their signal rockets, bombs, etc., and furnish all the fireworks for the royal celebrations excel. Flights of rockets and bombs fill the air, sending down showers of gold and silver; the lake becomes alive with fiery fountains, and its far shore with meteoric fireworks and standing pieces, forming at every performance the best pyrotechnical display and one of the most bounteous ever given in San Francisco.

Performances given Tuesday, Thursday and Saturday evenings. The intervening time will be required to repair the damages of the bombardment and replace the $1,000 worth of pyrotechnics used at every performance.

EVENING EDITION

THURSDAY.....MAY 16, 1889

FULL PROGRAMMES of all the Leading Theatre in San Francisco can be found in FIGARO—the only paper that has them.

SPECIALTY SQUIBS.

Goodyear, Cook & Dillon's Refined Minstrels, a well known Eastern company, open at the Orpheum next week. For particulars see their advertised programme on our variety front page.

Bishop is dead. But Managers Gustav Walter & Co., of the Orpheum, will shortly introduce what they claim are two new Bishops in the mind-reading and psychological tests. They are brothers, Mier and Edwin Hofstad, natives of Norway, from whence they come. Mr. Walter heard of them as wonderful phenomenons, and made arrangements to present them at the Orpheum. Unlike Bishop they are are unassuming young men, but possess the same marvelous occult powers in reading the mental impressions of others, finding hidden things, etc. A Swedish journal in speaking of them as wonders says, "Had they lived two hundred years ago they would either have been worshipped as gods or destroyed as devils." Manager Walter claims that he can and will prove these powers under tests in a trial before a body of medical men and journalists prior to their opening at the Orpheum.

Billy Emerson and Frank Lawlor, the Ticket Agent in A Hole in the Ground Co. have signed with the Howard Athenæum Company for next season.

Cort's Standard, Seattle, W. T., May 13 b: Matsada Sorakichi, Jas. H. Faulkner, the four Carles and Zola Vera.

In addition to the regular programme the Cremorne management gives an eight-round glove contest every Tuesday and Friday evening.

The comedy and one-act pieces at the Cremorne this week are full of wit and humor and call for the entire Cremorne company.

Big Bertha will make her appearance at the Bella Union this week.

CALIFORNIA'S SONGSTRESS.

Sibyl Sanderson, daughter of the late Judge Sanderson, has made a most successful debut in Paris at the Opera Comique as Esclarmonde, the title role of M. Massenet's new opera. Another songbird added to California's roll of honor. It must be our climate that produces such a glorious voice.

The Herald's Paris cable reports Sibyl Sanderson's triumph in the sensational cadenza of the opera thus: "One could hardly believe that any voice could sing it. Miss Sanderson is not seen, but she is heard announcing her coming in song to Roland, and the delight as well as the astonishment of those present may perhaps be imagined when it is stated that she took it, not by a scream or a shriek, but in the upper G, or G in alto, held it, and then scaled down to E flat. It was simply wonderful. I know of no other singer now before the public who could repeat this astonishing performance. It was a brilliant demonstration of the possibilities of the human voice. The enchanted audience acknowledged it by a grand round of applause. As this opera is the triumph of the master who wrote it, so, too, is it a grand success for the young Californian. That she made a hit is indisputable. To the list of American divas must now be added the name of Sibyl Sanderson. The ballets and choruses call for 200 persons and there were about 400 costumes, which cost nearly 80 000 francs. They were picturesque, magnificent and in harmony with the music."

Marie Stone, Jessie Bartlett Davis, Tom Karl, McDonald, Barnabee, Cowles and Hoff are in the cast of Pygmalion and Galatea at the Baldwin to-night.

James W. Morrissey will join Henry E.

PROFESSIONAL PICKINGS.

Booth and Barrett produce their Merchant of Venice, famed for its splendid historical scenery and appointments scarcely less than for its superior dramatic presentment, at the California next week. For full cast see extra programme announcement in adjoining column.

Messrs. Shannon & Williams, of New York, are engaged on a new romantic drama for James O'Neill,

The Bush Street Theatre is ahead in the race this week.

Lewis Morrison played a successful engagement in Boston.

James Owen O'Conor entertained a holiday audience at Koster & Bial's Theatre, N. Y., May 5th, with a lecture called "Centennial Bittersweets," in the course of which he denounced Washington as a rebel.

Mrs. Langtry will sell all the scenery, properties, furniture and mechanical effects used in her plays at auction the latter part of the month, prior to her departure for Australia.

Edward Seovel, leading tenor of the Boston Ideal Opera Company, has cancelled his engagement and returned to the East. The reason for this move was announced from the Grand Opera House stage at Cleveland, that he was afflicted with "total extinction of voice."

Fears of seasickness and shipwreck prevented Frank Daniels from taking his contemplated trip to Europe, and Miss Bessie Sanson sails alone the salt seas over.

A man of our day who should make love as Romeo did would be charged with emotional insanity. A man who exhibited his jealousy as Othello did would be a guy, according to Brander Matthews' method of reasoning.

Gounod, the composer, signed a contract with B. F. Marx, of St. Louis, and Louis Nathal, of New York, by which he will give seventy five concerts in this country next season. He will begin his tour in this country in October.

The New York Truth has moved into more commodious quarters in the Vandell Building, Nineteenth street, N. Y.

Manager Heinrich Conrad and the Vienna Lady Fencers will leave for Europe on June 7th.

Featherbrain, which had a successful production at the Madison Square Theatre, N. Y., has been booked for a tour next season extending as far West as our Baldwin Theatre.

Edwin Booth, Stuart Robson and John S. Owens were boys together at Baltimore. Instead of showing a taste for the legitimate drama, their youthful ambitions soared circuswards, and they got into all manner of scrapes in their attempts to properly equip the cellar which formed their ring.

Booth and Barrett bring the scenery of Othello with them, and it is a notable part of the play. The opening scenes of Brabantio's house by moonlight, the Senate at night and the ducal courts are very fine. The artist has made a special study of the third act scene, in Cyprus. The view of the fortress walls of Famagusta was painted from photographs showing them as they stand to-day, while at the end is the entrance of the round Torro del Moro, the headquarters of Christofore Moro, supposed to be the Othello of Shakespeare. It is the first correct representation this scene has ever had in this country. The island home of Othello and Desdemona is shown in a Byzantine interior with a magnificent decoration of mosaic glass upon a ground of gold. The bedchamber of the last act is picturesque and beautiful, and is made effective with heavy draperies and a flood of moonlight coming in through the glass window and falling upon the bed.

Behind the scenes. Just at the rising of the curtain at the New California Theatre on Monday night, good old Mrs. Saunders came in behind the scenes to see the glory of the new house, and revive the recollections of the old one—being one of the few surviving members of the old California company. Booth and Barrett both gave her the heartiest of welcomes. While she was talking with Booth, Barrett procured an arm chair, placed it in a position where Mrs. Saunders could see the play, and taking her by both hands in the kindest manner seated her into it, stooping down and kissing her on each cheek as he did so. Booth took him by the arm, and, in his quiet way, said: "Well, when you get through coquetting with that young lady, Barrett, we will go on the stage" and walked him off. No one relished the joke heartier than Mrs. Saunders.

Lillian Lewis, a wild Western actress, will be seen at Miner's Theatre, N. Y., this week in As In a Looking Glass.

Miss Fanny Davenport will be married to Melbourne McDowell at the end of her season, which closes May 20th.

Neil Burgess and A Country Fair continue to draw large audiences to Procter's Twenty-third Street Theatre, N. Y.

Isabella Coe, as the Schoolmarm in A Midnight Bell, is one of the most attractive features of the performance.

The Hanlons' Fantasma Co. are nearing the end of their tour, which closes May 18th in Lewiston, Maine.

Denman Thompson's local melodrama, The Two Sisters, will be the attraction at the Windsor Theatre, N. Y., this week.

Rose Coghlan expects to spend her Summer vacation in San Francisco, where she begins her next tour about the middle of August.

Klaw & Erlanger expect to spend $10,000 in the production of Geo. Jessop and Ben Teal's new play, The Great Metropoli-.

SOLE PROPRIETOR

OUR THEATRE AUDIENCES.

The Call, in an article under the above heading, says: "When the old California Theatre was opened twenty years ago there was, in a social sense, but one audience in the city. By this we mean that one occasion brought out about all the people who were known in society. The difference between the San Francisco of 1869 and of 1889 is illustrated in the fact that an occasion will call out half a dozen audiences in the latter period for one in the former. Monday night, for example, the four hundred imagined themselves all assembled at the new California. But a call at the Bush Street Theatre discovered an audience equally elegant and of about equal social standing. At the Alcazar an entertainment of a different character attracted a large audience of perhaps less social pretention but still well to-do people. On Tuesday evening the California had another audience composed in most part of people who were not present Monday, but still what is known as a fashionable audience. The Bush was likewise crowded by an audience of like character, who were not present Monday night. At the Baldwin the Bostonians gave their opening on Tuesday, which attracted an audience equal to any other of the week. In the five audiences we have alluded to comparatively few who formed a part of one were a part of the other. People seldom go to the theatre two nights in succession unless there is a particular reason why they should." The deduction arrived at is that we are a great show-going community and flourishing in growth like a green bay tree.

The Bostonians will present eight different operas during the first fortnight of their engagement.

FIGARO is the Official Journal of all the Leading Theatres in San Francisco, and the only paper that publishes their full programmes.

AMUSEMENTS, ETC.

Leavitt's New Bush Street Theatre.

That mercurial comedian, Nat C. Goodwin, puts in his appearance this week in two most amusing pieces. In the first one, "Lend Me Five Shillings," he plays Golightly in his usual bright vivacious style, and deserves the classification of the N. Y. Herald in the part, as the "spontaneous and magnetic comedian." In the three-act farcical comedy of "Turned Up," that concludes the bill, the same journal says of his Bones, "the lean, lank and cadaverous undertaker," that "Goodwin is great all the way through, in enunciation and inflection as well as in action;" and the audience at the Bush evinced their concurrence of the Herald's judgment by their hearty peals of laughter, generous applause and two decided recalls of Mr. Goodwin. None of Hoyt's pieces awakened more merriment, or sent audiences in better humor to their homes than does the very amusing bill that Mr. Goodwin and his really clever company appear in. His nervous comicalities, facial expressions and by-play in the complications of the first piece, and his funny make-up, dry humor, and, above all, his inebriated scene in the last, convulses the house with laughter, are rare specimens of comedy acting and magnetically effective.

Mr. Goodwin is supported by his own company, among whom are Bob Hilliard, one of New York's notabilities, a handsome man and a good actor; particularly good as Geo. Medway in "Turned Up." Messrs. Robert Wilson, J. H. Browne and John Craven are in both casts; Mr. Craven giving a capital impersonation of an English sea-captain in the same comedy.

Miss Lizzie McCall, a handsome woman and an accomplished actress, gives able support in the leading female roles in both pieces. Miss Nanette Comstock, who does double duty creditably, and Misses Marion Earle, Weevie Vivian and Estelle Mortimer complete the well balanced and talented company.

The Examiner says, "The Bush-street Theatre was crowded to its utmost capacity long before the curtain rose, and, so far as could be judged from the reception given Mr. Goodwin's new play, there will be very few empty seats during the engagement."

For casts see regular programme on first page.

Baldwin Theatre.

The Bostonians English Opera Company opened their season at the Baldwin Tuesday evening in "Pygmalion and Galatea." This company first gained prominence as the Boston Ideals. They have of late years been noted for their complete performances and extensive repertory of English operas.

They give a very enjoyable rendering of their operas, giving due effects to their individual parts in singing and acting and impressing their audiences most favorably with their capabilities in concerted effects.

The company is evenly strong and well-balanced. Miss Marie Stone has a fine, sweet soprano, and is graceful and of good stage presence. Miss Jessie Bartlett Davis' rich contralto and good acting qualities are well known to San Francisco audiences. Mr Tom Karl is a tenor robusto of acknowledged excellence, and Mr. Eugene Cowles is a splendid basso. Mr. Barnabee is a good comedian and singer. Miss Macondа has a young, fresh voice and her singing is full of light and color. Mr. Edwin W. Hoff, the second tenor, has a melodious voice and a fine presence. The second parts are well filled, the chorus strong and well drilled, and their stage groupings are effectively given.

The Musketeers, which had such a fine rendering last night, will be given Saturday night.

Pygmalion will be repeated to-night and Saturday matinee.

Friday night The Bohemian Girl.

For next week's repertoire see programme ad. in FIGARO.

Alcazar Theatre.

Mattie Vickers, a favorite Eastern soubrette actress makes her first San Francisco appearance at the Alcazar this week, in "Jacquine; or, Paste and Diamonds," supported by Harry W. Rich, a clever young comedian, and her own company. Miss Vickers is a soubrette of mercurial temperament who has a lively piece, that gives her an opportunity of presenting some very cleverly personated characterizations and specialty features.

The piece is one of those written to be a vehicle for the soubrette specialties of which some people never tire and which everybody likes once in a while. Mattie Vickers is a very capable soubrette star. She sings and dances well; she has some very attractive music, and she is an actress of decided ability. The dances, songs and medleys are in most instances new, and Mr. Rich, who supports Miss Vickers, is a clever, lively comedian.

Next week, the last of Miss Vickers' engagement, Oberon will be the attraction.

New California Theatre.

Manager Hayman opened the New California Theatre Monday with Booth and Barrett as the inaugural attraction. The opening of an elegant new theatre and the appearances of Booth and Barrett will be a marked event in the theatrical annals of this city.

The new house is one of great stage capabilities and is rich and artistic in the design and finish of its auditorium. It is lavishly beautiful.

The play, Othello, had Booth for Iago and Barrett for the dusky Moore—with nightly alternation of characters—two tragedians that the public verdict has placed at the head of their profession; whose great natural gifts years of experience have ripened into the perfection of dramatic impersonations. Certainly the ruling passions of the old tragedy, love, jealousy and revenge, are presented to us for the opening of the California by those accreditably worthy to impersonate the great roles of the play. Manager Hayman has done well to give his new theatre the strongest attraction in the Union for its opening.

The support moves harmoniously along with the play. The company is practically the same as that which supported the tragedians last year, except that Mr. John A. Lane plays Cassio—and plays it notably well too; otherwise there is scarcely a change in the company. Miss Gale gives to Desdemona, feelingly, the qualities of tenderness, pleading and affection, and Miss Kellogg is a good foil as Emilia.

Othello in its mounting and richness of scenery and stage effects is a study. All that art can do has been done for its production.

For full cast see programme in FIGARO.

—o—

A grand production of The Merchant of Venice will be the bill next week, which will be marked for its rich beauty of mounting in scenery and costumes, the impersonations of Booth and Barrett and thorough competency of the company.

For cast see extra programme advertisement elsewhere in FIGARO.

Seats can be secured at the box office of the New California for any night this week and next.

Orpheum Opera House.

The Bunch of Keys Company will give a week's performance of Charley Hoyt's lively farcical comedy at the Orpheum this week with its three pretty Keys girls in all kinds of funny absurdities; with Grimes in his rollicking peculiarities with Teddy as assistant; with Snaggs as the bewildered landlord of the Grand View Hotel, half crazed by the going-ons of the lightning-rod agent, the drummer, the politician, the operatic artistes and the knock-him-out man. The Orpheum abjures physical specialties and switches off into mental specialties instead this week.

See list of company in programme announcement elsewhere on this page.

Managers Walter & Co. will present a feast of mirth, wit and music next week in Goodyear, Cook & Dillon's Refined Minstrels, headed by that popular endman and comedian, Chas. W. Goodyear. This company rates as first-class, and brings with it the endorsements of the press all along the road they have traveled in crossing the continent. The company consists of 32 performers, including its specialty artists, ten endmen, eight champion clogglets, etc.

For list of company and outline of programme see extra advertisement elsewhere in FIGARO.

Morosco's Amphitheatre.

Managers Morosco & Byrnes have put in a most complete fireproof partition between the stage and the auditorium, from wall to wall of their big theatre. It is constructed of iron lathings on both sides of the studding. The decorators are just finishing the immense ceiling of the theatre with harmonious panels.

George Turner, a young and popular character actor, appears here this week in the sensational drama, The Russian Serf, as Paul Davenant.

Miss Essie Tittel closes her engagement with Morosco this week. She will be missed by the many warm friends and admirers she has gained for herself during her stay at the theatre, and they will all wish her success in her new venture.

Manager Morosco understands the tastes of his patrons. He presents attractive plays with a fully competent company, and the results are satisfactory to both manager and people.

Matinees Sundays, at 2 P. M. Admission, 10 cents. Front reserved seats 10 cents extra.

Next week James Carden makes his first appearance at this theatre in the melodrama, Dead World.

The Battle of Vicksburg.

The grand panorama of the Battle of Vicksburg at the Panorama Building, corner of Eddy and Mason streets, is one that no American should fail to see. It gives a grand view of the battle with the conflict at its height on the land and the bombardment from the river with the correct positions of the engaging forces and the proper placement of the ironclads in the bombardment. It is a great painting, and excels the Battle of Waterloo in graphic power and vivid reality. Destruction reigns on every side. The burning buildings, the bursting shells, the desperate charges, the hand-to-hand conflicts, and the dying and wounded, all depict with startling realism one of the hottest conflicts in history.

Open from 9 A. M. to 6 P. M.

Vienna Garden Theatre

Not to take in the Vienna is to miss seeing one of the prettiest rural places in the city, and one that by the good management of Mr. A. Larsen, ably assisted by his director of amusements, Mr. Geo. H. Wood, "the somewhat different comedian," has become one of our most popular family resorts.

The Vienna gives a great programme this week, headed by William Courtright's Comedy Company, embracing Wm. Courtright, Henry Moore and Miss Freddie Stockmeyer. The other attractions are Imro Fox, Rich'd F. Stahll, Wellington, the Kirbys, Walter and Belle, Dick Turner, Mabel Clifton, Robzart and Miss Bessie Korolan.

Business is steadily good at this commodious gothic cottage embosomed among the trees.

Bella Union Theatre.

Big Bertha, Little Willie Stanley and Lew Spencer are the new people this week. Big Bertha and Little Willie, in conjunction with Campbell and Nibbe, appear in the laughable comedy, Statue Making and the Can-Can.

Wm Devere, Conchita, George Drew, Burnell, Ida Howell, Rose Sidell and the Stanley Sisters are still ahead as favorites.

The ladies of the company come in for a full share of the applause and crowd the male contingent very closely.

Friday nights are devoted to amateurs, and some of the novices have shown decided talent, and as they are ambitious they will soon be classed among the professionals.

Hallinan's Cremorne Theatre.

Eight new artists at the Cremorne this week, an avalanche of novelties.

Ned Nestell, the Old Soldier, makes his reappearance after an absence of thirty two weeks; the musical team, Leopold & Fortune; Miss Sadie Fairfield, song and dance artiste; the comedy team, Billadeau & Lysle; the champions, Hennessey & Egan, have been specially engaged to appear in a grand glove contest every evening, and the mammoth stock company.

Johnnie Cain, the odd and funny comedian, contributes his specialties in a manner that brings down the house, and the Cremorne plays to large patronage every night in the week.

Friday, May 24th, the Cremorne gives a grand anniversary ball and supper.

Eureka Music Hall.

This is one of the neatest and most popular of our minor theatres. Manager Walterstein runs a very strong company.

Edith Morrison, Laura White, Amy Gottlob Stella Walton, Pearl Iola El. Soldene, Chas. Berkeley, Charles Franks and Geo. C. Dunham.

Franks & Dunham present their funny plantation sketch, Fooling the Woman, introducing camp-meeting songs, funny dances, funny situations, etc.

White and Walton in beautiful duets, Berkeley & Howard in their sketch, The Spooney Blacksmith, with anvil accompaniment, and Franks' version of the She Can-Can are the important features of this week's bill.

The favorite Miss Amy Gottlob makes her re-appearance this week.

The Eureka gives a matinee every Sunday.

Sunday, May 19th, fourth annual picnic of the Societa Operata Italiana Di Mutuo Soccorso at Seaside Gardens.

Original Theatre Comique.

The entertainment commences with a few remarks from the Beautiful Black Barristers, with an original grand finale by the company. Charles Morrell with his gripsack full of fun and Tommy Morris in another of his amusing sketches fill in the middle part of the programme.

The Comique presents an entire new bill this week, with songs and afterpiece.

The comical farce-comedy, Scenes in Asphaltum Level, is the interlude act.

The laughable farce, Nonsense, with all the company in the cast, concludes the bill and the evening's fun.

The Comique's company is a strong one. It is a neat, compact minor theatre, and for many years has been a popular one.

The Siege of Sebastopol.

Every performance will be a special one at the Siege of Sebastopol this week, as new specialty features, war incidents and new styles of fireworks will be given at every performance.

Pain's Siege of Sebastopol is a most realistic picture of war. The exhibition occupies the block bounded by Hayes, Baker, Lyon and Fell streets.

The Hayes street cars take you directly to it.

When the assault begins fire opens all along the line, and as the battle rages the noise of explosives, the blowing up of forts and the grea flashes of flames become thrillingly exciting.

After the burning of the city comes the pyrotechnic pean of victory. Here is where Messrs. Pain of London, the getters up of the exhibition, who supply the British Navy with all their signal rockets, bombs, etc., and furnish all the fireworks for the royal celebrations excel. Flights of rockets and bombs fill the air, sending down showers of gold and silver: the lake becomes alive with fiery fountains, and its far shore with meteoric fireworks and standing pieces, forming at every performance the best pyrotechnical display and one of the most bounteous ever given in San Francisco.

Performances given Tuesday, Thursday and Saturday evenings. The intervening time will be required to repair the damages of the bombardment and replace the $1,000 worth of pyrotechnics used at every performance.

EVENING EDITION

FRIDAY.....MAY 17, 1889

FULL PROGRAMMES of all the Leading Theatre in San Francisco can be found in FIGARO—the only paper that has them.

SPECIALTY SQUIBS.

A shady stage at the Orpheum next week—minstrels.

Ned Nestell's new comedy, Faro Bill, is a great feature of the bill at the Cremorne.

J. W. Coffey, "the Skeleton Dude" of a New York dime museum, advertised in the papers in the boldest way for a wife, publishing his portrait in the ad. He became an attraction worth $75 per week under contract at Worth's Museum, and Worth said that he was worth it. But he disappeared on the 10th inst. after drawing his week's salary in advance. As the skeleton was persistently sought after by three different women with matrimonial intent, the museum men smelt a marriage without it being performed on the stage; which it was specified in the contract shou'd be a feature of his engagement provided he married. So detectives were set to work and found the Dude Skeleton enjoying his honeymoon at a hotel in Brooklyn, dressed to kill. He had married a widow with a comfortable bank account, and when accosted by the detective Mr. Coffey shook his bony hand at him and said: "I defy them. I am no longer a freak. If I ever come before the public again, it will be as a theatrical manager."

Mr. Paul. J. Stressinger, treasurer of the Orpheum, will leave for the East next week to take the position of advance manager of Wm Muldoon's (the wrestler) show. Mr. Stressinger has won many friends here by his courtesy and business qualifications, and only leaves California to better himself financially.

Rice & Everett returned from Bakersfield Thursday and report that the theatre there is closed.

They have got him. Ben Mowatt, the champion club swinger and juggler, in Goodyear, Cook & Dillon's Minstrels that comes to the Orpheum next week.

Theatre Comique, Spokane Falls, May 13th: Mlle. Garretta, Burns & Donnelly, Lulu Stanford, the Gerry Sisters and Miss Mollie Summers, new faces.

Clinton's Theatre Royal, May 13th: Griffin & Langan, P of La Bondos, Miranda & Silbon, Chas. Reese, Ada Clifton, the Crescent City Quartette, Jennie Melville and old favorites retained.

Goodyear, Cook & Dillon's Refined Minstrels, a well known Eastern company, open at the Orpheum next week. For particulars see their advertised programme on our variety front page.

Bishop is dead. But Managers Gustav Walter & Co., of the Orpheum, will shortly introduce what they claim are two new Bishops in the mind-reading and psychological tests. They are brothers, Mier and Edwin Hofstad, natives of Norway, from whence they come. Mr. Walter heard of them as wonderful phenomenons, and made arrangements to present them at the Orpheum. Unlike Bishop they are are unassuming young men, but possess the same marvelous occult powers in reading the mental impressions of others, finding hidden things, etc. A Swedish journal in speaking of them as wonders says, "Had they lived two hundred years ago they would either have been worshipped as gods or destroyed as devils." Manager Walter claims that he can and will prove these powers under tests in a trial before a body of medical men and journalists prior to their opening at the Orpheum.

Billy Emerson and Frank Lawlor, the Ticket Agent in A Hole in the Ground Co. have signed with the Howard Athenæum Company for next season.

In addition to the regular programme the Cremorne management gives an eight-round glove contest every Tuesday and Friday evening.

The comedy and one-act pieces at the Cremorne this week are full of wit and humor and call for the entire Cremorne company.

Big Bertha will make her appearance at the Bella Union this week.

The Comique presents an entire new

PROFESSIONAL PICKINGS.

It is wired that the Worcester Theatre, Worcester, Mass., was burned early on the morning of the 16th. The fire was a quick and hot one. Lewis Morrison with his Faust company was playing there, and lost all the splendid appointments, wardrobes and properties of the play. His loss is estimated at $11,000. Morrison, like Paddy Rafferty, seems born to bad luck.

Miss Estelle Mortimer as Mrs. Pannall in "Turned Up," is a dainty little lady as well as a good actress. The old fashioned front piece does not mar her pretty face, but adds an additional charm.

Jeffreys-Lewis is suing for a divorce. Marriage in her case has proven a failure. She contemplates taking a benefit in the near future, and afterwards proceed to New York to fill an engagement there pending.

Thirty and forty years ago Warren, Chas. Walcott—the elder—and all the old school comedians used to play Golightly. Of later years Joe Jefferson had it pretty much to himself, until it became to be looked upon as his special train of fun. When Nat Goodwin announced that he could play it, everybody said don't. But he did and has made it a success. His Golightly is not so airy and finished as Jefferson's, but it is every bit as funny and exceedingly clever in facial expression.

Mattie Vickers appears in Cherub, a character she made her New York success in, next week at the Alcazar, with new, bright specialties and songs, and that lively comedian, Harry W. Rich, will evoke lots of fun out of Septimus Washington Gill, a lightning-rod agent.

Seeing that Nat Goodwin's houses are full to the doors every night there will be no change in the bill next week at the Bush. Everybody is wanting to see him in Lend Me Five Shillings and Turned Up.

Booth and Barrett produce their Merchant of Venice, famed for its splendid historical scenery and appointments scarcely less than for its superior dramatic presentment, at the California next week. For full cast see extra programme announcement in adjoining column.

Messrs. Shannon & Williams, of New York, are engaged on a new romantic drama for James O'Neill.

The Bush Street Theatre is ahead in the race this week.

Lewis Morrison played a successful engagement in Boston.

James Owen O'Conor entertained a holiday audience at Koster & Bial's Theatre, N. Y., May 5th, with a lecture called 'Centennial Bittersweets," in the course of which he denounced Washington as a rebel.

Mrs. Langtry will sell all the scenery, properties, furniture and mechanical effects used in her plays at auction the latter part of the month, prior to her departure for Australia.

Lillian Lewis, a wild Western actress, will be seen at Miner's Theatre, N. Y., this week in As In a Looking Glass.

Edward Scovel, leading tenor of the Boston Ideal Opera Company, has cancelled his engagement and returned to the East. The reason for this move was announced from the Grand Opera House stage at Cleveland, that he was afflicted with "total extinction of voice."

Fears of seasickness and shipwreck prevented Frank Daniels from taking his contemplated trip to Europe, and Miss Bessie Sanson sails alone the salt seas over.

Gounod, the composer, signed a contract with B. F. Marx, of St. Louis, and Louis Nathal, of New York, by which he will give seventy-five concerts in this country next season. He will begin his tour in this country in October.

Edwin Booth, Stuart Robson and John S. Gwens were boys together at Baltimore. Instead of showing a taste for the legitimate drama, their youthful ambitions soared circus-ward, and they got into all manner of scrapes in their attempts to properly equip the cellar which formed their ring.

Behind the scenes. Just at the rising of the curtain at the New California Theatre on Monday night, good old Mr. Saunders came in behind the scenes to see the glory of the new house, and revive the recollections of the old one—being one of the few surviving members of the old California company. Booth and Barrett both gave her the heartiest of welcomes. While she was talking with Booth, Barrett procured an arm chair, placed it in a position where Mrs. Saunders could see the play, and taking her by both hands in the kindest manner seated her into it, stooping down and kissing her on each cheek as he did so. Booth took him by the arm, and, in his quiet way, said: "Well, when you get through coquetting with that young lady, Barrett, we will go on the stage" and walked him off. No one relished the joke heartier than Mrs. Saunders.

They are telling rather a curious story in England just now. Mr. Walter Ingram, of the Illustrated London News, who, it will be remembered, was killed by an elephant in South Africa, unwound an Egyptian mummy a short time before his death. Inside one of the cloths a tablet was found, and on it an inscription to the effect that the man who profaned the dead would die a violent death within three months of the sacrilegious act, and that his bones would be scattered to the winds of heaven. Within the three months Mr. Walter Ingram met with a violent death in South Africa, and, if his bones were not scattered to the winds, his body met with terrible maltreatment.

Mlle. Rhea's new play, written by Roland Haven, an American, is entitled Josephine, a story of the first empire, Mlle. Rhea playing the role of Napoleon's first wife. Every member of her company will be A-

JOHN C
SOLE PROPRIETOR AN

A BEEFSTEAK RACKET.

"Beefsteak John's" is in the Bowery, New York. It is neither cafe, hotel, nor restaurant proper. It is simply Beefsteak John's — a kitchen furnished with its own exquisite cleanliness, a carpet of sawdust, a queer old man, a row of boxes against the wall, a couple of tables, and a strange iron box, which no patron is permitted to gaze upon, and which is John's patent stove, whereon he broils beefsteaks to a turn, and gives them a flavor unsurpassed in the annals of gastronomy. This place is rented to a party of men — eight or ten — for an evening. The door is locked on the outer world. Crackers, slices of bread, and large mugs of ale are provided, but nothing more, not even knives and forks. Beefsteak John will cook only for gentlemen, and his patrons number themselves among the swells of Gotham. The steak is cooked over the mysterous little stove, cut into short, thick strips and passed around on a platter. The New York dude, seated like Little Lord Fauntleroy, on a cracker box, helps himself to this delicacy with his fingers.

Mattie Vickers sings in Jacquine Katrina, the German Bird Vender. Louise, the Flower Girl. Pretty as a Picture, and will dance an Irish jig.

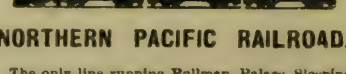
The second week of the Bostonians is devoted to Mignon, Fatinitza, Fra Diavolo and The Poachers.

Our Joan, the melodrama in which Rose Coghlan made her first tour as a star, has got into the popular-price theatres.

Several of the leading Boston critics took most kindly to Lewis Morrison and Faust. One of them thinks him superior to Irving. (Think of it.)

Harry Mann, who comes to manage the California, is Manager Hayman's brother. When he went into theatricals he dropped the Hay and picked up an extra n.

Futsch-Madi has been engaged as the dramatic prima donna for the Covent Garden (London) season.



Thirty-two pupils have graduated to the professional stage from the Palmer-Boucicault School of Acting.

Miss Vickers does two or three German specialties that help her soubrette reputation.

FIGARO is the Official Journal of all the Leading Theatres in San Francisco, and the only paper that publishes their full programmes

AMUSEMENTS, ETC.

Leavitt's New Bush Street Theatre.

That mercurial comedian, Nat C. Goodwin, puts in his appearance this week in two most amusing pieces. In the first one, "Lend Me Five Shillings," he plays Golightly in his usual bright, vivacious style, and deserves the classification of the N. Y. Herald in the part, as the spontaneous and magnetic comedian." In the three act farcical comedy of "Turned Up" that concludes the bill, the same journal says of his Bones, "the lean, lank and cadaverous undertaker," that "Goodwin is great all the way through, in enunciation and inflection as well as in action;" and the audiences at the Bush evince their concurrence of the Herald's judgment by their hearty peals of laughter, generous applause and usually hearty recalls of Mr. Goodwin. None of Hoyt's pieces awakened more merriment, or sent audiences in better humor to their homes than does the very amusing bill that Mr. Goodwin and his really clever company appear in. His nervous comicalities facial expressions and by-play in the complications of the first piece, and his funny make-up, dry humor, and, above all, his inebriated scene in the last, convulse the house with laughter. They are rare specimens of comedy acting and magnetically effective.

Mr Goodwin is supported by his own company, among whom are Bob Hilliard, one of New York's notabilities, a handsome man and a good actor; particularly good as Geo. Medway in "Turned Up." Messrs. Robert Wilson, J. H Browne and John Craven are in both casts; Mr. Craven giving a capital impersonation of an English sea-captain in the same comedy.

Miss Lizzie McCall, a handsome woman and an accomplished actress, gives able support in the leading female roles in both pieces. Miss Nanette Comstock, who does double duty creditably, and Misses Marion Earle, Weevie Vivian and Estelle Mortimer complete the well balanced and talented company.

The Examiner says, "The Bush-street Theatre was crowded to its utmost capacity long before the curtain rose, and, so far as could be judged from the reception given Mr. Goodwin's new play, there will be very few empty seats during the engagement."

The house has been full all the week.

For casts see regular programme on first page

Baldwin Theatre.

The Bostonians English Opera Company opened their season at the Baldwin Tuesday evening in "Pygmalion and Galatea." This company first gained prominence as the Boston Ideals. They have of late years been noted for their complete performances and extensive repertory of English operas.

They give a very enjoyable rendering of their operas, giving due effects to their individual parts in singing and acting and impressing their audiences most favorably with their capabilities in concerted effects.

The company is evenly strong and well-balanced. Miss Marie Stone has a fine, sweet soprano, and is graceful and of good stage presence. Miss Jessie Bartlett Davis' rich contralto and good acting qualities are well known to San Francisco audiences. Mr. Tom Karl is a tenor robusto of acknowledged excellence, and Mr. Eugene Cowles is a splendid basso. Mr. Barnabee is a good comedian and singer. Miss Maconda has a young, fresh voice and her singing is full of light and color. Mr. Edwin W. Hoff, the second tenor, has a melodious voice and a fine presence. The second parts are well filled, the chorus strong and well drilled, and their stage groupings are effectively given.

To night, The Bohemian Girl.

The Musketeers, which had such a fine rendering Wednesday night, will be given Saturday night.

Pygmalion will be repeated for Saturday matinee

For next week's repertoire see programme ed. in FIGARO.

Alcazar Theatre.

Mattie Vickers, a favorite Eastern soubrette actress, makes her first San Francisco appearance at the Alcazar this week, in "Jacquine; or, Paste and Diamonds," supported by Harry W Rich, a clever young comedian, and her own company. Miss Vickers is a soubrette of mercurial temperament who has a lively piece, that gives her an opportunity of presenting some very cleverly personated characters, sensations and specialty features.

The piece is one of those written to be a vehicle for the soubrette specialties of which some people never tire and which everybody likes once in a while. Mattie Vickers is a very capable soubrette star. She sings and dances well; she has some very attractive music, and she is an actress of decided ability. The dances, songs and medleys are in most instances new, and Mr. Rich who supports Miss Vickers, is a clever, lively comedian.

Next week, the last of Mattie Vickers' en-

New California Theatre.

Manager Hayman opened the New California Theatre Monday with Booth and Barrett as the inaugural attraction. The opening of an elegant new theatre and the appearances of Booth and Barrett will be a marked event in the theatrical annals of this city.

The new house is one of great stage capabilities and is rich and artistic in the design and finish of its auditorium. It is lavishly beautiful.

The play, Othello, had Booth for Iago and Barrett for the dusky Moore—with nightly alternation of characters—two tragedians that the public verdict has placed at the head of their profession; whose great natural gifts years of experience have ripened into the perfection of dramatic impersonations. Certainly the ruling passions of the old tragedy, love, jealousy and revenge, are presented to us for the opening of the California by those accreditably worthy to impersonate the great roles of the play. Manager Hayman has done well to give his new theatre the strongest attraction in the Union for its opening.

The support moves harmoniously along with the play. The company is practically the same as that which supported the tragedians last year, except that Mr. John A. Lane plays Cassio—and plays it notably well too; otherwise there is scarcely a change in the company. Miss Gale gives to Desdemona, feelingly, the qualities of tenderness, pleading and affection, and Miss Kellogg is a good foil as Emilia.

Othello in its mounting and richness of scenery and stage effects is a study. All that art can do has been done for its production.

Othello has its last representation Saturday night, Booth playing Othello and Barrett Iago.

For full cast see programme in FIGARO.

—o—

A grand production of The Merchant of Venice will be the bill next week, which will be marked for its rich beauty of mounting in scenery and costumes, the impersonations of Booth and Barrett and thorough competency of the company.

For cast see extra programme advertisement elsewhere in FIGARO.

Seats can be secured at the box office of the New California for any night next week.

Orpheum Opera House.

The Bunch of Keys Company will give a week's performance of Charley Hoyt's lively farcical comedy at the Orpheum this week with its three pretty Keys girls in all kinds of funny absurdities; with Grimes in his rollicking peculiarities with Teddy as assistant; with Snaggs as the bewildered landlord of the Grand View Hotel, half crazed by the going-ons of the lightning-rod agent, the drummer, the politician, the operatic artistes and the knock-him-out man. Business is very good.

See list of company in programme announcement elsewhere on this page.

Managers Walter & Co. will presen a feast of mirth, wit and music next week in Goodyear, Cook & Dillon's Refined Minstrels, headed by that popular endman and comedian, Chas. W. Goodyear. This company rates as first-class, and brings with it the endorsements of the press all along the road they have traveled in crossing the continent. The company consists of 32 performers, including its specialty artists, ten endmen, eight champion clogglets, etc.

For list of company and outline of programme see extra advertisement elsewhere in FIGARO.

Morosco's Amphitheatre.

Managers Morosco & Byrnes have put in a most complete fireproof partition between the stage and the auditorium, from wall to wall of their big theatre. It is constructed of iron lathings on both sides of the studding. The decorators are just finishing the immense ceiling of the theatre with harmonious panels.

George Turner, a young and popular character actor, appears here this week in the sensational drama, The Russian Serf, as Paul Davenant.

Miss Essie Tittel closes her engagement with Morosco this week. She will be missed by the many warm friends and admirers she has gained for herself during her stay at the theatre, and they will all wish her success in her new venture.

Manager Morosco understands the tastes of his patrons. He presents attractive plays with a fully competent company, and the results are satisfactory to both manager and people.

Matinees Sundays, at 2 P. M. Admission, 10 cents. Front reserved seats 10 cents extra.

Next week James Carden makes his first appearance at this theatre in the melodrama, Dead to the World.

The Battle of Vicksburg.

The grand panorama of the Battle of Vicksburg at the Panorama Building, corner of Eddy and Mason streets, is one that no American should fail to see. It gives a grand view of the battle with the conflict at its height on the land and the bombardment from the river with the correct positions of the engaging forces and the proper placement of the ironclads in the bombardment. It is a great painting, and excels the Battle of Waterloo in graphic power and vivid reality. Destruction reigns on every side. The burning buildings, the bursting shells, the desperate charges, the hand-to-hand conflicts, and the dying and wounded, all depict with startling realism one of the hottest conflicts in history.

Open from 9 A. M. to 6 P. M.

Vienna Garden Theatre

Not to take in the Vienna is to miss seeing one of the prettiest rural places in the city, and one that by the good management of Mr. A. Larsen, ably assisted by his director of amusements. Mr. Geo. H. Wood, "the somewhat different comedian," has become one of our most popular family resorts.

The Vienna gives a ... programme this week, headed by William Courtright's Comedy Company, embracing Wm Courtright, Henry Moore and Miss Freddie Stockmeyer. The other attractions are Imro Fox, Rich'd F. Stahl, Wellington, the Kirbys, Walter and Belle, Dick Turner, Mabel Clifton, Robzart and Miss Bessie Korolan.

Business is steadily good at this commodious gothic cottage embosomed among the trees.

Bella Union Theatre.

Big Bertha, Little Willie Stanley and Lew Spencer are the new people this week. Big Bertha and Little Willie, in conjunction with Campbell and Nibbe, appear in the laughable comedy, Statue Making and the Can-Can.

Wm. Devere, Conchita, George Drew, Burnell, Ida Howell, Rose Sidell and the Stanley Sisters are still ahead as favorites.

The ladies of the company come in for a full share of the applause and crowd the male contingent very closely.

Friday nights are devoted to amateurs, and some of the novices have shown decided talent, and as they are ambitious they will soon be classed among the professionals.

Hallinan's Cremorne Theatre.

Eight new artists at the Cremorne this week, an avalanche of novelties.

Ned Nestell, the Old Soldier, makes his reappearance after an absence of thirty two weeks; the musical team, Leopold & Fortune; Miss Sadie Fairfield, song and dance artiste; the comedy team, Billadeau & Lysle; the champions, Hennessey & Egan, have been specially engaged to appear in a grand glove contest every evening, in conjunction with the mammoth stock company.

Johnnie Cain, the odd and funny comedian, contributes his specialties in a manner that brings down the house, and the Cremorne plays to large patronage every night in the week.

Friday, May 24th, the Cremorne gives a grand anniversary ball and supper.

Eureka Music Hall.

This is one of the neatest and most popular of our minor theatres. Manager Walterstein runs a very strong company.

Edith Morrison, Laura White, Amy Gottlob Stella Walton, Pearl Iola Eldridge, Boldene, Chas. Berkeley, Charles Franks and Geo. C. Dunham.

Franks & Dunham present their funny plantation sketch, Fooling the Woman, introducing camp-meeting songs, funny dances, funny situations, etc.

White and Walton in beautiful duets, Berkeley & Howard in their sketch, The Spooney Blacksmith, with anvil accompaniment, and Franks' version of the She Can-Can are the important features of this week's bill.

The favorite Miss Amy Gottlob makes her re-appearance this week.

The Eureka gives a matinee every Sunday.

Sunday, May 19th, fourth annual picnic of the Societa Operata Italiana Di Mutuo Soccorso at Seaside Gardens.

Original Theatre Comique.

The entertainment commences with a few remarks from the Beautiful Black Barristers, with an original grand finale by the company. Charles Morrell with his gripsack full of fun and Tommy Morris in another of his amusing sketches fill in the middle part of the programme.

The Comique presents an entire new bill this week, with songs and afterpiece.

The comical farce-comedy, Scenes in Asphaltum Level, is the interlude act.

The laughable farce, Nonsense with all the company in the cast, concludes the bill and the evening's fun.

The Comique's company is a strong one. It is a neat, compact minor theatre, and for many years has been a popular one.

The Siege of Sebastopol.

Every performance will be a special one at the Siege of Sebastopol this week, as new specialty features, war incidents and new styles of fireworks will be given at every performance.

Paln's Siege of Sebastopol is a most realistic picture of war. The exhibition occupies the block bounded by Hayes, Baker, Lyon and Fell

When the assault begins fire opens all along the line, and as the battle rages the noise of explosives, the blowing up of forts and the great flashes of flames become thrillingly exciting.

After the burning of the city comes the pyrotechnic pean of victory. Here is where Messrs. Pain of London, the getters up of the exhibition, who supply the British Navy with all their signal rockets, bombs, etc., and furnish all the fireworks for the royal celebrations excel. Flights of rockets and bombs fill the air, sending down showers of gold and silver; the lake becomes alive with fiery fountains, and its far shore with meteoric fireworks and standing pieces, forming at every performance the best pyrotechnical display and one of the most bounteous ever given in San Francisco.

Performances given Tuesday, Thursday and Saturday evenings. The intervening time will be required to repair the damages of the bombardment and replace the $3,000 worth of pyrotechnics used at every performance.

EVENING EDITION

SATURDAY.....MAY 18, 1889

FULL PROGRAMMES of all the Leading Theatre in San Francisco can be found in FIGARO—the only paper that has them.

SPECIALTY SQUIBS.

Manager Jack Hallinan, of the Cremorne, and his heavy-weight champion did not take the Northern route. They leave via. the fast 6 30 train, Central Pacific, to-night for the East.

A shady stage at the Orpheum next week—minstrels.

Ned Nestell's new comedy, Faro Bill, is a great feature of the bill at the Cremorne.

J. W. Coffey, "the Skeleton Dude" of a New York dime museum, advertised in the papers in the boldest way for a wife, publishing his portrait in the ad. He became an attraction worth $75 per week under contract at Worth's Museum, and Worth said that he was worth it. But he disappeared on the 10th inst. after drawing his week's salary in advance. As the skeleton was persistently sought after by three different women with matrimonial intent, the museum men smelt a marriage without it being performed on the stage; which it was specified in the contract should be a feature of his engagement provided he married. So detectives were set to work and found the Dude Skeleton enjoying his honeymoon at a hotel in Brooklyn, dressed to kill. He had married a widow with a comfortable bank account, and when accosted by the detective Mr. Coffey shook his bony hand at him and said: "I defy them. I am no longer a freak. If I ever come before the public again, it will be as a theatrical manager."

Mr. Phil. J. Stressinger, treasurer of the Orpheum, will leave for the East next week to take the position of advance manager of Wm. Muldoon's (the wrestler) show. Mr. Stressinger has won many friends here by his courtesy and business qualifications, and only leaves California to better himself financially.

Rice & Everett returned from Bakersfield Thursday and report that the theatre there is closed.

They have got him. Ben Mowatt, the champion club swinger and juggler, in Goodyear, Cook & Dillon's Minstrels that comes to the Orpheum next week.

Goodyear, Cook & Dillon's Refined Minstrels, a well known Eastern company, open at the Orpheum next week. For particulars see their advertised programme on our variety front page.

Billy Emerson and Frank Lawlor, the Ticket Agent in A Hole in the Ground Co. have signed with the Howard Athenæum Company for next season.

In addition to the regular programme the Cremorne management gives an eight-round glove contest every Tuesday and Friday evening.

The comedy and one-act pieces at the Cremorne this week are full of wit and humor and call for the entire Cremorne company.

Big Bertha will make her appearance at the Bella Union this week.

The Comique presents an entire new bill this week. Charley Morrell and Tommy Morris contribute excellent specialty turns, and J. H. Burns is good in character parts.

Billy Birch is to be one of the end men next season in Cal. Wagner's minstrel company.

Lucy Hooper Writes: — I met Christine Nilsson, now Countess De Miranda, whilst I was walking the other day in the Boulevard. Woe is me! How direfully has the once lovely Swede changed for the worse. She has not faded, but she has fattened. Her face is broad, her features heavy and the expansion of her cheeks has diminished the apparent size of her once lustrous blue eyes. Her bright fair hair alone reminds the spectator of her former charms. The winsome songbirds of the past quarter of a century are one by one losing their notes and their plumage as well. Perhaps the saddest fate is that of the youngest of them all, the gifted Etelka Gerster, who now lives secluded from the world in a castle situathd on the summit of a mountain near the city of Bologna. There she passes her days in superintending the education of her children, in reading and in needlework. Sometimes she writes to her friends in Paris or Vienna long letters filled with reminiscences of the

PROFESSIONAL PICKINGS.

Mr. Owen Feree, advance representative of Powers' Ivy Leaf Co., that opens at the Alcazar Monday week, is in town on business intent.

Miss Sybil Sanderson's triumphant opera debut in Paris is the sensation of the French capitol. She is the daughter of Judge Sanderson and was born in Sacramento about twenty-four years ago. Two years afterwards the family moved to this city, where Sybil was reared and educated. Miss Sanderson is described as "reminding one alternately of Judic and Patti. She has Patti's plump and well rounded figure, a pair of magnificent black eyes and regularly formed features. She has been the victim of the most singular series of misfortunes ever since she came to Paris. The last one was a malignant attack of scarlet fever, but she rose from what promised to be a fatal illness with a voice almost double in volume and strength, and her health is more robust than it has ever been before. Her popularity is very great in Paris." The French papers unanimously compliment Sybil Sanderson, and the glories of Emma Nevada, Marie Van Zandt, and even Emma Eames, as American prima donnas, are paleing before the new star from California.

Mrs. J. C. Williamson, wife of the wealthy Australian manager, returned by the last steamer to visit her sister residing in this city. Mrs. Williamson will be better known to us as Maggie Moore, the favorite soubrette of the old California Theatre, and the wealthy manager of the Island Continent will be better recalled as Jimmy Williamson, its popular comedian. They went to Australia with Sam Smith's "Struck Oil," and laid the foundation of their fortune with it, while poor old Sam delved his life out in some obscure mining claim, unheard of and unknown. His was a strange nature. Modest and retiring and over sensitive, he could not endure city life. He was only happy in the solitude of the mountains, living in some lonely cabin among the mines, digging like a gopher in the earth as a precarious miner, and cut off from all communication with the outer world. So Smith passed his life away, and so he must have died, as he has not been heard of for years, though Williamson has tried to reach him by letters and enquiries.

Stutiz' New York Theatre Co. route: Anaconda, Montana, May 20-21-22; Deer Lodge, 23-24 25.

It is wired that the Worcester Theatre, Worcester, Mass., was burned early on the morning of the 16th. The fire was a quick and hot one. Lewis' Morrison with his Faust company was playing there, and lost all the splendid appointments, wardrobes and properties of the play. His loss is estimated at $11,000. Morrison, like Paddy Rafferty, seems born to bad luck.

Miss Estelle Mortimer as Mrs. Pannall in "Turned Up," is a dainty little lady as well as a good actress. The old fashioned front piece does not mar her pretty face, but adds an additional charm.

Jeffreys-Lewis is suing for a divorce. Marriage in her case has proven a failure. She contemplates taking a benefit in the near future, and afterwards proceed to New York to fill an engagement there pending.

Thirty and forty years ago Warren, Chas. Walcott—the elder—and all the old school comedians used to play Golightly. Of later years Joe Jefferson had it pretty much to himself, until it became to be looked upon as his special train of fun. When Nat Goodwin announced that he could play it, everybody said don't. But he did and has made it a success. His Golightly is not so airy and finished as Jefferson's, but it is every bit as funny and exceedingly clever in facial expression.

Mattie Vickers appears in Cherub, a character she made her New York success in, next week at the Alcazar, with new, bright specialties and songs, and that lively comedian, Harry W. Rich, will evoke lots of fun out of Septimus Washington Gill, a lightning-rod agent.

Seeing that Nat Goodwin's houses are full to the doors every night there will be no change in the bill next week at the Bush. Everybody is wanting to see him in Lend Me Five Shillings and Turned Up.

Booth and Barrett produce their Merchant of Venice, famed for its splendid historical scenery and appointments scarcely less than for its superior dramatic presentment, at the California next week. For full cast see extra programme announcement in adjoining column.

The Bush Street Theatre is ahead in the race this week.

Edwin Booth, Stuart Robson and John S. Owens were boys together at Baltimore. Instead of showing a taste for the legitimate drama, their youthful ambitions soared circuseward, and they got into all manner of scrapes in their attempts to properly equip the cellar which formed their ring.

They are telling rather a curious story in England just now. Mr. Walter Ingram, of the Illustrated London News, who, it will be remembered, was killed by an elephant in South Africa, unwound an Egyptian mummy a short time before his death. Inside one of the cloths a tablet was found, and on it an inscription to the effect that the man who profaned the dead would die a violent death within three months of the sacrilegious act, and that his bones would be scattered to the winds of heaven. Within the three months Mr. Walter Ingram met with a violent death in South Africa, and, if his bones were not scattered to the winds, his body met with terrible maltreatment.

Harry Mann, who comes to manage the California, is Manager Hayman's brother. When he went into theatricals he dropped the Hay and picked up an extra n.

Clara Louise Kellogg talks of starting out again and coming West. Don't!

B. C. Barnabee, the Bostonians' comedian, is a New Englander from way back. Unlike the usual enterprising Yankee, he has been a long while in getting to California. Mr. Barnabee will find many friends here, for the down-Easters of years ago all know Barnabee.

The drop curtain of the California is The Return of the Rajah. The Rajah and his kneeling elephant are the principal figures.

The creation of a star is a very costly performance. So, at least, Charles W. Durant has found it. Three years ago he was the happy possessor of $350 000; to-day he owns a diamond ring, a gold watch and a seat in the Stock Exchange. Mr. Durant's bright particular star was Estelle Clayton, and the play in which she starred was The Quick and the Dead. The money went quick and the play is dead.

Ella Jerome who with Charles Jerome, her husband, traveled with Tony Pastor's company, died at Bridgeport, Conn., on Wednesday, aged thirty-five.

Henry Irving has signed a contract to tour this country under Abbey, Schoeffel and Grau's management during the season of 1891.

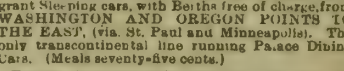
Mrs. D. P. Bowers had a great benefit at Palmer's Theatre, New York, May 9 h. The programme was varied and enjoyable with Florence, Emmet, Maggie Mitchell, Minnie Palmer, Mrs. Bowers, Tommy Russell and the principals of McCaull's Opera Company as participants.

Hope Glenn, the well known concert vocalist is to be married in London to Richard Hord, of Boston.

Fritz Williams, son of Fred Williams, the dramatist, will replace Charles S. Dickson as comedian at the Lyceum, New York, next Fall.

Frederic De Belleville is taking a trip to England. He will return to join Clara Morris' company in August.

Neil Burgess and The Country Fair is to open the season at the Union Square, New



Miss Vickers does two or three German specialties that help her soubrette reputation.

Will S. Rising, the tenor, lately attached the receipts of Vernona Jarbeau's engagement to cover an alleged claim for his share in Starlight, amounting to $6,285. Miss Jarbeau denies this, and asserts that Rising was paid a weekly salary, and that he owes her husband and Manager Jefferson D. Bernstein $1,500.

AMUSEMENTS, ETC.

Leavitt's New Bush Street Theatre.

That mercurial comedian, Nat C. Goodwin, put in his appearance this week in two most amusing pieces. In the first one, "Lend Me Five Shillings" he plays Golightly in his usual bright, vivacious style, and deserves the classification of the N. Y. Herald in the part, as the spontaneous and magnetic comedian." In the three-act farcical comedy of "Turned Up," that concludes the bill, the same journal says of his Bones, "the lean, lank and cadaverous undertaker," that "Goodwin is great all the way through, in enunciation and inflection as well as in action;" and the audiences at the Bush evince their concurrence of the Herald's judgment by their hearty peals of laughter, generous applause and usually hearty recalls of Mr. Goodwin. None of Hoyt's pieces awakened more merriment, or sent audiences in better humor to their homes than does the very amusing bill that Mr. Goodwin and his really clever company appear in. His nervous comicalities, facial expressions and by-play in the complications of the first piece, and his funny make-up, dry humor, and, above all, his inebriated scene in the last, convulse the house with laughter. They are rare specimens of comedy acting and magnetically effective.

Mr. Goodwin is supported by his own company, among whom are Bob Hilliard, one of New York's notabilities, a handsome man and a good actor; particularly good as Geo. Medway in "Turned Up." Messrs. Robert Wilson, J. H. Browne and John Craven are in both casts; Mr. Craven giving a capital impersonation of an English sea-captain in the same comedy.

Miss Lizzie McCall, a handsome woman and an accomplished actress, gives able support in the leading female roles in both pieces. Miss Nanette Comstock, who does double duty credibly, and Misses Marion Earle, Weevie Vivian and Estelle Mortimer complete the well balanced and talented company.

The Examiner says, "The Bush-street Theatre was crowded to its utmost capacity long before the curtain rose, and, so far as could be judged from the reception given Mr. Goodwin's new play, there will be very few empty seats during the engagement."

The house has been full all the week, and the same bill will be retained next week.

For casts see regular programme on first page.

Baldwin Theatre.

The Bostonians English Opera Company opened their season at the Baldwin Tuesday evening in "Pygmalion and Galatea." This company first gained prominence as the Boston Ideals. They have of late years been noted for their complete performances and extensive repertory of English operas.

They give a very enjoyable rendering of their operas, giving due effects to their individual parts in singing and acting and impressing their audiences most favorably with their capabilities in concerted pieces.

The company is evenly strong and well-balanced. Miss Marie Stone has a fine, sweet soprano, and is graceful and of good stage presence. Miss Jessie Bartlett Davis' rich contralto and good acting qualities are well known to San Francisco audiences. Mr. Tom Karl is a tenor robusto of acknowledged excellence, and Mr. Eugene Cowles is a splendid basso. Mr Barnabee is a good comedian and singer. Miss Macondа has a young, fresh voice and her singing is full of light and color. Mr. Edwin W Hoff, the second tenor, has a melodious voice and a fine presence. The second parts are well filled, the chorus strong and well drilled, and their stage groupings are effectively given.

The Musketeers, which had such a fine rendering Wednesday night, will be given to-night.

The following operas will be sung next week:

Monday night, Ambroise Thomas' Mignon, with the three prima donnas in the cast.

Tuesday, Thursday and Saturday evenings, Suppe's comic opera of Fatinitza.

Wednesday and Friday eve'gs, Fra Diavolo.

Saturday matinee, Mignon.

Alcazar Theatre.

Mattie Vickers, a favorite Eastern soubrette actress, made her first San Francisco appearance at the Alcazar this week, in "Jacquine; or, Paste and Diamonds," supported by Harry W. Rich, a clever young comedian, and her own company. Miss Vickers is a soubrette of mercurial temperament who has a lively piece, that gives her an opportunity of presenting some very cleverly personated characterizations and specialties. She is a very capable soubrette star. She sings and dances well; has some very attractive music, and is an actress of decided ability.

Next week, the last of Mattie Vickers' engagement, E. A. Locke's comedy drama will be the attraction, in which that buoyant soubrette appears in a character that bears the euphonious name of the play, Cherub, a character that gives scope for the portrayal of those natural emotions and quick impulses that Mattie Vickers embodies so cleverly. It is in this part that she won her New York success.

New California Theatre.

Manager Hayman opened the New California Theatre Monday with Booth and Barrett as the inaugural attraction. The opening of an elegant new theatre and the appearances of Booth and Barrett will be a marked event in the theatrical annals of this city.

The new house is one of great stage capabilities and is rich and artistic in the design and finish of its auditorium. It is lavishly beautiful.

The play, Othello, had Booth for Iago and Barrett for the dusky Moore—with nightly alternation of characters—two tragedians that the public verdict has placed at the head of their profession; whose great natural gifts years of experience have ripened into the perfection of dramatic impersonations. Certainly the ruling passions of the old tragedy, love, jealousy and revenge, are presented to us for the opening of the California by those accreditably worthy to impersonate the great roles of the play. Manager Hayman has done well to give his new theatre the strongest attraction in the Union for its opening.

The support moves harmoniously along with the play. The company is practically the same as that which supported the tragedians last year, except that Mr. John A. Lane plays Cassio—and plays it notably well too; otherwise there is scarcely a change in the company. Miss Gale gives to Desdemona, feelingly, the qualities of tenderness, pleading and affection, and Miss Kellogg is a good foil as Emilia.

Othello in its mounting and richness of scenery and stage effects is a study. All that art can do has been done for its production.

Othello has its last representation Saturday night, Booth playing Othello and Barrett Iago.

For full cast see programme in FIGARO.

—o—

A grand production of The Merchant of Venice will be the bill next week, which will be marked for its rich beauty of mounting in scenery and costumes, the impersonations of Booth and Barrett and thorough competency of the company.

For cast see extra programme advertisement elsewhere in FIGARO.

Seats can be secured at the box office of the New California for any night next week.

Orpheum Opera House.

The Bunch of Keys Company will give a week's performance of Charley Hoyt's lively farcical comedy at the Orpheum this week with its three pretty Keys girls in all kinds of funny absurdities; with Grimes in his rollicking peculiarities with Teddy as assistant; with Snaggs as the bewildered landlord of the Grand View Hotel, half crazed by the going-ons of the lightning-rod agent, the drummer, the politician, the operatic artistes and the knock-him-out man. Business is very good.

See list of company in programme announcement elsewhere on this page.

Managers Walter & Co. will presen a feast of mirth, wit and music next week in Goodyear, Cook & Dillon's Refined Minstrels, headed by that popular endman and comedian, Chas. W. Goodyear. This company rates as first-class, and brings with it the endorsements of the press all along the road they have traveled in crossing the continent. The company consists of 32 performers, including its specialty artists, ten endmen, eight champion cloggists, etc.

For list of company and outline of programme see extra advertisement elsewhere in FIGARO.

Morosco's Amphitheatre.

Managers Morosco & Byrnes have put in a most complete fireproof partition between the stage and the auditorium, from wall to wall of their big theatre. It is constructed of iron lathings on both sides of the studding. The decorators are just finishing the immense ceiling of the theatre with harmonious panels.

George Turner, a young and popular character actor, appears this week in the sensational drama, The Russian Serf, as Paul Davenant.

Miss Essie Tittel closes her engagement with Morosco this week. She will be missed by the many warm friends and admirers she has gained for herself during her stay at the theatre, and they will all wish her success in her new venture.

Manager Morosco understands the tastes of his patrons. He presents attractive plays with a fully competent company, and the results are satisfactory to both manager and people.

Matinees Sundays, at 2 P. M. Admission, 10 cents. Front reserved seats 10 cents extra.

Next week James Carden makes his first appearance at this theatre in the melodrama, Dead to the World.

The Battle of Vicksburg.

The grand panorama of the Battle of Vicksburg at the Panorama Building, corner of Eddy and Mason streets, is one that no American should fail to see. It gives a grand view of the battle with the conflict at its height on the land and the bombardment from the river with the correct positions of the engaging forces and the proper placement of the ironclads in the bombardment. It is a great painting, and excels the Battle of Waterloo in graphic power and vivid reality. Destruction reigns on every side. The burning buildings, the bursting shells, the desperate charges, the hand-to-hand conflicts, and the dying and wounded, all depict with startling realism one of the hottest conflicts in history.

Open from 9 A. M. to 6 P. M.

Vienna Garden Theatre

Not to take in the Vienna is to miss seeing one of the prettiest rural places in the city, and one that by the good management of Mr. A. Larsen, ably assisted by his director of amusements, Mr. Geo. H. Wood, "the somewhat different comedian," has become one of our most popular family resorts.

The Vienna gave a great programme this week, headed by William Courtright's Comedy, Company, embracing Wm. Courtright, Henry Moore and Miss Freddie Stockmeyer. The other attractions are Imro Fox, Rich'd F. Stahll, Wellington, the Kirbys, Walter and Belle, Dick Turner, Mabel Clifton, Robzart and Miss Bessie Korolan.

Next week, Tommy Warrren & Young Brady, the artistic professors of the glove science, will give nightly exhibitions of their arts; Delaur & Debrimont introduce their French operatic sketches, and Lang's Comiques, Jessie Cogill and Antoinette Bertrand put in new appearances. Billy Courtright and his company, Harry Moore, Miss Freddie Stockmeyer, Robzart and Bob Harrison remain.

George H. Wood's screaming comedy, The Banker's Escapade, has its first production next week.

Bella Union Theatre.

Big Bertha, Little Willie Stanley and Lew Spencer are the new people this week. Big Bertha and Little Willie, in conjunction with Campbell and Nibbe, appear in the laughable comedy, Statue Making and the Can-Can.

Wm. Devere, Conchita, George Drew, Burnell, Ida Howell, Rose Sidell and the Stanley Sisters are still ahead as favorites.

The ladies of the company come in for a full share of the applause and crowd the male contingent very closely.

Friday nights are devoted to amateurs, and some of the novices have shown decided talent, and as they are ambitious they will soon be classed among the professionals.

Hallinan's Cremorne Theatre.

Eight new artists at the Cremorne this week, an avalanche of novelties.

Ned Nestell, the Old Soldier, makes his reappearance after an absence of thirty two weeks; the musical team, Leopold & Fortune; Miss Sadie Fairfield, song and dance artiste; the comedy team, Billadeau & Lysle; the champions, Hennessey & Egan, have been specially engaged to appear in a grand glove contest every evening, in conjunction with the mammoth stock company.

Johnnie Cain, the odd and funny comedian, contributes his specialties in a manner that brings down the house, and the Cremorne plays to large patronage every night in the week.

Friday, May 24th, the Cremorne gives a grand anniversary ball and supper.

Eureka Music Hall.

This is one of the neatest and most popular of our minor theatres. Manager Walterstein runs a very strong company.

Edith Morrison, Laura White, Amy Gottlob Stella Walton, Pearl Iola Ed. Soldene, Chas. Berkeley, Charles Franks and Geo. C. Dunham.

Franks & Dunham present their funny plantation sketch, Fooling the Woman, introducing camp-meeting songs, funny dances, funny situations, etc.

White and Walton in beautiful duets, Berkeley & Howard in their sketch, The Spooney Blacksmith, with anvil accompaniment, and Franks' version of the She Can-Can are the important features of this week's bill.

The favorite Miss Amy Gottlob makes her re-appearance this week.

The Eureka gives a matinee every Sunday.

Sunday, May 19th, fourth annual picnic of the Societa Operata Italiana Di Mutuo Soccorso at Seaside Gardens.

Original Theatre Comique.

The entertainment commences with a few remarks from the Beautiful Black Barristere, with an original grand finale by the company, Charles Morrell with his gripsack full of fun and Tommy Morris in another of his amusing sketches fill in the middle part of the programme.

The Comique presents an entire new bill this week, with songs and afterpiece.

The comical farce-comedy, Scenes in Asphaltum Level, is the interlude act.

The laughable farce, Nonsense, with all the company in the cast, concludes the bill and the evening's fun.

The Comique's company is a strong one. It is a neat, compact minor theatre, and for many years has been a popular one.

The Siege of Sebastopol.

Every performance will be a special one at the Siege of Sebastopol this week, as new specialty features, war incidents and new styles of fireworks will be given at every performance.

Pain's Siege of Sebastopol is a most realistic picture of war. The exhibition occupies the block bounded by Hayes, Baker, Lyon and Fell streets.

The Hayes street cars take you directly to it.

EVENING EDITION

MONDAY.....APRIL 20, 1889

FULL PROGRAMMES of all the Leading Theatre in San Francisco can be found in FIGARO—the only paper that has them.

SPECIALTY SQUIBS.

Goodyear, Cook & Dillon's Minstrels, who appear at the Orpheum to-night, made a fine street parade this morning.

Manager Jack Hallinan, of the Cremorne, and his heavy-weight champion, Peter Jackson, left via the fast 6 30 train, Central Pacific, Saturday for the East.

A shady stage at the Orpheum this week—minstrels.

J. W. Coffey, "the Skeleton Dude" of a New York dime museum, advertised in the papers in the boldest way for a wife, publishing his portrait in the ad. He became an attraction worth $75 per week under contract at Worth's Museum, and Worth said that he was worth it. But he disappeared on the 10th inst. after drawing his week's salary in advance. As the skeleton was persistently sought after by three different women with matrimonial intent, the museum men smelt a marriage without it being performed on the stage; which it was specified in the contract should be a feature of his engagement provided he married. So detectives were set to work and found the Dude Skeleton enjoying his honeymoon at a hotel in Brooklyn, dressed to kill. He had married a widow with a comfortable bank account, and when accosted by the detective Mr. Coffey shook his bony hand at him and said: "I defy them. I am no longer a freak. If I ever come before the public again, it will be as a theatrical manager."

Mr. Phil. J. Stressinger, treasurer of the Orpheum, will leave for the East this week to take the position of advance manager of Wm Muldoon's (the wrestler) show. Mr. Stressinger has won many friends here by his courtesy and business qualifications, and only leaves California to better himself financially.

Rice & Everett returned from Bakersfield Thursday and report that the theatre there is closed.

They have got him. Ben Mowatt, the champion club swinger and juggler, in Goodyear, Cook & Dillon's Minstrels that comes to the Orpheum this week.

Billy Emerson and Frank Lawlor, the Ticket Agent in A Hole in the Ground Co. have signed with the Howard Athenæum Company for next season.

In addition to the regular programme the Cremorne management gives an eight-round glove contest every Tuesday and Friday evening.

Goodyear, Cook & Dillon's Refined Minstrels, a well known Eastern company, open at the Orpheum this week. For particulars see their advertised programme on another page.

The Comique presents an entire new bill this week. Charley Morrell and Tommy Morris contribute excellent specialty turns, and J. H. Burns is good in character parts.

Carlotta Patti proposes to give a series of concerts in New York next September.

Charles Warner's production of Captain Swift at Sydney, Australia, ran only eleven nights. The second night's receipts fell off $500.

Jerome Hopkins' children operas have proved to be very successful in England.

Robert G. Morris' new play A Wife's Sin is to be produced early next season.

Louise Paullin will play the titular role in Adrielle, the new American opera to be produced at the Union Square, New York, June 10.

The Bush Street Theatre is ahead in the histrionic race this heat.

The New York Truth Says: "Next season, and possibly for a term of years afterwards, the Standard Theatre is to be occupied by Nat C. Goodwin in equal partnership with James C. Duff. The Standard is to be turned into a stock theatre for the production of a number of comedies fitted to the methods of Mr. Goodwin. As Nat Goodwin is tired of burlesque and farces, and has plenty of money to suit his ambitions in a higher form of the drama this project will fully enable him to gratify his desire to earn a reputation in pure comedy. But very few of our comedians would wish to sever a test as the Standard Theatre on ... Nat C. Goodwin is one of

PROFESSIONAL PICKINGS.

Fannie Davenport and Melbourne McDowell were married privately in New York May 19th by the Rev. C. H. Eaton. Mrs. Eaton and Miss Davenport's youngest brother and niece were the only witnesses. The couple will probably spend their honeymoon abroad.

Mrs. Charles A. Mendum, daughter of John Drew, the actor, died at Boston Highlands May 17th.

Mr. Owen Feree, advance representative of Powers' Ivy Leaf Co., that opens at the Alcazar Monday next, is in town on business intent.

Miss Sybil Sanderson's triumphant opera debut in Paris is the sensation of the French capitol. She is the daughter of Judge Sanderson and was born in Sacramento about twenty-four years ago. Two years afterwards the family moved to this city, where Sybil was reared and educated. Miss Sanderson is described as "reminding one alternately of Judic and Patti. She has Patti's plump and well rounded figure, a pair of magnificent black eyes and regularly formed features. She has been the victim of the most singular series of misfortunes ever since she came to Paris. The last one was a malignant attack of scarlet fever, but she rose from what promised to be a fatal illness with a voice almost double in volume and strength, and her health is more robust than it has ever been before. Her popularity is very great in Paris." The French papers unanimously compliment Sybil Sanderson, and the glories of Emma Nevada, Marie Van Zandt, and even Emma Eames, as American prima donnas, are paleing before the new star from California.

Mrs. J. C. Williamson, wife of the wealthy Australian manager, returned by the last steamer to visit her sister residing in this city. Mrs. Williamson will be better known to us as Maggie Moore, the favorite soubrette of the old California Theatre, and the wealthy manager of the Island Continent will be better recalled as Jimmy Williamson, its popular comedian. They went to Australia with Sam Smith's "Struck Oil," and laid the foundation of their fortune with it, while poor old Sam delved his life out in some obscure mining claim, unheard of and unknown. His was a strange nature. Modest and retiring and over sensitive, he could not endure city life. He was only happy in the solitude of the mountains, living in some lonely cabin among the mines, digging, like a gopher, in the earth as a precarious miner, and cut off from all communication with the outer world. So Smith passed his life away, and so he must have died, as he has not been heard of for years, though Williamson has tried to reach him by letters and enquiries.

Stutiz' New York Theatre Co. route: Anaconda, Montana, May 20 21-22; Deer Lodge, 23-24 25.

It is wired that the Worcester Theatre, Worcester, Mass., was burned early on the morning of the 16th. The fire was a quick and hot one. Lewis Morrison with his Faust company was playing there, and lost all the splendid appointments, wardrobes and properties of the play. His loss is estimated at $11,000. Morrison, like Paddy Rafferty, seems born to bad luck.

Miss Estelle Mortimer as Mrs. Pannall in "Turned Up," is a dainty little lady as well as a good actress. The old fashioned front piece does not mar her pretty face, but adds an additional charm.

Jeffreys-Lewis is suing for a divorce. Marriage in her case has proven a failure. She contemplates taking a benefit in the near future, and afterwards proceed to New York to fill an engagement there pending.

Thirty and forty years ago Warren, Chas. Walcott—the elder—and all the old school comedians used to play Golightly. Of later years Joe Jefferson had it pretty much to himself, until it became to be looked upon as his special train of fun. When Nat Goodwin announced that he could play it, everybody said don't. But he did and has made it a success. His Golightly is not so airy and finished as Jefferson's, but it is every bit as funny and exceedingly clever in facial expression.

Mattie Vickers appears in Cherub, a character she made her New York success in, this week at the Alcazar, with new, bright specialties and songs, and that lively comedian, Harry W. Rich, will evoke lots of fun out of Septimus Washington Gill, a lightning-rod agent.

Seeing that Nat Goodwin's houses are full to the doors every night there will be no change in the bill this week at the Bush. Everybody is wanting to see him in Lend Me Five Shillings and Turned Up.

Booth and Barrett produce their Merchant of Venice, famed for its splendid historical scenery and appointments scarcely less than for its superior dramatic presentment, at the California this week. For full cast see programme announcement.

Edwin Booth, Stuart Robson and John S. Owens were boys together at Baltimore. Instead of showing a taste for the legitimate drama, their youthful ambitions soared circuswards, and they got into all manner of scrapes in their attempts to properly equip the cellar which formed their ring.

Monsieur Ma Femme is the name of the latest production at the Palais Royal in Paris. It is the tale of a henpecked husband, who conceived the notion of getting a son-in-law vigorous enough to manage his wife. He finds the right man, but before matters can be arranged satisfactorily a number of complications arise, which are more or less amusing, ingenious and indelicate. The piece seems to have made a hit, but would require all sorts of fumigation and disinfection before it could be made serviceable in English.

H. C. Barnabee, the Bostonians' comedian, is a New Englander from way back. Unlike the usual enterprising Yankee, he has been a long while in getting to California. Mr. Barnabee will find many friends here, for the down-Easters of years ago all know Barnabee.

The creation of a star is a very costly performance. So, at least, Charles W. Durant has found it. Three years ago he was the happy possessor of $350 000; to-day he owns a diamond ring, a gold watch and a seat in the Stock Exchange. Mr. Durant's bright particular star was Estelle Clayton, and the play in which she starred was The Quick and the Dead. The money went quick and the play is dead.

Ella Jerome who with Charles Jerome, her husband, traveled with Tony Pastor's company, died at Bridgeport, Conn., on Wednesday, aged thirty-five.

Henry Irving has signed a contract to tour this country under Abbey, Schoeffel and Grau's management during the season of 1891.

Mrs. D. P. Bowers had a great benefit at Palmer's Theatre, New York, May 9th. The programme was varied and enjoyable with Florence, Emmet, Maggie Mitchell, Minnie Palmer, Mrs. Bowers, Tommy Russell and the principals of McCaull's Opera Company as participants.

Hope Glenn, the well known concert vocalist is to be married in London to Richard Hurd, of Boston.

Fritz William, son of Fred Williams, the dramatist, will replace Charles S. Dickson as comedian at the Lyceum, New York, next Fall.

Frederic De Belleville is taking a trio to England. He will return to join Clara Morris' company in August.

Neil Burgess and The Country Fair is to open the season at the Union Square, New York, next September.

Clara Louise Kellogg talks of starting

Miss Vickers does two or three German specialties that help her soubrette reputation.

Will S. Rising, the tenor, lately attached the receipts of Vernona Jarbeau's engagement to cover an alleged claim for his share in Starlight, amounting to $6,285. Miss Jarbeau denies this, and asserts that Rising was paid a weekly salary, and that he owes her husband and Manager Jeffer son D. Bernstein $1,500.

A man died recently in Connecticut who smoked 2,000 herrings a day. If he had quit that bad habit in time and tackled "Seal of North Carolina" Plug Cut he would be alive to-day.

AMUSEMENTS, ETC.

Leavitt's New Bush Street Theatre.

That mercurial comedian, Nat C. Goodwin, is on the rise. Crowded houses demand the continuance of his first week's bill, two most amusing pieces. In the first one, "Lend Me Five Shillings," he plays Golightly in his usual bright, vivacious style, and deserves the classification of the N. Y. Herald in the part, as the "spontaneous and magnetic comedian." In the three-act farcical comedy of "Turned Up," that concludes the bill, the same journal says of his Bones, "the lean, lank and cadaverous undertaker," that "Goodwin is great all the way through, in enunciation and inflection as well as in action;" and the audiences at the Bush evince their concurrence of the Herald's judgment by their hearty peals of laughter, generous applause and usually hearty recalls of Mr. Goodwin. None of Hoyt's pieces awakened more merriment, or sent audiences in better humor to their homes than does the very amusing bill that Mr. Goodwin and his really clever company appear in. His nervous comicalities, facial expressions and by-play in the complications, of the first piece, and his funny make-up, dry humor, and, above all, his inebriated scene in the last, convulse the house with laughter. They are rare specimens of comedy acting and magnetically effective.

Mr. Goodwin is supported by his own company, among whom are Bob Hilliard, one of New York's notabilities, a handsome man and a good actor; particularly good as Geo. Medway in "Turned Up." Messrs. Robert Wilson, J. H. Browne and John Craven are in both casts; Mr. Craven giving a capital impersonation of an English sea-captain in the same comedy.

Miss Lizzie McCall, a handsome woman and an accomplished actress, gives able support in the leading female roles in both pieces. Miss Nanette Comstock, who does double duty creditably, and Misses Marion Earle, Weevie Vivian and Estelle Mortimer complete the well balanced and talented company.

The Examiner says, "The Bush-street Theatre was crowded to its utmost capacity long before the curtain rose, and, so far as could be judged from the reception given Mr. Goodwin's new play, there will be very few empty seats during the engagement." The Examiner was not a false prophet in this case.

For casts see regular programme on first page.

Baldwin Theatre.

The Bostonians English Opera Company are in their second week at the Baldwin.

They give a very enjoyable rendering of their operas, giving due effects to their individual parts in singing and acting and impressing their audiences most favorably with their capabilities in concerted pieces.

The company is evenly strong and well-balanced. Miss Marie Stone has a fine, sweet soprano, and is graceful and of good stage presence. Miss Jessie Bartlett Davis' rich contralto and good acting qualities are well known to San Francisco audiences. Mr. Tom Karl is a tenor robusto of acknowledged excellence, and Mr. Eugene Cowles is a splendid basso. Mr Barnabee is a good comedian and singer. Miss Macondа has a young, fresh voice and her singing is full of light and color. Mr. Edwin W. Hoff, the second tenor, has a melodious voice and a fine presence. The second parts are well filled, the chorus strong and well drilled, and their stage groupings are effectively given.

The following operas will be sung this week:

This evening, Ambroise Thomas' Mignon, with the three prima donnas in the cast.

Tuesday, Thursday and Saturday evenings, Suppe's comic opera of Fatinitza.

Wednesday and Friday eve'gs, Fra Diavolo.

Saturday matinee, Mignon.

Alcazar Theatre.

This week, the last of Mattie Vickers' engagement, F. A. Locke's comedy drama will be the attraction, in which that buoyant soubrette appears in a character that bears the euphonious name of the play, Cherub, a character that gives scope for the portrayal of those natural emotions and quick impulses that Mattie Vickers embodies so cleverly. It is in this part that she won her New York success. The comedy also gives her an opportunity of presenting some very cleverly personated characterizations and specialties. She is a very capable soubrette star. She sings and dances well; has some very attractive music, and is an actress of decided ability.

Miss Vickers is ably supported by Harry W. Rich, a clever young comedian, and her own company

—o—

Monday next, W. H. Powers' Company begin an engagement of one week at the Alcazar, presenting the picturesque Irish drama, "The Ivy Leaf." The company is one of unusual [illegible] and includes a specialty of trained the beautiful scenery—a car-load being used to illustrate the play, giving exact reproductions of historical places in Ireland where the action of the play occurs.

"The Ivy Leaf" is a wholesome, clean idyl of Irish love, Irish patriotism and Irish fidelity, framed fittingly in the fair scenery of the Killarney Lakes. It deals with the bright side of the Irish character. It is free from all political interest, and has no evictions, no poverty or distress, or overdrawn pictures of Ireland's woes. Several years of success has stamped "The Ivy Leaf" as a model Irish drama.

New California Theatre.

Booth and Barrett are in the second week of their farewell engagement here.

A grand production of The Merchant of Venice will be the bill this week, which will be marked for its rich beauty of mounting in scenery and costumes, the impersonations of Booth and Barrett and thorough competency of the company.

For full cast see programme in FIGARO.

Seats can be secured at the box office of the New California for any night this week.

Orpheum Opera House.

Managers Walter & Co. will presen a feast of mirth, wit and music this week in Goodyear, Cook & Dillon's Refined Minstrels, headed by that popular endman and comedian, Chas. W. Goodyear. This company rates as first-class, and brings with it the endorsements of the press all along the road they have traveled in crossing the continent. The company consists of 32 performers, including its specialty artists, ten endmen, eight champion cloggists, etc.

See list of company in programme announcement elsewhere on this page.

The Battle of Vicksburg.

The grand panorama of the Battle of Vicksburg at the Panorama Building, corner of Eddy and Mason streets, is one that no American should fail to see. It gives a grand view of the battle with the conflict at its height on the land and the bombardment from the river with the correct positions of the engaging forces and the proper placement of the ironclads in the bombardment. It is a great painting, and excels the Battle of Waterloo in graphic power and vivid reality. Destruction reigns on every side. The burning buildings, the bursting shells, the desperate charges, the hand-to-hand conflicts, and the dying and wounded, all depict with startling realism one of the hottest conflicts in history.

Open from 9 A. M. to 6 P. M.

Morosco's Amphitheatre.

Managers Morosco & Byrnes have put in a most complete fireproof partition between the stage and the auditorium, from wall to wall of their big theatre. It is constructed of iron lathings on both sides of the studding. The decoratore are just finishing the immense ceiling of the theatre with harmonious panels.

This week James Carden makes his first appearance at this theatre in the melodrama, Dead to the World.

Mr. Carden is an actor of unusual merit. His reading is clear and his manner quite impressive. This is his first appearance on the South side and there is no doubt he will become a favorite.

Miss Claudia Barto, the new leading lady, makes her first appearance as Ruby Branden.

Manager Morosco understands the tastes of his patrons. He presents attractive plays with a fully competent company, and the results are satisfactory to both manager and people.

Matinees Sundays, at 2 P. M. Admission, 10 cents. Front reserved seats 10 cents extra.

Vienna Garden Theatre

Not to take in the Vienna is to miss seeing one of the prettiest rural places in the city, and one that by the good management of Mr. A. Larsen, ably assisted by his director of amusements, Mr. Geo. H. Wood, "the somewhat different comedian," has become one of our most popular family resorts.

This week, Tommy Warrren & Young Brady, the artistic professors of the glove science, will give nightly exhibitions of their arts; Delaur & Debrimont introduce their French operatic sketches, and Lang's Comiques, Jessie Cogill and Antoinette Bertrand put in new appearances. Billy Courtright and his company, Harry Moore, Miss Freddie Stockmeyer, Robzart and Bob Harrison remain.

George H. Wood's screaming comedy, The Banker's Escapade, has its first production this week.

Business is steadily good at this commodious gothic cottage embosomed among the trees.

Prices, 10 and 20 cents.

Bella Union Theatre.

The new stars this week are J. J. Billadeau, Rose Lysle, Fitz & Devine and Wm. McPherson.

Billadeau's laughable comedy, Four Married Men, commences the performance every evening.

J. J. Billadeau takes the stage management this week and Prof. Sorg ably conducts the orchestra.

The ladies of the company come in for a full share of the applause and crowd the male contingent very closely.

Friday nights are devoted to amateurs, and some of the novices have shown decided talent, and as they are ambitious they will soon be classed among the professionals.

Hallinan's Cremorne Theatre.

Hopper & Hall, Ida Grayson and Lang & Sharpe put in first appearances this week.

Ned Nestell, the Old Soldier, has gone back into harness and is managing the stage in his usual manner, making himself a favorite with all.

The musical team, Leopold and Portune; Miss Sadie Fairfield, song and dance artiste, remain this week.

Every Tuesday and Friday evenings, George Mulholland and Jack King will engage in a six-round contest.

Ned Nestell's sensational drama in two acts, The Blacksmith's Vow, will be given every evening.

Johnnie Cain, the odd and funny comedian, contributes his specialties in a manner that brings down the house, and the Cremorne plays to large patronage every night in the week.

Original Theatre Comique.

The Comique presents an entire new bill this week, with songs and afterpiece. Numerous new novelties are produced by the various artists every evening and especial attention is paid to the first part.

This week the entertainment begins with selections by the entire company. Miss Stella Marion makes her first appearance in charming songs, Charles Morrell has new banjo songs, and Tommy Morris has another new specialty for the entertainment of the Comique's patrons.

The comical farce-comedy, The Serenaders, is the interlude act.

The laughable farce, The Last Train, with all the company in the cast, concludes the bill and the evening's fun.

The Comique's company is a strong one. It is a neat, compact minor theatre, and for many years has been a popular one.

Eureka Music Hall.

This is one of the neatest and most popular of our minor theatres. Manager Walterstein runs a very strong company.

Lillie Mason, Laura White, Amy Gottlob Stella Walton, Pearl Iola Ed. Soldene, Chas. Berkeley, Fred Gottlob and Geo. C. Dunham.

White and Walton in beautiful duets, Berkeley & Howard in their nautical sketch, A Life on the Ocean Wave, and Franks' version of the She Can-Can are the important features of this week's bill.

George Dunham in his aged darkey impersonations, the Gottlobs in favorite sketches and Ed. Soldene's specialties are some of the important features of the week's bill.

The Eureka gives a matinee every Sunday.

Sunday, May 26th, fourth annual picnic of the Arial Social Club at Seaside Gardens.

The Siege of Sebastopol.

Every performance will be a special one at the Siege of Sebastopol this week, as new specialty features, war incidents and new styles of fireworks will be given at every performance.

Pain's Siege of Sebastopol is a most realistic picture of war. The exhibition occupies the block bounded by Hayes, Baker, Lyon and Fell streets.

The Hayes street cars take you directly to it.

When the assault begins fire opens all along the line, and as the battle rages the noise of explosives, the blowing up of forts and the great flashes of flames become thrillingly exciting.

After the burning of the city comes the pyrotechnic pean of victory, Here is where Messrs. Pain of London, the getters up of the exhibition, who supply the British Navy with all their signal rockets, bombs, etc., and furnish all the fireworks for the royal celebrations excel. Flights of rockets and bombs fill the air, sending down showers of gold and silver: the lake becomes alive with fiery fountains, and its far shore with meteoric fireworks and standing pieces, forming at every performance the best pyrotechnical display and one of the most bounteous ever given in San Francisco.

Performances given Tuesday, Thursday and Saturday evenings. The intervening time will be required to repair the damages of the bombardment and replace the $1,000 worth of pyrotechnics used at every performance.

Numbered reserved seats on sale at Sherman, Clay & Co.'s music store, and at the newsstands in the principal hotels.

Edwin Hoff is the other tenor of the Bostonians, and the beauty of the company.

BUFFALO BILL IN FRANCE.

Buffalo Bill's Wild West Show was opened at Neuilly, Paris, on Saturday last with great galore. The telegraph tells us that there was seating accommodation for 12 000, and that standing room was in demand. President Carnot and Citizeness Carnot, General Brugure and many other dignitaries, including the Mayor of Neuilly, were present. It was something to be proud of. We are told that the Presidential party were taken behind the scenes where the "Indians" were ready for action. That President Carnot examined them with interest and asked questions, through an interpreter, respecting the mode of living of "the inhabitants."

"The American flag, carried around by an old Indian fighter, elicited hearty rounds of applause, and then the show began."

The audience enthused over "the marvelous riding of the Indians and cowboys. Miss Annie Oakley came in for cheers as she shot glass balls that were thrown into the air. The attack on the caravan of emigrants, and that on the Deadwood coach, were witnessed with immense interest by the spectators Many of the French portion had never seen such a realistic performance before," and the President "continually asked U. S. Minister McLane for explanations of certain details which he did not quite understand." We sincerely regret that those explanations were not telegraphed.

Major Burke, the general manager (who will be remembered here as Frank Mortimer's business manager when he came here as a star with his nautical drama), was in his glory, doubtlessly, "while explaining to an Italian journalist who understood but little French that the object of the show was not to present a circus performance, but to give a true picture of American frontier life with real characters who had played a part in the history of a portion of the American continent which would soon be a thing of the past." We must admit that this is a little ambiguous as to whether the Major meant that the picture, the history, or a portion of the American continent would soon be a thing of the past. He has been telegraphed to in regard to the item, and we may have his answer in time for to-morrow's issue.

The account closes by stating that "Richmond, the orator, explained the performance in capital French, and, as the whole troupe defiled before the President, the names of the chiefs were announced by the orator. Last, but not least, came Buffalo Bill. He rode like the wind on a beautiful gray mustang, and stopped in splendid fashion before the President's box to salute."

What need have we of a navy to carry our flag to the contracted little ports of the Old World as a national symbol while we have Buffalo Bill and his great show to bear it to the very capitols of Europe encircled in a halo of brave achievements and national glory?

THE THEATRICAL MECHANICS' ASSOCIATION.

The following officers of the Theatrical Mechanics' Association, Lodge No. 21, were installed on Saturday evening in the Alcazar Building: James J. Blaikie, president; F. D. Dodge, vice-president; F. C. McLeod, recording secretary; S. J. Ryan, financial secretary; Frank Marcus, treasurer; trustees—James Lang John Wilson, John Morrissey, S. I. Simmons and William Dove.

The association is made up of stage machinists, carpenters, etc, men who do so much for the success of pieces behind the scenes, and are never seen in front except when caught in a slide. After the "theatre was over" the members and invited guests sat down to a real banquet—not a property one—in the Alcazar Building, with plates for 200. Although the society is small the spread was notably a big one. Sociability, toasts, responses, and music rendered under the

PROFESSIONAL PICKINGS.

A London dispatch says: "As a result of the absolute divorce granted to Mrs. Agnes Boucicault from Dion Boucicault and his failure to pay the awarded alimony, the court has ordered the sheriff to sell the English copyrights of nineteen of Boucicault's plays and turn over the proceeds to his former wife." The fates are dramatically setting events to rights in Boucicault's career. It is in the last act of his life's drama, and "Retribution" is at work winding things up bitterly for the old transgressor. He has estranged his children from him, that should have stood by his side with pride in his declining years. He has heartlessly wronged the mother that bore them to him. His revenues have passed from him to benefit her, leaving him without home or money. His real-life play approaches its end, and its curtain is ready to fall.

Matt Morgan, chief artist for Frank Leslie's Illustrated Paper and Once a Week, arrived here last night from New York. He has been engaged to paint the scenes for the "Last Days of Pompeii," the story of which is so graphically told by Bulwer. The picture is to be a gigantic affair and is to be exhibited at Central Park the last of June. He painted the famous drop curtain for the Walnut St. Theatre, Philadelphia.

The curtain here, to illustrate Mount Vesuvius alone, will be 300 feet long. Besides this probably four times as much canvas will have to be used to illustrate the bacchanalian banquet and murder scenes, with a view of the temple, amphitheatre, earthquake and lava overflow. The stage will be 140 feet long and 100 deep—the largest in the world—being forty feet larger than that of La Scala in Milan.

Booth and Barrett have abandoned their idea of playing in Portland and in the Montana circuit. They will make their last appearances together at the California Theatre, and close their season here. They will take their company East, as per contract with them, for disbandment. Many of the stock have been engaged by Mr. Barrett for his company next season.

Fannie Davenport and Melbourne McDowell were married privately in New York May 19th by the Rev. C. H. Eaton. Mrs. Eaton and Miss Davenport's youngest brother and niece were the only witnesses. The couple will probably spend their honeymoon abroad.

Mrs. Charles A. Mendum, daughter of John Drew, the actor, died at Boston Highlands May 17th.

Miss Estelle Mortimer as Mrs. Pannall in "Turned Up," is a dainty little lady as well as a good actress. The old fashioned front piece does not mar her pretty face, but adds an additional charm.

Mrs. J. C. Williamson, wife of the wealthy Australian manager, returned by the last steamer to visit her sister residing in this city. Mrs. Williamson will be better known to us as Maggie Moore, the favorite soubrette of the old California Theatre, and the wealthy manager of the Island Continent will be better recalled as Jimmy Williamson, its popular comedian. They went to Australia with Sam Smith's "Struck Oil," and laid the foundation of their fortune with it, while poor old Sam delved his life out in some obscure mining claim, unheard of and unknown. His was a strange nature. Modest and retiring and over sensitive, he could not endure city life. He was only happy in the solitude of the mountains, living in some lonely cabin among the mines, digging, like a gopher, in the earth as a precarious miner, and cut off from all communication with the outer world. So Smith passed his life away, and so he must have died, as he has not been heard of for years, though Williamson has tried to reach him by letters and enquiries.

Jeffreys-Lewis is suing for a divorce. Marriage in her case has proven a failure. She contemplates taking a benefit in the near future, and afterwards proceed to New York to fill an engagement there pending.

Mattie Vickers appears in Cherub, a character she made her New York success in, this week at the Alcazar, with new, bright specialties and songs, and that lively comedian, Harry W. Rich, will evoke lots of fun out of Septimus Washington Gill, a lightning-rod agent.

Seeing that Nat Goodwin's houses are full to the doors every night there will be no change in the bill this week at the Bush. Everybody is wanting to see him in Lend Me Five Shillings and Turned Up.

Booth and Barrett produce their Merchant of Venice, famed for its splendid historical scenery and appointments scarcely less than for its superior dramatic presentment, at the California this week. For full cast see programme announcement.

The New York Truth Says: "Next season, and possibly for a term of years afterwards, the Standard Theatre is to be occupied by Nat C. Goodwin in equal partnership with James C. Duff. The Standard is to be turned into a stock theatre for the production of a number of comedies fitted to the methods of Mr. Goodwin. As Nat Goodwin is tired of burlesque and farces, and has plenty of money to suit his ambitions in a higher form of the drama this project will fully enable him to gratify his desire to earn a reputation in pure comedy. But very few of our comedians would wish so severe a test as the Standard Theatre on their abilities. Nat C. Goodwin is one of the most popular players of the day. If he comes out of his experience at Duff's Theatre with success, his laurels will be as secure as those of Jefferson. This was understood to be the outlook of things yesterday, but a New York dispatch to-day says: — "Henry Dixey, the actor, will travel no more. His arrangements were closed to-day, by which he will henceforth make the Standard Theatre the home of burlesque, opening with a new piece. Mr.

The Pacific Kennel Club hold their second annual bench show at the Mechanics' Pavilion, May 22-23 24-25 The classes entered include mastiffs, St. Bernards, Newfoundlands, Great Danes, deerhounds, greyhounds, English foxhounds, American foxhounds, English setters, fifteen classes of terriers, toy spaniels, pugs, Italian greyhounds, poodles, Spitz, Esquimaux and several others. Among the above are to be found winners of prizes on every bench in the country and the majority of the prize-winners of last year's kennel show. Bobby Vint, the pedestrian, has his rough-coated St. Bernard, Rover Frisco, entered, and is confident of carrying off a prize. In connection with the bench show there will be an exhibition of poultry from the best breeding establishments in the state.

FIGARO is the Official Journal of all the Leading Theatres in San Francisco, and the only paper that publishes their full programmes.

AMUSEMENTS, ETC.

Leavitt's New Bush Street Theatre.

That mercurial comedian, Nat C. Goodwin, is on the rise. Crowded houses demand the continuance of his first week's bill, two most amusing pieces. In the first one, "Lend Me Five Shillings," he plays Golightly in his usual bright, vivacious style, and deserves the classification of the N. Y. Herald in the part, as the "spontaneous and magnetic comedian." In the three act farcical comedy of "Turned Up," that concludes the bill, the same journal says of his Bones, "the lean, lank and cadaverous undertaker" that Goodwin is great all the way through, in enunciation and inflection as well as in action," and the audiences at the Bush evince their concurrence of the Herald's judgment by their hearty peals of laughter, generous applause and usually hearty recalls of Mr. Goodwin. None of Hoyt's pieces awakened more merriment or sent audiences in better humor to their homes than does the very amusing bill that Mr Goodwin and his really clever company appear in. His nervous comicalities, facial expressions and by-play in the complications of the first piece, and his funny make-up, dry humor, and, above all, his inebriated scene in the last, convulse the house with laughter. They are rare specimens of comedy acting and magnetically effective.

Mr. Goodwin is supported by his own company, among whom are Bob Hilliard, one of New York's notabilities, a handsome man and a good actor; particularly good as Geo. Medway in "Turned Up." Messrs. Robert Wilson, J. H. Browne and John Craven are in both casts; Mr. Craven giving a capital impersonation of an English sea-captain in the same comedy.

Miss Lizzie McCall, a handsome woman and an accomplished actress, gives able support in the leading female roles in both pieces. Miss Nanette Comstock, who does double duty creditably, and Misses Marion Earle, Weevie Vivian and Estelle Mortimer complete the well balanced and talented company.

The Examiner says, "The Bush-street Theatre was crowded to its utmost capacity long before the curtain rose, and, so far as could be judged from the reception given Mr. Goodwin's new play, there will be very few empty seats during the engagement." The Examiner was not a false prophet in this case.

For casts see regular programme on first page.

Baldwin Theatre.

The Bostonians English Opera Company are in their second week at the Baldwin.

They give a very enjoyable rendering of their operas, giving due effects to their individual parts in singing and acting and impressing their audiences most favorably with their capabilities in concerted pieces.

The company is evenly strong and well-balanced. Miss Marie Stone has a fine, sweet soprano, and is graceful and of good stage presence. Miss Jessie Bartlett Davis' rich contralto and good acting qualities are well known to San Francisco audiences. Mr. Tom Karl is a tenor robusto of acknowledged excellence, and Mr. Eugene Cowles is a splendid basso. Mr Barnabee is a good comedian and singer. Miss Macondа has a young, fresh voice and her singing is full of light and color, and Miss Juliette Corden sings with taste and expression. Mr E. W. Hoff, the second tenor, has a melodious voice and a fine presence. The second parts are well filled, the chorus strong and well drilled, and their stage groupings are effectively given.

Mignon had a capital rendering, with the three prima donnas in the cast, Monday evening, and will be repeated for the matinee on Saturday.

The following operas will be sung this week:

Tuesday, Thursday and Saturday evenings, Suppe's comic opera of Fatinitza.

Wednesday and Friday eve'gs, Fra Diavolo.

Saturday matinee, Mignon.

Alcazar Theatre.

This week the last of Mattie Vickers' engagement, E. A. Locke's comedy drama will be the attraction, in which that buoyant soubrette appears in a character that bears the euphonious name of the play. Cherub, a character that gives scope for the portrayal of those natural emotions and quick impulses that Mattie Vickers embodies so cleverly. It is in this part that she won her New York success. The comedy also gives her an opportunity of presenting some very cleverly personated characterizations and specialties. She is a very capable soubrette star. She sings and dances well; has some very attractive music, and is an actress of decided ability.

Miss Vickers is ably supported by Harry W. Rich, a clever young comedian, and her own company

—o—

Monday next, W. H. Powers' Company begin an engagement of one week at the Alcazar.

excellence and includes a quartette of trained voices, a corps of dancers, and a genuine Irish bag-piper. A feature of the production will be the beautiful scenery—a car-load being used to illustrate the play, giving exact reproductions of historical places in Ireland where the action of the play occurs.

"The Ivy Leaf" is a wholesome, clean idyl of Irish love, Irish patriotism and Irish fidelity, framed fittingly in the fair scenery of the Killarney Lakes. It deals with the bright side of the Irish character. It is free from all political interest, and has no evictions, no poverty or distress, or overdrawn pictures of Ireland's woes. Several years of success has stamped "The Ivy Leaf" as a model Irish drama.

New California Theatre.

Booth and Barrett are in the second week of their farewell engagement here.

A grand production of The Merchant of Venice will be the bill this week, which is marked for its rich beauty of mounting in scenery and costumes, the impersonations of Booth and Barrett and thorough competency of the company. Booth is grand as Shylock, and embodies the character as only he can. To see him in Shylock is to see the best living personation of the part on the stage. The same may be said of Barrett's Bassanio. In reading and action he lifts the character to unwonted prominence. Messrs. Vroom, Lane and Hanley are notably good as Antonio, Gratiano and Lorenzo, respectively. Miss Minna Gale is especially strong as Portia and the whole cast is effective. The play is given with its full meaning and intent carefully and intelligently expressed all through, from its greatest to its minor characters.

The scenes of "The Merchant of Venice" are marvels of stage settings and the painters' art. You see the built-up counterparts of the famed Venitian palaces, with the famous bridge, high enough for the gondoliers on the Grand Canal to pass under it. Exact representations of the Palaces of the Doges, the Lion on St. Mark, and one of the Council Chambers in the Ducal Palace, form portions of the scenery created from local studies and plans. The home of Shylock and the rich set of Portia's Palace with its domed ceilings, are other specimens of the painters' art. To see the play really make Venice and its picturesque beauties quite accessible without crossing a continent and the Atlantic to see its fading wonders

For full cast see programme in FIGARO.

Seats can be secured at the box office of the New California for any night this week.

Orpheum Opera House.

Managers Walter & Co. present a feast of mirth, wit and music this week in Goodyear, Cook & Dillon's Refined Minstrels, headed by that popular endman and comedian, Chas. W. Goodyear. This company rates as first class, and brings with it the endorsements of the press all along the road they have traveled in crossing the continent. The company consists of 32 performers, including its specialty artists, ten endmen, eight champion cloggists, etc., and really give an unusually good performance all through. Ben Mowatt does the quickest, easiest and best club-swinging ever seen here. Goodyear, Edwards and Green are undisputably funny. Ellsworth Cook is a remarkable soprano singer. Welby and Pearl are clever in sketch and acts; the three Nichols Brothers are graceful dancers and tuneful banjoists. The afterpiece is funny.

See list of company in programme announcement elsewhere on this page.

The Battle of Vicksburg.

The grand panorama of the Battle of Vicksburg at the Panorama Building, corner of Eddy and Mason streets, is one that no American should fail to see. It gives a grand view of the battle with the conflict at its height on the land and the bombardment from the river with the correct positions of the engaging forces and the proper placement of the ironclads in the bombardment. It is a great painting, and excels the Battle of Waterloo in graphic power and vivid reality. Destruction reigns on every side. The burning buildings, the bursting shells, the desperate charges, the hand-to-hand conflicts, and the dying and wounded, all depict with startling realism one of the hottest conflicts in history.

Open from 9 A. M. to 6 P. M.

Morosco's Amphitheatre.

Managers Morosco & Byrnes have put in a most complete fireproof partition between the stage and the auditorium, from wall to wall of their big theatre. It is constructed of iron lathings on both sides of the studding. The decorators are just finishing the immense ceiling of the theatre with harmonious panels.

This week James Carden makes his first appearance at this theatre in the melodrama, Dead to the World

Mr. Carden is an actor of unusual merit. His reading is clear and his manner quite impressive. This is his first appearance on the South side and there is no doubt he will become a favorite.

Miss Claudia Barto, the new leading lady, makes her first appearance as Ruby Branden.

Manager Morosco understands the tastes of his patrons. He presents attractive plays with a fully competent company, and the results are satisfactory to both manager and people.

Matinees Sundays, at 2 P. M. Admission, 10 cents. Front reserved seats 10 cents extra.

Vienna Garden Theatre

Not to take in the Vienna is to miss seeing one of the prettiest rural places in the city, and one that by the good management of Mr. A. Larsen, ably assisted by his director of amusements, Mr. Geo. H. Wood, "the somewhat different comedian," has become one of our most popular family resorts.

This week Tommy Warren & Young Brady, the artistic professors of the glove science, will give nightly exhibitions of their arts; Delaur & Debrimont introduce their French operatic sketches, and Lang's Comiques, Jessie Cogill and Antoinette Bertrand put in new appearances. Billy Courtright and his company, Harry Moore, Miss Freddie Stockmeyer, Robsart and Bob Harrison remain.

George H. Wood's screaming comedy, The Banker's Escapade, has its first production this week

Bella Union Theatre.

The new stars this week are J. J. Billadeau, Rose Lysle, Fitz & Devine and Wm. McPherson.

Billadeau's laughable comedy, Four Married Men, commences the performance every evening.

J. J. Billadeau takes the stage management this week and Prof. Sorg ably conducts the orchestra.

The ladies of the company come in for a full share of the applause and crowd the male contingent very closely.

Friday nights are devoted to amateurs, and some of the novices have shown decided talent, and as they are ambitious they will soon be classed among the professionals.

Hallinan's Cremorne Theatre.

Hopper & Hall, Ida Grayson and Lang & Sharpe put in first appearances this week.

Ned Nestell, the Old Soldier, has gone back into harness and is managing the stage in his usual manner, making himself a favorite with all.

The musical team, Leopold and Fortune; Miss Sadie Fairfield, song and dance artiste remain this week.

Every Tuesday and Friday evenings, George Mulholland and Jack King will engage in a six-round contest.

Ned Nestell's sensational drama in two acts, The Blacksmith's Vow, will be given every evening.

Johnnie Cain, the odd and funny comedian, contributes his specialties in a manner that brings down the house, and the Cremorne plays to large patronage every night in the week.

Friday, May 24th, the Cremorne gives a grand anniversary ball and supper.

Original Theatre Comique.

The Comique presents an entire new bill this week, with songs and afterpiece. Numerous new novelties are produced by the various artists every evening and especial attention is paid to the first part.

This week the entertainment begins with selections by the entire company. Miss Stella Marion makes her first appearance in charming songs, Charles Morrell has new banjo songs, and Tommy Morris has another new specialty for the entertainment of the Comique's patrons.

The comical farce-comedy, The Serenaders, is the interlude act.

The laughable farce, The Last Train, with all the company in the cast, concludes the bill and the evening's fun.

The Comique's company is a strong one. It is a neat, compact minor theatre, and for many years has been a popular one.

Eureka Music Hall.

This is one of the neatest and most popular of our minor theatres. Manager Walterstein runs a very strong company.

Lillie Mason, Laura White, Amy Gottlob Stella Walton, Pearl Iola Ed. Soldene, Chas. Berkeley, Fred Gottlob and Geo. C. Dunham.

White and Walton in beautiful duets, Berkeley & Howard in their nautical sketch, A Life on the Ocean Wave, and Franks' version of the She Can-Can are the important features of this week's bill.

George Dunham in his aged darkey impersonations, the Gottlobs in favorite sketches and Ed. Soldene's specialties are some of the important features of the week's bill.

The Eureka gives a matinee every Sunday.

fireworks will be given at every performance.

Pain's Siege of Sebastopol is a most realistic picture of war. The exhibition occupies the block bounded by Hayes, Baker, Lyon and Fell streets.

The Hayes street cars take you directly to it.

When the assault begins fire opens all along the line, and as the battle rages the noise of explosives, the blowing up of forts and the great flashes of flames become thrillingly exciting.

After the burning of the city comes the pyrotechnic peal of victory. Here is where Messrs. Pain of London, the getters up of the exhibition, who supply the British Navy with all their signal rockets, bombs, etc., and furnish all the fireworks for the royal celebrations excel. Flights of rockets and bombs fill the air, sending down showers of gold and silver; the lake becomes alive with fiery fountains, and its far shore with

PROFESSIONAL PICKINGS.

They are all in love with it—our climate. Every professional gives it a lift. Nat Goodwin says: "I have done very well since I have been in California, very well, indeed. Played to big houses, of course, but what vitalized ozone you have. It's wonderful! Why, I wasn't in San Francisco a week when I was made a father in Chicago. Fact, I assure you. It is all owing to your climate! Was wired the fact, sir, by Mrs. Goodwin. Boy, nine pound, bless him! Take something?"

In an extra programme advertisement of the California Theatre elsewhere in our columns will be found the cast of the Booth and Barrett "Julius Cæsar," the bill for Monday and Tuesday nights of next week.

It is telegraphed that Wilson Barrett had a big farewell at the Princess Theatre, London, on the 18th. At the close of the performance the stage was showered with flowers, and Barrett made a speech in which he said he would come back at the end of next year and build a new theatre of his own. This engagement has been a very profitable one to Barrett. The play was "Ben Machree," which he will produce on a grand scale during his American tour.

The wires set down on John Coleman's new play produced at the Olympic Theatre, London, on the 18th, "The Silent Witness," and say it was a poor specimen of the Bowery drama, and was lustily guyed.

W. J. Scanlan is meeting a big success in Ireland. He closed the season at Cork last week, and opens in Belfast this week.

Manager Harris opened his Covent Garden, London, opera season on the 18th with Ella Russell, an American prima donna, as Lelia in "Ipescatori di Perle." She got a great reception from a brilliant house. Royalty was present. Nordica is rehearsing Eva in the "Meistersinger," and will make her appearance later on.

Minnie Hauck and Manager Harris could not come to terms on a London engagement. So Minnie has gone back to her wigwam in Switzerland.

The wires tell us that Mapleson ("Col. Mapes") has postponed the opening of his Drury Lane, London, season until June 1st, with the object of trying to arrange with Albani, now due in London. Mapes gives out that he has a good angel by his side with plenty of money to back him in an opposition opera season to Manager Harris. The Singer "machine" family of sewing machine luck are said to be in his support.

Modjeska's long rest has done her good. She will do no work at all prior to appearing with Booth.

Edwin Booth was the Raphael in the first production of The Marble Heart in San Francisco.

A new scenic effect is given in the Merchant of Venice at the California when Lorenzo escapes with Jessica in a gondola, sailing under the bridge that spans the Grand Canal, and out of sight of the audience.

The Report makes itself happy that, "Nat Goodwin has brought us the best-looking set of people of any since the Madison Square importation. This sort of attention we appreciate, especially when in addition they can all act."

The Baldwin Theatre staff are at work on the scenery for the forthcoming engagement of the Lyceum Theatre Company, who will present The Wife, Sweet Lavender, and The Marquise.

The bridge in the Merchant of Venice is a beautiful structure, the span being so high that the gondoliers paddle under it standing erect in their gondolas.

Letters from Rudolfy Kiralfy, now in Italy, indicate that his opening spectacle at Niblo's, New York, in August will be a gigantic production.

The two weeks of German opera given by the Metropolitan company has terminated with a loss of $2 000.

Julia Valda, Ella Russel, Marie Van Zandt and Marie Furst-Mahl, all American singers, will be principals of the impending Italian opera season at Covent Garden, London.

The recently burned Windsor Theatre, Kate Castleton and husband, Mr. Phillips, were present at the Alcazar last evening. They have just returned from an extended season East, and are resting now at "home" over in Oakland, where the mother and a young sister of Kate's reside. The young lady, Miss Ada Freeman, who strongly resembles her sister in appearance, will make her professional debut shortly.

Good houses at the theatres last night all around.

Count and Countess Bozenta, Mme. Modjeska, occupied a box at the California last evening, and enjoyed the performance of "The Merchant of Venice." Modjeska is looking in enviable health, and is here for the purpose of making preliminary arrangements to assume her position as joint star with Booth next season.

Louis Imhaus will put on A Tour of the World in Eighty Days at the Alcazar in about three weeks. The piece will be presented with the fine stage settings and scenery, for which the Alcazar management are becoming famous.

A London dispatch says: "As a result of the absolute divorce granted to Mrs. Agnes Boucicault from Dion Boucicault and his failure to pay the awarded alimony, the court has ordered the sheriff to sell the English copyrights of nineteen of Boucicault's plays and turn over the proceeds to his former wife." The fates are dramatically settling events to rights in Boucicault's career. It is in the last act of his life's drama, and "Retribution" is at work winding things up bitterly for the old transegressor. He has estranged his children from him, that should have stood by his side with pride in his declining years. He has heartlessly wronged the mother that bore them to him. His revenues have passed from him to benefit her, leaving him without home or money. His real-life play approaches its end, and its curtain is ready to fall.

Matt Morgan, chief artist for Frank Leslie's Illustrated Paper and Once a Week, arrived here last night from New York. He has been engaged to paint the scenes for the "Last Days of Pompeii," the story of which is so graphically told by Bulwer. The picture is to be a gigantic affair and is to be exhibited at Central Park the last of June. He painted the famous drop curtain for the Walnut St. Theatre, Philadelphia.

The curtain here, to illustrate Mount Vesuvius alone, will be 300 feet long. Besides this probably four times as much canvas will have to be used to illustrate the bacchanalian banquet and murder scenes, with a view of the temple, amphitheatre, earthquake and lava overflow. The stage will be 140 feet long and 100 deep—the largest in the world—being forty feet larger than that of La Scala in Milan.

Booth and Barrett have abandoned their idea of playing in Portland and in the Montana circuit. They will make their last appearances together at the California Theatre, and close their season here. They will take their company East, as per contract with them, for disbandment. Many of the stock have been engaged by Mr. Booth for his company next season.

Jeffreys-Lewis is suing for a divorce. Marriage in her case has proven a failure. She contemplates taking a benefit in the near future, and afterwards proceed to New York to fill an engagement there pending.

Mattie Vickers appears in Cherub, a character she made her New York success in, this week at the Alcazar, with new, bright specialties and songs, and that lively comedian, Harry W. Rich, will evoke lots of fun out of Septimus Washington Gill, a lightning-rod agent.

Seeing that Nat Goodwin's houses are full to the doors every night there will be no change in the bill this week at the Bush. Everybody is wanting to see him in Lend Me Five Shillings and Turned Up.

Booth and Barrett produce their Merchant of Venice, famed for its splendid historical scenery and appointments scarcely less than for its superior dramatic presentment, at the California this week. For full cast see programme announcement.

A New York dispatch of May 20th says:—"Henry Dixey, the actor, will travel no more. His arrangements were closed to-day, by which he will henceforth make the Standard Theatre the home of burlesque, opening with a new piece. Mr. Duff will be associated with Dixey." This looks as if Duff had gone over to Dixey and burlesque.

Mme. Hastreiter made a great hit in Gluck's Orfeo at the Italian Opera, Paris.

Opera Manager Carleton has been sued in Philadelphia by John and Annie Fisher, chorus singers, whom he had discharged. Their united claims for unpaid salaries for the entire season foot up to $800.

In 1882 Lawrence Barrett was Edwin Booth's leading man at the Winter Garden, New York. The friendship has existed over thirty years.

Manager Gus Amberg and Miss Marie Engle sailed for Europe May 11th. It is rumored that Mr. Amberg and Miss Engle became man and wife on Friday. The lady will be remembered as the beautiful Chicago singer who for a short period was one of Mapleson's prima donna at the Academy.

An Eastern paper says: The novel, entitled A False Couple, has been dramatized for an early production. In all emotional plays theretofore presented it is only one of the couple that has been false, and Heaven knows there has been misery enough distilled out of them with one culprit; but these we are to have a double cause to be miserable — a sort of a cruiser Charleston irrespective 7000 horse power of woe.

The director of the Court Theatre at Munich is continuing his preparations for the production of Shakesperean plays, with no other scenic accessories than those which were in use at the time they were written. All devices of modern stage management will be rigorously excluded. This will be [illegible] of tallow dips in

SPECIALTY SQUIBS.

Manager W. S. Cleveland wants to establish a minstrel chain across the continent with permanent minstrel houses in New York, Chicago and San Francisco, and keep a change of talent traveling backward and forward on his chain.

Manager Hall, who had the gall to try on a second race here, can't now be found, having skipped the town without paying for his beer and several other little things.

Every dog has his day, and the beauties of the dog exhibit to be given at the Standard next week had theirs this morning, when they were paraded through the streets in open carriages.

The Levira Thorn who was married to John W. Bogg, a wealthy Leadville mining man, lately in Cheyenne, and died on the same night from the effects of an overdose of morphine, was formerly known on the Denver circuit as "Little Rosebud," a popular variety queen. There was no suspicion of foul play, as the deceased evidently took an overdose of morphine accidentally.

They have got him. Ben Mowatt, the champion club swinger and juggler, in Goodyear, Cook & Dillon's Minstrels that is at the Orpheum this week.

The Comique presents an entire new bill this week. Charley Morrell and Tommy Morris contribute excellent specialty turns, and J. H. Burns is good in character parts.

Goodyear, Cook & Dillon's Refined Minstrels, a well known Eastern company, open at the Orpheum this week. For particulars see their advertised programme on another page.

A man died recently in Connecticut who smoked 2,000 herrings a day. If he had quit that bad habit in time and tackled "Seal of North Carolina" Plug Cut he would be alive to-day.

HE IS ON IT.

You can't fool this coon with your snide "Plug Cuts;" he smokes "SEAL OF NORTH CAROLINA" and stays right by it, and so do all the old smokers who know a good thing when they see it.

The enormous sale of "SEAL OF NORTH CAROLINA PLUG CUT" is sufficient evidence that it suits the smokers.

Bear in mind that the "Seal of North Carolina" costs you no more than the many

FIGARO is the Official Journal of all the Leading Theatres in San Francisco, and the only paper that publishes their full programmes.

AMUSEMENTS, ETC.

Leavitt's New Bush Street Theatre.

That mercurial comedian, Nat C. Goodwin, is on the rise. Crowded houses demand the continuance of his first week's bill, two most amusing pieces. In the first one, "Lend Me Five Shillings," he plays Golightly in his usual bright, vivacious style, and deserves the classification of the N. Y. Herald in the part, as the "spontaneous and magnetic comedian." In the three-act farcical comedy of "Turned Up," that concludes the bill, the same journal says of his Bones, "the lean, lank and cadaverous undertaker," that "Goodwin is great all the way through, in enunciation and inflection as well as in action;" and the audiences at the Bush evince their concurrence of the Herald's judgment by their hearty peals of laughter, generous applause and usually hearty recalls of Mr. Goodwin. None of Hoyt's pieces awakened more merriment or sent audiences in better humor to their homes than does the very amusing bill that Mr. Goodwin and his really clever company appear in. His nervous comicalities facial expressions and by-play in the complications of the first piece, and his funny make-up, dry humor, and, above all, his inebriated scene in the last, convulse the house with laughter. They are rare specimens of comedy acting and magnetically effective.

Mr. Goodwin is supported by his own company, among whom are Bob Hilliard, one of New York's notabilities, a handsome man and a good actor; particularly good as Geo. Medway in "Turned Up." Messrs. Robert Wilson, J. H. Browne and John Craven are in both casts; Mr. Craven giving a capital impersonation of an English sea-captain in the same comedy.

Miss Lizzie McCall, a handsome woman and an accomplished actress, gives able support in the leading female roles in both pieces. Miss Nanette Comstock, who does double duty creditably, and Misses Marion Earle, Weevie Vivian and Estelle Mortimer complete the well balanced and talented company.

The Examiner says, "The Bush-street Theatre was crowded to its utmost capacity long before the curtain rose, and, so far as could be judged from the reception given Mr. Goodwin's new play, there will be very few empty seats during the engagement." The Examiner was not a false prophet in this case.

For casts see regular programme on first page.

Baldwin Theatre.

The Bostonians English Opera Company are in their second week at the Baldwin.

They give a very enjoyable rendering of their operas, giving due effects to their individual parts in singing and acting and impressing their audiences most favorably with their capabilities in concerted pieces.

The company is evenly strong and well-balanced. Miss Marie Stone has a fine, sweet soprano, and is graceful and of good stage presence. Miss Jessie Bartlett Davis' rich contralto and good acting qualities are well known to San Francisco audiences. Mr. Tom Karl is a tenor robusto of acknowledged excellence, and Mr. Eugene Cowles is a splendid basso. Mr. Barnabee is a good comedian and singer. Miss Macondа has a young, fresh voice and her singing is full of light and color, and Miss Juliette Corden sings with taste and expression. Mr. E. W. Hoff, the second tenor, has a melodious voice and a fine presence. The second parts are well filled, the chorus strong and well drilled, and their stage groupings are effectively given.

"Fatinitza" was admirably sung last evening. Jessie Bartlett Davis is the prize Vladimir; the best we have had here. She made a pronounced success of the role and gives to it buoyancy and magnetism, singing charmingly in full round numbers. Miss Marie Stone's pure voice is heard to great advantage as Princess Lydia. Barnabee has a jolly role as the Pasha, and the opera is good all through. It will be repeated Thursday and Saturday nights.

To-night and Friday night, Fra Diavolo.

Mignon had a capital rendering, with the three prima donnas in the cast, Monday evening, and will be repeated for the matinee on Saturday.

The following operas will be sung next week, the last week of the Bostonians, and the last week of the Baldwin's sixth season:

Monday and Saturday nights, Dorothy.

Wednesday night and Saturday matinee, Bohemian Girl.

Tuesday and Thursday nights, Mignon.

Friday night, first time on any stage, the new opera comique, Suzette.

Seats now on sale.

Alcazar Theatre.

This week, the last of Mattie Vickers' engagement. E. A. Locke's comedy drama will be the attraction, in which that buoyant soubrette appears in a character that bears the euphonious name of Mattie Vickers. The play is a strong one, and affords the star ample opportunity to display the many emotions and quick impulses that Mattie Vickers embodies so cleverly. It is in this part that she won her New York success. The comedy also gives her an opportunity of presenting some very cleverly personated characterizations and specialties. She is a very capable soubrette star. She sings and dances well; has some very attractive music, and is an actress of decided ability.

Miss Vickers is ably supported by Harry W. Rich, a clever young comedian, and her own company.

—o—

Monday next, W. H. Powers' Company begin an engagement of one week at the Alcazar, presenting the picturesque Irish drama, "The Ivy Leaf." The company is one of unusual excellence and includes a quartette of trained voices, a corps of dancers, and a genuine Irish bag-piper. A feature of the production will be the beautiful scenery—a car-load being used to illustrate the play, giving exact reproductions of historical places in Ireland where the action of the play occurs.

"The Ivy Leaf" is a wholesome, clean idyl of Irish love, Irish patriotism and Irish fidelity, framed fittingly in the fair scenery of the Killarney Lakes. It deals with the bright side of the Irish character. It is free from all political interest, and has no evictions, no poverty or distress, or overdrawn pictures of Ireland's woes. Several years of success has stamped "The Ivy Leaf" as a model Irish drama.

New California Theatre.

Booth and Barrett are in the last week but one of their farewell engagement here.

A grand production of The Merchant of Venice will be the bill this week, which is marked for its rich beauty of mounting in scenery and costumes, the impersonations of Booth and Barrett and thorough competency of the company. Booth is grand as Shylock, and embodies the character as only he can. To see him in Shylock is to see the best living personation of the part on the stage. The same may be said of Barrett's Bassanio. In reading and action he lifts the character to unwonted prominence. Messrs. Vroom, Lane and Hanley are notably good as Antonio, Gratiano and Lorenzo, respectively. Miss Minna Gale is especially strong as Portia and the whole cast is effective. The play is given with its full meaning and intent carefully and intelligently expressed all through, from its greatest to its minor characters.

The scenes of "The Merchant of Venice" are marvels of stage settings and the painters' art. You see the built-up counterparts of the famed Venitian palaces, with the famous bridge, high enough for the gondoliers on the Grand Canal to pass under it. Exact representations of the Palaces of the Doges, the Lion on St. Mark, and one of the Council Chambers in the Ducal Palace, form portions of the scenery created from local studies and plans. The home of Shylock and the rich set of Portia's Palace with its domed ceilings, are other specimens of the painters' art. To see the play really make Venice and its picturesque beauties quite accessible without crossing a continent and the Atlantic to see its fading wonders.

For full cast see programme in FIGARO.

The repertoire for next week, the last of the Booth and Barrett season, is:

Monday and Tuesday, Julius Cæsar; Booth as Brutus, Barrett as Cassius.

Wednesday and Thursday, Hamlet; Booth, Hamlet; Barrett, Laertes.

Friday and Saturday, double bill, Fool's Revenge, with Booth as Bertrucio, and David Garrick, with Barrett in the title role.

Saturday matinee, Fool's Revenge and The King's Pleasure, with Barrett as Gringoire, a strolling poet, in the latter named play.

Seats now on sale for next week.

Orpheum Opera House.

Managers Walter & Co. present a feast of mirth, wit and music this week in Goodyear, Cook & Dillon's Refined Minstrels, headed by that popular endman and comedian, Chas. W. Goodyear. This company rates as first-class, and brings with it the endorsements of the press all along the road they have traveled in crossing the continent. The company consists of 32 performers, including its specialty artists, ten endmen, eight champion clogglets, etc., and really give an unusually good performance all through. Ben Mowatt does the quickest, easiest and best club-swinging ever seen here. Goodyear, Edwards and Green are undisputably funny. Ellsworth Cook is a remarkable soprano singer. Welby and Pearl are clever in sketch and acts; the three Nichols Brothers are graceful dancers and tuneful banjoists. The afterpiece is funny.

The company are really excellent, far above the average. They give the old-style minstrelsy, which is to say the least refreshing after the way we have had minstrelsy dished up for us lately. The jokes are fresh and the songs new and melodious.

See list of company in programme announcement elsewhere on this page

Next week, the Jack Dempsey All Star Specialty Company will be the attraction. Artists of well known reputation are included in the company.

The Battle of Vicksburg.

The grand panorama of the Battle of Vicksburg at the Panorama Building, corner of Eddy and Mason streets, is one that no American should fail to see. It gives a grand view of the battle with the conflict at its height on the land and the bombardment from the river with the correct positions of the engaging forces and the proper placement of the ironclads in the bombardment. It is a great painting, and excels the Battle of Waterloo in graphic power and vivid reality. Destruction reigns on every side. The burning buildings, the bursting shells, the desperate charges, the hand-to-hand conflicts, and the dying and wounded, all depict with startling realism one of the hottest conflicts in history.

Open from 9 A. M. to 6 P. M.

Morosco's Amphitheatre.

pearance at this theatre in the melodrama, Dead to the World.

Mr. Carden is an actor of unusual merit. His reading is clear and his manner quite impressive. He has become very popular with the patrons of the theatre. His portrayal of the role of Mark Branden, the returned convict, is very fine and he has the full sympathies of the audience during the entire performance.

Miss Claudia Barto, the new leading lady, made her first appearance as Ruby Branden and acquits herself with marked ability. The lady has a very pleasing appearance and good stage method.

Manager Morosco understands the tastes of his patrons. He presents attractive plays with a fully competent company, and the results are satisfactory to both manager and people.

Matinees Sundays, at 2 P. M. Admission, 10 cents. Front reserved seats 10 cents extra.

Vienna Garden Theatre

Not to take in the Vienna is to miss seeing one of the prettiest rural places in the city, and one that by the good management of Mr. A. Larsen, ably assisted by his director of amusements, Mr. Geo. H. Wood, "the somewhat different comedian," has become one of our most popular family resorts.

This week, Tommy Warren, the champion feather-weight of the world, and Young Brady, feather-weight champion of the coast, awaken the greatest enthusiasm every night in their spirited three round contests. Delaur & Debrimont introduce their French operatic sketches, and Laug's Comiques, Jessie Cogill and Antoinette Bertrand put in new appearances. Billy Courtright and his company, Harry Moore, Miss Freddie Stockmeyer, Robzart and Bob Harrison remain.

George H. Wood's screaming comedy, The Banker's Escapade, has its first production this week.

Business is steadily good at this commodious gothic cottage embosomed among the trees.

Prices, 10 and 20 cents.

Bella Union Theatre.

The new stars this week are J. J. Billadeau, Rose Lysle, Fitz & Devine and Wm. McPherson.

Billadeau's laughable comedy, Four Married Men, commences the performance every evening.

J. J. Billadeau takes the stage management this week and Prof. Sorg ably conducts the orchestra.

The ladies of the company come in for a full share of the applause and crowd the male contingent very closely.

Friday nights are devoted to amateurs, and some of the novices have shown decided talent, and as they are ambitious they will soon be classed among the professionals.

Hallinan's Cremorne Theatre.

Ned Nestell, the Old Soldier, has gone back into harness and is managing the stage in his usual manner, making himself a favorite with all.

The musical team, Leopold and Fortune; Miss Sadie Fairfield, song and dance artiste remain this week.

Every Tuesday and Friday evenings, George Mulholland and Jack King will engage in a six-round contest.

Ned Nestell's sensational drama in two acts, The Blacksmith's Vow, will be given every evening.

Johnnie Cain, the odd and funny comedian, contributes his specialties in a manner that brings down the house, and the Cremorne plays to large patronage every night in the week.

Friday, May 24th, the Cremorne gives a grand anniversary ball and supper.

This week the entertainment begins with selections by the entire company. Miss Stella Marion makes her first appearance in charming songs, Charles Morrell has new banjo songs, and Tommy Morris has another new specialty for the entertainment of the Comique's patrons.

The comical farce-comedy, The Serenaders, is the interlude act.

The laughable farce, The Last Train, with all the company in the cast, concludes the bill and the evening's fun.

The Comique's company is a strong one. It is a neat, compact minor theatre, and for many years has been a popular one.

EVENING EDITION

THURSDAY.....MAY 23, 1889

FULL PROGRAMMES of all the Leading Theatre in San Francisco can be found in FIGARO—the only paper that has them.

PROFESSIONAL PICKINGS.

Next week will be the last of The Bostonians. A brilliant repertoire will be presented for their farewell week, including Dorothy, Bohemian Giri, Don Pasquale, The Poachers and Suzette.

The next week will be the last of the Booth and Barrett engagement at the California, and "Julius Cæsar" will be given on Monday and Tuesday, "Hamlet" on Wednesday and Thursday, "The Fool's Revenge" and "David Garrick" on Friday, "The Fool's Revenge" and "The King's Pleasure" at the matinee, and Barrett will appear in "Yorick's Love" and Booth as Bertuccio for the farewell on Saturday night.

At the close of the engagement of the Bostonians the Baldwin Theatre will be closed for two weeks. The seventh regular season will begin with Mr. Daniel Frohman's Lyceum Theatre Co. in The Wife. The great successes of the present season, Sweet Lavender and The Marquise, will be given during the engagement. Opening night, Monday, June 17.

Mr. Robert M. Eberle has been engaged to act as stage manager for the Booth-Modjeska combination next season. A wiser selection could not have been made.

They are all in love with it—our climate. Every professional gives it a lift. Nat Goodwin says: "I have done very well since I have been in California, very well, indeed. Played to big houses, of course, but what vitalized ozone you have. It's wonderful! Why, I wasn't in San Francisco a week when I was made a father in Chicago. Fact, I assure you. It is all owing to your climate! Was wired the fact, sir, by Mrs. Goodwin. Boy, nine pound, bless him! Take something!"

In an extra programme advertisement of the California Theatre elsewhere in our columns will be found the cast of the Booth and Barrett "Julius Cæsar," the bill for Monday and Tuesday nights of next week.

It is telegraphed that Wilson Barrett had a big farewell at the Princess Theatre, London, on the 18th. At the close of the performance the stage was showered with flowers, and Barrett made a speech in which he said he would come back at the end of next year and build a new theatre of his own. This engagement has been a very profitable one to Barrett. The play was "Ben Machree," which he will produce on a grand scale during his American tour.

W. J. Scanlan is meeting a big success in Ireland. He closed the season at Cork last week, and opens in Belfast this week.

Manager Harris opened his Covent Garden, London, opera season on the 18th with Eola Russell, an American prima donna, as Lelia in "Ipescatori di Perle." She got a great reception from a brilliant house. Royalty was present. Nordica is rehearsing Eva in the "Meistersinger," and will make her appearance later on.

Minnie Hauck and Manager Harris could not come to terms on a London engagement. So Minnie has gone back to her wigwam in Switzerland.

Modjeska's long rest has done her good. She will do no work at all prior to appearing with Booth.

Edwin Booth was the Raphael in the first production of The Marble Heart in San Francisco.

A new scenic effect is given in the Merchant of Venice at the California when Lorenzo escapes with Jessica in a gondola, sailing under the bridge that spans the Grand Canal, and out of sight of the audience.

The Report makes itself happy that. "Nat Goodwin has brought us the best-looking set of people of any since the Madison Square importation. This sort of attention we appreciate, especially when in addition they can all act."

The Baldwin Theatre staff are at work on the scenery for the forthcoming engagement of the Lyceum Theatre Company, who will present The Wife, Sweet Lavender, and The Marquise.

The bridge in the Merchant of Venice is a beautiful structure, the span being so high that the gondoliers paddle under it [illegible]

At the close of the Booth and Barrett season it is Mr. Barrett's intention to leave as soon as possible for Carlsbad, where he will rest and recruit his health for the coming season.

Kate Castleton and husband, Mr. Phillips, have just returned from an extended season East, and are resting now at "home" over in Oakland, where the mother and a young sister of Kate's reside. The young lady, Miss Ada Freeman, who strongly resembles her sister in appearance, will make her professional debut shortly.

Count and Countess Bozenta, Mme. Modjeska, occupied a box at the California Tuesday, and enjoyed the performance of "The Merchant of Venice." Modjeska is looking in enviable health, and is here for the purpose of making preliminary arrangements to assume her position as joint star with Booth next season.

Louis Imhaus will put on A Tour of the World in Eighty Days at the Alcazar in about three weeks. The piece will be presented with the fine stage settings and scenery, for which the Alcazar management are becoming famous.

Mattie Vickers appears in Cherub, a character she made her New York success in, this week at the Alcazar, with new, bright specialties and songs, and that lively comedian, Harry W. Rich, will evoke lots of fun out of Septimus Washington Gill, a lightning-rod agent.

Seeing that Nat Goodwin's houses are full to the doors every night there will be no change in the bill this week at the Bush. Everybody is wanting to see him in Lend Me Five Shillings and Turned Up.

Booth and Barrett produce their Merchant of Venice, famed for its splendid historical scenery and appointments scarcely less than for its superior dramatic presentment, at the California this week. For full cast see programme announcement.

In 1882 Lawrence Barrett was Edwin Booth's leading man at the Winter Garden, New York. The friendship has existed over thirty years.

An Eastern paper says: The novel, entitled A False Couple, has been dramatized for an early production. In all emotional plays theretofore presented it is only one of the couple that has been false, and Heaven knows there has been misery enough distilled out of them with one culprit; but now we are to have a double cause to be miserable — a sort of a cruiser Charleston prospective 7000 horse power of woe.

The director of the Court Theatre at Munich is continuing his preparations for the production of Shakesperean plays, with no other scenic accessories than those which were in use at the time they were written. All devices of modern stage management will be rigorously excluded. This will be turning back to the era of tallow dips in stage settings.

The recently burned Windsor Theatre, Chicago, is to be immediately rebuilt, and to be reopened August 15th. To-days dispatches inform us that Manager M. P. Leavitt has become the lessee of the new theatre. The Windsor was on the north side, and was a fine and commodious house. It will be rebuilt as an elegant and well appointed theatre in every respect, so as to favorably compare with Mr. Leavitt's other new theatre in Denver, and with his Bush St. house in this City.

Herrmann retired from the Philadelphia Broad Street Theatre, May 10th, Nixon & Zimmerman taking possession of the house, and the Sheriff's officers possession of King Coles stuff, on account of two attachments standing against Herrmann's interest.

The fund for the Lester Wallack statue reached $188 last week.

The souvenir to be distributed at the 100th performance of A Midnight Bell at the Bijou Theatre, New York, May 29th, will be in the form of a book twelve by six inches square, containing handsome photo gravure portraits of Managers Rosenquest, Hoyt and Thomas and the members of the company, as well as illustrations of the scenes in Mr. Hoyt's successful comedy. It will be a costly work of art.

Otis Skinner, late of Augustin Daly's Company, and his brother Charles, an Eastern journalist, have just presented their new melodrama, The Red Signal, to Chicago. Chicago approves the play and has a warm word for Florence Roberts, formerly of this city. Her sincerity and dramatic truth are praised. The cast of The Red Signal includes six graduates from Daly's Company—Messrs. Skinner, Gilbert, Holland, Bell, Woods and Grace Filkins.

SPECIALTY SQUIBS.

James T. Lee, of Ward & Lee, Irish comedians, died in Butte City May 18th. Mr. Lee had been sick about three months with consumption. Deceased was a member of the Cincinnati Lodge of Elks.

Manager W. S. Cleveland wants to establish a minstrel chain across the continent with permanent minstrel houses in New York, Chicago and San Francisco, and keep a change of talent traveling backward and forward on his chain.

Manager Hall, who had the gall to try on a second race here, can't now be found, having skipped the town without paying for his beer and several other little things.

Every dog has his day, and the beauties of the dog exhibit to be given at the Standard next week had theirs this morning, when they were paraded through the streets in open carriages.

They have got him. Ben Mowatt, the champion club swinger and juggler, in Goodyear, Cook & Dillon's Minstrels that is at the Orpheum this week.

The Comique presents an entire new bill this week. Charley Morrell and Tommy Morris contribute excellent specialty turns, and J. H. Burns is good in character parts.

FIGARO is the Official Journal of all the Leading Theatres in San Francisco, and the only paper that publishes their full programmes.

AMUSEMENTS, ETC.

Leavitt's New Bush Street Theatre.

That mercurial comedian, Nat C. Goodwin, is on the rise. Crowded houses demand the continuance of his first week's bill, "Lend Me Five Shillings" and "Turned Up," for two weeks.

By request Mr Goodwin will open his bill next week with the screaming farce of "The Widow's Victim," in which he introduces his famous imitations of Edwin Booth, Lawrence Barrett, Henry Irving, Joseph Jefferson, John T. Raymond, Stuart Robson, Frank Mayo and Sothern as Lord Dundreary. This will form the first part of his bill.

The great "laugh-maker," the three act comedy of "Turned Up," will be retained as the afterpiece to send its audiences home in the best of humor, for his third and last week

Mr. Goodwin as a comedian is inimitable and certainly he has proven here the greatest of successes against the strongest of oppositions. His company in support embraces an unusual amount of talent, and his season has been a most enjoyable one

For caste see regular programme on first page.

The usual mid-week matinee at the Bush for next week will be given Thursday at 2 P. M. Decoration Day, instead of the usual Wednesday.

Baldwin Theatre.

The Bostonians English Opera Company are in their second week at the Baldwin.

They give a very enjoyable rendering of their operas, giving due effects to their individual parts in singing and acting and impressing their audiences most favorably with their capabilities in concerted pieces.

"Fatinitza" was admirably sung Tuesday. Jessie Bartlett Davis is the prize Vladimir; the best we have had here. She made a pronounced success of the role and gives to it buoyancy and magnetism, singing charmingly in full round numbers. Miss Marie Stone's pure voice is heard to great advantage as Princess Lydia. Barnabee has a jolly role as the Pasha, and the opera is good all through. It will be repeated to night and Saturday nights.

Friday night, Fra Diavolo for the last time. It was well rendered Wednesday night.

Mignon had a capital rendering, with the three prima donnas in the cast, Monday evening, and will be repeated for the matinee on Saturday.

The following operas will be sung next week, the last week of the Bostonians, and the last week of the Baldwin's sixth season:

Monday and Saturday nights, Dorothy.

Wednesday night and Saturday matinee, Bohemian Girl

Tuesday and Thursday nights, Mignon

Friday night, first time on any stage, the new opera comique, Suzette

Seats now on sale.

Alcazar Theatre.

This week the last of Mattie Vickers' engagement F A Locke's comedy drama will be the attraction, in which that buoyant soubrette appears in a character that bears the euphonious name of the play, Cherub, a character that gives scope for the portrayal of those natural emotions and quick impulses that Mattie Vickers embodies so cleverly. It is in this part that she won her New York success. The comedy also gives her an opportunity of presenting some very cleverly personated characterizations and specialties. She is a very capable soubrette star. She sings and dances well; has some very attractive music, and is an actress of decided ability.

Miss Vickers is ably supported by Harry W. Rich, a clever young comedian, and her own company

—o—

Monday next, W. H. Powers' Company begin an engagement of one week at the Alcazar, presenting the picturesque Irish drama, "The Ivy Leaf." The company is one of unusual excellence and includes a quartette of trained voices, a corps of dancers, and a genuine Irish bag-piper. A feature of the production will be the beautiful scenery—a car-load being used to illustrate the play, giving exact reproductions of historical places in Ireland where the action of the play occurs.

"The Ivy Leaf" is a wholesome, clean idyl of Irish love, Irish patriotism and Irish fidelity, framed fittingly in the fair scenery of the Killarney Lakes. It deals with the bright side of the Irish character. It is free from all political interest, and has no evictions, no poverty or distress, or overdrawn pictures of Ireland's woes. Several years of success has stamped "The Ivy Leaf" as a model Irish drama.

New California Theatre.

Booth and Barrett are in the last week but [illegible] engagement here.

costumes, the impersonations of Booth and Barrett and thorough competency of the company. Booth is grand as Shylock, and embodies the character as only he can. To see him in Shylock is to see the best living personation of the part on the stage. The same may be said of Barrett's Bassanio. In reading and action he lifts the character to unwonted prominence. Miss Minna Gale is especially strong as Portia and the whole cast is effective.

The scenes of "The Merchant of Venice" are marvels of stage settings and the painters' art. To see the play really make Venice and its picturesque beauties quite accessible without crossing a continent and the Atlantic to see its fading wonders.

For full cast see programme in FIGARO.

The repertoire for next week, the last of the Booth and Barrett season, is:

Monday and Tuesday, Julius Cæsar; Booth as Brutus, Barrett as Cassius. See cast in extra programme announcement.

Wednesday and Thursday, Hamlet; Booth, Hamlet; Barrett, Laertes.

Friday, double bill, Fool's Revenge, with Booth as Bertruccio, and David Garrick, with Barrett in the title role.

Saturday matinee, Fool's Revenge and The King's Pleasure, with Barrett as Gringoire, a strolling poet, in the latter named play.

Saturday night, the last night of Booth and Barrett, The Fool's Revenge, Booth as the jester Bertuccio; and Yorick's Love, Barrett as Master Yorick.

Seats now on sale for next week.

Orpheum Opera House.

Managers Walter & Co. present a feast of mirth, wit and music this week in Goodyear, Cook & Dillon's Refined Minstrels, headed by that popular endman and comedian, Chas. W. Goodyear.

The company are really excellent, far above the average. They give the old-style minstrelsy, which is to say the least refreshing after the way we have had minstrelsy dished up for us lately. The jokes are fresh, the songs new and melodious and the acts and afterpiece funny.

See list of company in programme announcement elsewhere on this page.

Next week, the Jack Dempsey All Star Specialty Company will be the attraction. Artists of well known reputation are included in the company.

Standard Theatre.

A troupe of thirty educated dogs will give two hour exhibitions of a novel and interesting character at the Standard every night next week. These dogs form what Prof. C. Norris calls his Canine Paradox, and have won fame at the East for the wonderful things they do. They open in a very amusing minstrel first part. In the olio they sing, stand on their heads, walk the tight rope, turn somersaults, play acts and in fact do everything but talk. Fritz, the champion trick dog, plays the piano, reads, adds and subtracts, tells his age, and goes down among the audience, looks at a watch, and tells what time it is. They close their performance with their revolving canine pyramid by sixteen dogs, a la trapeze. Something after the manner of the Valdis Sisters' act.

The Eastern papers say that Prof. Norris has developed the dog intelligence to its highest condition in his Canine Paradox company.

Take the children to see them. Matinees, Wednesday at 4 P. M., Saturday at 2 P. M

The Battle of Vicksburg.

The grand panorama of the Battle of Vicksburg at the Panorama Building, corner of Eddy and Mason streets, is one that no American should fail to see. It gives a grand view of the battle with the conflict at its height on the land and the bombardment from the river with the correct positions of the engaging forces and the proper placement of the ironclads in the bombardment. It is a great painting, and excels the Battle of Waterloo in graphic power and vivid reality. Destruction reigns on every side. The burning buildings, the bursting shells, the desperate charges, the hand-to-hand conflicts, and the dying and wounded, all depict with startling realism one of the hottest conflicts in history.

Open from 9 A. M. to 6 P. M.

Morosco's Amphitheatre.

Managers Morosco & Byrnes have put in a most complete fireproof partition between the stage and the auditorium, from wall to wall of their big theatre. It is constructed of iron lathings on both sides of the studding. The decorators are just finishing the immense ceiling of the theatre with harmonious panels.

This week James Carden made his first appearance at this theatre in the melodrama, Dead to the World

Mr. Carden is an actor of unusual merit. His reading is clear and his manner quite impressive. He has become very popular with the patrons of the theatre. His portrayal of the role of Mark Branden, the returned convict, is very fine and he has the full sympathies of the audience during the entire performance.

Miss Claudia Barto, the new leading lady, made her first appearance as Ruby Branden and acquits herself with marked ability. The lady has a very pleasing appearance and good stage method.

Manager Morosco understands the tastes of his patrons. He presents attractive plays with a fully competent company, and the results are satisfactory to both manager and people.

Matinees Sundays, at 2 P. M. Admission, 10 cents. Front reserved seats 10 cents extra.

Vienna Garden Theatre

Not to take in the Vienna is to miss seeing one of the prettiest rural places in the city, and one that by the good management of Mr. A. Larsen, ably assisted by his director of amusements, Mr. Geo. H. Wood, "the somewhat different comedian," has become one of our most popular family resorts.

This week, Tommy Warren, the champion feather-weight of the world, and Young Brady, feather-weight champion of the coast, awaken the greatest enthusiasm every night in their spirited three round contests. Delaur & Debrimont introduce their French operatic sketches, and Lang's Comiques, Jessie Cogill and Antoinette Bertrand put in new appear-

Business is steadily good at this commodious gothic cottage embosomed among the trees.

Prices, 10 and 20 cents.

Bella Union Theatre.

The new stars this week are J. J. Billadeau, Rose Lysle, Fitz & Devine and Wm. McPherson.

Lew Spencer's original comedy, Salvation Army Outdone, opens the bill this week, and Billadeau & Lysle introduce their laughable sketch, Conglomeration, and Fitz & Devine, the Irish millionaires, have caught the people.

The ladies of the company come in for a full share of the applause and crowd the male contingent very closely.

Billadeau's laughable comedy, Four Married Men, concludes the performance.

J. J. Billadeau takes the stage management this week and Prof. Sorg ably conducts the orchestra.

Friday nights are devoted to amateurs, and some of the novices have shown decided talent, and as they are ambitious they will soon be classed among the professionals.

Hallinan's Cremorne Theatre.

Ned Nestell, the Old Soldier, has gone back into harness and is managing the stage in his usual manner, making himself a favorite with all.

Lang & Sharp, comedy sketch artists; J. C. Drummond the great trick dancer; Effie Hull vocalist, and Wm. Sutton, baritone, are the new people this week

The musical team, Leopold and Fortune; Miss Sadie Fairfield, song and dance artiste; May Morrell, serio-comic; Hayes & Marion, now in their eighth week; Judd London and Jennie Haywood continue favorites,

Friday evenings, Ed Cuffe and Jack German will engage in a six-round glove contest.

Ned Nestell's sensational drama in two acts, The Blacksmith's Vow, with Nestell in his strong impersonation of the Backsmith, has made a pronounced hit with the Cremorne patrons.

Friday, May 24th, the Cremorne gives a grand anniversary ball and supper.

Original Theatre Comique.

The Comique presents an entire new bill this week, with songs and afterpiece. Numerous new novelties are produced by the various artists every evening and especial attention is paid to the first part.

This week the entertainment begins with selections by the entire company. Miss Stella Marion makes her first appearance in charming songs, Charles Morrell has new banjo songs, and Tommy Morris has another new specialty for the entertainment of the Comique's patrons.

The comical farce-comedy, The Serenaders, is the interlude act.

The laughable farce, The Last Train, with all the company in the cast, concludes the bill and the evening's fun.

The Comique's company is a strong one. It is a neat, compact minor theatre, and for many years has been a popular one.

Eureka Music Hall.

This is one of the neatest and most popular of our minor theatres. Manager Walterstein runs a very strong company.

SPECIALTY SQUIBS.

Wm. Devere takes the stage management of the Vienna Garden Theatre next week.

The Cremorne management give a grand ball and supper after the entertainment to-night.

Missing. We regret to say that one of Manager Norris' company, that recently arrived in town, has been missing for over thirty hours. Fears of foul play, or of his being secreted somewhere by unscrupulous parties, are entertained, and the police have been called into requisition to try and unravel the mystery of his disappearance. We are requested not to mention his name; but he is a well known performer, and when last seen had a head on him like a terrier. If any of his brother professionals should hear of his whereabouts Manager Norris will be sincerely grateful for any information regarding him left at the Standard Theatre, where he is billed to appear in the "Canine Paradox" on Monday night.

Joe McCormick and Con Reardon will have it out with gloves every night next week at the Cremorne.

Club Theatre, Victoria, B. C., May 20: May Antonio, Durell Bros., Dot Melville, Annie Ryner, John Frampton, Mlle. Bertha and John Chester.

Foy's Lyceum Theatre, Ogden, Utah: The Pavenellis, the Kherns, Minnie Hughes, Bijou Mignon, Dowley & Sedley, Della Hayden, Hughes & Sanford, E. M. Brumage, Agnes Clayton, Flo Bennell and Mabel Rivers for the opening week of May 20th.

Cort's Standard, Seattle, W. T., May 20th: Ramza & Arno, Foster & Fowler, Laura Ashby, McCoy & McEvoy and Ruby Knight new; old favorites retained.

Cort's Standard, Portland, Or., May 20th: Matsada Sorakichi, Jas. H. Faulkner, Vanola, Donaldson Bros., Lennetta & Eldridge, May Madison, Sherwood & Meredith, James Black and May Adams new faces.

Manager W. S. Cleveland wants to establish a minstrel chain across the continent with permanent minstrel houses in New York, Chicago and San Francisco, and keep a change of talent traveling backward and forward on his chain.

Manager Hall, who had the gall to try on a second race here, can't now be found, having skipped the town without paying for his beer and several other little things.

The Comique presents an entire new bill this week. Charley Morrell and Tommy Morris contribute excellent specialty turns, and J. H. Burns is good in character parts.

A man died recently in Connecticut who smoked 2 000 herrings a day. If he had quit that bad habit in time and tackled "Seal of North Carolina" Plug Cut he would be alive to-day.

W. J. Scanlan is meeting a big success in Ireland. He closed the season at Cork last week, and opens in Belfast this week.

Henry F. Gilligi's suit against Lawrence Barrett for $30.000 loaned him while in England is being tried in New York. Bob Ingersoll appeared for Mr. Barrett.

Rhea will open in her new play The Empress of France, in September next, at the Globe Theatre, Boston, Mass. — [Stage News.

The scenery for the production of Julius Cæsar by Edwin Booth and Lawrence Barrett, is not only elaborate in detail but historically and classically correct. The Forum Scene, which stands for the first and fourth acts, gives a view of the Forum looking up towards the Tabularium, and including the Basilica Julia and the Temples of Dioscuren, Concordia, Vespasians and Juno Monete.

The recently burned Windsor Theatre, Chicago, is to be immediately rebuilt, and to be reopened August 15 h. To-days dispatches inform us that Manager M. P. Leavitt has become the lessee of the new theatre. The Windsor was on the north side, and was a fine and commodious house. It will be rebuilt as an elegant and well appointed theatre in every respect, so as to favorably compare with Mr. Leavitt's other new theatre in Denver, and with his Bush St. house in this City.

PROFESSIONAL PICKINGS.

Nat Goodwin will, by request, next week give us his wonderfully clever imitations of Edwin Booth, Lawrence Barrett, Joseph Jefferson, John T. Raymond, Stuart Robson, Frank Mayo and Sothern as Lord Dundreary in the farce of "A Widow's Victim." This, with that extremely funny three-act comedy, "Turned Up," will form the bill for his last week here.

Booth and Barrett appear in The Merchant of Venice for the last time to-morrow night. For full cast see programme announcement.

"The Katti; or, Family Help" (no connection with the American play of "Kitty"), one of Willie Edouin's English comedy successes, will have its first production here at the Bush with Marietta Nash (the best Teddy ever in the "Bunch of Keys"), Geo. Lauri and Harry B. Bell, comedians, in the cast. It follows Nat Goodwin on June 3d.

It is rumored that Maze Edwards is coming from Boston bringing a company with him to open the Bijou Theatre some time in June.

The next week will be the last of the Booth and Barrett engagement at the California. The programme is "Julius Cæsar" for Monday and Tuesday, "Hamlet" on Wednesday and Thursday, "The Fool's Revenge" and "David Garrick" on Friday, "Hamlet" for Saturday matinee, and "The Fool's Revenge" and "Yorick's Love" for Saturday, the farewell night.

Edward E. Rice, the theatrical manager and partner of Dixey, was arrested in New York on the 23d for contempt of court, in avoiding an order of examination. Failing to procure bail he passed the night in the Ludlow street jail. The trouble grows out of an old judgment in St. Louis for $16 000. Rice says he hasn't got no $16 000. Pleads poverty. The holders of the judgment cry "Dixey," and are trying to force a settlement on it.

Manager Gottlob of the Bush has his annual benefit on Friday night. Nat Goodwin and company furnish the entertainment in a double bill, and everybody will be at the popular manager's benefit.

At the close of the Booth and Barrett season on Saturday week the entire company take special train direct to New York.

A recent Berlin paper says Minnie Hauk made a disastrous failure in "Carmen" at Posen, where her best numbers were hissed.

Ernesto Rossi, the great Italian actor, recently acted Othello and Sullivan before the Sultan at Constantinople, and was subsequently rewarded with a crescent of the Order of Osmanli.

The Bush gives a special matinee on Thursday, Decoration Day, instead of the usual Wednesday matinee next week.

At the close of the Booth and Barrett season it is Mr. Barrett's intention to leave as soon as possible for Carlsbad, where he will rest and recruit his health for the coming season.

Louis Imhaus will put on A Tour of the World in Eighty Days at the Alcazar in about three weeks. The piece will be presented with the fine stage settings and scenery, for which the Alcazar management are becoming famous.

Next week will be the last of The Bostonians. A brilliant repertoire will be presented for their farewell week, including Dorothy, Bohemian Girl, Don Pasquale, The Poachers and Suzette.

At the close of the engagement of the Bostonians the Baldwin Theatre will be closed for two weeks. The seventh regular season will begin with Mr. Daniel Frohman's Lyceum Theatre Co. in The Wife. The great successes of the present season, Sweet Lavender and The Marquise, will be given during the engagement. Opening night, Monday, June 17.

Mr. Robert M. Eberle has been engaged to act as stage manager for the Booth-Modjeska combination next season. A wiser selection could not have been made.

They are all in love with it—our climate. Every professional gives it a lift. Nat Goodwin says: "I have done very well since I have been in California, very well, indeed. Played to big houses, of course, but what vitalized ozone you have. It's wonderful! Why, I wasn't in San Francisco a week when I was made a father in Chicago. Fact, I assure you. It is all owing to your climate! Was wired the fact, sir, by Mrs. Goodwin. Boy, nine pound, bless him! Take something?"

In an extra programme advertisement of the California Theatre elsewhere in our columns will be found the cast of the Booth and Barrett "Julius Cæsar," the bill for Monday and Tuesday nights of next week.

Minnie Hauck and Manager Harris could not come to terms on a London engagement. So Minnie has gone back to her wigwam in Switzerland.

Modjeska's long rest has done her good. She will do no work at all prior to appearing with Booth.

A new scenic effect is given in the Merchant of Venice at the California when Lorenzo escapes with Jessica in a gondola, sailing under the bridge that spans the Grand Canal, and out of sight of the audience.

The Report makes itself happy that, "Nat Goodwin has brought us the best-looking set of people of any since the Madison Square importation. This sort of attention we appreciate, especially when in addition they can all act."

Herrmann retired from the Philadelphia Broad Street Theatre, May 10th, Nixon & Zimmerman taking possession of the house, and the Sheriff's officers possession of King Coles stuff, on account of two attachments standing against Herrmann's interest.

FIGARO is the Official Journal of all the Leading Theatres in San Francisco, and the only paper that publishes their full programmes.

AMUSEMENTS, ETC.

Leavitt's New Bush Street Theatre.

That mercurial comedian, Nat C. Goodwin, is on the rise. Crowded houses demand the continuance of his first week's bill, "Lend Me Five Shillings" and "Turned Up," for two weeks.

Mr Goodwin as a comedian is inimitable and certainly he has proven here the greatest of successes against the strongest of oppositions. His company in support embraces an unusual amount of talent, and his season has been a most enjoyable one.

By request Mr. Goodwin will open his bill next week with the screaming farce of "The Widow's Victim," in which he introduces his famous imitations of Edwin Booth, Lawrence Barrett, Henry Irving, Joseph Jefferson, John T. Raymond, Stuart Robson, Frank Mayo and Sothern as Lord Dundreary. This will form the first part of his bill.

The great "laugh-maker," the three-act comedy of "Turned Up," will be retained as the afterpiece to send its audiences home in the best of humor, for his third and last week.

A prominent night next week will be on Friday evening, when Manager J. J. Gottlob's annual benefit takes place; which occasion will draw a fashionable house and be a red-letter night. Secure your seats in advance. Mr. Nat Goodwin and company will appear in a double bill.

For casts see regular programme on first page.

The usual mid-week matinee at the Bush for next week will be given Thursday at 2 P. M., Decoration Day, instead of the usual Wednesday.

Baldwin Theatre.

The Bostonians English Opera Company are in their second week at the Baldwin.

They give a very enjoyable rendering of their operas, giving due effects to their individual parts in singing and acting and impressing their audiences most favorably with their capabilities in concerted pieces.

"Fatinitza" was admirably sung last night. Jessie Bartlett Davis is the prize Vladimir; the best we have had here. She made a pronounced success of the role and gives to it buoyancy and magnetism, singing charmingly in full round numbers. Miss Marie Stone's pure voice is heard to great advantage as Princess Lydia. Barnabee has a jolly role as the Pasha, and the opera is good all through. It will be repeated Saturday night.

To-night, Fra Diavolo for the last time.

Mignon, with the three prima donnas in the cast, will be repeated for the matinee on Saturday.

The following operas will be sung next week, the last week of the Bostonians, and the last week of the Baldwin's sixth season:

Monday and Saturday nights, Dorothy.

Wednesday night and Saturday matinee, Bohemian Girl.

Tuesday and Thursday nights, Mignon.

Friday night, first time on any stage, the new opera comique, Suzette.

Seats now on sale.

Alcazar Theatre.

This week, the last of Mattie Vickers' engagement, F. S. Locke's comedy drama will be the attraction, in which that buoyant soubrette appears in a character that bears the euphonious name of the play, Cherub, a character that gives scope for the portrayal of those natural emotions and quick impulses that Mattie Vickers embodies so cleverly.

Miss Vickers is ably supported by Harry W. Rich, a clever young comedian, and her own company.

—o—

Monday next, W. H. Powers' Company begin an engagement of one week at the Alcazar, presenting the picturesque Irish drama, "The Ivy Leaf." The company is one of unusual excellence and includes a quartette of trained voices, a corps of dancers, and a genuine Irish bag-piper. A feature of the production will be the beautiful scenery—a car-load being used to illustrate the play, giving exact reproductions of historical places in Ireland where the action of the play occurs.

"The Ivy Leaf" is a wholesome, clean idyl of Irish love, Irish patriotism and Irish fidelity, framed fittingly in the fair scenery of the Killarney Lakes. It deals with the bright side of the Irish character. It is free from all political interest, and has no evictions, no poverty or distress, or overdrawn pictures of Ireland's woes. Several years of success has stamped "The Ivy Leaf" as a model Irish drama.

New California Theatre.

Booth and Barrett are in the last week but one of their farewell engagement here.

A grand production of The Merchant of Venice has been the attraction this week, marked for [illegible] in scenery and Barrett and thorough competency of the company.

The scenes of "The Merchant of Venice" are marvels of stage settings and the painters' art. To see the play really make Venice and its picturesque beauties quite accessible without crossing a continent and the Atlantic to see its fading wonders.

For full cast see programme in FIGARO.

The repertoire for next week, the last of the Booth and Barrett season, is:

Monday and Tuesday, Julius Cæsar; Booth as Brutus, Barrett as Cassius. See cast in extra programme announcement.

Wednesday and Thursday evenings and Saturday matinee, Hamlet; Booth as Hamlet; Barrett as Laertes.

Friday, double bill, Fool's Revenge, with Booth as Bertrucio, and David Garrick, with Barrett in the title role.

Saturday night, the last night of Booth and Barrett, The Fool's Revenge, Booth as the jester Bertuccio; and Yorick's Love, Barrett as Master Yorick.

Seats now on sale for next week.

Orpheum Opera House.

Managers Walter & Co. present a feast of mirth, wit and music this week in Goodyear, Cook & Dillon's Refined Minstrels, headed by that popular endman and comedian, Chas. W. Goodyear.

The company are really excellent, far above the average. They give the old-style minstrelsy, which is to say the least refreshing after the way we have had minstrelsy dished up for us lately. The jokes are fresh, the songs new and melodious and the acts and afterpiece funny.

See list of company in programme announcement elsewhere on this page.

Next week, the Jack Dempsey All Star Specialty Company will be the attraction. Artists of well known reputation are included in the company.

Standard Theatre.

A troupe of thirty educated dogs will give two hour exhibitions of a novel and interesting character at the Standard every night next week. These dogs form what Prof. C. Norris calls his Canine Paradox, and have won fame at the East for the wonderful things they do. They open in a very amusing minstrel first part. In the olio they sing, stand on their heads, walk the tight rope, turn somersaults, play acts and in fact do everything but talk. Fritz, the champion trick dog, plays the piano, reads, adds and subtracts, tells his age, and goes down among the audience, looks at a watch, and tells what time it is. They close their performance with their revolving canine pyramid by sixteen dogs, a la trapeze. Something after the manner of the Vaidis Sisters' act.

The Eastern papers say that Prof. Norris has developed the dog intelligence to its highest condition in his Canine Paradox company.

Take the children to see them. Matinees, Wednesday at 4 P. M., Saturday at 2 P. M.

The Battle of Vicksburg.

The grand panorama of the Battle of Vicksburg at the Panorama Building, corner of Eddy and Mason streets, is one that no American should fail to see. It gives a grand view of the battle with the conflict at its height on the land and the bombardment from the river with the correct positions of the engaging forces and the proper placement of the ironclads in the bombardment. It is a great painting, and excels the Battle of Waterloo in graphic power and vivid reality. Destruction reigns on every side. The burning buildings, the bursting shells, the desperate charges, the hand-to-hand conflicts, and the dying and wounded, all depict with startling realism one of the hottest conflicts in history.

Open from 9 A. M. to 6 P. M.

Morosco's Amphitheatre.

Managers Morosco & Byrnes have put in a most complete fireproof partition between the stage and the auditorium, from wall to wall of their big theatre. It is constructed of iron lathings on both sides of the studding. The decorators have finished the immense ceiling of the theatre with harmonious panels.

This week James Carden made his first appearance at this theatre in the melodrama, Dead to the World.

Mr. Carden is an actor of unusual merit. His reading is clear and his manner quite impressive. He has become very popular with the patrons of the theatre. His portrayal of the role of Mark Branden, the returned convict, is very fine and he has the full sympathies of the audience during the entire performance.

Miss Claudia Barto, the new leading lady, made her first appearance as Ruby Branden and acquits herself with marked ability. The lady has a very pleasing appearance and good stage method.

Manager Morosco understands the tastes of his patrons. He presents attractive plays with a fully competent company, and the results are satisfactory to both manager and people.

Next week will be presented for the first time in this city, The Belle.

Matinees Sundays, at 2 P. M. Admission, 10 cents. Front reserved seats 10 cents extra.

Vienna Garden Theatre

Not to take in the Vienna is to miss seeing one of the prettiest rural places in the city, and one that by the good management of Mr. A. Larsen, ably assisted by his director of amusements, Mr. Geo. H. Wood, "the somewhat different comedian," has become one of our most popular family resorts.

This week, Tommy Warren, the champion feather-weight of the world, and Young Brady, feather-weight champion of the coast, awaken the greatest enthusiasm every night in their spirited three round contests. Delaur & Debrimont introduce their French operatic sketches, and Lang's Comiques, Jessie Cogill and Antoinette Bertrand put in new appearances. Billy Courtright and his company, Harry Moore, Miss Freddie Stockmeyer, Robzart and Bob Harrison remain.

George H. Wood's screaming comedy, The Banker's Escapade, has its first production this week.

Business is steadily good at this commodious gothic cottage embosomed among the trees.

Bella Union Theatre.

The new stars this week are J. J. Billadeau, Rose Lysle, Fitz & Devine and Wm. McPherson.

Lew Spencer's original comedy, Salvation Army Outdone, opens the bill this week, and Billadeau & Lysle introduce their laughable sketch, Conglomeration, and Fitz & Devine, the Irish millionaires, have caught the people.

The ladies of the company come in for a full share of the applause and crowd the male contingent very closely.

Billadeau's laughable comedy, Four Married Men, concludes the performance.

J. J. Billadeau takes the stage management this week and Prof. Sorg ably conducts the orchestra.

Friday nights are devoted to amateurs, and some of the novices have shown decided talent, and as they are ambitious they will soon be classed among the professionals.

Hallinan's Cremorne Theatre.

Ned Nestell, the Old Soldier, has gone back into harness and is managing the stage in his usual manner, making himself a favorite with all.

Lang & Sharp, comedy sketch artists: J. C. Drummond, the great trick dancer; Effie Hull, vocalist, and Wm. Sutton, baritone, are the new people this week.

The musical team, Leopold and Fortune; Miss Sadie Fairfield, song and dance artiste; May Morrell, seric-comic; Hayes & Marion, now in their eighth week; Judd London and Jennie Haywood continue favorites.

Friday evenings, Ed. Cuffe and Jack German will engage in a six-round glove contest.

Ned Nestell's sensational drama in two acts, The Blacksmith's Vow, with Nestell in his strong impersonation of the Backsmith, has made a pronounced hit with the Cremorne patrons.

Friday, May 24th, the Cremorne gives a grand anniversary ball and supper.

Original Theatre Comique.

The Comique presents an entire new bill this week, with songs and afterpiece. Numerous new novelties are produced by the various artists every evening and especial attention is paid to the first part.

This week the entertainment begins with selections by the entire company. Miss Stella Marion makes her first appearance in charming songs, Charles Morrell has new banjo songs, and Tommy Morris has another new specialty for the entertainment of the Comique's patrons.

The comical farce-comedy, The Serenaders, is the interlude act.

The laughable farce, The Last Train, with all the company in the cast, concludes the bill and the evening's fun.

The Comique's company is a strong one. It is a neat, compact minor theatre, and for many years has been a popular one.

Eureka Music Hall.

This is one of the neatest and most popular of our minor theatres. Manager Walterstein runs a very strong company.

Lillie Mason, Laura White, Amy Gottlob, Stella Walton, Pearl Iola, Ed. Soldene, Chas. Berkeley, Fred Gottlob and Geo. C. Dunham.

White and Walton in beautiful duets, Berkeley & Howard in their nautical sketch, A Life on the Ocean Wave, and Franks' version of the She Can-Can are the important features of this week's bill.

George Dunham in his aged darkey impersonations, the Gottlobs in favorite sketches and Ed. Soldene's specialties are some of the important features of the week's bill.

The Eureka gives a matinee every Sunday.

EVENING EDITION

SATURDAY.....MAY 25, 1889

FULL PROGRAMMES of all the Leading Theatre in San Francisco can be found in FIGARO—the only paper that has them.

SPECIALTY SQUIBS.

The Hofstad Bros., Meier and Edwin, make their first appearance at the Orpheum next week. Like Bishop they possess the same marvelous powers in reading the thoughts of others, finding hidden things, etc. They have created a great furore in Sweden, and have puzzled the scientists everywhere.

The Cremorne management gave a grand ball and supper after the entertainment Friday night, which was a great success in every way. Manager Homan made all feel very much at home.

Wm. Devere takes the stage management of the Vienna Garden Theatre next week.

Joe McAuliffe and Con Riordon will have it out with gloves every night next week at the Cremorne. It will be something worth seeing to see McAuliffe in four rounds.

Missing. We regret to say that one of Manager Norris' company, that recently arrived in town, has been missing for over fifty hours. Fears of foul play, or of his being secreted somewhere by unscrupulous parties, are entertained, and the police have been called into requisition to try and unravel the mystery of his disappearance. We are requested not to mention his name; but he is a well known performer, and when last seen had a head on him like a terrier. If any of his brother professionals should hear of his whereabouts Manager Norris will be sincerely grateful for any information regarding him left at the Standard Theatre, where he is billed to appear in the "Canine Paradox" on Monday night.

Manager W. S. Cleveland wants to establish a minstrel chain across the continent with permanent minstrel houses in New York, Chicago and San Francisco, and keep a change of talent traveling backward and forward on his chain.

Manager Hall, who had the gall to try on a second race here, can't now be found, having skipped the town without paying for his beer and several other little things.

The Comique presents an entire new bill this week. Charley Morrell and Tommy Morris contribute excellent specialty turns, and J. H. Burns is good in character parts.

The scenery for the production of Julius Cæsar by Edwin Booth and Lawrence Barrett, is not only elaborate in detail but historically and classically correct. The Forum Scene, which stands for the first and fourth acts, gives a view of the Forum looking up towards the Tabularium, and including the Basilica Julia and the Temples of Dioscuren, Concordia, Vespasians and Juno Monets.

The recently burned Windsor Theatre, Chicago, is to be immediately rebuilt, and to be reopened August 15th. Recent dispatches inform us that Manager M. B. Leavitt has become the lessee of the new theatre. The Windsor was on the north side, and was a fine and commodious house. It will be rebuilt as an elegant and well appointed theatre in every respect, so as to favorably compare with Mr. Leavitt's other new theatre in Denver, and with his Bush St. house in this City.

Blanche Marsden's comedy Windfalls, will be taken on the road next season. It deals with country life in the Adirondacks, the three acts telling a story of a Christmas eve on the shores of Schroon Lake. The principal character is an old farmer, known as Rock of Ages.

Rhea will open in her new play The Empress of France, in September next, at the Globe Theatre, Boston, Mass. —[Stage News.

The great scene in which the assassination occurs in Julius Cæsar is one of the finest of the many magnificent samples of scenic art which the Booth Barrett Company carry with them on their tour. It is based on Gerome's great painting of the death of Cæsar, and is a massive and imposing piece of work, which lends a marvelous appearance of reality to the stirring and impressive occurance within its walls.

John Wild's Running Wild combination is reported as being "busted." It is alleged that the 'ghost' has not been running wild, nor even walking moderately, for nearly three months. If this be true there is likely to be a legal Summer engagement

PROFESSIONAL PICKINGS.

Miss Ethel Brandon, we are happy to state, is rapidly recovering from her late severe illness.

Mr. Lawrence Barrett has perfected all necessary arrangements and Mme. Modjeska, with Lawrence Hanley as leading man, will fill the remaining dates of the Booth-Barrett combination Mrs. F. M. Bates has also been engaged for the tour. The tour opens June 10th, and embraces the Puget Sound and Oregon towns and Manager Maguire's Montana circuit.

Jeffreys-Lewis has been tendered a benefit. Foremost among the tenders are Booth, Barrett and Manager Al Hayman. Sunday evening, June 2nd, is the date fixed, and Manager Hayman has generously placed the Baldwin Theatre at her disposal, and it is believed that the benefit will be a substantial one. It is possible that Mme. Modjeska will participate in the benefit, supported by Miss Lewis and other well known talent.

Thos. G. Moses, the artist of the California Theatre, will provide the Booth and Barrett Hamlet with new scenery.

Nat Goodwin closes his season at Sacramento June 8th, and takes the overland flyer to Chicago, right through, to see that "Blessed Baby."

A hot spell has wilted the theatrical business East already.

Manager Hayman is recovering.

As you were. Arthur B. Chase remains with Booth, and will direct the Booth-Modjeska season, and Theodore Bromley and Joseph Levy will engineer the Barrett company, as of old.

Miss Marion A. Earle does a neat and artistic bit of characterization as Mrs. Medway, the wife of the turned up sea captain in "Turned Up."

Nat Goodwin will, by request, next week give us his wonderfully clever imitations of Edwin Booth, Lawrence Barrett, Joseph Jefferson, John T. Raymond, Stuart Robson, Frank Mayo and Sothern as Lord Dundreary in the farce of "A Widow's Victim." This, with that extremely funny three-act comedy, "Turned Up," will form the bill for his last week here.

"Katti, the Family Help," (no connection with the American play of "Kitty"), one of Willie Edouin's English comedy successes, will have its first production here at the Bush with Marietta Nash (the best Teddy ever in the "Bunch of Keys"), Geo. Lauri and Harry B. Bell, comedians, in the cast. It follows Nat Goodwin on June 3d.

It is rumored that Maze Edwards is coming from Boston bringing a company with him to open the Bijou Theatre some time in June.

The next week will be the last of the Booth and Barrett engagement at the California. The programme is "Julius Cæsar" for Monday and Tuesday, "Hamlet" on Wednesday and Thursday, "The Fool's Revenge" and "David Garrick" on Friday, "Hamlet" for Saturday matinee, and "The Fool's Revenge" and "Yorick's Love" for Saturday, the farewell night.

Edward E. Rice, the theatrical manager and partner of Dixey, was arrested in New York on the 23d for contempt of court, in avoiding an order of examination. Failing to procure bail he passed the night in the Ludlow street jail. The trouble grows out of an old judgment in St. Louis for $16 000. Rice says he hasn't got no $16 000. Pleads poverty. The holders of the judgment cry "Dixey," and are trying to force a settlement on it.

Manager Gottlob of the Bush has his annual benefit on Friday night. Nat Goodwin and company furnish the entertainment in a double bill, and everybody will be at the popular manager's benefit.

At the close of the Booth and Barrett season on Saturday week the entire company take special train direct to New York.

A recent Berlin paper says Minnie Hauk made a disastrous failure in "Carmen" at Posen, where her best numbers were hissed.

The Bush gives a special matinee on Thursday, Decoration Day, instead of the usual Wednesday matinee next week.

At the close of the Booth and Barrett season it is Mr. Barrett's intention to leave as soon as possible for Carlsbad, where he will rest and recruit his health for the coming season.

Next week will be the last of The Bostonians. A brilliant repertoire will be presented for their farewell week, including Dorothy, Bohemian Girl, Don Pasquale, The Poachers and Suzette.

At the close of the engagement of the Bostonians the Baldwin Theatre will be closed for two weeks. The seventh regular season will begin with Mr. Daniel Frohman's Lyceum Theatre Co. in The Wife. The great successes of the present season, Sweet Lavender and The Marquise, will be given during the engagement. Opening night, Monday, June 17.

Mr. Robert M. Eberle has been engaged to act as stage manager for the Booth-Modjeska combination next season. A wiser selection could not have been made.

In an extra programme advertisement of the California Theatre elsewhere in our columns will be found the cast of the Booth and Barrett "Julius Cæsar," the bill for Monday and Tuesday nights of next week.

The late storm which demolished one of Barnum & Bailey's circus tents at Williamsport, Pa., inflicted more or less serious injuries upon seven of the employees, of whom three were ladies engaged in the ring. One valuable horse and an antelope were shot because of their broken limbs, and the money damage to the show, foots up to over $10,000.

You can't fool this coon with your snide "Plug Cuts;" he smokes "SEAL OF NORTH CAROLINA" and stays right by it, and so do all the old smokers who know a good thing when they see it.

The enormous sale of "SEAL OF NORTH CAROLINA PLUG CUT" is sufficient evidence that it suits the smokers.

Bear in mind that the "Seal of North Carolina" costs you no more than the many

AMUSEMENTS, ETC.

Leavitt's New Bush Street Theatre.

That mercurial comedian, Nat C. Goodwin, is on the rise. Crowded houses demand the continuance of his first week's bill, "Lend Me Five Shillings" and "Turned Up," for two weeks.

Mr. Goodwin as a comedian is inimitable and certainly he has proven here the greatest of successes against the strongest of oppositions. His company in support embraces an unusual amount of talent and his season has been a most enjoyable one.

By request Mr Goodwin will open his bill next week with the screaming farce of "The Widow's Victim," in which he introduces his famous imitations of Edwin Booth, Lawrence Barrett, Henry Irving, Joseph Jefferson, John T. Raymond, Stuart Robson, Frank Mayo and Sothern as Lord Dundreary. This will form the first part of his bill.

The great "laugh-maker," the three-act comedy of "Turned Up," will be retained as the afterpiece to send its audiences home in the best of humor, for his third and last week.

For casts see regular programme on first page.

A prominent night next week will be on Friday evening, when Manager J. J. Gottlob's annual benefit takes place; which occasion will draw a fashionable house and be a red-letter night. Secure your seats in advance. Mr. Nat Goodwin and company will appear in a double bill.

The usual mid-week matinee at the Bush for next week will be given Thursday at 2 P M Decoration Day, instead of the usual Wednesday.

Sunday, the last night of the Goodwin season, will be marked by being set apart for the benefit of his manager, Mr. Robert Arthur, whose many friends in this city have been the instigators of the testimonial.

Another of Willie Edouin's English comedy successes, "Katti, the Family Help," said to resemble his "Turned Up" in distinctive individuality of characters and in being an "intensely funny comedy," with Marietta Nash, the original and best of Teddies in "The Bunch of Keys," George Lauri and Harry B. Bell, two good comedians, in its principal parts, will follow the Goodwin season at the Bush on June 10th.

By the way, "Katti" must not be confounded to its disadvantage with "Kitty," the piece that Mestayer appeared here in. "Katti" is a different kind of a play—and a success.

Baldwin Theatre.

The Bostonians English Opera Company are in their second week at the Baldwin.

They give a very enjoyable rendering of their operas, giving due effects to their individual parts in singing and acting and impressing their audiences most favorably with their capabilities in concerted pieces.

"Fatinitza," admirably sung will be repeated to night.

The following operas will be sung next week, the last week of the Bostonians, and the last week of the Baldwin's sixth season:

Monday and Saturday nights, Dorothy.

Wednesday night and Saturday matinee Bohemian Girl

Tuesday and Thursday nights, Mignon will be repeated with its three prima donnas in the cast.

Friday night, first time on any stage, the new opera comique, Suzette.

Seats now on sale.

Alcazar Theatre.

This week, the last of Mattie Vickers' engagement, E. A. Locke's comedy drama will be the attraction, in which that buoyant soubrette appears in a character that bears the euphonious name of the play, Cherub, a character that gives scope for the portrayal of those natural emotions and quick impulses that Mattie Vickers embodies so cleverly.

Miss Vickers is ably supported by Harry W. Rich, a clever young comedian, and her own company

—o—

Monday next, W. H. Powers' Company begin an engagement of one week at the Alcazar, presenting the picturesque Irish drama, "The Ivy Leaf." The company is one of unusual excellence and includes a quartette of trained voices, a corps of dancers, and a genuine Irish bag-piper. A feature of the production will be the beautiful scenery—a car-load being used to illustrate the play, giving exact reproductions of historical places in Ireland where the action of the play occurs.

"The Ivy Leaf" is a wholesome, clean idyl of Irish love, Irish patriotism and Irish fidelity, framed fittingly in the fair scenery of the Killarney Lakes. It deals with the bright side of the Irish character. It is free from all political interest, and has no evictions, no poverty or distress, or overdrawn pictures of Ireland's woes. Several years of success has stamped

New California Theatre.

Booth and Barrett are in the last week but one of their farewell engagement here.

A grand production of The Merchant of Venice has been the attraction this week, marked for its rich beauty of mounting in scenery and costumes, the impersonations of Booth and Barrett and thorough competency of the company.

For full cast see programme in FIGARO.

The repertoire for next week, the last of the Booth and Barrett season, is:

Monday and Tuesday, Julius Cæsar; Booth as Brutus, Barrett as Cassius. See cast in extra programme announcement.

Wednesday and Thursday evenings and Saturday matinee, Hamlet; Booth as Hamlet; Barrett as Laertes.

Friday, double bill, Fool's Revenge, with Booth as Bertrucio, and David Garrick, with Barrett in the title role.

Saturday night, the last night of Booth and Barrett, The Fool's Revenge, Booth as the jester Bertucoio; and Yorick's Love, Barrett as Master Yorick.

Seats on sale for the week.

Orpheum Opera House.

Managers Walter & Co. present a feast of mirth, wit and music this week in Goodyear, Cook & Dillon's Refined Minstrels, headed by that popular endman and comedian, Chas. W. Goodyear.

The company are really excellent, far above the average. They give the old-style minstrelsy, which is to say the least refreshing after the way we have had minstrelsy dished up for us lately. The jokes are fresh, the songs new and melodious and the acts and afterpiece funny.

See list of company in programme announcement elsewhere on this page.

Next week, the Jack Dempsey All Star Specialty Company will be the attraction; Sheffer & Blakely, negro comedians; Nash, the bicycle wonder; Lawler & Thornton, character change artists; J. D. Kelly, Irish comedian; Miss Tillie Morrissey, vocalist; Baker & West, musical artists; the Hofstad Bros., mind readers; the Smiths, musical team, and Dempsey & Costigan, all star artists.

Standard Theatre.

A troupe of thirty educated dogs will give two hour exhibitions of a novel and interesting character at the Standard every night next week. These dogs form what Prof. C. Norris calls his Canine Paradox, and have won fame at the East for the wonderful things they do. They open in a very amusing minstrel first part. In the olio they sing, stand on their heads, walk the tight rope, turn somersaults, play acts and in fact do everything but talk. Fritz, the champion trick dog, plays the piano, reads, adds and subtracts, tells his age, and goes down among the audience, looks at a watch, and tells what time it is. They close their performance with their revolving canine pyramid by sixteen dogs, a la trapeze. Something after the manner of the Vaidis Sisters' act.

The Eastern papers say that Prof. Norris has developed the dog intelligence to its highest condition in his Canine Paradox company.

Take the children to see them. Matinees, Wednesday at 4 P. M., Saturday at 2 P. M

The Battle of Vicksburg.

The grand panorama of the Battle of Vicksburg at the Panorama Building, corner of Eddy and Mason streets, is one that no American should fail to see. It gives a grand view of the battle with the conflict at its height on the land and the bombardment from the river with the correct positions of the engaging forces and the proper placement of the ironclads in the bombardment. It is a great painting, and excels the Battle of Waterloo in graphic power and vivid reality. Destruction reigns on every side. The burning buildings, the bursting shells, the desperate charges, the hand-to-hand conflicts, and the dying and wounded, all depict with startling realism one of the hottest conflicts in history.

Open from 9 A. M. to 6 P. M.

Morosco's Amphitheatre.

Managers Morosco & Byrnes have put in a most complete fireproof partition between the stage and the auditorium, from wall to wall of their big theatre. It is constructed of iron lathings on both sides of the studding. The decorators have finished the immense ceiling of the theatre with harmonious panels.

This week James Carden made his first appearance at this theatre in the melodrama, Dead to the World.

Mr. Carden is an actor of unusual merit. His reading is clear and his manner quite impressive. He has become very popular with the patrons of the theatre. His portrayal of the role of Mark Branden, the returned convict, is very fine and he has the full sympathies of the audience during the entire performance.

Miss Claudia Barto the new leading lady, made her first appearance as Ruby Branden and acquits herself with marked ability. The lady has a very pleasing appearance and good stage method.

Manager Morosco understands the tastes of his patrons. He presents attractive plays with a fully competent company, and the results are satisfactory to both manager and people.

Next week will be presented, for the first time in this city, The Bells.

Matinees Sundays, at 2 P. M. Admission, 10 cents. Front reserved seats 10 cents extra.

Vienna Garden Theatre

Not to take in the Vienna is to miss seeing one of the prettiest rural places in the city, and one that by the good management of Mr. A. Larsen, ably assisted by his director of amusements. Mr. Geo. H. Wood, "the somewhat different comedian," has become one of our most popular family resorts.

This week, Tommy Warren, the champion feather-weight of the world, and Young Brady, feather-weight champion of the coast, awaken the greatest enthusiasm every night in their spirited three round contests. Delaur & Debrimont introduce their French operatic sketches, and Lang's Comiques, Jessie Cogill and Antoinette Bertrand put in new appearances. Billy Courtright and his company, Harry Moore, Miss Freddie Stockmeyer, Robzart and

George H. Wood's screaming comedy, The Banker's Escapade, has its first production this week.

Next week the new people are Lavender & Thompson, comedians; Prof. Paul, ventriloquist; S. G. Beasley, musical specialties; Miss Florence Wood, Gus Saville, Miss Ida Howell, Wm. Devere, author and comedian, and J. W. Barnes, the one-legged acrobat.

Wm. Devere will assume the position of stage manager next week. Miss Jessie Cogill and Bob Harrison are retained on the bill.

Business is steadily good at this commodious gothic cottage embosomed among the trees.

Prices, 10 and 20 cents.

Bella Union Theatre.

The new stars this week are J. J. Billadeau, Rose Lysle, Fitz & Devine and Wm. McPherson.

Lew Spencer's original comedy, Salvation Army Outdone, opens the bill this week, and Billadeau & Lysle introduce their laughable sketch, Conglomeration, and Fitz & Devine, the Irish millionaires, have caught the people.

The ladies of the company come in for a full share of the applause and crowd the male contingent very closely.

Billadeau's laughable comedy, Four Married Men, concludes the performance.

J. J. Billadeau takes the stage management this week and Prof. Sorg ably conducts the orchestra.

Friday nights are devoted to amateurs, and some of the novices have shown decided talent, and as they are ambitious they will soon be classed among the professionals.

The attraction next week will be California Dempsy and Frank Frayne in a grand four round glove contest, and Glenn & Weston, the masters of musical comedy. Mr. Chas. Fox's original comedy in one act, The Satin Garter, will conclude the performance every evening.

Hallivan's Cremorne Theatre.

Ned Nestell, the Old Soldier, has gone back into harness and is managing the stage in his usual manner, making himself a favorite with all.

Lang & Sharp, comedy sketch artists: J. C. Drummond, the great trick dancer; Effie Hull, vocalist, and Wm. Sutton, baritone, are the new people this week.

The musical team, Leopold and Fortune; Miss Sadie Fairfield, song and dance artiste; May Morrell, serio-comic; Hayes & Marion, now in their eighth week; Judd London and Jennie Haywood continue favorites,

Friday evenings, Ed. Cuffe and Jack German will engage in a six-round glove contest.

Ned Nestell's sensational drama in two acts, The Blacksmith's Vow, with Nestell in his strong impersonation of the Blacksmith, has made a pronounced hit with the Cremorne patrons.

Joe McAuliffe, the vanquisher of Tom Lees, and Con Riordan will appear in four round set-tos every evening next week. The simple announcement will be sufficient to draw a large attendance.

Original Theatre Comique.

The Comique presents an entire new bill this week, with songs and afterpiece. Numerous new novelties are produced by the various artists every evening and especial attention is paid to the first part.

This week the entertainment begins with selections by the entire company. Miss Stella Marion makes her first appearance in charming songs, Charles Morrell has new banjo songs, and Tommy Morris has another new specialty for the entertainment of the Comique's patrons.

The comical farce-comedy, The Serenaders, is the interlude act.

A Grand Spectacular Productio

the company in the cast, concludes the bill and the evening's fun.

The Comique's company is a strong one. It is a neat, compact minor theatre, and for many years has been a popular one.

Eureka Music Hall.

This is one of the neatest and most popular of our minor theatres Manager Walterstein runs a very strong company.

Lillie Mason, Laura White, Amy Gottlob Stella Walton, Pearl Iola Ed. Soldene, Chas. Berkeley, Fred Gottlob and Geo. C. Dunham.

White and Walton in beautiful duets, Berkeley & Howard in their nautical sketch, A Life on the Ocean Wave, and Franks' version of the Sue Can-Can are the important features of this week's bill.

George Dunham in his aged darkey impersonations, the Gottlobs in favorite sketches and Ed. Soldene's specialties are some of the important features of the week's bill.

EVENING EDITION

MONDAY.....MAY 27, 1889

FULL PROGRAMMES of all the Leading Theatre in San Francisco can be found in FIGARO—the only paper that has them.

SPECIALTY SQUIBS.

Matt Morgan, the famous artist, is busy at work on the grand spectacular production of "The Last Days of Pompeii" at Central Park, our coming out-door attraction.

Billy Emerson joins the Howard Athenæum Company in Chicago for the last two weeks of their season. His specialty will be his "Big Sunflower" song and dance as a white-face act. In the Fall he joins Cleveland's Haverly Minstrels.

Ferguson & Marr have George Wessells and Lillian Owen in their new piece which debuts in Philadelphia this week.

The Hofstad Bros., Meier and Edwin, make their first appearance at the Orpheum this week. Like Bishop they possess the same marvelous powers in reading the thoughts of others, finding hidden things, etc. They have created a great furore in Sweden, and have puzzled the scientists everywhere.

Wm. Devere takes the stage management of the Vienna Garden Theatre this week.

Joe McAuliffe and Con Riordon will have it out with gloves every night this week at the Cremorne. It will be something worth seeing to see McAuliffe in four rounds.

Missing. We regret to say that one of Manager Norris' company, that recently arrived in town, has been missing for over three days. Fears of foul play, or of his being secreted somewhere by unscrupulous parties, are entertained, and the police have been called into requisition to try and unravel the mystery of his disappearance. We are requested not to mention his name; but he is a well known performer, and when last seen had a head on him like a terrier. If any of his brother professionals should hear of his whereabouts Manager Norris will be sincerely grateful for any information regarding him left at the Standard Theatre, where he is billed to appear in the "Canine Paradox" this evening.

Manager W. S. Cleveland wants to establish a minstrel chain across the continent with permanent minstrel houses in New York, Chicago and San Francisco, and keep a change of talent traveling backward and forward on his chain.

The Comique presents an entire new bill this week. Charley Morrell and Tommy Morris contribute excellent specialty turns, and J. H. Burns is good in character parts.

A hot spell has wilted the theatrical business East already.

The scenery for the production of Julius Cæsar by Edwin Booth and Lawrence Barrett, is not only elaborate in detail but historically and classically correct. The Forum Scene, which stands for the first and fourth acts, gives a view of the Forum looking up towards the Tabularium, and including the Basilica Julia and the Temples of Dioscuren, Concordia, Vespasians and Juno Monets.

The recently burned Windsor Theatre, Chicago, is to be immediately rebuilt, and to be reopened August 15th. Recent dispatches inform us that Manager M. B. Leavitt has become the lessee of the new theatre. The Windsor was on the north side, and was a fine and commodious house. It will be rebuilt as an elegant and well appointed theatre in every respect, so as to favorably compare with Mr. Leavitt's other new theatre in Denver, and with his Bush St. house in this City.

Blanche Marsden's comedy Windfalls, will be taken on the road next season. It deals with country life in the Adirondacks, the three acts telling a story of a Christmas eve on the shores of Schroon Lake. The principal character is an old farmer, known as Rock of Ages.

One of the most accomplished actresses on the Paris stage, sometime ago, got into her head to marry an English jockey, and she did. She is now regretting the foolish step. The jockey, renowned for his brutality with horses, treats his wife as he would not dare to treat a thoroughbred, in public. He recently attempted to throw her under a passing omnibus. She complained to the [illegible] and exhibited proofs

PROFESSIONAL PICKINGS.

Edwin Booth and Lawrence Barrett will play together next season in St. Louis the week of Sept. 23d. The following week they separate, Booth and Modjeska begin their season in New York at the New Broadway Theatre, and Barrett opens in Chicago, where he presents his new play, "Ganelon," at the Chicago Opera House.

Brady & Webster's "After Dark" had a good run in Philadelphia. Bobby Gaylor's specialty in the concert scene has become a strong feature. It goes to New York this week. Brady & Webster will fill next year's time in the East, in the larger cities, and will not revisit this coast until June 30 1890, opening on that date in San Francisco.

Miss Ethel Brandon, we are happy to state, is rapidly recovering from her late severe illness.

Mr. Lawrence Barrett has perfected all necessary arrangements and Mme. Modjeska, with Lawrence Hanley as leading man, will fill the remaining dates of the Booth-Barrett combination Mrs. F. M. Bates has also been engaged for the tour. The tour opens June 10th, and embraces the Puget Sound and Oregon towns and Manager Maguire's Montana circuit.

Jeffreys-Lewis has been tendered a benefit. Foremost among the tenders are Booth, Barrett and Manager Al Hayman. Sunday evening, June 2nd, is the date fixed, and Manager Hayman has generously placed the Baldwin Theatre at her disposal, and it is believed that the benefit will be a substantial one. It is possible that Mme, Modjeska will participate in the benefit, supported by Miss Lewis and other well known talent.

Thos. G. Moses, the artist of the California Theatre, provided the Booth and Barrett Hamlet with new scenery.

Nat Goodwin closes his season at Sacramento June 8th, and takes the overland flyer to Chicago, right through, to see "that Blessed Baby."

Manager Hayman is recovering.

As you were. Arthur B. Chase remains with Booth, and will direct the Booth-Modjeska season, and Theodore Bromley and Joseph Levy will engineer the Barrett company, as of old.

Miss Marion A. Earle does a neat and artistic bit of characterization as Mrs. Medway, the wife of the turned up sea captain in "Turned Up."

Nat Goodwin will, by request, this week give us his wonderfully clever imitations of Edwin Booth, Lawrence Barrett, Joseph Jefferson, John T. Raymond, Stuart Robson, Frank Mayo and Sothern as Lord Dundreary in the farce of "A Widow's Victim." This, with that extremely funny three-act comedy, "Turned Up," will form the bill for his last week here.

"Katti, the Family Help," (no connection with the American play of "Kitty"), one of Willie Edouin's English comedy successes, will have its first production here at the Bush with Marietta Nash (the best Teddy ever in the "Bunch of Keys"), Geo. Lauri and Harry B. Bell, comedians, in the cast. It follows Nat Goodwin on June 3d.

It is rumored that Maze Edwards is coming from Boston bringing a company with him to open the Bijou Theatre some time in June.

The present week is the last of the Booth and Barrett engagement at the California. The programme is "Julius Cæsar" for Monday and Tuesday, "Hamlet" on Wednesday and Thursday, "The Fool's Revenge" and "David Garrick" on Friday, "Hamlet" for Saturday matinee, and "The Fool's Revenge" and "Yorick's Love" for Saturday, the farewell night.

Edward E. Rice, the theatrical manager and partner of Dixey, was arrested in New York on the 23d for contempt of court, in avoiding an order of examination. Failing to procure bail he passed the night in the Ludlow street jail. The trouble grows out of an old judgment in St. Louis for $16 000. Rice says he hasn't got no $16 000. Pleads poverty. The holders of the judgment cry "Dixey," and are trying to force a settlement on it.

Manager Gottlob of the Bush has his annual benefit on Friday night. Nat Goodwin and company furnish the entertainment in a double bill, and everybody will be at the popular manager's benefit.

At the close of the Booth and Barrett season on Saturday next the entire company take special train direct to New York.

A recent Berlin paper says Minnie Hauk made a disastrous failure in "Carmen" at Posen, where her best numbers were hissed.

The Bush gives a special matinee on Thursday, Decoration Day, instead of the usual Wednesday matinee this week.

At the close of the Booth and Barrett season it is Mr. Barrett's intention to leave as soon as possible for Carlsbad, where he will rest and recruit his health for the coming season.

Some one in Chicago has written a novel with its chief scene laid in heaven and now wants to get it dramatized so as to give the scene painter and property man a chance to do some realistic work.

At the close of the engagement of the Bostonians the Baldwin Theatre will be closed for two weeks. The seventh regular season will begin with Mr. Daniel Frohman's Lyceum Theatre Co. in The Wife. The great successes of the present season, Sweet Lavender and The Marquise, will be given during the engagement. Opening night, Monday, June 17.

Mr. Robert M. Eberle has been engaged to act as stage manager for the Booth-Modjeska combination next season. A

AMUSEMENTS, ETC.

Leavitt's New Bush Street Theatre.

By request Mr. Goodwin will open his bill this week with the screaming farce of "The Widow's Victim," in which he introduces his famous imitations of Edwin Booth, Lawrence Barrett Henry Irving, Joseph Jefferson, John T Raymond, Stuart Robson, Frank Mayo and Sothern as Lord Dundreary. This will form the first part of his bill.

The great "laugh-maker," the three-act comedy of "Turned Up," will be retained as the afterpiece to send its audiences home in the best of humor, for his third and last week.

Mr Goodwin as a comedian is inimitable and certainly he has proven here the greatest of successes against the strongest of oppositions. His company in support embraces an unusual amount of talent, and his season has been a most enjoyable one.

For casts see regular programme on first page.

The usual mid-week matinee at the Bush for this week will be given Thursday at 2 P. M., Decoration Day, instead of the usual Wednesday

A prominent night this week will be on Friday evening, when Manager J. J. Gottlob's annual benefit takes place; which occasion will draw a fashionable house and be a red-letter night. Secure your seats in advance. Mr. Nat Goodwin and company will appear in a double bill.

Sunday, the last night of the Goodwin season, will be marked by being set apart for the benefit of his manager, Mr. Robert Arthur, whose many friends in this city have been the instigators of the testimonial.

—o—

Another of Willie Edouin's English comedy successes, "Katti," the Family Help, said to resemble his "Turned Up" in distinctive individuality of characters and in being an "intensely funny comedy," follows the Goodwin season at the Bush next week. Marietta Nash, the original and best of Teddies in "The Bunch of Keys," George Lauri and Harry B. Bell, two good comedians, have the principal parts.

See cast and list of musical features in extra programme announcement in adjacent column.

By the way, "Katti" must not be confounded to its disadvantage with "Kitty," the piece that Mestayer appeared here in. "Katti" is a different kind of a play—and a success.

Baldwin Theatre.

The Bostonians English Opera Company, that have deservedly won success, are in their third week at the Baldwin.

They give a very enjoyable rendering of their operas, giving due effects to their individual parts in singing and acting and impressing their audiences most favorably with their capabilities in concerted pieces.

The following operas will be sung this week, the last week of the Bostonians, and the last week of the Baldwin's sixth season:

To night and Saturday night, Dorothy.

Wednesday night and Saturday matinee, Bohemian Girl.

Tuesday and Thursday nights, Mignon will be repeated with its three prima donnas in the cast

Friday night, first time on any stage, the new opera comique, Suzette, adapted from the French of Chivot and Duru, music by Latour.

—o—

A special performance will be given at the Baldwin on Sunday night for the farewell benefit of Jeffreys-Lewis, a talented actress and gifted woman, whose lines have not fallen in pleasant places in California, prior to her departure East. As Mme. Modjeska, Miss Kate Castleton and the beneficiary will appear, supported by a well selected company, a strong entertainment will be presented.

Alcazar Theatre.

The Alcazar has W. H Powers' Company, an engagement of one week at the Alcazar, presenting the picturesque Irish drama, "The Ivy Leaf." The company is one of unusual excellence and includes a quartette of trained voices, a corps of dancers, and a genuine Irish bag-piper. A feature of the production will be the beautiful scenery—a car-load being used to illustrate the play, giving exact reproductions of historical places in Ireland where the action of the play occurs.

"The Ivy Leaf" is a wholesome, clean idyl of Irish love, Irish patriotism and Irish fidelity, framed fittingly in the fair scenery of the Killarney Lakes. It deals with the bright side of the Irish character. It is free from all political interest, and has no evictions, no poverty or distress, or overdrawn pictures of Ireland's woes. Several years of success has stamped

New California Theatre.

Booth and Barrett are in the last week of their farewell engagement here.

The repertoire for this week, the last of the Booth and Barrett season, is:

Monday and Tuesday, Julius Cæsar; Booth as Brutus, Barrett as Cassius.

Wednesday and Thursday evenings and Saturday matinee, Hamlet; Booth as Hamlet; Barrett as Laertes. See cast in extra programme announcement.

Friday, double bill, Fool's Revenge, with Booth as Bertuccio, and David Garrick, with Barrett in the title role.

Saturday night, the last night of Booth and Barrett, The Fool's Revenge, Booth as the jester Bertuccio; and Yorick's Love, Barrett as Master Yorick.

The Bostonians will open at the California June 3d, for one week only.

Seats on sale Thursday.

Orpheum Opera House.

This week, the Jack Dempsey All Star Specialty Company will be the attraction; Sheffer & Blakely, negro comedians; Nash, the bicycle wonder; Lawler & Thornton, character change artists; J. D. Kelly, Irish comedian; Miss Tillie Morrissey, vocalist; Baker & West, musical artists; the Hofstad Bros., mind readers; the Smiths, musical team, and Dempsey & Costigan, all star artists.

See list of company in programme announcement elsewhere on this page.

Decoration Day, May 30th, an extra grand matinee will be given at 2 P. M.; 25 cents to all parts of the house.

Standard Theatre.

A troupe of thirty educated dogs will give two hour exhibitions of a novel and interesting character at the Standard every night this week. These dogs form what Prof. C. Norris calls his Canine Paradox, and have won fame at the East for the wonderful things they do. They open in a very amusing minstrel first part. In the olio they sing, stand on their heads, walk the tight rope, turn somersaults, play acts and in fact do everything but talk. Fritz, the champion trick dog, plays the piano, reads, adds and subtracts, tells his age, and goes down among the audience, looks at a watch, and tells what time it is. They close their performance with their revolving canine pyramid by sixteen dogs, a la trapeze. A most wonderful dog performance ever seen.

The Eastern papers say that Prof. Norris has developed the dog intelligence to its highest condition in his Canine Paradox company.

Take the children to see them. Matinees, Wednesday at 4 P. M., Saturday at 2 P. M.

The Battle of Vicksburg.

The grand panorama of the Battle of Vicksburg at the Panorama Building, corner of Eddy and Mason streets, is one that no American should fail to see. It gives a grand view of the battle with the conflict at its height on the land and the bombardment from the river with the correct positions of the engaging forces and the proper placement of the ironclads in the bombardment. It is a great painting, and excels the Battle of Waterloo in graphic power and vivid reality. Destruction reigns on every side. The burning buildings, the bursting shells, the desperate charges, the hand-to-hand conflicts, and the dying and wounded, all depict with startling realism one of the hottest conflicts in history.

Open from 9 A. M. to 6 P. M.

Morosco's Amphitheatre.

Managers Morosco & Byrnes have put in a most complete fireproof partition between the stage and the auditorium, from wall to wall of their big theatre. It is constructed of iron lathings on both sides of the studding. The decorators have finished the immense ceiling of the theatre with harmonious panels.

This week will be presented, for the first time in this city, The Bells. It is also the last week of Mr. Carden's engagement.

Mr. Carden is an actor of unusual merit. His reading is clear and his manner quite impressive. He has become very popular with the patrons of the theatre.

Miss Claudia Barto, the new leading lady, made her first appearance here last week and acquits herself with marked ability. The lady has a very pleasing appearance and good stage method.

Manager Morosco understands the tastes of his patrons. He presents attractive plays with a fully competent company, and the results are satisfactory to both manager and people.

Matinees Sundays, at 2 P. M. Admission, 10 cents. Front reserved seats 10 cents extra.

Vienna Garden Theatre

Not to take in the Vienna is to miss seeing one of the prettiest rural places in the city, and one that by the good management of Mr. A. Larsen has become one of our most popular family resorts.

This week the new people are Lavender & Thompson, comedians; Prof. Paul, ventriloquist; S. G. Beasley, musical specialties; Miss Florence Wood, Gus Saville, Miss Ida Howell, Wm. Devere, author and comedian, and J. W. Barnes, the one-legged acrobat.

Wm. Devere assumes the position of stage manager this week. Miss Jessie Cogill and Bob Harrison are retained on the bill

Business is steadily good at this commodious gothic cottage embosomed among the trees.

Prices, 10 and 20 cents.

Bella Union Theatre.

The attraction this week will be California Dempsy and Frank Frayne in a grand four round glove contest, and Glenn & Weston, the masters of musical comedy. Mr. Chas. Fox's original comedy in one act, The Satin Garter, will conclude the performance every evening.

The ladies of the company come in for a full share of the applause and crowd the male contingent very closely.

J. J. Billadeau has the stage management, and Prof. Sorg ably conducts the orchestra.

Friday nights are devoted to amateurs, and some of the novices have shown decided talent, and as they are ambitious they will soon be classed among the professionals.

Hallinan's Cremorne Theatre.

Ned Nestell, the Old Soldier, has gone back into harness and is managing the stage in his usual manner, making himself a favorite with Joe McAuliff, the vanquisher of Tom Lees, and Con Riordan will appear in four round set-tos every evening this week. The simple announcement will be sufficient to draw a large attendance. The Great Ellwood, female impersonator; Mattie Wallace, vocalist, and Sadie Stevens are also new faces.

Original Theatre Comique.

The Comique presents an entire new bill this week, with songs and afterpiece. Numerous new novelties are produced by the various artists every evening and especial attention is paid to the first part.

This week the entertainment begins with selections by the entire company. Charles Morrell has new banjo songs and an entire change of witty sayings for the entertainment of the Comique's patrons.

The comical farce-comedy, The Runaways, is the interlude act.

The laughable farce, The Bathers, with all the company in the cast, concludes the bill and the evening's fun.

The Cooke, John and Lou, make their re-appearance this week. All the favorite vocalists have been retained.

The Comique's company is a strong one. It is a neat, compact minor theatre, and for many years has been a popular one.

Eureka Music Hall.

This is one of the neatest and most popular of our minor theatres. Manager Walterstein runs a very strong company.

Lillie Mason, Laura White, Cora Everett, Stella Walton, Pearl Iola, Stella Merriam, Ed. Soldene, Chas. Berkeley, Chas. Rice and Geo. O. Dunham.

The first part introduces the entire company in new and pleasing selections. Rice & Everett appear in their original sketch, "German Antics," introducing songs, dances and medleys.

Chas. Berkeley's Can-Can is retained on the bill. It has made an unmistakable hit.

The Eureka gives a matinee every Sunday.

Sunday Excursions on the Bay.

The steamer Tamalpais, renovated and placed in complete order, will make family excursions every Sunday during the season to Mare Island, Vallejo and Martinez; leaving Sausalito ferry slip, foot of Clay street, at 10 15 A. M. and returning at 7 30 P. M. Tickets, for the round trip, 50 cents; children, 25 cents. This includes an enjoyable thirty-mile sail through San Francisco and San Pablo bays and the Straits of Carquinez. The U. S. First Infantry Band will furnish the music. Lunches on the boat at city prices. The comfort of the excursions, under the management of P. H. Hink, will be properly looked after.

The fund for the Lester Wallack statue reached $188 last week.

Brussels is to the front with the Diable a la Maison, a comic opera in four acts, founded on Taming of the Shrew, of which an English version is being made for London.

"Who is the happiest actress in England?" was recently asked by a London society paper, and the editor received 1,874 answers. Not one from a married woman.

Lately a free minstrel show was given in Jackson, Mich., and after each song or dance the manager extracted women's teeth, as he is a dentist. Every time a tooth was pulled the band played, and it is believed that many of the women had their teeth pulled for the sake of hearing the music.

Cal Wagner, besides Billy Birch, will have John H. Mack, Swift and Chase and Charles Haywood in his new minstrel company to open at Rome, New York, June 3d.

The cast of The Brigands at the Casino, New York, is a very large and a good one. Miss Blanche Marsden, who makes her first metropolitan appearance in comic opera in this play, consented to lead the chorus, and in so doing showed that she was one of the cleverest of our coming comic opera singers. She is certainly one of the most graceful actresses on the stage to-day, and surrounded as she was by a bevy of pretty chorus girls, managed to draw considerable attention both by her clever acting and her superb figure.

De Mille and Belasco are at work on a new play for the Lyceum Theatre, New York. It is called The Charity Ball, and will begin the fall season of the stock company at the home theatre. In it Herbert Kelcey will enact the role of an athletic young clergyman.

Russia has a musical prodigy who is four years old and is said to have masterly execution on a piano made for his tiny fingers. His name is Paul Kocsakis.

EVENING EDITION

TUESDAY.....MAY 28, 1889

FULL PROGRAMMES of all the Leading Theatre in San Francisco can be found in FIGARO—the only paper that has them.

SPECIALTY SQUIBS.

They had a lively sensation at the Bella Union Theatre last night. "California Dempsey" offered from the stage $25 to any 130-pound man in the audience that would stand before him five rounds. At first his challenge was not taken, but eventually a sturdily built young fellow, announcing himself as "Frenchy from Texas," said he would "give him a dash if he died for it." He put on the gloves, and proved a tough slogger. The contest was hot from the commencement, and the California Dempsey was getting much the worst of it when he was knocked down in the fourth round and had his right shoulder broken in the fall. He was taken to the receiving hospital and properly cared for.

Frank Lavarnie and Jessie Le Seur are in Galveston, Texas.

Cort's Standard Theatre, Seattle, May 27th: Burns & Donnelly, John J. Black, Lillie Gordon, Heeley Bros., Madge Darrell, Moreland & Nixon and May Filburn.

Manager Ed. Smith has rebuilt the Olympic Theatre, Ashland, Wis., and opened it with a first-class company May 20th.

Theatre Comique, Spokane Falls, May 27th: Matsuda (the Jap) and J. H. Faulkner, Minnie Pierce, Hues & Miller, Thos. Price, Maud Cleveland, Walter Le Roy, Florence Clayton.

Lyceum Theatre, Ogden, May 27th: Lulu Constanteen, champion club swinger, Ella Burton and Mattie Blewes. All last week's favorites retained.

Matt Morgan, the famous artist, is busy at work on the grand spectacular production of "The Last Days of Pompeii" at Central Park, our coming out-door attraction.

Billy Emerson joins the Howard Athenæum Company in Chicago for the last two weeks of their season. His specialty will be his "Big Sunflower" song and dance as a white-face act. In the Fall he joins Cleveland's Haverly Minstrels.

Ferguson & Marr have George Wessells and Lilian Owen in their new piece which debuts in Philadelphia this week.

The Holstad Bros., Meier and Edwin, make their first appearance at the Orpheum this week. Like Bishop they possess the same marvelous powers in reading the thoughts of others, finding hidden things, etc. They have created a great furore in Sweden, and have puzzled the scientists everywhere.

Wm. Davere takes the stage management of the Vienna Garden Theatre this week.

Joe McAuliffe and Con Riordon will have it out with gloves every night this week at the Cremorne. It will be something worth seeing to see McAuliffe in four rounds.

The Comique presents an entire new bill this week. Charley Morrell and Tommy Morris contribute excellent specialty turns, and J. H. Burns is good in character parts.

Miss Ethel Brandon, we are happy to state, is rapidly recovering from her late severe illness.

Nat Goodwin will, by request, this week give us his wonderfully clever imitations of Edwin Booth, Lawrence Barrett, Joseph Jefferson, John T. Raymond, Stuart Robson, Frank Mayo and Sothern as Lord Dundreary in the farce of "A Widow's Victim." This, with that extremely funny three-act comedy, "Turned Up," will form the bill for his last week here.

The present week is the last of the Booth and Barrett engagement at the California. The programme is "Julius Cæsar" for Monday and Tuesday, "Hamlet" on Wednesday and Thursday, "The Fool's Revenge" and "David Garrick" on Friday, "Hamlet" for Saturday matinee, and "The Fool's Revenge" and "Yorick's Love" for Saturday, the farewell night.

Manager Gottlob of the Bush has his annual benefit on Friday night. Nat

PROFESSIONAL GLEANINGS.

Old Jed Prouty, the Union Square Theatre success, with Richard Golden as Old Jed, opens at the California Theatre June 10th.

Thos. W. Keene has closed his season and is now devoting his vacation to the study of Louis XI, in which Manager Ariel Barney intends introducing him next season.

The scientist who is mounting Jumbo's skeleton says the elphant was cutting its third set of teeth and was therefore about thirty-five years old. An elephant is entitled to six sets of teeth, the last coming after he is 150 years old. Now, why should an elephant have three sets of teeth before he is thirty-five, and be nothing but a hay-eater at that, when a man has to live twice as long and tackle everything from doughnuts to boarding-house beefsteak with one? And yet they say Nature is a wise provider. Then there is the difference in trunks. Everyone knows that this same Nature has provided the animal, who really does not need a trunk, with one that never wears out, and is exempt from boarding-house and all other attachments. While man has to provide one for himself to be banged about by baggage smashers, and seized by hotel-keepers and petty tradesmen with impunity. The elephant has the best of us all around.

The Alcazar gives a special matinee on Thursday, Decoration Day.

Every dog has his day and some of them matinees. Manager Norris' dogs give a matinee at the Standard at 4 o'clock to-morrow for the school children.

Jeffreys-Lewis has a benefit Sunday evening. Manager Hayman has generously placed the Baldwin Theatre at her disposal, and it is believed that the benefit will be a substantial one. The play of Mary Stuart will constitute the performance, with Mme. Modjeska as Mary Stuart and Jeffreys-Lewis as Queen Elizabeth. A good company will appear in support.

"Katti, the Family Help," (no connection with the American play of "Kitty"), one of Willie Edouin's English comedy successes, will have its first production here at the Bush with Marietta Nash (the best Teddy ever in the "Bunch of Keys"), Geo. Lauri and Harry B. Bell, comedians, in the cast. It follows Nat Goodwin on June 3d. See cast in extra advertised programme.

"Clover," an operetta by Von Suppe, and new to this country, produced at Palmer's Theatre, N. Y., recently by the McCaull Opera Co., is in three acts and a prologue, and the book is by Genee and Zappert. The operetta is pronounced very generally to be a positive success and the McCaull Company hope to live on "Clover" during the Summer season.

At some of the New York theatres now, when there is a certainty of a crowd at a matinee performance, they refuse to sell any seats to a man unaccompanied by a lady. They will tell you at the box office that the matinees are for the ladies especially, and that a man alone can stand up or come at night. He can come alone at night and the women can't.

Booth, the greatest living Hamlet, at the California Wednesday and Thursday nights, with Barrett as Laertes, and the Booth and Barrett Company in support.

There is something inspirational in Nat Goodwin's imitations. He gets Raymond's Col. Sellers down to a dot in voice, grandiloquence and eccentric gesture; looks as tragic as Booth himself in his impersonation of him, and imitates exactly the peculiarities of J. P. Stoddard, and the squeaking voice and petulant manner of Robson.

Miss Agnes Acres as Lucius makes a graceful boy, and sings the song at Brutus' feet charmingly, posing in the scene as pretty as a picture "all the while."

Edwin Booth and Lawrence Barrett will play together next season in St. Louis the week of Sept. 23d. The following week they separate, Booth and Modjeska begin their season in New York at the New Broadway Theatre, and Barrett opens in Chicago, where he presents his new play, "Ganelon," at the Chicago Opera House.

Brady & Webster's "After Dark" had a good run in Philadelphia. Boboy Gaylor's specialty in the concert scene has become a strong feature. It goes to New York this week. Brady & Webster will fill next year's time in the East, in the larger cities, and will not revisit this coast until June 30 1890, opening on that date in San Francisco.

The Bush gives a special matinee on Thursday, Decoration Day, instead of the usual Wednesday matinee this week.

Mr. Lawrence Barrett has perfected all necessary arrangements and Mme. Modjeska, with Lawrence Hanley as leading man, will fill the remaining dates of the Booth-Barrett combination. Mrs. F. M. Bates has also been engaged for the tour. The tour opens June 10th, and embraces the Puget Sound and Oregon towns and Manager Maguire's Montana circuit.

As you were. Arthur B. Chase remains with Booth, and will direct the Booth-Modjeska season, and Theodore Bromley and Joseph Levy will engineer the Barrett company, as of old.

Miss Marion A. Earle does a neat and artistic bit of characterization as Mrs. Medway, the wife of the turned up sea captain in "Turned Up."

A hot spell has wilted the theatrical business East already.

At the close of the engagement of the Bostonians the Baldwin Theatre will be closed for two weeks. The seventh regular season will begin with Mr. Daniel Frohman's Lyceum Theatre Co. in The Wife. The great successes of the present

AMUSEMENTS, ETC.

Leavitt's New Bush Street Theatre.

By request Mr. Nat C Goodwin opens his bill this week with the screaming farce of "The Widow's Victim," in which he introduces his famous imitations of Edwin Booth, Lawrence Barrett, Henry Irving, Joseph Jefferson, John T. Raymond, Stuart Robson, Frank Mayo, Sothern as Lord Dundreary and others. His imitations are remarkably life like Those of of Raymond and Barrett in particular, in voice and action are exact counterparts of the originals. His song is a great go, and the farce is a lovely one. Miss Vivian, the Cleopatra of the afterpiece, renders good support.

The great "laugh-maker," the three-act comedy of "Turned Up," will be retained as the afterpiece to send its audiences home in the best of humor, for his third and last week.

Mr. Goodwin as a comedian is inimitable and certainly he has proven here the greatest of successes against the strongest of oppositions. His company in support embraces an unusual amount of talent, and his season has been a most enjoyable one.

For casts see regular programme on first page.

The usual mid-week matinee at the Bush for this week will be given Thursday at 2 P. M. Decoration Day, instead of the usual Wednesday.

A prominent night this week will be on Friday evening, when Manager J. J. Gottlob's annual benefit takes place; which occasion will draw a fashionable house and be a red-letter night. Secure your seats in advance. Mr. Nat Goodwin and company will appear in a double bill.

Sunday, the last night of the Goodwin season, will be marked by being set apart for the benefit of his manager, Mr. Robert Arthur, whose many friends in this city have been the instigators of the testimonial.

—o—

Another of Willie Edouin's English comedy successes, "Katti," the Family Help, said to resemble his "Turned Up" in distinctive individuality of characters and in being an "intensely funny comedy," follows the Goodwin season at the Bush next week. Marietta Nash, the original and best of Teddies in "The Bunch of Keys," George Lauri and Harry B. Bell, two good comedians, have the principal parts.

See cast and list of musical features in extra programme announcement in adjacent column.

By the way, "Katti" must not be confounded to its disadvantage with "Kitty," the piece that Mestayer appeared here in. "Katti" is a different kind of a play—and a success.

Baldwin Theatre.

The Bostonians English Opera Company, that have deservedly won success, are in their third week at the Baldwin.

They give a very enjoyable rendering of their operas, giving due effects to their individual parts in singing and acting and impressing their audiences most favorably with their capabilities in concerted pieces.

Dorothy was delightfully sung last evening. The principals were well aided by the chorus, and the orchestration was perfect.

The following operas will be sung this week, the last week of the Bostonians, and the last week of the Baldwin's sixth season:

Wednesday night and Saturday matinee, Bohemian Girl

Tuesday and Thursday nights, Mignon will be repeated with its three prima donnas in the cast.

Friday night, first time on any stage, the new opera comique, Suzette, adapted from the French of Chivot and Duru, music by Latour.

Saturday night, Dorothy.

—o—

A special performance will be given at the Baldwin on Sunday night for the farewell benefit of Jeffreys Lewis, a talented actress and gifted woman, whose lines have not fallen in pleasant places in California, prior to her departure East. "Mary Stuart" will form the bill with Mme. Modjeska in the title role. Miss Lewis as Queen Elizabeth, and a well selected company in support.

Alcazar Theatre.

The Alcazar has W. H. Powers' Company, presenting the picturesque Irish drama, "The Ivy Leaf." The company is one of unusual excellence and includes a quartette of trained voices, a corps of dancers, and a genuine Irish bag-piper. A feature of the production is the beautiful scenery—a car-load being used to illustrate the play, giving exact reproductions of historical places in Ireland where the action of the play occurs. There is also a fine revolving tower scene, and a sensational one, where an eagle flies up among the crags bearing a boy or child in its talons.

"The Ivy Leaf" is a wholesome, clean idyl of Irish love, Irish patriotism and Irish fidelity, framed fittingly in the fair scenery of the Killarney Lakes. It deals with the bright side of the Irish character. It is free from all political interest, and has no evictions, no poverty or distress, or overdrawn pictures of Ireland's woes. Several years of success has stamped "The Ivy Leaf" as a model Irish drama.

Smith O'Brien does his work in an earnest, manly way, and bears a more than favorable comparison with W. J. Scanlan. He is also a pleasant singer. A. W. Fremont is good as the villain, and Nellie Rosebud is a charming Colleen.

The specialties introduced by the company are very clever.

Special matinee Thursday, Decoration Day.

The Fairy's Well is underlined for next week.

New California Theatre.

Booth and Barrett are in the last week of their farewell engagement here.

Julius Cæsar with Booth as Brutus, Barrett as Cassius, was a great performance last night. Mr. Booth gives a mental grandeur to Brutus that no other actor of the time can give, and Barrett's Cassius ranks as the best on the stage. Their quarrel scene is made impressive without straining, and their death scenes are grand ones. The support is all that can be asked for, and the scenery the perfection of the painters' art. The tragedy will be repeated to-night for the last time.

Wednesday and Thursday evenings and Saturday matinee, Hamlet, the greatest Hamlet living. Booth as Hamlet; Barrett as Laertes. See cast in extra programme announcement.

Friday, double bill, Fool's Revenge, with Booth as Bertrucio, and David Garrick, with Barrett in the title role.

Saturday night, the last night of Booth and Barrett. The Fool's Revenge, Booth as the jester Bertuccio; and Yorick's Love, Barrett as Master Yorick.

The Bostonians will open at the California June 3d, for one week only.

Seats on sale Thursday.

Orpheum Opera House.

This week, the Jack Dempsey All Star Specialty Company will be the attraction; Sheffer & Blakely, negro comedians; Nash, the bicycle wonder; Lawler & Thornton, character change artists; J. D. Kelly, Irish comedian; Miss Tillie Morrissey, vocalist; Baker & West, musical artists; the Hofstad Bros., mind readers; the Smiths, musical team, and Dempsey & Costigan, all star artists.

The Orpheum have another excellent Specialty Company this week. Nash is the best cyclist that has ever appeared in this city. The Hofstad Brothers give some very successful exhibits of mind-reading. The other people are also good in their various specialties. The Orpheum overflowed and many were turned away.

The combination are booked for two weeks, and Managers Walter & Co. will have crowded houses.

See list of company in programme announcement elsewhere on this page.

Decoration Day, May 30th, an extra grand matinee will be given at 2 P. M.; 25 cents to all parts of the house.

Standard Theatre.

A troupe of thirty educated dogs will give two hour exhibitions of a novel and interesting character at the Standard every night this week. These dogs form what Prof. C. Norris calls his Canine Paradox, and have won fame at the East for the wonderful things they do. They open in a very amusing minstrel first part. In the olio they sing, stand on their heads, walk the tight rope, turn somersaults, play acts and in fact do everything but talk. Fritz, the champion trick dog, plays the piano, reads, adds and subtracts, tells his age, and goes down among the audience, looks at a watch, and tells what time it is. They close their performance with their revolving canine pyramid by sixteen dogs, a la trapeze. A most wonderful dog performance ever seen.

It is really wonderful to see how Prof. Norris has developed the dog intelligence to its highest condition in his Canine Paradox company. The three clown dogs are very funny. They make the performance lively and get lots of applause.

The house was good, with many ladies in the audience.

Take the children to see them. Matinees, Wednesday at 4 P. M., Saturday at 2 P. M.

The Battle of Vicksburg.

The grand panorama of the Battle of Vicksburg at the Panorama Building, corner of Eddy and Mason streets, is one that no American should fail to see. It gives a grand view of the battle with the conflict at its height on the land and the bombardment from the river with the correct positions of the engaging forces and the proper placement of the ironclads in the bombardment. It is a great painting, and excels the Battle of Waterloo in graphic power and vivid reality. Destruction reigns on every side. The burning buildings, the bursting shells, the desperate charges, the hand-to-hand conflicts, and the dying and wounded, all depict with startling realism one of the hottest conflicts in history.

Open from 9 A. M. to 6 P. M.

Morosco's Amphitheatre.

Managers Morosco & Byrnes have put in a most complete fireproof partition between the stage and the auditorium, from wall to wall of their big theatre. It is constructed of iron lathings on both sides of the studding. The decorators have finished the immense ceiling of the theatre with harmonious panels.

This week will be presented, for the first time in this city, The Bells. It is also the last week of Mr. Carden's engagement.

Mr. Carden is an actor of unusual merit. His reading is clear and his manner quite impressive. He has become very popular with the patrons of the theatre.

Miss Olaudia Barto, the new leading lady, made her first appearance here last week and acquits herself with marked ability. The lady has a very pleasing appearance and good stage method.

Manager Morosco understands the tastes of his patrons. He presents attractive plays with a fully competent company, and the results are satisfactory to both manager and people.

Matinees Sundays, at 2 P. M. Admission, 10 cents. Front reserved seats 10 cents extra.

Vienna Garden Theatre

Not to take in the Vienna is to miss seeing one of the prettiest rural places in the city, and one that by the good management of Mr. A. Larsen has become one of our most popular family resorts.

This week the new people are Lavender & Thompson, comedians; Prof. Paul, ventriloquist; S. G. Beasley, musical specialties; Miss Florence Wood, Gus Seville, Flora Hastings, Wm. Devere, author and comedian, and J. W. Barnes, the one-legged acrobat.

Wm. Devere assumes the position of stage manager this week. Miss Jessie Cogill and Bob Harrison are retained on the bill.

The evening's entertainment concludes with Bob Harrison's roaring comedy, The Coopers.

Business is steadily good at this commodious gothic cottage embosomed among the trees.

Prices, 10 and 20 cents.

Bella Union Theatre.

The attraction this week will be California Dempsey and Frank Frayne in a grand four round glove contest, and Glenn & Weston, the masters of musical comedy. Mr. Chas. Fox's original comedy in one act, The Satin Garter, will conclude the performance every evening.

The ladies of the company come in for a full share of the applause and crowd the male contingent very closely.

J. J. Billadeau has the stage management, and Prof. Sorg ably conducts the orchestra.

Friday nights are devoted to amateurs, and some of the novices have shown decided talent, and as they are ambitious they will soon be classed among the professionals.

Hallinan's Cremorne Theatre.

Ned Nestell, the Old Soldier, has gone back into harness and is managing the stage in his usual manner, making himself a favorite with all.

Joe McAuliffe, the vanquisher of Tom Lees, and Con Riordan will appear in four round set-tos every evening this week. The simple announcement will be sufficient to draw a large attendance. The Great Ellwood, female impersonator; Mattie Wallace, vocalist, and Sadie Stevens are also new faces.

Drummond & Hull, Miss Sadie Fairfield, song and dance artists; May Morrell, serio comic; Hayes & Marion, now in their ninth week; and Lang & Sharp, continue favorites.

Original Theatre Comique.

The Comique presents an entire new bill this week, with songs and afterpiece. Numerous new novelties are produced by the various artists every evening and especial attention is paid to the first part.

This week the entertainment begins with selections by the entire company. Charles Morrell has new banjo songs and an entire change of witty sayings for the entertainment of the Comique's patrons.

The management of the Comique have specially engaged Mr. Deacon Jones, champion feather-weight of San Francisco, and Mr. Billy Byron, champion feather-weight of Los Angeles, to appear in a friendly glove contest every evening.

The comical farce-comedy, The Runaways, is the interlude act.

The laughable farce, The Bathers, with all the company in the cast, concludes the bill and the evening's fun.

The Cooke, John and Lou, make their re-appearance this week. All the favorite vocalists have been retained.

The Comique's company is a strong one. It is a neat, compact minor theatre, and for many years has been a popular one.

EVENING EDITION

WEDNESDAY.....MAY 29, 1889

FULL PROGRAMMES of all the Leading Theatre in San Francisco can be found in FIGARO—the only paper that has them.

PROFESSIONAL PICKINGS.

Smith O'Brien—a name that appeals to the patriotic Irish heart—sings his Irish songs in "The Ivy Leaf" with sweetness and expression, and that Irish bag-piper has just come over.

Harry Lee is here superintending the preparations for the production of "The Cavalier" at the Alcazar on June 10th.

Kate Castleton volunteered for Jeffreys-Lewis' benefit. But as 'Mary Stuart' was put up for the bill there was no chance for bonnie Kate to put in an appearance.

L. R. Stockwell has got Two Orphans to look out for now. He bought them, or at least the Coast rights for the play of that name from Kate Claxton.

Webster & Brady's "She," a California production, dramatized by W. A. Brady, had a run of 100 weeks before it closed in Worcester.

Booth and Barrett and company leave direct for New York in a special train on Monday.

Young Sothern is coming back to the Baldwin next season. We hope he won't bring "Chum" with him.

Oscar Weil, the old San Francisco music teacher, is the father or godfather of "Sazette." He "adapted" it. The opera has its first production on any stage at the Baldwin on Friday night.

Booth and Barrett's last nights: "Hamlet" on Wednesday and Thursday, "The Fool's Revenge" and "David Garrick" on Friday, "Hamlet" for Saturday matinee, and "The Fool's Revenge" and "Yorick's Love" for Saturday, the farewell night.

The following is a sample of sublime press-working as it lately appeared in a Rutland, Vt., paper a few days before a recent musical entertainment: Hail, music, hail! Whence art thou? From what caves dost thou spring? O music? thou divine, mysterious thing. The large sale of tickets on Saturday for the coming music festival is a flattering testimonial to the management of the association.

The Gaiety Theatre, London, season of French plays, under Abbey and Grau, with Coquelin and Jane Hading, will begin on the 29th.

Mlle. Carmencita, a notable Spanish dancer, has been engaged by Bonsey Kirkfly for his new production at Niblo's, New York, in August.

Le Clair and Leslie will embark for England on the 29th.

The American tour of the Lydia Thompson Burlesque Troupe terminated at Hartford, Conn., on the 26th. Miss Thompson will go to Europe for a brief rest, and so will Marie Williams; but these solid built English chorus girls prefer the weekly stipend of sixteen American dollars to the eighteen shillings of London, and they will remain where beer and oysters are cheap and wages higher.

Adelaide Moore and her Love Story will arrive from England in two weeks.

Two streets in Berlin have just been named in honor of Bach and Wagner.

In England the Church and stage pull together. Lately the Vicar of Ramsgate obtained a theatrical license for a local hall, and another clergyman obtained a like privilege for Chatham College Hall.

Helen Barry is looking for an actor. She is engaged now in making the rounds of the different theatres of New York with a view to selecting artists for the cast of T. Malcolm Watson's romantic comedy drama, For Love and Liberty, which she is to produce at the Union-square Theatre on September 23d next. She hopes to find an actor of the type of the late Charles R. Thorne for her leading man, and she has an idea that some such genius lies somewhere hidden under a bushel.

Frank Mordaunt, C. W. Couldock, W. F. Owen and Ian Robertson will be in the Chicago production of the Tempest at McVicker's Theatre.

Whistling Frank Lawton, is with the Howard Atheneum Company for the summer.

Those minstrel Missionaries, Thatcher, Primrose & West, open at the new California Theatre June 24th.

"The eagle bird by chance" gets the baby in Power's Ivy Leaf at the Alcazar every

Charley Reed is going to swim out for himself. Clay Greene is now writing a farce-comedy for him for next season.

Robert Hilliard, of Goodwin's company, is to be Helen Dauvray's leading man.

We will have to brace up against "Twelve Temptations" at the Grand in a couple of weeks more.

The 100th performance of Chas. Hoyt's "Midnight Bell," the play that was born in San Francisco, will be celebrated at the New York Bijou to-night by the distribution of souvenirs.

The Worcester Theatre fire did not interfere with Lewis Morrison's "Faust" tour, which will close at its appointed time to-night. He produced new appointments and wardrobes in New York and played right along.

Edwin Booth and Lawrence Barrett will play together next season in Louisville the week of Sept. 23d in the big Amphitheatre Auditorium. The following week they separate, Booth and Modjeska begin their season in New York at the New Broadway Theatre, and Barrett opens in Chicago, where he presents his new play, "Ganelon," at the Chicago Opera House.

The Alcazar gives a special matinee on Thursday, Decoration Day.

Jeffreys-Lewis has a benefit Sunday evening. Manager Hayman has generously placed the Baldwin Theatre at her disposal, and it is believed that the benefit will be a substantial one. The play of Mary Stuart will constitute the performance, with Mme. Modjeska as Mary Stuart and Jeffreys-Lewis as Queen Elizabeth. A good company will appear in support.

"Katti, the Family Help," (no connection with the American play of "Kitty"), one of Willie Edouin's English comedy successes, will have its first production here at the Bush with Marietta Nash (the best Teddy ever in the "Bunch of Keys"), Geo. Lauri and Harry B. Bell, comedians, in the cast. It follows Nat Goodwin on June 3d. See cast in extra advertised programme.

"Clover," an operetta by Von Suppe, and new to this country, produced at Palmer's Theatre, N. Y., recently by the McCaull Opera Co., is in three acts and a prologue, and the book is by Genee and Zappert. The operetta is pronounced very generally to be a positive success and the McCaull Company hope to live on "Clover" during the Summer season.

Brady & Webster will fill next year's time in the East, in the larger cities, and will not revisit this coast until June 30 1890, opening on that date in San Francisco.

Manager Gottlob of the Bush has his annual benefit on Friday night. Nat Goodwin and company furnish the entertainment in a double bill, and everybody will be at the popular manager's benefit.

At some of the New York theatres now, when there is a certainty of a crowd at a matinee performance, they refuse to sell any seats to a man unaccompanied by a lady. They will tell you at the box office that the matinees are for the ladies especially, and that a man alone can stand up or come at night. He can come alone at night and the women can't.

Booth, the greatest living Hamlet, at the California Wednesday and Thursday nights, with Barrett as Laertes, and the Booth and Barrett Company in support.

The Bush gives a special matinee on Thursday, Decoration Day, instead of the usual Wednesday matinee this week.

At the close of the engagement of the Bostonians the Baldwin Theatre will be closed for two weeks. The seventh regular season opens June 17th.

The story of Gounod's projected visit to America is authoritatively denied, but the press workers got a free ad for people of very slight importance.

Creditors are said to be affectionately inquiring for the present address of the late manager of the Toronto, Canada, Opera House.

Musical Director Franklin Nelson Darling and Marie Robertson, of the Wilbur Opera Company, were married at Poughkeepsie, New York.

Kate Forsyth and The Tigress has sailed for Liverpool to enthrall the patrons of the Gaiety Theatre, London. Miss Forsyth proposes to play the heroine of Among the Pines, during her tour of England.

Rubinstein's fiftieth birthday next November is to be celebrated with great pomp at St. Petersburg.

Mr. and Mrs. Tony Pastor, Charles E. Evans and William F. Hoey and their wives will sail for Liverpool June 12 h

W. E. St. Clair, aeronaut, while recently giving an exhibition with a parachute in mid-air at Houston, Tex., lost his hold and fell to the ground, dying instantly.

During the past year over fifty divorces have been recorded in theatrical annals, and the most prominent personages in the list are Fanny Davenport, Maggie Mitchell and Pauline Hall.

Augustin Daly has offered Mr. Kemble, of the Haymarket Theatre, London, a three years' engagement.

A cable from Paris states that despite the city being thronged with Exposition visitors, all the theatres are doing badly.

The old theatre at Reno was burned on Saturday. It has been a dead one since the new theatre was built.

Otto Hegner, the rival of little Hofmann, will accompany Sarsate to this country next Winter.

Wm. Devere takes the stage management of the Vienna Garden Theatre this week.

Joe McAuliffe and Con Riordon will have it out with gloves every night this week at the Cremorne. It will be something worth seeing to see McAuliffe in four rounds.

AMUSEMENTS, ETC.

Leavitt's New Bush Street Theatre.

The laughable farce of "Lend Me Five Shillings," with Mr. Goodwin as Golightly, will open the bill the rest of the week, except Friday night, when "The Widow's Victim" will take its place.

The great "laugh-maker," the three-act comedy of "Turned Up," has been retained as the afterpiece to send its audiences home in the best of humor, for his third and last week.

Mr Goodwin as a comedian is inimitable and certainly he has proven here the greatest of successes against the strongest of oppositions. His company in support embraces an unusual amount of talent, and his season has been a most enjoyable one.

For casts see regular programme on first page.

The usual mid-week matinee at the Bush for this week will be given Thursday at 2 P. M., Decoration Day, instead of the usual Wednesday

A prominent night this week will be on Friday evening, when Manager J. J. Gottlob's annual benefit takes place; which occasion will draw a fashionable house and be a red-letter night Mr Nat Goodwin and company will appear in a double bill.

By request Mr. Nat C Goodwin opens the bill on Friday with the screaming farce of "The Widow's Victim," in which he introduces his famous imitations of Edwin Booth, Lawrence Barrett Henry Irving, Joseph Jefferson, John T Raymond, Stuart Robson, Frank Mayo, Sothern as Lord Dundreary and others. His imitations are remarkably life-like Those of Mr Raymond and Barrett in particular, in voice and action are exact counterparts of the originals His song is a great go, and the farce is a lively one. Miss Vivian, the Cleopatra of the afterpiece, renders good support.

Sunday, the last night of the Goodwin season, will be marked by being set apart for the benefit of his manager, Mr. Robert Arthur, whose many friends in this city have been the instigators of the testimonial.

—o—

Another of Willie Edouin's English comedy successes 'Katti," the Family Help, said to resemble his Turned Up" in distinctive individuality of characters and in being an "incessantly funny comedy," follows the Goodwin season at the Bush next week. Marietta Nash, the original and best of Teddies in "The Bunch of Keys," George Lauri and Harry B. Bell, two good comedians, have the principal parts.

See cast and list of musical features in extra programme announcement in adjacent column.

By the way, "Katti" must not be confounded to its disadvantage with "Kitty," the piece that Mestayer appeared here in. "Katti" is a different kind of a play—and a success.

Baldwin Theatre.

The Bostonians English Opera Company, that have deservedly won success, are in their third week at the Baldwin.

They give a very enjoyable rendering of their operas, giving due effects to their individual parts in singing and acting and impressing their audiences most favorably with their capabilities in concerted pieces.

The following operas will be sung this week, the last week of the Bostonians, and the last week of the Baldwin's sixth season:

Wednesday night and Saturday matinee, Bohemian Girl.

Thursday night, Mignon will be repeated with its three prima donnas in the cast.

Friday night, first time on any stage, the new opera comique, Suzette, adapted from the French of Chivot and Duru, music by Latour

Saturday night, Dorothy.

—o—

A special performance will be given at the Baldwin on Sunday night for the farewell benefit of Jeffreys Lewis, a talented actress and gifted woman, whose lines have not fallen in pleasant places in California, prior to her departure East. "Mary Stuart" will form the bill with Mme. Modjeska in the title role, Miss Lewis as Queen Elizabeth, and a well selected company in support.

Alcazar Theatre.

The Alcazar has W. H. Powers' Company, presenting the picturesque Irish drama, "The Ivy Leaf." The company is one of unusual excellence and includes a quartette of trained voices, a corps of dancers, and a genuine Irish bag piper. A feature of the production is the beautiful scenery—a car-load being used action of the play occurs. There is also a fine revolving tower scene, and a sensational one, where an eagle flies up among the crags bearing a living child in its talons.

The Ivy Leaf" is a wholesome, clean idyl of Irish love, Irish patriotism and Irish fidelity, framed fittingly in the fair scenery of the Killarney Lakes. It deals with the bright side of the Irish character. It is free from all political interest, and has no evictions, no poverty or distress, or overdrawn pictures of Ireland's woes. Several years of success has stamped "The Ivy Leaf" as a model Irish drama.

Smith O'Brien does his work in an earnest, manly way, and bears a more than favorable comparison with W. J. Scanlan. He is also a pleasant singer. A. W. Fremont is good as the villain, and Nellie Rosebud is a charming Colleen.

The specialties introduced by the company are very clever.

Special matinee Thursday, Decoration Day.

The Fairy's Well is underlined for next week.

New California Theatre.

Booth and Barrett are in the last week of their farewell engagement here.

Wednesday and Thursday evenings and Saturday matinee, Hamlet, Booth as Hamlet, the greatest Hamlet living; Barrett as Laertes.

Friday, double bill, Fool's Revenge, with Booth as Bertruccio, and David Garrick, with Barrett in the title role.

See cast in extra programme announcement.

Saturday night, the last night of Booth and Barrett, The Fool's Revenge, Booth as the jester Bertuccio; and Yorick's Love, Barrett as Master Yorick.

The Bostonians will open at the California June 3d, for one week only.

Seats on sale.

Orpheum Opera House.

This week, the Jack Dempsey All Star Specialty Company will be the attraction; Sheffer & Blakely, negro comedians; Nash, the bicycle wonder; Lawler & Thornton, character change artists; J. D. Kelly, Irish comedian; Miss Tillie Morrissey, vocalist; Baker & West, musical artists; the Smiths, musical team, and Dempsey & Costigan, all star artists.

The Orpheum have another excellent Specialty Company this week. Nash is the best cyclist that has ever appeared in this city. Sheffer & Blakely are a great negro team and introduce many popular negro melodies. The other people are also good in their various specialties. The Orpheum overflowed and many were turned away.

Miss Tillie Morrissey has made a decided hit in her vocal selections, and the favorite comedian. J. W. Kelley, is received with great favor.

The combination are booked for two weeks, and Managers Walter & Co. will have crowded houses.

See list of company in programme announcement elsewhere on this page.

Decoration Day, May 30th, an extra grand matinee will be given at 2 P. M.; 25 cents to all parts of the house.

Standard Theatre.

A troupe of thirty educated dogs will give two hour exhibitions of a novel and interesting character at the Standard every night this week. These dogs form what Prof. C. Norris calls his Canine Paradox, and have won fame at the East for the wonderful things they do. They open in a very amusing minstrel first part. In the olio they sing, stand on their heads, walk the tight rope, turn somersaults, play acts and in fact do everything but talk. Fritz, the champion trick dog, plays the piano, reads, adds and subtracts, tells his age, and goes down among the audience, looks at a watch, and tells what time it is. They close their performance with their revolving canine pyramid by sixteen dogs, a la trapeze. A most wonderful dog performance ever seen.

It is really wonderful to see how Prof. Norris has developed the dog intelligence to its highest condition in his Canine Paradox company. The three clown dogs are very funny. They make the performance lively and get lots of applause.

The house was good, with many ladies in the audience.

Take the children to see them. Matinees, Wednesday at 4 P. M., Saturday at 2 P. M.

The Battle of Vicksburg.

The grand panorama of the Battle of Vicksburg at the Panorama Building, corner of Eddy and Mason streets, is one that no American should fail to see. It gives a grand view of the battle with the conflict at its height on the land and the bombardment from the river with the correct positions of the engaging forces and the proper placement of the ironclads in the bombardment. It is a great painting, and excels the Battle of Waterloo in graphic power and vivid reality. Destruction reigns on every side. The burning buildings, the bursting shells, the desperate charges, the hand-to-hand conflicts, and the dying and wounded, all depict with startling realism one of the hottest conflicts in history.

Open from 9 A. M. to 6 P. M.

Morosco's Amphitheatre.

Managers Morosco & Byrnes have put in a most complete fireproof partition between the stage and the auditorium, from wall to wall of their big theatre. It is constructed of iron lathings on both sides of the studding. The decorators have finished the immense ceiling of the theatre with harmonious panels.

This week will be presented, for the first time in this city, The Bells. It is also the last week of Mr. Carden's engagement

Mr. Carden is an actor of unusual merit. His reading is clear and his manner quite impressive. He has become very popular with the patrons of the theatre.

Miss Claudia Barto, the new leading lady, made her first appearance here last week and acquits herself with marked ability. The lady has a very pleasing appearance and good stage method.

Manager Morosco understands the tastes of his patrons. He presents attractive plays with a fully competent company, and the results are satisfactory to both manager and people.

Next week, Mr. George Turner as Jack Hearne in the great London drama, Romany Rye.

Vienna Garden Theatre

Not to take in the Vienna is to miss seeing one of the prettiest rural places in the city, and one that by the good management of Mr. A. Larsen has become one of our most popular family resorts.

This week the new people are Lavender & Thompson, comedians; Prof. Paul, ventriloquist; S. G. Beasley, musical specialties; Miss Florence Wood, Gus Saville, Flora Hastings, Wm. Devere, author and comedian, and J. W. Barnes, the one-legged acrobat.

Wm. Devere assumes the position of stage manager this week. Miss Jessie Cogill and Bob Harrison are retained on the bill.

The evening's entertainment concludes with Bob Harrison's roaring comedy, The Coopers.

Business is steadily good at this commodious gothic cottage embosomed among the trees.

Prices, 10 and 20 cents.

Bella Union Theatre.

The attraction this week will be Frenchy from Texas and Frank Frayne in a grand four round glove contest, and Glenn & Weston, the masters of musical comedy. Mr. Chas. Fox's original comedy in one act, The Satin Garter, will conclude the performance every evening.

The ladies of the company come in for a full share of the applause and crowd the male contingent very closely.

J. J. Billadeau has the stage management, and Prof. Sorg ably conducts the orchestra.

Friday nights are devoted to amateurs, and some of the novices have shown decided talent, and as they are ambitious they will soon be classed among the professionals.

Hallinan's Cremorne Theatre.

Ned Nestell, the Old Soldier, has gone back into harness and is managing the stage in his usual manner, making himself a favorite with all.

Joe McAuliff, the vanquisher of Tom Lees, and Con Riordan will appear in four round set-tos every evening this week. The simple announcement will be sufficient to draw a large attendance. The Great Ellwood, female impersonator; Mattie Wallace, vocalist, and Sadie Stevens are also new faces.

Drummond & Hull, Miss Sadie Fairfield, song and dance artists; May Morrell, serio comic; Hayes & Marion, now in their ninth week; and Lang & Sharp, continue favorites.

Original Theatre Comique.

The Comique presents an entire new bill this week, with songs and afterpiece. Numerous new novelties are produced by the various artists every evening and especial attention is paid to the first part.

This week the entertainment begins with selections by the entire company. Charles Morrell has new banjo songs and an entire change of witty sayings for the entertainment of the Comique's patrons.

The management of the Comique have specially engaged Mr. Deacon Jones, champion feather-weight of San Francisco, and Mr. Billy Byron, champion feather-weight of Los Angeles, to appear in a friendly glove contest every evening

The comical farce-comedy, The Runaways, is the 1st rinde act.

The laughable farce, The Bathers, with all the company in the cast, concludes the bill and the evening's fun.

The Cooks, John and Lou, make their re-appearance this week. All the favorite vocalists have been retained.

The Comique's company is a strong one. It is a neat, compact minor theatre, and for many years has been a popular one.

EVENING EDITION

FRIDAY.....MAY 31, 1889

FULL PROGRAMMES of all the Leading Theatre in San Francisco can be found in FIGARO—the only paper that has them.

PROFESSIONAL PICKINGS.

Nat Goodwin's season at the Bush has been a pronounced success He has played "Turned Up" the whole three weeks of his engagement, against the biggest opposition in the country, to good business. He is not only strong himself, but he brought a company with him capable of giving him adequate support. If all worthy stars that come this way are as well surrounded, there can be no such word as fail—as Richelieu says.

At the close of his Eastern engagement Lewis Morrison and his daughter, Rosabel, will come to California to enjoy their vacation in 'Frisco Mr. Abrams, Morrison's agent, will accompany them.

Mrs. Laugtry's scenery and properties were sold for a song in New York May 28th. The total for whole sale of the properties and scenery of six plays was $576 40.

The office of the New York Truth, the best society paper in New York, has been removed to 140 Fifth Avenue.

Harry Lee is here superintending the preparations for the production of "The Cavalier" at the Alcazar on June 10th.

L. R. Stockwell has got Two Orphans to look out for now. He bought them, or at least the Coast rights for the play of that name from Kate Claxton.

Young Sothern is coming back to the Baldwin next season. We hope he won't bring "Chum" with him.

Oscar Weil, the old San Francisco music teacher, is the father or godfather of "Sazette." He "adapted" it. The opera has its first production on any stage at the Baldwin to-night.

Booth and Barrett's last nights: "The Fool's Revenge" and "David Garrick" on Friday, "Hamlet" for Saturday matinee, and "The Fool's Revenge" and "Yorick's Love" for Saturday, the farewell night.

Le Clair and Leslie embarked for England on the 29th.

Adelaide Moore and her Love Story will arrive from England in two weeks.

In England the Church and stage pull together. Lately the Vicar of Ramsgate obtained a theatrical license for a local hall, and another clergyman obtained a like privilege for Chatham College Hall.

Frank Mordaunt, C. W. Couldock, W. F. Owen and Ian Robertson will be in the Chicago production of the Tempest at Mc Vicker's Theatre.

Whistling Frank Lawton, is with the Howard Atheneum Company for the summer.

"The eagle bird by chance" gets the baby in Power's Ivy Leaf at the Alcazar every night.

Featherbrain is doing so well at the Madison Square Theatre, New York, that it will probably be continued all summer. Minnie Maidern has made a success in the title part.

The Man in Black, a historical melodrama by Horace Townsend, has been purchased by Alexander Salvini and will be produced by him next season.

Rose Eytinge and Arthur Forrest have been engaged for the stock company at the new West End Theatre in Harlem, New York, which is advertised to open in Sept. next.

Klaw and Erlanger have arranged to produce Jessop and Teal's new play The Great Metropolis at Proctor's Twenty-third Street Theatre, New York, August 31st for a run.

Eddy's New York Squibs Says:

Henry E. Dixey has shelved Adonis.

Robert Mantell is visiting relatives in Scotland.

Rosina Vokes is playing a fine engagement at Daly's Theatre.

The Park Theatre, late Harrigan's, has not yet been leased.

Next season the Standard will be known as the Gaiety Theatre.

Fanny Rice has made the bit in The Brigands at the Casino.

Clover has made a hit at Palmer's, and will probably run all summer.

Osmond Tearle's 17 year old son has just gone on the stage in England.

Francis Wilson and the Oolah are doing a good business at the Broadway Theatre.

Eleanor Carey has been re-engaged for the next tour of Cora Tanner in Fascination.

LEASE OF THE GRAND.

Manager John Maguire, of the Montana circuit, has leased the Grand Opera House in this city for a term of years commencing October 1st next. Mr. Maguire will make the Northern road, with terminal points at St. Paul and Minneapolis, and San Francisco his principal field of operation. Between these cities he will play combinations en route at Portland, Tacoma, Seattle, Spokane and at his own theatres in Helena and Butte as principal stopping points for the largest attractions, and as many branch places for smaller ones. The Northern country is a growing one in every respect, and his circuit will fall into line as a prominent one. Manager Maguire is now in this city looking after the coming Modjeska season which is played under his management. As soon as that is over he will go to New York to secure a line of attractions for the Grand and his Northwest circuit.

Sam Meyers, the well known local business manager, is back again after quite an extended stay East. He looks thinner than of old, but what he has lost in flesh he has gained in morality and experience. He comes to stay. When he met the rotund Louis Morgenstern he was affected to tears, and uttered something about a rolling stone gathering no flesh.

The Stuttz New York Theatre Co., now playing the Montana circuit, have had a very prosperous season.

Booth and Barrett and company leave direct for New York on Sunday. Some of the company, however, remain over to join the Modjeska combination.

Mr. Joseph J. Levy, so long press and business agent with Lawrence Barrett, and holding the same position with the Booth-Barrett Co., is a resident of San Francisco, and will pass the Summer as usual in this city.

Nat Goodwin gives his imitations of celebrated actors to-night for the last time for Manager J. J. Gottlob's benefit. There is something inspirational in Nat Goodwin's imitations. He gets Raymond's Col Sellers down to a dot in voice, grandiloquence and eccentric gesture; looks as tragic as Booth himself in his impersonation of him; becomes Barrett's double, and imitates exactly the peculiarities of J. R. Stoddard, and the squeaking voice and petulant manner of Robson.

George R. Jackson, of Watsonville, solo violinist of the Stuttz Theatre Co., died suddenly at Dillon, Montana, May 20th, of pneumonia. He had been with the company three years and was greatly esteemed by all.

Charley Reed is going to swim out for himself. Clay Greene is now writing a farce-comedy for him for next season.

Robert Hilliard, of Goodwin's company, is to be Helen Dauvray's leading man.

We will have to brace up against "Twelve Temptations" at the Grand in a couple of weeks more.

Jeffreys-Lewis has a benefit Sunday evening. Manager Hayman has generously placed the Baldwin Theatre at her disposal, and it is believed that the benefit will be a substantial one. The play of Mary Stuart will constitute the performance, with Mme. Modjeska as Mary Stuart and Jeffreys-Lewis as Queen Elizabeth. A good company will appear in support.

"Katti, the Family Help," (no connection with the American play of "Kitty"), one of Willie Edouin's English comedy successes, will have its first production here at the Bush with Marietta Nash (the best Teddy ever in the "Bunch of Keys"), Geo. Lauri and Harry B. Bell, comedians, in the cast. It follows Nat Goodwin on June 3d. See cast in extra advertised programme.

Brady & Webster will fill next year's time in the East, in the larger cities, and will not revisit this coast until June 30 1890, opening on that date in San Francisco.

Manager Gottlob of the Bush has his annual benefit this, Friday night. Nat Goodwin and company furnish the entertainment in a double bill, and everybody will be at the popular manager's benefit.

At the close of the engagement of the Bostonians the Baldwin Theatre will be closed for two weeks. The seventh regular season opens June 17th.

The story of Gounod's projected visit to America is authoritatively denied, but the press workers got a free ad for people of very slight importance.

Kate Forsyth and The Tigress has sailed for Liverpool to enthrall the patrons of the Gaiety Theatre, London. Miss Forsyth proposes to play the heriene of Among the Pines, during her tour of England.

Rubinstein's fiftieth birthday next November is to be celebrated with great pomp at St. Petersburg.

Mr. and Mrs. Tony Pastor, Charles E. Evans and William F. Hoey and their wives will sail for Liverpool June 12th.

During the past year over fifty divorces have been recorded in theatrical annals, and the most prominent personages in the list are Fanny Davenport, Maggie Mitchell and Pauline Hall.

Augustin Daly has offered Mr. Kemble, of the Haymarket Theatre, London, a three years' engagement.

A cable from Paris states that despite the city being thronged with Exposition visitors, all the theatres are doing badly.

The Carleton Opera Company open the next regular season at the Fifth Avenue Theatre, New York, with an elaborate production of Mynheer Jan.

J. A. Norris said to be the composer of the music of Ardriell the new comic opera which was made known at the Union Square Theatre, New York, June 3d.

AMUSEMENTS, ETC.

Leavitt's New Bush Street Theatre.

Mr. J. J. Gottlob, the popular manager of this theatre, will be the recipient of his annual benefit to-night, and we have no fears but that the testimonial will be a worthy one.

By request Mr Nat C Goodwin opens the bill this evening with the screaming farce of "The Widow's Victim," in which he introduces his famous imitations of Edwin Booth, Lawrence Barrett, Henry Irving, Joseph Jefferson, John T. Raymond, Stuart Robson, Frank Mayo, Sothern as Lord Dundreary and others. His imitations are remarkably life-like. Those of of Raymond and Barrett in particular, in voice and action are exact counterparts of the originals. His song is a great go, and the farce is a lively one. Miss Vivian, the Cleopatra of the afterpiece, renders good support.

The most amusing comedy of "Turned Up" will be the concluding piece.

The laughable farce of "Lend Me Five Shillings," with Mr. Goodwin as Golightly, will be repeated Saturday afternoon and evening and the great "laugh-maker," the three-act comedy of "Turned Up," will be retained as the afterpiece to send its audiences home in the best of humor, even for the last nights of its third and last week.

Sunday, the last night of the Goodwin season, will be marked by being set apart for the benefit of his manager, Mr. Robert Arthur, whose many friends in this city have been the instigators of the testimonial. A special bill will be given. The performance opens with "Fra Giacomo," from the poem of Bobt. Buchanan, with Bobt. Hilliard as Count Paolo. The adaptation for stage is by Mr. Hilliard. This will be followed by an olio, introducing Messrs. Lew Spencer, the comedian, N. C. Goodwin in a recitation, and Sheffer & Blakeley, Ethiopian comedians, authors of "Johnny Get Your Gun," "New Coon in Town," etc., in their specialties; closing with "Turned Up."

For casts of both bills see first page.

—o—

Another of Willie Edouin's English comedy successes, "Katti," the Family Help, said to resemble his "Turned Up" in distinctive individuality of characters and in being an "intensely funny comedy," follows the Goodwin season at the Bush next week. Marietta Nash, the original and best of Teddies in "The Bunch of Keys," George Lauri and Harry B. Bell, two good comedians, have the principal parts.

See cast and list of musical features in extra programme announcement in adjacent column.

By the way "Katti" must not be confounded to its disadvantage with "Kitty," the piece that Mestayer appeared here in. "Katti" is a different kind of a play—and a success.

Baldwin Theatre.

The Bostonians English Opera Company, that have deservedly won success, are in their third week at the Baldwin.

They give a very enjoyable rendering of their operas, giving due effects to their individual parts in singing and acting and impressing their audiences most favorably with their capabilities in concerted pieces.

To-night: first time on any stage, the new opera comique, Suzette, adapted from the French of Chivot and Duru, music by Latour.

Saturday matinee, Bohemian Girl.

Saturday night, Dorothy will be the last performance at the Baldwin by the Bostonians. They go to the California next week.

—o—

A special performance will be given at the Baldwin on Sunday night for the farewell benefit of Jeffreys-Lewis, a talented actress and gifted woman, whose lines have not fallen in pleasant places in California, prior to her departure East. "Mary Stuart" will form the bill with Mme. Modjeska in the title role, Miss Lewis as Queen Elizabeth, and a well selected company in support.

The Baldwin will remain closed until June 17th, when it will re-open for its seventh season with Daniel Frohman's New York Lyceum Theatre Company.

Alcazar Theatre.

The Alcazar has W. H. Powers' Company, presenting the picturesque Irish drama, "The Ivy Leaf." The company is one of unusual excellence and includes a quartette of trained voices, a corps of dancers, and a genuine Irish bag-piper. A feature of the production is the beautiful scenery—a car-load being used to illustrate the play, giving exact reproductions of historical places in Ireland where the action of the play occurs. There is also a fine revolving tower scene, and a sensational one, where an eagle flies up among the crags bearing a living child in its talons.

"The Ivy Leaf" is a wholesome, clean idyl of Irish love, Irish patriotism and Irish fidelity. Several years of success has stamped "The Ivy Leaf" as a model Irish drama.

Smith O'Brien does his work in an earnest, manly way, and bears a more than favorable comparison with W. J. Scanlan. He is also a pleasant singer. A. W. Fremont is good as the villain, and Nellie Rosebud is a charming Colleen.

The specialties introduced by the company are very clever.

The Fairy's Well, that W. H. Power's Company present next week, is a romantic Irish drama that ingrafts a pretty story founded on the old legend of the Fairy's Well, that if a maid look into it at Halloween at midnight she will see reflected in its clear waters the face of her future husband.

New California Theatre.

Booth and Barrett are in the last nights of their farewell engagement here.

To-night, a double bill, Fool's Revenge, with Booth in his wonderful impersonation of Bertuccio, and David Garrick, with Barrett in the title role.

Saturday matinee, Hamlet. Booth as Hamlet, the greatest Hamlet living; Barrett as Laertes.

Saturday night, the last night of Booth and Barrett. The Fool's Revenge, Booth as the jester Bertuccio; and Yorick's Love, Barrett as Master Yorick.

The Bostonians will open at the California June 3d, for one week only, in Bohemian Girl, Monday night; Suzette, Tuesday night; followed by a round of operas with a change of bill every night.

Manager Hayman announces that the regular prices and regular season of the California will be inaugurated with the Bostonians' week, and that the following scale of prices will remain unchanged hereafter: Parquette and parquette circle, reserved, $1; dress circle, reserved (front rows), 75c.; dress circle, reserved (other rows), 50c.; family circle, reserved, 25c.; gallery, admission, 25c.; loge seats, $1 50; private boxes, $10; general admission, 50c. Matinee prices, 25c., 50c. and 75c.

Orpheum Opera House.

This week, the Jack Dempsey All Star Specialty Company will be the attraction; Sheffer & Blakely, negro comedians; Nash, the bicycle wonder; Lawler & Thornton, character change artists; J. D. Kelly, Irish comedian; Miss Tillie Morrissey, vocalist; Baker & West, musical artists; the Smiths, musical team, and Dempsey & Costigan, all star artists.

The Orpheum have another excellent Specialty Company this week. Nash is the best 'cyclist that has ever appeared in this city. Sheffer & Blakely are a great negro team and introduce many popular negro melodies. The other people are also good in their various specialties. The Orpheum overflowed and many were turned away.

Miss Tillie Morrissey has made a decided hit in her vocal selections, and the favorite comedian. J. W. Kelley, is received with great favor.

The combination are booked for two weeks, and Managers Walter & Co. will have crowded houses.

See list of company in programme announcement elsewhere on this page.

The Battle of Vicksburg.

The grand panorama of the Battle of Vicksburg at the Panorama Building, corner of Eddy and Mason streets, is one that no American should fail to see. It gives a grand view of the battle with the conflict at its height on the land and the bombardment from the river with the correct positions of the engaging forces and the proper placement of the ironclads in the bombardment. It is a great painting, and excels the Battle of Waterloo in graphic power and vivid reality. Destruction reigns on every side. The burning buildings, the bursting shells, the desperate charges, the hand-to-hand conflicts, and the dying and wounded, all depict with startling realism one of the hottest conflicts in history.

Open from 9 A. M. to 6 P. M.

Morosco's Amphitheatre.

Managers Morosco & Byrnes have put in a most complete fireproof partition between the stage and the auditorium, from wall to wall of their big theatre. It is constructed of iron lathings on both sides of the studding. The decorators have finished the immense ceiling of the theatre with harmonious panels.

This week will be presented, for the first time in this city, The Belle. It is also the last week of Mr. Carden's engagement.

Mr. Carden is an actor of unusual merit. His reading is clear and his manner quite impressive. He has become very popular with the patrons of the theatre.

Miss Claudia Barto, the new leading lady, made her first appearance here last week and acquits herself with marked ability. The lady has a very pleasing appearance and good stage method.

Manager Morosco understands the tastes of his patrons. He presents attractive plays with a fully competent company, and the results are satisfactory to both manager and people.

Next week, Mr. George Turner as Jack Hearne in the great London drama, Romany Rye.

Matinees Sundays, at 2 P. M. Admission, 10 cents. Front reserved seats 10 cents extra.

Vienna Garden Theatre

Not to take in the Vienna is to miss seeing one of the prettiest rural places in the city, and one that by the good management of Mr. A. Larsen has become one of our most popular family resorts.

This week the new people are Lavender & Thompson, comedians; Prof. Paul, ventriloquist; S. G. Beasley, musical specialties; Miss Florence Wood, Gus Saville, Flora Hastings, Wm. Devere, author and comedian, and J. W. Barnes, the one-legged acrobat.

Wm. Devere assumes the position of stage manager this week. Miss Jessie Cogill and Bob Harrison are retained on the bill.

The evening's entertainment concludes with Bob Harrison's roaring comedy, The Coopers.

Business is steadily good at this commodious gothic cottage embosomed among the trees.

Prices, 10 and 20 cents.

Bella Union Theatre.

The attraction this week will be Frenchy from Texas and Frank Frayne in a grand four round glove contest, and Glenn & Weston, the masters of musical comedy. Mr. Chas. Fox's original comedy in one act, The Satin Garter, will conclude the performance every evening.

The ladies of the company come in for a full share of the applause and crowd the male contingent very closely.

J. J. Billadeau has the stage management, and Prof. Sorg ably conducts the orchestra.

Friday nights are devoted to amateurs, and some of the novices have shown decided talent, and as they are ambitious they will soon be classed among the professionals.

Hallinan's Cremorne Theatre.

Ned Nestell, the Old Soldier, has gone back into harness and is managing the stage in his usual manner, making himself a favorite with all.

Joe McAuliffe, the vanquisher of Tom Lees, and Con Riordan will appear in four round set-tos every evening this week. The simple announcement will be sufficient to draw a large attendance. The Great Ellwood, female impersonator; Mattie Wallace, vocalist, and Sadie Stevens are also new faces.

Drummond & Hull, Miss Sadie Fairfield, song and dance artists; May Morrell, serio comic; Hayes & Marion, now in their ninth week; and Lang & Sharp, continue favorites.

Original Theatre Comique.

The Comique presents an entire new bill this week, with songs and afterpiece. Numerous new novelties are produced by the various artists every evening and especial attention is paid to the first part.

This week the entertainment begins with selections by the entire company. Charles Morrell has new banjo songs and an entire change of witty sayings for the entertainment of the Comique's patrons.

The management of the Comique have specially engaged Mr. Deacon Jones, champion feather-weight of San Francisco, and Mr. Billy Byron, champion feather-weight of Los Angeles, to appear in a friendly glove contest every evening.

The comical farce-comedy, The Runaways, is the interlude act.

The laughable farce, The Bathers, with all the company in the cast, concludes the bill and the evening's fun.

The Cooke, John and Lou, make their re-appearance this week. All the favorite vocalists have been retained.

The Comique's company is a strong one. It is a neat, compact minor theatre, and for many years has been a popular one.

Eureka Music Hall.

This is one of the neatest and most popular of our minor theatres. Manager Walterstein runs a very strong company.

Lillie Mason, Laura White, Cora Everett, Stella Walton, Pearl Iola, Stella Merriam, Ed. Soldene, Chas. Berkeley, Chas. Rice and Geo. C. Dunham.

The first part introduces the entire company in new and pleasing selections. Rice & Everett appear in their original sketch, "German Antics," introducing songs, dances and medleys.

Chas. Berkeley's Can-Can is retained on the bill. It has made an unmistakable hit.

The Eureka gives a matinee every Sunday.

Sunday Excursions on the Bay.

The steamer Tamalpais, renovated and placed in complete order, will make family excursions every Sunday during the season to Mare Island, Vallejo and Martinez; leaving Sausalito ferry slip, foot of Clay street, at 10 15 A M, and returning at 7 30 P M. Tickets, for the round trip, 50 cents; children, 25 cents. This includes an enjoyable thirty-mile sail through San Francisco and San Pablo bays and the Straits of Carquinez. The U. S. First Infantry Band will furnish the music. Lunches on the boat at city prices. The comfort of the excursions, under the management of P. H. Hink, will be properly looked after.

First excurson on Sunday, May 26th.

Supe (to stage manager)—Say, guv'nor, have yer got a life-preserver? Manager—No. What's the matter? Supe—The Roman general fell overboard into the tank with his helmet on. He's floatin' around head down, and the gods are hollering and raisin' h—l in the gal'ry. I'm gettin' sick of this 'quatic dramer.

Minnie Palmer and her manager, Nat Childs, will go to Europe after the close of her season.

A man died recently in Connecticut who smoked 2,000 herrings a day. If he had quit that bad habit in time and tackled "Seal of North Carolina" Plug Cut he would be alive to-day.

EVENING EDITION

SATURDAY.....JUNE 1, 1889

FULL PROGRAMMES of all the Leading Theatre in San Francisco can be found in FIGARO—the only paper that has them.

OUT ON THE ROAD.

On May 20th T. C. Eckert, the tenor, and Jay Mastbaum, who teaches the young men how to dance as a profession, started on a planned out four weeks' interior trip with a select company of nine persons in the original musical comedy of "Spasms"—and they got them. At their first stand, Benicia, they played to $14. At Calistoga the receipts were not much more than enough to pay for the drinks, but they built their hopes on Napa. On the third night two shining quarters were handed back to two Napa first-nighters. Managers and company returned to their hotel, all having symptoms of spasms. They cheered themselves up with stories of what had been done at their next stand, Dixon. "Lively town, Dixon!" "Good show town!" "We'll catch them there!" At Dixon there was $4 75 in the box office, and they played to it.

At Dixon it was discovered that the sack was empty, and spasms prevailed. Landlord, managers, company, everybody had them. Landlord was wild. Held on to the trunks and anything he could get hold of in his spasms. One of the managers rushed down here to sell the costumes and get the company out of soak. Money not coming from him, the other one with four of the company came down leaving his watch and some clothes as part security for his board bill and tickets. Two young actors and a pretty actress are still held in bondage at Dixon, eating their heads off.

On the 28th a Dixon constable came to the city and served warrants on the managers to appear in Dixon and show cause why they should not pay their hotel bill. They gave bail. The trial is set for today at Dixon. The managers will doubtless effect a settlement and redeem the three unfortunates unwillingly doing their vacation in the country, if they can; but their experience only shows how extra hazardous it is to go in the country with a company now with light sacks.

Eight or ten years ago it used to be we are "going a raiding in the country;" now it is going in the country to get raided.

LEASE OF THE GRAND.

Manager John Maguire, of the Montana circuit, has leased the Grand Opera House in this city for a term of years commencing October 1st next. Mr. Maguire will make the Northern road, with terminal points at St. Paul and Minneapolis, and San Francisco his principal field of operation. Between these cities he will play combinations en route at Portland, Tacoma, Seattle, Spokane and at his own theatres in Helena and Butte as principal stopping points for the largest attractions, and at many branch places for smaller ones. The Northern country is a growing one in every respect, and his circuit will fall into line as a prominent one. Manager Maguire is now in this city looking after the coming Modjeska season which is played under his management. As soon as that is over he will go to New York to secure a line of attractions for the Grand and his Northwest circuit.

SPECIALTY SQUIBS.

Cort's Standard, Portland, May 27th: The four Carles, Vanola, the three Franklins, Flora Hastings, Dick Devlin and Ollie Singleton.

Joe McAuliffe and Con Riordon will have it out with gloves every night this week at the Cremorne. It will be something worth seeing to see McAuliffe in four rounds.

The Comique presents an entire new bill this week. Charley Morrell and Tommy Morris contribute excellent specialty turns, and J. H. Burns is good in character parts.

Those minstrel Missionaries, Thatcher, Primrose & West, open at the new California on June 10th.

PROFESSIONAL PICKINGS.

The Irwin Sisters are in the Old Jed Prouty Co., booked for the California June 10th.

Major Thomas Andrews, the master mechanic of the Grand Opera House, has been engaged by Manager Maguire to supervise the mechanical portion of the stage under his lesseeship.

Chicago has twelve combination playing theatres. Some of them keep open all the year round.

Alf Hayman is on his way overland in advance of the New York Lyceum Co.

Margaret Mather plays a Pacific Coast season under Manager Al Hayman's management in the Fall.

Charles MacGeachy, formerly one of Frohman's business representatives, is here in the advance interest of "Old Jed Prouty," Richard Golden's piece.

Rose Coghlan's season opens at the Baldwin August 5th.

It is not likely that Grace Hawthorne will play in New York next season. W. W. Kelley, her manager, made an application to J. M. Hill for a date at the Union Square Theatre. They could not agree as to terms and all negotiations are off. Mr. Kelley is on his way to London.

W. B. Gross, in advance of Robert Mantell, left New York May 20th for San Francisco, via Aspinwall and Panama, on the steamer Colon. Mr. Gross will arrive in San Francisco about June 20th and will remain on our coast ten weeks. Mr. Mantell's season commences at the New California July 8th.

The Twelve Temptations played the week of May 20th at Denver to good business. They open at the Grand Opera House June 17th.

Marcus Henry announces that Mr. and Mrs. Geo. Henschel will not be able to fill their date here, as they are due in London to fill an engagement there. Mr. Henry, however, will introduce to us the Lotus Club of Boston, and in addition a novelty in operatic attractions in the future.

It is telegraphed that John Gilbert, the actor, is seriously ill at Boston and is slowly sinking.

Recently at Asti, Italy, while Signor Muller, a lion tamer, was going through his performances in a traveling menagerie cage, the beast turned upon him and instantly tore him to fragments.

It is reported that the members of the Adonis Company, which closed its season at the Grand Opera House, N. Y., are not disinclined to receive their overdue salaries from Manager E. E. Rice.

A late London paper speaks of Kyrle Bellew as Mrs. Potter's Little Lord Fauntleroy.

Professor Herrmann has dropped Princess Lolita Diss Debar from his company, on the ground of her inefficiency in developing the occult sciences.

Taunton, Mass., has refused Barnum & Bailey's show a license this season.

We will have to brace up against "Twelve Temptations" at the Grand in a couple of weeks more.

Jeffreys-Lewis has a benefit Sunday evening at the Baldwin Theatre. The play of Mary Stuart will constitute the performance, with Mme. Modjeska as Mary Stuart and Jeffreys-Lewis as Queen Elizabeth. A good company will appear in support.

"Katti, the Family Help," (no connection with the American play of "Kitty"), one of Willie Edouin's English comedy successes, will have its first production here at the Bush with Marietta Nash (the best Teddy ever in the "Bunch of Keys"), Geo. Lauri and Harry B. Bell, comedians, in the cast. It follows Nat Goodwin on June 3d. See cast in extra advertised programme.

Brady & Webster will fill next year's time in the East, in the larger cities, and will not revisit this coast until June 30, 1890, opening on that date in San Francisco.

At the close of the engagement of the Bostonians the Baldwin Theatre will be closed for two weeks. The seventh regular season opens June 17th.

Mr. Joseph J. Levy, so long press and business agent with Lawrence Barrett, and holding the same position with the Booth-Barrett Co., is a resident of San Francisco, and will pass the Summer as usual in this city.

Sam Meyers, the well known local business manager, is back again after quite an extended stay East. He looks thinner than of old, but what he has lost in flesh he has gained in morality and experience. He comes to stay. When he met the rotund Louis Morgenstern he was affected to tears, and uttered something about a rolling stone gathering no flesh.

Booth and Barrett and company leave direct for New York on Sunday. Some of the company, however, remain over to join the Modjeska combination.

Nat Goodwin's season at the Bush has been a pronounced success. He has played "Turned Up" the whole three weeks of his engagement, against the biggest opposition in the country, to good business. He is not only strong himself, but he brought a company with him capable of giving him adequate support. If all worthy stars that come this way are as well surrounded, there can be no such word as fail—as Richelieu says.

At the close of his Eastern engagement Lewis Morrison and his daughter, Rosabel, will come to California to enjoy their vacation in 'Frisco. Mr. Abrams, Morrison's agent, will accompany them.

Harry Lee is here superintending the preparations for the production of "The [illegible]" at the Alcazar on June 10th.

FIGARO is the Official Journal of all the Leading Theatres in San Francisco, and the only paper that publishes their full programmes.

AMUSEMENTS, ETC.

Leavitt's New Bush Street Theatre.

The laughable farce of "Lend Me Five Shillings," with Mr. Goodwin as Golightly, will be repeated Saturday afternoon and evening and the great "laugh-maker," the three-act comedy of "Turned Up," will be retained as the afterpiece to send its audiences home in the best of humor, even for the last nights of its third and last week.

Sunday, the last night of the Goodwin season, will be marked by being set apart for the benefit of his manager, Mr. Robert Arthur, whose many friends in this city have been the instigators of the testimonial. A special bill will be given. The performance opens with "Fra Giacomo," from the poem of Robt. Buchanan, with Robt. Hilliard as Count Paolo. The adaptation for stage is by Mr. Hilliard. This will be followed by an olio, introducing Messrs. Lew Spencer, the comedian, N. C. Goodwin in a recitation, and Sheffer & Blakeley, Ethiopian comedians, authors of "Johnny Get Your Gun," "New Coon in Town," etc., in their specialties; closing with "Turned Up."

Manager Gottlob's benefit on Friday evening was a splendid testimonial to that gentleman's worth and popularity.

—o—

Another of Willie Edouin's English comedy successes, "Katti," the Family Help, said to resemble his "Turned Up" in distinctive individuality of characters and in being an "intensely funny comedy," follows the Goodwin season at the Bush next week. Marietta Nash, the original and best of Teddies in "The Bunch of Keys," George Lauri and Harry B. Bell, two good comedians, have the principal parts.

See cast and list of musical features in extra programme announcement in adjacent column.

By the way, "Katti" must not be confounded to its disadvantage with "Kitty," the piece that Mestayer appeared here in. "Katti" is a different kind of a play—and a success.

Baldwin Theatre.

The Bostonians English Opera Company, that have deservedly won success, give their last performance at the Baldwin to-night.

They give a very enjoyable rendering of their operas, giving due effects to their individual parts in singing and acting and impressing their audiences most favorably with their capabilities in concerted pieces.

Saturday matinee, Bohemian Girl.

Saturday night, Dorothy will be the last performance at the Baldwin by the Bostonians. They go to the California next week.

—o—

A special performance will be given at the Baldwin on Sunday night for the farewell benefit of Jeffreys-Lewis, a talented actress and gifted woman whose lines have not fallen in pleasant places in California, prior to her departure East. "Mary Stuart" will form the bill with Mme. Modjeska in the title role, Miss Lewis as Queen Elizabeth, and a well selected company in support.

The Baldwin will remain closed until June 17th, when it will re-open for its seventh season with Daniel Frohman's New York Lyceum Theatre Company.

Alcazar Theatre.

The Alcazar has W. H. Powers' Company, presenting the picturesque Irish drama, "The Ivy Leaf." The company is one of unusual excellence and includes a quartette of trained voices, a corps of dancers, and a genuine Irish bag-piper. A feature of the production is the beautiful scenery—a car-load being used to illustrate the play, giving exact reproductions of historical places in Ireland where the action of the play occurs. There is also a fine revolving tower scene, and a sensational one, where an eagle flies up among the crags bearing a living child in its talons.

"The Ivy Leaf" is a wholesome, clean idyl of Irish love, Irish patriotism and Irish fidelity. Several years of success has stamped "The Ivy Leaf" as a model Irish drama.

Smith O'Brien does his work in an earnest, manly way, and bears a more than favorable comparison with W. J. Scanlan. He is also a pleasant singer. A. W. Fremont is good as the villain, and Nellie Rosebud is a charming Colleen.

The specialties introduced by the company are very clever.

The Fairy's Well, that W. H. Power's Company present next week, is a romantic Irish drama that ingrafts a pretty story founded on the old legend of the Fairy's Well, that if a maid look into it at Halloween at midnight she will see reflected in its clear waters the face of her future husband.

New California Theatre.

The Booth and Barrett season closes to-night.

Saturday matinee, Hamlet, Booth as Hamlet, the greatest Hamlet living; Barrett as Drummond & Hull, Miss Sadie Fairfield, song and dance artists; May Morrell, serio comic; Hayes & Marion, now in their ninth week; and Lang & Sharp, continue favorites.

Original Theatre Comique.

The Comique presents an entire new bill this week, with songs and afterpiece. Numerous new novelties are produced by the various artists every evening and especial attention is paid to the first part.

This week the entertainment begins with selections by the entire company. Charles Morrell has new banjo songs and an entire change of witty sayings for the entertainment of the Comique's patrons.

The management of the Comique have specially engaged Mr. Deacon Jones, champion feather-weight of San Francisco, and Mr. Billy Byron, champion feather-weight of Los Angeles, to appear in a friendly glove contest every evening.

The comical farce-comedy, The Runaways, is the interlude act.

The laughable farce, The Bathers, with all the company in the cast, concludes the bill and the evening's fun.

The Cooke, John and Lou, make their re-appearance this week. All the favorite vocalists have been retained.

The Comique's company is a strong one. It is a neat, compact minor theatre, and for many years has been a popular one.

Eureka Music Hall.

This is one of the neatest and most popular of our minor theatres. Manager Walterstein runs a very strong company.

Lillie Mason, Laura White, Cora Everett, Stella Walton, Pearl Iole, Stella Merriam, Ed. Soldene, Chas. Berkeley, Chas. Rice and Geo. C. Dunham.

The first part introduces the entire company in new and pleasing selections. Rice & Everett appear in their original sketch, "German Antics," introducing songs, dances and medleys.

Chas. Berkeley's Can-Can is retained on the bill. It has made an unmistakable hit.

The Eureka gives a matinee every Sunday.

Sunday Excursions on the Bay.

The steamer Tamalpais, renovated and placed in complete order, will make family excursions every Sunday during the season to Mare Island, Vallejo and Martinez; leaving Sausalito ferry slip, foot of Clay street, at 10 15 A. M., and returning at 7 30 P. M. Tickets, for the round trip, 50 cents; children, 25 cents. This includes an enjoyable thirty-mile sail through San Francisco and San Pablo bays and the Straits of Carquinez. The U. S. First Infantry Band will furnish the music. Lunches on the boat at city prices. The comfort of the excursions, under the management of P. H. Hink, will be properly looked after.

First excursion on Sunday, May 26th.

Saturday night, the last night of Booth and Barrett, The Fool's Revenge, Booth as the jester Bertuccio; and Yorick's Love, Barrett as Master Yorick.

The Bostonians will open at the California June 3d, for one week only, in Bohemian Girl, Monday night; Suzette, Tuesday night; followed by a round of operas with a change of bill every night.

Manager Hayman announces that the regular prices and regular season of the California will be inaugurated with the Bostonians' week, and that the following scale of prices will remain unchanged hereafter: Parquette and parquette circle, reserved, $1; dress circle, reserved (front rows), 75c.; dress circle, reserved (other rows), 50c.; family circle, reserved, 25c.; gallery, admission, 25c.; loge seats, $1 50; private boxes, $10; general admission, 50c. Matinee prices, 25c., 50c. and 75c.

Orpheum Opera House.

This week, the Jack Dempsey All Star Specialty Company will be the attraction; Sheffer & Blakely, negro comedians; Nash, the bicycle wonder; Lawler & Thornton, character change artists; J. D. Kelly, Irish comedian; Miss Tillie Morrissey, vocalist; Baker & West, musical artists; the Smiths, musical team, and Dempsey & Costigan, all star artists.

The Orpheum have another excellent Specialty Company this week. Nash is the best 'cyclist that has ever appeared in this city. Sheffer & Blakely are a great negro team and introduce many popular negro melodies. The other people are also good in their various specialties. The Orpheum overflowed and many were turned away.

Miss Tillie Morrissey has made a decided hit in her vocal selections, and the favorite comedian, J. W. Kelley, is received with great favor.

The combination are booked for two weeks, and Managers Walter & Co. will have crowded houses.

See list of company in programme announcement elsewhere on this page.

The Battle of Vicksburg.

The grand panorama of the Battle of Vicksburg at the Panorama Building, corner of Eddy and Mason streets, is one that no American should fail to see. It gives a grand view of the battle with the conflict at its height on the land and the bombardment from the river with the correct positions of the engaging forces and the proper placement of the ironclads in the bombardment. It is a great painting, and excels the Battle of Waterloo in graphic power and vivid reality. Destruction reigns on every side. The burning buildings, the bursting shells, the desperate charges, the hand-to-hand conflicts, and the dying and wounded, all depict with startling realism one of the hottest conflicts in history.

Open from 9 A. M. to 6 P. M.

Morosco's Amphitheatre.

Managers Morosco & Byrnes have put in a most complete fireproof partition between the stage and the auditorium, from wall to wall of their big theatre. It is constructed of iron lathings on both sides of the studding. The decorators have finished the immense ceiling of the theatre with harmonious panels.

This week will be presented, for the first time in this city, The Bells. It is also the last week of Mr. Carden's engagement.

Mr. Carden is an actor of unusual merit. His reading is clear and his manner quite impressive. He has become very popular with the patrons of the theatre.

Miss Claudia Barto, the new leading lady, made her first appearance here last week and acquits herself with marked ability. The lady has a very pleasing appearance and good stage method.

Manager Morosco understands the tastes of his patrons. He presents attractive plays with a fully competent company, and the results are satisfactory to both manager and people.

Next week, Mr. George Turner as Jack Hearne in the great London drama, Romany Rye.

Matinees Sundays, at 2 P. M. Admission, 10 cents. Front reserved seats 10 cents extra.

Vienna Garden Theatre

Not to take in the Vienna is to miss seeing one of the prettiest rural places in the city, and one that by the good management of Mr. A. Larsen has become one of our most popular family resorts.

This week the new people are Lavender & Thompson, comedians; Prof. Paul, ventriloquist; S. G. Beasley, musical specialties; Miss Florence Wood, Gus Saville, Flora Hastings, Wm. Devere, author and comedian, and J. W. Barnes, the one-legged acrobat.

Wm. Devere assumes the position of stage manager this week. Miss Jessie Cogill and Bob Harrison are retained on the bill.

The evening's entertainment concludes with Bob Harrison's roaring comedy, The Coopers.

Business is steadily good at this commodious gothic cottage embosomed among the trees.

Prices, 10 and 20 cents.

Bella Union Theatre.

The attraction this week will be Frenchy from Texas and Frank Frayne in a grand four round glove contest, and Glenn & Weston, the masters of musical comedy. Mr. Chas. Fox's original comedy in one act, The Satin Garter, will conclude the performance every evening.

The ladies of the company come in for a full share of the applause and crowd the male contingent very closely.

J. J. Billadeau has the stage management and Prof. Sorg ably conducts the orchestra.

Friday nights are devoted to amateurs, and some of the novices have shown decided talent, and as they are ambitious they will soon be classed among the professionals.

Hallinan's Cremorne Theatre.

Ned Nestell, the Old Soldier, has gone back into harness and is managing the stage in his usual manner, making himself a favorite with all.

Joe McAuliffe, the vanquisher of Tom Lees, and Con Riordan will appear in four round set-tos every evening this week. The simple announcement will be sufficient to draw a large attendance. The Great Ellwood, female impersonator; Mattie Wallace, vocalist, and

Denman Thompson and The Old Homestead are nearing the end of their long and successful season at the Academy New York.

It is stated positively that Henry E. Dixey will play a six months engagement at the Standard Theatre, New York, next season.

J. M. Emmet's engagement at the Fourteenth Street Theatre, New York, is so successful that it will be continued until June 15th.

The next regular season at the Standard Theatre, begins August 19th with a new production by Imre Kiralfy.—[Eddy's Squibs.

John J. McNally has written a new comedy for the Daly Brothers called Irish

Charles Locke is organizing an English Opera Company for next season. Emma Juch will be the prima donna.

Lillian Russell is said to be suffering with a sore throat and is out of the cast of The Brigands nearly half of the time.

Pauline Hall and her bicycle are attracting much attention in Central Park these warm spring days.

Emily Soldene owns a play called The Bread Carrier which she will produce at Niblo's June 10th.

Robinson—I must take you in to see my friend, the editor of the Times. He's a great man, but the most affable, condescending person you ever met. (Later)—Is Mr. Mightypen, the editor-in-chief, in? EVENING EDITION

MONDAY.....JUNE 3, 1889

FULL PROGRAMMES of all the Leading Theatre in San Francisco can be found in FIGARO—the only paper that has them.

PROFESSIONAL PICKINGS.

Miss Jeffrey-Lewis' benefit last night was a great success. Mme. Modjeska played Mary Stuart with all her charming grace and Miss Lewis as Queen Elizabeth was grand. The box receipts were $1,599 including a check from Booth and Barrett for $200 and another from Manager Al Hayman for $50 for a box.

The difficulties between Messrs. Eckert and Mastbaum and the exacting gentleman who runs a hotel in Dixon have been adjusted and everybody is satisfied—especially the landlord.

Washington, D. C., is to have a new theatre costing $100,000. Where is Manager Leavitt?

Barton Hill is to be stage manager for Marie Wainwright next season.

At the close of his Eastern engagement Lewis Morrison and his daughter, Rosabel, will come to California to enjoy their vacation in 'Frisco. Mr. Abrams, Morrison's agent, will accompany them.

Harry Lee is here superintending the preparations for the production of "The Cavalier" at the Alcazar on June 10th.

L. R. Stockwell has got Two Orphans to look out for now. He bought them, or at least the Coast rights for the play of that name from Kate Claxton.

Professor Herrmann has dropped Princess Lolita Diss Debar from his company, on the ground of her inefficiency in developing the occult sciences.

Taunton, Mass., has refused Barnum & Bailey's show a license this season.

We will have to brace up against "Twelve Temptations" at the Grand in a couple of weeks more.

"Katti, the Family Help," (no connection with the American play of "Kitty"), one of Willie Edouin's English comedy successes, makes its debut here this week at the Bush with Marietta Nash (the best Teddy ever in the "Bunch of Keys"), Geo. Lauri and Harry B. Bell, comedians, in the cast.

Brady & Webster will fill next year's time in the East, in the larger cities, and will not revisit this coast until June 30 1890, opening on that date in San Francisco.

Franchetti's new opera, "Asrael," lately produced at the Teatro Palgiliano at Florence, is a great success. The story deals with the super-natural, and the scenery is extremely spectacular, while the music is very beautiful.

Mlle. Cavallazzi, the favorite dancer of the Mapleson Company, is suffering from sciatica and has permanently retired from the stage.

Nat Goodwin's season at the Bush has been a pronounced success. He has played "Turned Up" the whole three weeks of his engagement, against the biggest opposition in the country, to good business. He is not only strong himself, but he brought a company with him capable of giving him adequate support. If all worthy stars that come this way are as well surrounded, there can be no such word as fail—as Richelieu says.

E. E. Rice issued a letter to managers requesting them to meet him and each other at the Madison Square Theatre, New York, May 27th, for the purpose of discussing the condition which at present governs railway traffic in this country as far as theatrical business is concerned.

The seventeen-year-old son of Osmond Tearle recently made his first appearance on the stage at Stratford-on-Avon, England, in Julius Cæsar.

It is stated that Henry C. Miner, a New York manager, has cleared $40,000 this season.

Maggie Duggan, the dancer, at one time the Ben Butler of high-kickers, is coming to this country again next season.

Frank McKee, formerly Hoyt & Thomas' manager, will manage Eugene Tompkins' Mankind company next season. Frank is smart and a good fellow enough to manage Mankind successfully anywhere.

Robson and Crane booked $95 000 for the season. They part on good terms.

A. R. Whytal will next season play Faust to Lewis Morrison's Mephistopheles.

The benefit of Robert Arthur, Nat Goodwin's manager, filled the Bush Sunday night. In the opening piece, "Fra Giacomo," Robert Hilliard gave a monologue and pantomime representation of Buchanan's poem with grace, force and intelligence. Nat Goodwin recited the poem of "The Uncle," one of Irving's favorite selections, with fervor and dramatic power. Both showed strength in serious lines that surprised their auditors.

The annual distribution of prizes to the pupils of the Mefret Institute took place yesterday afternoon at Union Square Hall. The literary and musical exercises were excellent.

The Irwin Sisters are in the Old Jed Prouty Co., booked for the California June 10th.

Major Thomas Andrews, the master mechanic of the Grand Opera House, has been engaged by Manager Maguire to supervise the mechanical portion of the stage under his lesseeship.

Chicago has twelve combination playing theatres. Some of them keep open all the year round.

Alf Hayman is on his way overland in advance of the New York Lyceum Co.

Margaret Mather plays a Pacific Coast season under Manager Al Hayman's management in the Fall.

Charles MacGeachy, formerly one of Frohman's business representatives, is here in the advance interest of "Old Jed Prouty," Richard Golden's piece.

Rose Coghlan's season opens at the Baldwin August 5th.

It is not likely that Grace Hawthorne will play in New York next season. W. W. Kelley, her manager, made an application to J. M. Hill for a date at the Union Square Theatre. They could not agree as to terms and all negotiations are off. Mr. Kelley is on his way to London.

W. B. Gross, in advance of Robert Mantell, left New York May 20th for San Francisco, via Aspinwall and Panama, on the steamer Colon. Mr. Gross will arrive in San Francisco about June 20th and will remain on our coast ten weeks. Mr. Mantell's season commences at the New California July 8th.

The Twelve Temptations played the week of May 20th at Denver to good business. They open at the Grand Opera House June 17th.

Marcus Henry announces that Mr. and Mrs. Geo. Henschel will not be able to fill their date here, as they are due in London to fill an engagement there. Mr. Henry, however, will introduce to us the Lotus Club of Boston, and in addition a novelty in operatic attractions in the future.

It is telegraphed that John Gilbert, the actor, is seriously ill at Boston and is slowly sinking.

Recently at Asti, Italy, while Signor Muller, a lion tamer, was going through his performances in a traveling menagerie cage, the beast turned upon him and instantly tore him to fragments.

A late London paper speaks of Kyrle Bellew as Mrs. Potter's Little Lord Fauntleroy.

The Baldwin Theatre will be closed for two weeks. The seventh regular season opens June 17th.

Mr. Joseph J. Levy, so long press and business agent with Lawrence Barrett, and holding the same position with the Booth-Barrett Co., is a resident of San Francisco, and will pass the Summer as usual in this city.

Sam Meyers, the well known local business manager, is back again after quite an extended stay East. He looks thinner than of old, but what he has lost in flesh he has gained in morality and experience. He comes to stay. When he met the rotund Louie Morgenstern he was affected to tears, and uttered something about a rolling stone gathering no flesh.

Booth and Barrett left direct for New York on Sunday. Many of the company, however, remain over to join the Modjeska combination.

Denman Thompson and The Old Homestead are nearing the end of their long and successful season at the Academy New York.

It is stated positively that Henry E. Dixey will play a six months engagement at the Standard Theatre, New York, next season.

J. M. Emmet's engagement at the Fourteenth Street Theatre, New York, is so successful that it will be continued until June 15th.

The next regular season at the Standard Theatre, begins August 19th with a new production by Imre Kiralfy.—[Eddy's Squibs.

Charles Locke is organizing an English Opera Company for next season. Emma Juch will be the prima donna.

Lillian Russell is said to be suffering with a sore throat and is out of the cast of The Brigands nearly half of the time.

Pauline Hall and her bicycle are attracting much attention in Central Park these warm spring days.

Emily Soldene owns a play called The Bread Carrier, which she will produce at Niblo's June 10th.

John J. McNally has written a new comedy for the Daly Brothers called Irish Heads and German Hearts.

It is whispered that but for the success of The Clover at Palmers Theatre, N. Y., Col Mc Caull would have been on the edge of the soup tureen.

Neither hot waves, baseball or horse races have any terrors for A Midnight Bell. It rings in good audiences every evening at the Bijou Opera House, N. Y., and is to remain until Coney Island is in full bloom.

Manager Shackford's Opera Company will open a ten weeks' season at the Warder Grand Opera House at Kansas City, June 3d instead of June 10th. The first opera to be produced will be The Chimes, in which the clever comedian Frank B Blair will appear as Jaspard.

AMUSEMENTS, ETC.

Seavitt's New Bush Street Theatre.

Another of Willie Edouin's English comedy successes, "Katti," the Family Help, said to resemble his "Turned Up" in distinctive individuality of characters and in being an "intensely funny comedy," follows the Goodwin season at the Bush this week. Marietta Nash, the original and best of Teddies in "The Bunch of Keys," George Lauri and Harry B. Bell, two good comedians, have the principal parts.

See cast and list of musical features in programme on first page.

By the way, "Katti" must not be confounded to its disadvantage with "Kitty," the piece that Mestayer appeared here in. "Katti" is a different kind of a play—and a success.

Sunday, the last night of the Goodwin season, was marked by being set apart for the benefit of his manager, Mr. Robert Arthur, whose many friends in this city were the instigators of the testimonial. A special bill was given. The performance opened with "Fra Giacomo," from the poem of Robt. Buchanan, with Robt. Hilliard as Count Paolo, a part he appeared to great advantage in. This was followed by an olio, introducing Messrs Lew Spencer, the comedian, N. C. Goodwin in a recitation, and Sheffer & Blakeley, Ethiopian comedians, authors of "Johnny Get Your Gun," "New Coon in Town," etc., in their specialties. All were well received. The performance closed with "Turned Up."

Baldwin Theatre.

A special performance was given at the Baldwin on Sunday night for the farewell benefit of Jeffreys Lewis, a talented actress and gifted woman, whose lines have not fallen in pleasant places in California, prior to her departure East. "Mary Stuart" formed the bill with Mme Modjeska in the title role, Miss Lewis as Queen Elizabeth, and a well selected company in support. The support was mostly by Booth's company and the play was given a fine performance.

The Baldwin will remain closed until June 17th, when it will re-open for its seventh season with Daniel Frohman's New York Lyceum Theatre Company, in "The Wife."

Alcazar Theatre.

The Fairy's Well, that W. H. Power's Company present this week, is a romantic Irish drama that ingrafts a pretty story founded on the old legend of the Fairy's Well, that if a maid look into it at Halloween at midnight she will see reflected in its clear waters the face of her future husband. The Co. is of unusual excellence and includes a quartette of trained voices, a corps of dancers, and a genuine Irish harp piper. A feature of the production is the beautiful scenery—a car-load being used to illustrate the play.

New California Theatre.

The Bostonians appear at the California Theatre for this week only, in Bohemian Girl, Monday night; Suzette, Tuesday night; followed by a round of operas with a change of bill every night.

Their season at the Baldwin has proven that they give a very enjoyable rendering of their operas, giving due effects to their individual parts in singing and acting and impressing their audiences most favorably with their capabilities in concerted pieces.

Manager Hayman announces that the regular prices and regular season of the California will be inaugurated with the Bostonians' week, and that the following scale of prices will remain unchanged hereafter: Parquette and parquette circle, reserved, $1; dress circle, reserved (front rows), 75c.; dress circle, reserved (other rows), 50c.; family circle, reserved, 25c; gallery, admission, 25c.; loge seats, $1 50; private boxes, $10; general admission, 50c. Matinee prices, 25c, 50c and 75c.

Standard Theatre.

The Standard Theatre will be re-opened under the management of Mr. Frederick Mitchell on Saturday night, with Edwin Thorne in The Three Guardsmen, supported by a capable company. Mr. W. F. Rochester will be the acting manager. The season will be at popular prices, 25, 50 and 75 cents, and starts out for an extended one.

Orpheum Opera House.

This week, the Jack Dempsey All Star Specialty Company continue the attraction; Sheffer & Blakely, negro comedians; Nash, the bicycle wonder; Lawler & Thornton, character change artists; J. D Kelly, Irish comedian; Miss Tillie Morrissey, vocalist; Baker & West, musical artists; the Smiths, musical team, and Dempsey & Costigan, all star artists.

The Orpheum has an entire change in its athletic bill this week. Nash is the best cyclist that has ever appeared in this city. Sheffer & Blakely are a great negro team and introduce many popular negro melodies. Some of the changes to be made include the introduction of local sparring talent, and among the names mentioned are conspicuous, George Gannon, Sacramento; Billy Hennessy, Kansas City, and Dan Egan (the Montana Kid), from Butte City.

Miss Tillie Morrissey has made a decided hit in her vocal selections, and the favorite comedian J. W. Kelley, is received with great favor.

This is the last week of the combination.

See list of company in programme announcement elsewhere on this page.

Peck's Bad Boy follows June 10th.

The Battle of Vicksburg.

The grand panorama of the Battle of Vicksburg at the Panorama Building, corner of Eddy and Mason streets, is one that no American should fail to see. It gives a grand view of the battle with the conflict at its height on the land and the bombardment from the river with the correct positions of the engaging forces and the proper placement of the ironclads in the bombardment. It is a great painting, and excels the Battle of Waterloo in graphic power and vivid reality. Destruction reigns on every side. The burning buildings, the bursting shells, the desperate charges, the hand-to-hand conflicts, and the dying and wounded, all depict with startling realism one of the hottest conflicts in history.

Open from 9 A. M. to 6 P. M.

Morosco's Amphitheatre.

Managers Morosco & Byrnes have put in a most complete fireproof partition between the stage and the auditorium, from wall to wall of their big theatre. It is constructed of iron lathings on both sides of the studding. The decorators have finished the immense ceiling of the theatre with harmonious panels.

This week, Mr. George Turner as Jack Hearne in the great London drama, Romany Rye. Darrell Vinton as Philip Boyson and Jas. Carden as Joe Hecketts. Conchita has been specially engaged to play Lura Lee.

The play will be effectively staged and the greatest success of the season is assured.

Manager Morosco understands the tastes of his patrons. He presents attractive plays with a fully competent company, and the results are satisfactory to both manager and people.

Matinees Sundays, at 2 P. M. Admission, 10 cents. Front reserved seats 10 cents extra.

Vienna Garden Theatre

Not to take in the Vienna is to miss seeing one of the prettiest rural places in the city, and one that by the good management of Mr. A. Larsen has become one of our most popular family resorts.

This week the new people are Garry Hopper and Carrie Hall in their novelty sketch, Secret Service; the Andrews Sisters, Gibbons & Ford, Chas. A. Thedy, banjo king, Thomas Morris and Eva St. Clair.

S. G. Beasley, in his musical specialities; Miss Florence Wood, Gus Saville, Flora Hastings, Wm. Devere, author and comedian; J. W. Barnes, the one-legged acrobat, and Bob Harrison are retained on the bill.

Wm. Devere has assumed the position of stage manager.

Business is steadily good at this commodious gothic cottage embosomed among the trees.

Prices, 10 and 20 cents.

Bella Union Theatre.

This week a fine bill is presented. Ned Thatcher and George Drew, Lang's Comiques, the Crawford Bros. and the Kasten Sisters are the new stars.

The ladies of the company come in for a full share of the applause and crowd the male contingent very closely.

E. Lang's comedy sketch, Neighborly Neighbors," with all the company in the cast, is an important feature of the bill.

J. J. Billadeau has the stage management, and Prof. Sorg ably conducts the orchestra.

Thursday evening, June 6th, a grand testimonial benefit will be given the favorite comedian, Lew Spencer. A host of professionals have volunteered for the occasion.

Friday nights are devoted to amateurs, and some of the novices have shown decided talent, and as they are ambitious they will soon be classed among the professionals.

Hallinan's Cremorne Theatre.

Ned Nestell, the Old Soldier, has gone back into harness and is managing the stage in his usual manner, making himself a favorite with all.

Fitz & Devine, the Irish millionaires; Jessie Ogilli, vocalist, and Howard & Berkeley, sketch artists, are the new faces this week.

The Great Ellwood, female impersonator; Mattie Wallace, vocalist; Sadie Stevens, Miss Sadie Fairfield, song and dance artists; May Morrell, serio comic, and Hayes & Marion continue favorites.

A grand glove contest will be the attraction every Tuesday and Friday evening.

Ned Nestell's amusing burlesque, Under the Gas Pipes, with the full company in the cast, concludes the entertainment.

Original Theatre Comique.

The Comique presents an entire new bill this week, with songs and afterpiece. Numerous new novelties are produced by the various artists every evening and especial attention is paid to the first part.

This week the entertainment begins with selections by the entire company. Charles Morrell has new banjo songs and an entire change of witty sayings for the entertainment of the Comique's patrons.

Miss Millie Ravenna makes her first appearance this week. All the favorite vocalists have been retained.

The comical farce-comedy, Burglar Alarm, is the interlude act.

The laughable farce, Rats, with all the company in the cast, concludes the bill and the evening's fun.

The Comique's company is a strong one. It is a neat, compact minor theatre, and for many years has been a popular one.

Eureka Music Hall.

This is one of the neatest and most popular of our minor theatres. Manager Walterstein runs a very strong company.

Mr. Bob McDonald, song and dance artist and comedian, is the new face this week.

Lillie Mason, Laura White, Cora Everett, Lulu Howard, Pearl Iola, Stella Merriam, Ed Soldene, Bob McDonald, Chas. Rice and Geo C. Dunham.

The first part introduces the entire company in new and pleasing selections. Rice & Everett appear in their original sketch, All Mixed Up, introducing songs, dances and medleys.

The Can-Can is retained on the bill. New songs and dances and all the original business have been introduced, making the bill stronger than ever.

The Eureka gives a matinee every Sunday.

Sunday, June 9th, grand picnic of the Hickory Club at the Seaside Gardens.

Sunday Excursions on the Bay.

The steamer Tamalpais, renovated and placed in complete order, will make family excursions every Sunday during the season to Mare Island, Vallejo and Martinez; leaving Sausalito ferry slip, foot of Clay street, at 10 15 A. M., and returning at 7 30 P. M. Tickets, for the round trip, 50 cents; children, 25 cents. This includes an enjoyable thirty-mile sail through San Francisco and San Pablo bays and the Straits of Carquinez. The U. S. First Infantry Band will furnish the music. Lunches on the boat at city prices. The comfort of the excursions, under the management of P. H. Hink, will be properly looked after.

First excursion on Sunday, May 26th.

Robinson—I must take you in to see my friend, the editor of the Times. He's a great man, but the most affable, condescending person you ever met. (Late)—Is Mr. Mightypen, the editor-in-chief, in? Editorial factotum—Yes, sir, but he is too stuck up to see anybody. Stuck up! why what has come over my friend? A quart bottle of mucilage fell on his head about three minutes ago; that's what come over him.

Supe (to stage manager)—Say, guv'nor, have ver got a life-preserver? Manager—No. What's the matter? Supe—The Roman general fell overboard into the tank with his helmet on. He's floatin' around head down, and the gods are hollering and raisin' h—l in the gall'ry. I'm gettin' sick of this 'quatic dramer.

Home missionary—Do you believe your prayers are answered, Uncle Rastus? Uncle Rastus—'Pends altogether on de prayer. When I prays de Lord to send me a turkey it don't come, but when I prays de Lord to send me after a turkey I gen'ly gits it before midnight.

"I shall accept your invitation to the fair, gentlemen," remarked General William T. Sherman, "if there will be——" "Never fear, General," responded the spokesman, "we have made arrangements to have 200 kissable girls at your side constantly." "Very well, then I'll be there."

It is reported that the members of the Adonis Company, which closed its season at the Grand Opera House, N. Y., are not disinclined to receive their overdue salaries from Manager E. E Rice.

A man died recently in Connecticut who smoked 2,000 herrings a day. If he had quit that bad habit in time and tackled "Seal of North Carolina" Plug Cut he would be alive to-day.

A FRAGMENT.

There is no life but has its phantom grim,
No heart but aches with some remembered pain,
No pleasure offers life without alloy
And grief is ever stranger unto joy.
For from the past some haunting memory springs,
Waking to life, as where, the pulseless dead.
So grow and quiver in a worldless pain,
As does the moth consumed by ardent flame.

There is no life unsteeped in deep regret
For deed undone, or done beyond recall,
For wasted time that never will come back
Tho' tortured by remorse as on the rack.
Little has life, save deep regret and woe;
All that we hold most dear and sacred dies,
And yet we wait, and hope, because we know
God's future holds some plan, where promise lies.

A NOVELTY IN PARIS.

Paris, June 2—Parisians are soon to enjoy the novelty of a real Anamite theatre. In Cochin-China and Anam there are no permanent theatres and the stars carry their houses with them. It is one of these that has been brought here now. The auditorium has been constructed according to Chinese rules. There is no scenery and the small salle holds about 300 spectators. Anamite artists are busy painting screens for the movable background. They work with their hands or their feet, which ever come handy. Their pictorial style is remarkable and all is done without a model. There are no women in the company, boys taking the feminine roles. Californians are familiar with the long three or four days' representation of one play, but there has never been any Chinatown here to visit, and, as all the crudity of the theatre of Aristophanes is promised, the venture will certainly be a success.

Part of the block on Broadway between Twenty-seventh and Twenty-eighth street in New York, is known as Soubrette Row, and at this time of the year is filled with actresses built on the soubrette plan. It is a colony by itself that flits around the corridors and up and down the stairs at any time of day or night, and in any costume, from a full evening toilet to a loose Mother Hubbard and slippers. Last week the community was thrown into consternation by the arrival of a new comer, with two pugs, a parrot, a French maid, and no mother; and a committee was appointed to investigate, but the fair interloper moved before the committee got in its deadly work. At the present writing Soubrette Row is in great tribulation and sorrow, with feelings not unlike sitting on a volcano about to erupt. The interloper was a female reporter sent from one of the big New York dailies, and she has promised to rip open the Row, and burn up its inmates.

Lew Rosen, the clever dramatic editor of The N. Y. Police Gazette, has written a new novel which will fall from the press next week. He has named it Grisette; a tale of Paris and New York, and a well-known farce comedy man is supposed to be the original of the fellow who falls in love with Grisette. A suit for libel will probably follow the book.

The Lion of Peru is the title of a new opera produced by the Boston Ideals at Pittsburg last week. The plot is about the gigantic swindle—the South Sea Bubble.

What is the difference between a minister and an actor? One makes up as he goes on, the other goes on as he makes up.

OUR TWO RESERVOIR DISASTERS.

The terrible calamity at Johnstown, caused by the giving away of the dam at Conemaugh Lake, or reservoir, was a counterpart in extenso of that which occurred fifteen years ago, when the Mill River dam on the east branch of the river of that name, in Massachusetts, undermined by leakage, gave way on May 16, 1874. A section of about forty feet of the lower eastern portion of the dam bulged out at 7 o'clock in the morning. George Cheney, the gatekeeper, realizing that the whole must soon give way, leaped on his horse and rode down the valley at break-neck speed giving the cry of alarm as he went, changing horses at the villages as he exhausted those he rode. His prompt action saved thousands of lives, as the warned ones rushed to the hillsides and escaped the disaster.

Cheney had a good start, but the flood rushed roaring down the valley overtaking him at its lower end. It carried before it a whirlwind of blinding spray that looked like a cloud of dense dust in front of a tornado. The torrent swept away houses, trees, mills, everything, before its maddening course, and crushed everything in its embrace. The manufacturing villages of Williamsburg, Skinnerville, Cheney's, Haydonville and Leeds were the principal sufferers.

One hundred and fifty lives were lost and $2 500 000 worth of property destroyed in the little narrow shelves of valleys that skirted Mill River, before the flood spent itself on the wide Florence Meadows Valley, fifteen miles below the dam, and strewed it with its wreckage.

It will not be out of place here to compare the two floods. The Mill River dam was three miles above Williamsburg, the first little manufacturing village destroyed. It was nine years old, and inclosed 109 acres of water, with its greatest depth at fifteen feet. It was an earthwork structure, 80 feet through at its base, sloping to 40 feet at its top, strengthened by a granite wall through its centre.

The Conemaugh dam was eighteen miles above Johnstown. It was 90 feet in thickness at its base, 110 feet high, 20 feet wide on top, and about 1,000 feet in its greatest length. It held in check a body of water three and one-half miles long, from one mile to a mile and a quarter in width, and in some places 100 feet in depth. It was the largest reservoir in the United States. The break carried away the centre of the dam for about 200 feet in width, and this immense sea of water tore down the valley in a body, emptying the reservoir in less than an hour.

The effects of the two torrents are alike, and are only distinguished by the differences in the volumn of water let loose, and in the more terrible disaster caused by the last one by fire as well as flood.

SPECIALTY SQUIBS.

Lew Spencer received several warm recalls at the benefit at the Bush last night for his good specialty turns.

It will be a gala night at the Bella Union on Wednesday.

Cort's Standard, Portland, May 27th: The four Carles, Vanola, the three Franklins, Flora Hastings, Dick Devlin and Ollie Singleton.

The Comique presents an entire new bill this week. Charley Morrell and Tommy Morris contribute excellent specialty turns, and J. H. Burns is good in character parts.

Those minstrel Missionaries, Thatcher, Primrose & West, open at the new California Theatre June 24th.

Some people have science at their fingers' end. Jack Dempsey's does not extend beyond his knuckles; but he gets there just the same.

PROFESSIONAL PICKINGS.

W. A. Mack, of W. H. Power's Ivy Leaf Co., is a most admirable singer. Last night he captivated the audience by singing "Molly Bawn."

"Ardriell," the new opera by Adham, was given in the Union Square Theatre, N. Y., June 31. Louise Paullin, formerly of San Francisco, made a great hit in singing the leading role. This was the first production of the piece and Miss Paullin had to make the part. The opera is quite light, with many fine musical passages, given chiefly to the heroine, Ardriell.

William A. Brady has won the suit instituted against him by Augustus Daly in New York. The principal point at issue was upon the question of running a train of cars across the stage. Brady proved by McKee Rankin to the complete satisfaction of the court that the device was not original with Daly. A few years ago Brady was a prompter and utility man for Jos. Grismer. Now he is worth about $30,000. Mr. Brady is going in with Harry Miner to give a benefit in aid of the Johnstown sufferers. This is the first move that has been made in this direction. Once again California is to the front.

The Irwin Sisters are in the Old Jed Prouty Co., booked for the California June 10th.

Chicago has twelve combination playing theatres. Some of them keep open all the year round.

Alf Hayman is on his way overland in advance of the New York Lyceum Co.

Charles MacGeachy, formerly one of Frohman's business representatives, is here in the advance interest of "Old Jed Prouty," Richard Golden's piece.

Rose Coghlan's season opens at the Baldwin August 5th.

The Twelve Temptations played the week of May 20th at Denver to good business. They open at the Grand Opera House June 17th.

Washington, D. C., is to have a new theatre costing $100,000. Where is Manager Leavitt?

Barton Hill is to be stage manager for Marie Wainwright next season.

Taunton, Mass., has refused Barnum & Bailey's show a license this season.

We will have to brace up against "Twelve Temptations" at the Grand in a couple of weeks more.

"Katti, the Family Help," (no connection with the American play of "Kitty"), one of Willie Edouin's English comedy successes, makes its debut here this week at the Bush with Marietta Nash (the best Teddy ever in the "Bunch of Keys"), Geo. Lauri and Harry B. Ball, comedians, in the cast.

Something new about Hamlet. "So much has been written about the character of young Hamlet and of Edwin Booth's performance of it that, it must seem audacious for a writer like the critic of a paper like the Mirror to offer any opinions on either. There have been tons of rubbish penned about Shakespeare and the creations of his magic weaving soul; but in our opinion an actor like Booth gets nearer to the poet than do the dry-as-dust students who claim to know all about him. Some of these same commentators have taken Shakespeare to task and accused him of solecisms because in Act III he speaks of,

'The undiscovered country, from whose bourn no traveller returns.'

Although in Act I he has held converse with the shade of his father. The fact that Shakespeare painted Hamlet as a man, with all of man's doubts and indecisions, and not as a mathematical problem that can be demonstrated by general law seems to have escaped the acute intellects of these same learned Thebans. As we are constituted we cannot cease speculating on the life beyond the tomb, and if the most careful observers among us were to see a ghost we would still doubt the evidence of our eyes and continue to doubt and speculate. Edwin Booth, has all the traits of Shakespeare's Hamlet. He is a dreamer, not a man of action, and that he is well informed in the science of occultism is well known to students of that glorious science."—[John W. Thompson in the San Francisco Mirror.

M. A. Kennedy, the light comedian, is to be starred next season, in A Possible Case. Kennedy is a good comedian, but if you have anything standing against him it is more than a possible case that you don't get it.

Playwright Charles Hoyt is at his home among the Yankees, where he is at work on A Texas Steer, trying to bring the animal into subjection for next seasons exhibition.

The lease of the Grand Opera-house, signed by John W. Mackay, James L. Flood, and Thomas I. Bergin, administrators of the will of James C. Flood, of the first part, and John Maguire of Butte City, theatrical manager, party of the second part, was filed for record on Monday. The terms are that Maguire shall pay $1000 a month for the theatre for three years, commencing October 1, 1889.

Rudolph Aronson is in Paris searching for novelties.

The Lyceum Theatre, New York, opens in August with E. H. Southern.

The seventeen-year-old son of Osmond Tearle recently made his first appearance on the stage at Stratford-on-Avon, England, in Julius Cæsar.

It is stated that Henry C. Miner, a New York manager, has cleared $40,000 this season.

Maggie Duggan, the dancer, at one time the Ben Butler of high-kickers, is coming to this country again next season.

Frank McKee, formerly Hoyt & Thomas' manager, will manage Eugene Tompkins' Mankind company next season. Frank is smart and a good fellow enough to manage Mankind successfully anywhere.

Robson and Crane booked $95 000 for the season. They part on good terms.

A. R. Whytal will next season play Faust to Lewis Morrison's Mephistopheles.

You can't fool this coon with your snide "Plug Cuts;" he smokes "SEAL OF NORTH CAROLINA" and stays right by it, and so do all the old smokers who know a good thing when they see it.

The enormous sale of "SEAL OF NORTH CAROLINA PLUG CUT" is sufficient evidence that it suits the smokers.

AMUSEMENTS, ETC.

Leavitt's New Bush Street Theatre.

Another of Willie Edouin's English comedy successes, "Katti," the Family Help, is the attraction at the Bush. It abounds in funny features, and shows the ludicrous situations in which two brothers with their wives are placed. One of the brothers has a maid-of-all-work named Katti, who, through her mistakes, is responsible for all sorts of queer scenes and incidents. There is a departure of the entire family to Newport, and after their establishment in a fashionable villa, there they discover that Katti is an heiress in her own right. Of course the little German girl is immediately treated with the greatest deference by her employers, who make her one of the family. When it is discovered that the news of her fortune is all a mistake the efforts to recall the favors that have been showered upon her serve to keep the audience in good humor to the end.

Marietta Nash, the original and best of Teddies in "The Bunch of Keys," a bright little woman with a winsome face, a good actress and a specially fine dancer, carries the honors as Katti. George Lauri and Harry B. Bell, two good comedians, have the principal parts as the two Fluffys, and keep the fun alive. Miss Helen Reimer, Miss Vera Van Name and Miss Marie Stanley sustain the female roles very acceptably, as do Messrs. M. L. Alsop and Geo. Mitchell as the two young men of the comedy.

The duets and concerted pieces introduced are excellently rendered and are very popular features of "Katti," and Mr. Mitchell's solo contributions deserve their encores.

See cast and list of musical features in programme on first page.

By the way, "Katti" must not be confounded to its disadvantage with "Kitty," the piece that Mestayer appeared here in. "Katti" is a different kind of a play—and a success.

Baldwin Theatre.

The Baldwin will remain closed until June 17th, when it will re-open for its seventh season with Daniel Frohman's New York Lyceum Theatre Company, in "The Wife."

Alcazar Theatre.

The Fairy's Well, that W. H. Power's Company present this week, is a romantic Irish drama that ingrafts a pretty story founded on the old legend of the Fairy's Well, that if a maid look into it at Halloween at midnight she will see reflected in its clear waters the face of her future husband. The Co. is of unusual excellence and includes a quartette of trained voices, a corps of dancers, and a genuine Irish bag-piper. A feature of the production is the beautiful scenery—a car-load being used to illustrate the play.

The serious part of the play is brightened by bits of comedy. The acting is good and the scenery and stage appointments fine.

Next week's attraction will be Mr. Henry Lee in his great play, The Cavalier.

New California Theatre.

The Bostonians appear at the California Theatre for this week only, in Sunsette, Tuesday night; followed by a round of operas with a change of bill every night. See programme.

The Bostonians are drawing big houses.

Their season at the Baldwin has proven that they give a very enjoyable rendering of their operas, giving due effects to their individual parts in singing and acting and impressing their audiences most favorably with their capabilities in concerted pieces.

Manager Hayman announces that the regular prices and regular season of the California will be inaugurated with the Bostonians' week, and that the following scale of prices will remain unchanged hereafter: Parquette and parquette circle, reserved, $1; dress circle, reserved (front rows), 75c.; dress circle, reserved (other rows), 50c.; family circle, reserved, 25c.; gallery, admission, 25c.; loge seats, $1 50; private boxes, $10; general admission, 50c. Matinee prices, 25c., 50c. and 75c.

—o—

Richard Golden opens next week in "Old Jed Prouty," a Yankee play, of which the New York Herald said his "Old Jed comes nearer to nature than Denman Thompson's Joshua Whitcomb." It sprang into popularity at once in New York, and as Messrs. Harris & Rich, its Eastern proprietors and managers, sends us the New York cast with all its properties and scenic effects intact, we shall have it here at its best.

Seats on sale Thursday.

See extra programme announcement elsewhere.

Standard Theatre.

The Standard Theatre will be re-opened under the management of Mr. Fredrick Mitchell on Saturday night, with Edwin Thorne in The Three Guardsmen as D'Artagnan, the impetuous hero of Dumas' famous story, and the best D'Artagnan on the stage. Mr. Thorne will be supported by J. W. Thompson, one of the best of Athos, Horace Ewing, Edward Loring, E. N. Thayer, Miss Clyde Heron, Miss Belle Chippendale, Miss May Nannery and a capable company. The grand old drama will be finely staged with new scenery and appointments.

For cast see programme in adjacent column.

Mr. W. F. Rochester is the acting manager; a guarantee that everything will be well done.

The season will be at popular prices, 25, 50 and 75 cents, and starts out for an extended one.

The Standard is undergoing a complete renovation. Gangs of workmen are placing the theatre in complete order, inside and out, prior to the opening.

Seats on sale Thursday.

Orpheum Opera House.

This week, the Jack Dempsey All Star Specialty Company continue the attraction; Sheffer & Blakely, negro comedians; Nash, the bicycle wonder; Lawler & Thornton, character change artists; J. D. Kelly, Irish comedian; Miss Tillie Morrissey, vocalist; Baker & West, musical artists; the Smiths, musical team, and Dempsey & Costigan, all star artists.

The Orpheum has an entire change in its athletic bill this week. Nash is the best cyclist that has ever appeared in this city. Sheffer & Blakely are a great negro team and introduce many popular negro melodies. Some of the changes to be made include the introduction of local sparring talent, and among the names mentioned are conspicuous, George Gannon, Sacramento; Billy Hennessy, Kansas City, and Dan Egan (the Montana Kid), from Butte City.

Miss Tillie Morrissey has made a decided hit in her vocal selections, and the favorite comedian, J. W. Kelley, is received with great favor.

This is the last week of the combination.

See list of company in programme announcement elsewhere on this page.

Peck's Bad Boy follows June 10th.

The Battle of Vicksburg.

The grand panorama of the Battle of Vicksburg at the Panorama Building, corner of Eddy and Mason streets, is one that no American should fail to see. It gives a grand view of the battle with the conflict at its height on the land and the bombardment from the river with the correct positions of the engaging forces and the proper placement of the ironclads in the bombardment. It is a great painting, and excels the Battle of Waterloo in graphic power and vivid reality. Destruction reigns on every side. The burning buildings, the bursting shells, the desperate charges, the hand-to-hand conflicts, and the dying and wounded, all depict with startling realism one of the hottest conflicts in history.

Open from 9 A. M. to 6 P. M.

Morosco's Amphitheatre.

Managers Morosco & Byrnes have put in a most complete fireproof partition between the stage and the auditorium, from wall to wall of their big theatre. It is constructed of iron lathings on both sides of the studding. The decorators have finished the immense ceiling of the theatre with harmonious panels.

This week, Mr. George Turner as Jack Hearne in the great London drama, Romany Rye. Darrell Vinton as Philip Boyson and Jas. Carden as Joe Hechette. Conchita has been specially engaged to play Lura Lee.

The play has been effectively staged and the greatest success of the season is assured.

Manager Morosco understands the tastes of his patrons. He presents attractive plays with a fully competent company, and the results are satisfactory to both manager and people.

Matinees Sundays, at 2 P. M. Admission, 10 cents. Front reserved seats 10 cents extra.

Bella Union Theatre.

This week a fine bill is presented. Ned Thatcher and George Drew, Lang's Comiques, the Crawford Bros. and the Kasten Sisters are the new stars.

The ladies of the company come in for a full share of the applause and crowd the male contingent very closely.

E. Lang's comedy sketch, Neighborly Neighbors," with all the company in the cast, is an important feature of the bill.

J. J. Billadeau has the stage management and Prof. Sorg ably conducts the orchestra.

Thursday evening, June 6th, a grand testimonial benefit will be given the favorite comedian, Lew Spencer. A host of professionals have volunteered for the occasion.

Friday nights are devoted to amateurs, and some of the novices have shown decided talent, and as they are ambitious they will soon be classed among the professionals.

Hallinan's Cremorne Theatre.

Ned Nestell, the Old Soldier, has gone back into harness and is managing the stage in his usual manner, making himself a favorite with all.

Fitz & Devine, the Irish millionaires; Jessie Cogill, vocalist, and Howard & Berkeley, sketch artists, are the new faces this week.

The Great Ellwood, female impersonator; Mattie Wallace, vocalist; Sadie Stevens, Miss Sadie Fairfield, song and dance artists; May Morrell, serio comic, and Hayes & Marion continue favorites.

A grand glove contest will be the attraction every Tuesday and Friday evening.

Ned Nestell's amusing burlesque, Under the Gas Pipes, with the full company in the cast, concludes the entertainment.

Original Theatre Comique.

The Comique presents an entire new bill this week, with songs and afterpiece. Numerous new novelties are produced by the various artists every evening and especial attention is paid to the first part.

This week the entertainment begins with selections by the entire company. Charles Morrell has new banjo songs and an entire change of witty sayings for the entertainment of the Comique's patrons.

Miss Millie Ravenna makes her first appearance this week. All the favorite vocalists

The comical farce-comedy, Burglar Alarm, is the interlude act.

The laughable farce, Rats, with all the company in the cast, concludes the bill and the evening's fun.

The Comique's company is a strong one. It is a neat, compact minor theatre, and for many years has been a popular one.

Eureka Music Hall.

This is one of the neatest and most popular of our minor theatres. Manager Walterstein runs a very strong company.

Mr. Bob McDonald, song and dance artist and comedian, is the new face this week.

Lillie Mason, Laura White, Cora Everett Lulu Howard, Pearl Iola, Stella Merriam, Ed. Soldene, Bob McDonald, Chas. Rice and Geo. C. Dunham.

The first part introduces the entire company in new and pleasing selections. Rice & Everett appear in their original sketch, All Mixed Up, introducing songs, dances and medleys.

The Can-Can is retained on the bill. New songs and dances and all the original business have been introduced, making the bill stronger than ever.

The Eureka gives a matinee every Sunday.

Sunday, June 9th, grand picnic of the Hickory Club at the Seaside Gardens.

Sunday Excursions on the Bay.

The steamer Tamalpais, renovated and placed in complete order, will make family excursions every Sunday during the season to Mare Island, Vallejo and Martinez; leaving Sausalito ferry slip, foot of Clay street, at 10 15 A. M., and returning at 7 30 P. M. Tickets, for the round trip, 50 cents; children, 25 cents. This includes an enjoyable thirty-mile sail through San Francisco and San Pablo bays and the Straits of Carquinez. The U. S. First Infantry Band will furnish the music. Lunches on the boat at city prices. The comfort of the excursions, under the management of P. H. Hink, will be properly looked after.

First excursion on Sunday, May 26th.

A NOVELTY IN PARIS.

Paris, June 2—Parisians are soon to enjoy the novelty of a real Anamite theatre. In Cochin-China and Anam there are no permanent theatres and the stars carry their houses with them. It is one of these that has been brought here now. The auditorium has been constructed according to Chinese rules. There is no scenery and the small salle holds about 300 spectators. Anamite artists are busy painting screens for the movable background. They work with their hands or their feet, which ever come handy. Their pictorial style is remarkable and all is done without a model. There are no women in the company, boys taking the feminine roles. Californians are familiar with the long stories or four days' representation of one play, but there has never been any Chinatown here to visit, and, as all the crudity of the theatre of Aristophanes is promised, the venture will certainly be a success.

The Lion of Peru is the title of a new opera produced by the Boston Ideals at Pittsburg last week. The plot is about the gigantic swindle—the South Sea Bubble.

What is the difference between a minister and an actor? One makes up as he goes on, the other goes on as he makes up.

The champion sculler, and the champion scholar are often graduated from the same college, but the former makes the most money.

Uncle Jed Prouty is a financial success.

EVENING EDITION

WEDNESDAY.....JUNE 5, 1889

FULL PROGRAMMES of all the Leading Theatres in San Francisco can be found in FIGARO—the only paper that has them.

PROFESSIONAL PICKINGS.

Ed and Charley Bert have had their ups and downs in the managerial business; especially their downs. They have lost many rounds in being downed in their wrestlings with theatrical speculations. Still they have courage in defeat, and are now on the top wave of success with their "Peck's Bad Boy," which has been a steady winner since its start last year. The Bad Boy with J. J. Williams as the mischievous one—the original of the part—will sport himself on the Orpheum's stage next week.

Sol Bloom, treasurer of the Alcazar, has his testimonial Monday night, the first.

The laughable comedy of "The Strategists" will be next week's bill at the Bush, with Marietta Nash and company in the cast.

"The Fairy's Well" is the sign over the entrance to the Alcazar, and everybody that comes in says, "We are glad of it."

Richard Golden has hit a golden lead in his "Old Jed Prouty." It has caught on firmly. It comes to the California next week.

The Worcester Theatre, recently destroyed by fire, will be rebuilt at once and will be one of the finest places of amusement on the New England circuit. Manager Proctor will have it ready for the opening early in the Fall.

Miss Rosina Vokes closes her season at Daly's Theatre, N. Y., June 8th, after which she will go to Europe for a short vacation, opening her next tour Sept. 16th at the Park Theatre in Brooklyn. Miss Vokes begins an extended season at Daly's Theatre on April 14th of next year, when Mr. Daly's company will again go to England to fill engagements.

Charlotte Thompson has written a society sensational play called Impulse; or, Self Exile, which she expects to produce next season. Wonder if its an Irish play?

Edgar Selden will star next season in a romantic Irish drama called Will o' the Wisp, under the management of Thomas C. Lombard.

Kate Claxton has arranged with Manager A. M. Palmer for the production of Bootle's Baby at the Madison Square Theatre, N. Y., about August 1st.

It is stated that Henry C. Miner, a New York manager, has cleared $40,000 this season.

It is reported that the New York Casino orchestra musicians are "kicking" because the Hungarian Band on the roof garden does not belong to the musical union. They are on the outside anyhow.

George Edgar Montgomery is to write an epilogue for the part of Viola which will be spoken by Marie Wainwright in Twelfth Night next season.

Digby Bell has had an offer from the Casino management for next season but will probably star in a new musical comedy assisted by Laura Joyce Bell and a good company.

W. A. Mack, of W. H. Power's Ivy Leaf Co., is a most admirable singer. Last night he captivated the audience by singing "Molly Bawn."

"Ardriell," the new opera by Adham, was given in the Union Square Theatre, N. Y., June 3d. Louise Paullin, formerly of San Francisco, made a great hit in singing the leading role. This was the first production of the piece and Miss Paullin had to make the part. The opera is quite light, with many fine musical passages, given chiefly to the heroine, Ardriell.

William A Brady has won the suit instituted against him by Augustus Daly in New York. The principal point at issue was upon the question of running a train of cars across the stage. Brady proved by McKee Rankin to the complete satisfaction of the court that the device was not original with Daly. A few years ago Brady was a prompter and utility man for Jos. Grismer. Now he is worth about $30,000. Mr. Brady is going in with Harry Miner to give a benefit in aid of the Johnstown sufferers. This is the first move that has been made in this direction. Once again California is to the front.

Miss Ciprico, principal of the Moulder Primary School may well feel proud of her scholars. The Bijou Theatre was crowded by the parents and friends of the pupils on the occasion of their annual exhibition. The children acquitted themselves in a highly creditable manner. The recitations were excellently given, showing that more than usual attention has been given to the study of reading in the school.

Mr. Polk will present his new play, The Silent Partner, at the Alcazar during his engagement which commences June 17th.

The California was full to the lobbies last night.

Amy Ames will star next season in a new piece by Gratton Donnelly.

Mrs. Nellie Wetherill, who had the misfortune to lose her foot a few years ago, is reported to be dying.

All the Booth-Barrett Company except two remained to go North with Modjeska opening in Seattle June 10th.

George C. Staley, grown and brought up in California, will star next season in an historical play called "A Royal Pass; or, the Exile of Siberia." The "Exile" lead is being muchly worked for next season. We will be lucky if we do not have some one in the emotional play of "His Time was Out; or, Exiled from San Quentin."

"A Midnight Bell" drew so well at the Bijou Theatre, N. Y., that they will try to continue it until well into July.

Minnie Palmer's new advertisement in the dramatic papers reads: "Address all communications to Minnie Palmer, Gramercy Park, New York.

Something new about Hamlet. "So much has been written about the character of young Hamlet and of Edwin Booth's performance of it that, it must seem audacious for a writer like the critic of a paper like the Mirror to offer any opinions on either. There have been tons of rubbish penned about Shakespeare and the creations of his magic weaving soul; but in our opinion an actor like Booth gets nearer to the poet than do the dry-as-dust students who claim to know all about him. Some of these same commentators have taken Shakespeare to task and accused him of solecisms because in Act III he speaks of, 'The undiscovered country, from whose bourn no traveller returns.'

Although in Act I he has held converse with the shade of his father. The fact that Shakespeare painted Hamlet as a man, with all of man's doubts and indecisions, and not as a mathematical problem that can be demonstrated by general law seems to have escaped the acute intellects of these same learned Thebans. As we are constituted we cannot cease speculating on the life beyond the tomb, and if the most careful observers among us were to see a ghost we would still doubt the evidence of our eyes and continue to doubt and speculate. Edwin Booth, has all the traits of Shakespeare's Hamlet. He is a dreamer, not a man of action, and that he is well informed in the science of occultism is well known to students of that glorious science."—[John W. Thompson in the San Francisco Mirror.

M. A. Kennedy, the light comedian, is to be starred next season, in A Possible Case. Kennedy is a good comedian, but if you have anything standing against him it is more than a possible case that you don't get it.

Playwright Charles Hoyt is at his home among the Yankees, where he is at work on A Texas Steer, trying to bring the animal into subjection for next seasons exhibition.

The lease of the Grand Opera-house, signed by John W. Mackay, James L. Flood, and Thomas J. Bergin, administrators of the will of James C. Flood, of the first part, and John Maguire of Butte City, theatrical manager, party of the second part, was filed for record on Monday. The terms are that Maguire shall pay $1000 a month for the theatre for three years, commencing October 1, 1889.

Rudolph Aronson is in Paris searching for novelties.

The Lyceum Theatre, New York, opens in August with E. H. Southern.

Maggie Duggan, the dancer, at one time the Ben Butler of high-kickers, is coming to this country again next season.

Frank McKee, formerly Hoyt & Thomas' manager, will manage Eugene Tompkins' Mankind company next season. Frank is smart and a good fellow enough to manage Mankind successfully anywhere.

Robson and Crane booked $95 000 for the season. They part on good terms.

A. R. Whytal will next season play Faust to Lewis Morrison's Mephistopheles.

George Fawcett Rowe, one of the best of all Micawbers, is coming to America again.

The Irwin Sisters are in the Old Jed Prouty Co., booked for the California June 10th.

Charles MacGeachy, formerly one of Frohman's business representatives, is here in the advance interest of "Old Jed Prouty," Richard Golden's piece.

"Katti, the Family Help," (no connection with the American play of "Katty"), one of Willie Edouin's English comedy successes, makes its debut here this week at the Bush with Marietta Nash (the best Teddy ever in the "Bunch of Keys"). Geo. Lauri and Harry B. Bell, comedians, in the cast.

SPECIALTY SQUIBS.

It will be a gala night at the Bella Union to-night.

Cort's Standard, Portland, June 3d: Ramza & Arno, Gardner & Bernard and Haley & Flynn new.

The Comique presents an entire new bill this week. Charley Morrell and John Cook contribute excellent specialty turns, and J. H. Burns is good in character parts.

A man died recently in Connecticut who smoked 2,000 herrings a day. If he had quit that bad habit in time and tackled "Seal of North Carolina" Plug Cut he would be alive to-day.

You can't fool this coon with your snide "Plug Cuts;" he smokes "SEAL OF NORTH CAROLINA" and stays right by it, and so do all the old smokers who know a good thing when they see it.

The enormous sale of "SEAL OF NORTH CAROLINA PLUG CUT" is sufficient evidence that it suits the smokers.

Bear in mind that the "Seal of North Carolina" costs you no more than the many trashy "plug cuts" some dealers carry.

AMUSEMENTS, ETC.

Leavitt's New Bush Street Theatre.

Another of Willie Edouin's English comedy pieces, "Katti," the Family Help, is the attraction at the Bush. It abounds in funny features, and shows the ludicrous situations in which two brothers with their wives are placed. One of the brothers has a maid-of-all-work named Katti, who, through her mistakes, is responsible for all sorts of queer scenes and incidents. There is a departure of the entire family to Newport, and after their establishment in a fashionable villa, there they discover that Katti is an heiress in her own right. Of course the little German girl is immediately treated with the greatest deference by her employers, who make her one of the family. When it is discovered that the news of her fortune is all a mistake the efforts to recall the favors that have been showered upon her serve to keep the audience in good humor to the end.

Marietta Nash, the original and best of Teddies in "The Bunch of Keys," a bright little woman with a winsome face, a good actress and a specially fine dancer, carries the honors as Katti. George Lauri and Harry B. Bell, two good comedians, have the principal parts as the two Fluffys, and keep the fun alive. Miss Helen Reimer, Miss Vera Van Name and Miss Marie Stanley sustain the female roles very acceptably, as do Messrs. M. L. Alsop and Geo. Mitchell as the two young men of the comedy.

The duets and concerted pieces introduced are excellently rendered and are very popular features of "Katti," and Mr. Mitchell's solo contributions deserve their encores.

See cast and list of musical features in programme on first page.

The laughable comedy of "The Strategists" will constitute next week's bill, with Marietta Nash and all the company in the cast.

Baldwin Theatre.

The first benefit tendered in aid of the Johnstown sufferers will take place at the Baldwin Theatre Friday evening, June 7th. A grand orchestral concert by 60 musicians, under the conductorship of Mr. August Hinrichs, will be the attraction presented. Mr Al Hayman generously donates the use of the theatre. For particulars see notice in programme announcement.

Alcazar Theatre.

The Fairy's Well, that W. H. Power's Company present this week, is a romantic Irish drama that ingrafts a pretty story founded on the old legend of the Fairy's Well, that if a maid look into it at Halloween at midnight she will see reflected in its clear waters the face of her future husband. The Co. is of unusual excellence and includes a quartette of trained voices, a corps of dancers, and a genuine Irish bag-piper. A feature of the production is the beautiful scenery—a car-load being used to illustrate the play.

The serious part of the play is brightened by bits of comedy. The acting is good and the scenery and stage appointments fine. Especially effective is the scene where a grove is changed into a rocky pass with a torrent of real water dashing over it. The rescue of a man who has been swept into this stream is one of the exciting features of the play.

Next week's attraction will be Mr. Henry Lee in his change play, The Cavalier, in which he assumes seven different costumed characters.

Monday evening, June 10th, Mr. Sol. Bloom, the affable treasurer of the Alcazar, will take a benefit.

New California Theatre.

The Bostonians appear at the California Theatre to-night in the new opera of Pygmalion and Galatea.

By general request Fatinitza will be substituted for The Poachers Thursday night.

Auber's picturesque opera, Fra Diavolo, will be the bill Friday night; Dorothy for Saturday matinee, and Mignon for the last performance of the Bostonians on Saturday night.

The Bostonians are drawing big houses.

Their season at the Baldwin has proven that they give a very enjoyable rendering of their operas, giving due effects to their individual parts in singing and acting and impress their audiences most favorably with their capabilities in concerted pieces.

Manager Hayman announces that the regular prices and regular season of the California has been inaugurated with the Bostonians, and that the following scale of prices will remain unchanged hereafter: Parquette and parquette circle, reserved, $1; dress circle reserved (front rows), 75c.; dress circle, reserved (other rows), 50c.; family circle, reserved, 25c.; gallery, admission, 25c.; loge seats, $1 50; private boxes, $10; general admission, 50c. Matinee prices, 25c, 50c. and 75c.

—o—

Richard Golden opens next week in "Old Jed Prouty," a Yankee play, of which the New York Herald said his "Old Jed comes nearer to nature than Denman Thompson's Joshua Whitcomb." It sprang into popularity at once in New York, and as Messrs. Harris & Rich, its Eastern proprietors and managers, sends us the New York cast with all its properties and scenic effects intact, we shall have it here at its best.

Seats on sale Thursday.

See extra programme announcement elsewhere in FIGARO.

Standard Theatre.

The Standard Theatre will be re-opened under the management of Mr. Fredrick Mitchell on Saturday night, with Edwin Thorne in The Three Guardsmen as D'Artagnan, the impetuous hero of Dumas' famous story, and the best D'Artagnan on the stage. Mr. Thorne will be supported by J. W. Thompson, one of the best of Athos, Horace Ewing, Edward Loring, E. N. Thayer, Miss Clyde Heron, Miss Belle Chippendale, Miss May Nannery and a capable company. The grand old drama will be finely staged with new scenery and appointments.

For cast see programme in adjacent column.

Mr. W. F. Rochester is the acting manager; a guarantee that everything will be well done.

The season will be at popular prices, 25, 50 and 75 cents, and starts out for an extended one.

The Standard is undergoing a complete renovation. Gangs of workmen are placing the theatre in complete order, inside and out, prior to the opening.

Seats on sale Thursday.

Orpheum Opera House.

This is the last week of the Jack Dempsey All-Star Specialty Company, including Sheffer & Blakely, negro comedians; Nash, the bicycle wonder; Lawler & Thornton, character change artists; J. D. Kelly, Irish comedian; Miss Tillie Morrissey, vocalist; Baker & West, musical artists; the Smiths, musical team, and Dempsey & Costigan, and local talent, George Gannon, Sacramento; Billy Hennessy, Kansas City, and Dan Egan (the Montana Kid), from Butte City, and others, in four-round contests.

—o—

Atkinson's Comedy Company, in "Peck's Bad Boy," with J. J. Williams in the title role, the original of the character, returns to the Orpheum, for one week only, next week. This company is strongly organized in company and specialties. On its first visit here it proved the greatest comedy success ever at the Orpheum, and has done the biggest kind of business everywhere.

We congratulate Managers Edwin and Charley Bert upon having developed so productive a dramatic bonanza

The Battle of Vicksburg.

The grand panorama of the Battle of Vicksburg at the Panorama Building, corner of Eddy and Mason streets, is one that no American should fail to see. It gives a grand view of the battle with the conflict at its height on the land and the bombardment from the river with the correct positions of the engaging forces and the proper placement of the ironclads in the bombardment. It is a great painting, and excels the Battle of Waterloo in graphic power and vivid reality. Destruction reigns on every side. The burning buildings, the bursting shells, the desperate charges, the hand-to-hand conflicts, and the dying and wounded, all depict with startling realism one of the hottest conflicts in history.

Open from 9 A. M. to 6 P. M.

Morosco's Amphitheatre.

Managers Morosco & Byrnes have put in a most complete fireproof partition between the stage and the auditorium, from wall to wall of their big theatre. It is constructed of iron lathings on both sides of the studding. The decorators have finished the immense ceiling of the theatre with harmonious panels.

This week, Mr. George Turner as Jack Hearne in the great London drama, Romany Rye. Darrell Vinton as Philip Royson and Jas. Carden as Joe Hecketts. Conchita has been specially engaged to play Lura Lee.

The play has been effectively staged and the greatest success of the season is assured.

Manager Morosco understands the tastes of his patrons. He presents attractive plays with a fully competent company, and the results are satisfactory to both manager and people.

Matinees Sundays, at 2 P. M. Admission, 10 cents. Front reserved seats 10 cents extra.

Bella Union Theatre.

This week a fine bill is presented. Ned Thatcher and George Drew, Lang's Comiques, the Crawford Bros. and the Kasten Sisters are the new stars.

The ladies of the company come in for a full share of the applause and crowd the male contingent very closely.

E. Lang's comedy sketch, Neighborly Neighbors," with all the company in the cast, is an important feature of the bill.

J. J. Billadeau has the stage management, and Prof. Sorg ably conducts the orchestra.

Thursday evening, June 6th, a grand testimonial benefit will be given the favorite comedian, Lew Spencer. A host of professionals have volunteered for the occasion.

Friday nights are devoted to amateurs, and some of the novices have shown decided talent, and as they are ambitious they will soon be classed among the professionals.

Hallinan's Cremorne Theatre.

Ned Nestell, the Old Soldier, has gone back into harness and is managing the stage in his usual manner, making himself a favorite with all.

Fitz & Devine, the Irish millionaires; Jessie Cogill, vocalist, and Howard & Berkeley, sketch artists, are the new faces this week.

The Great Ellwood, female impersonator; Mattie Wallace, vocalist; Sadie Stevens, Miss Sadie Fairfield, song and dance artists; May Morrell, serio comic, and Hayes & Marion continue favorites.

A grand glove contest will be the attraction every Tuesday and Friday evening.

Ned Nestell's amusing burlesque, Under the Gas Pipes, with the full company in the cast, concludes the entertainment.

Original Theatre Comique.

The Comique presents an entire new bill this week, with songs and afterpiece. Numerous new novelties are produced by the various artists every evening and especial attention is paid to the first part.

This week the entertainment begins with selections by the entire company. Charles Morrell has new banjo songs and an entire change of witty sayings for the entertainment of the Comique's patrons.

Miss Millie Ravenna makes her first appearance this week. All the favorite vocalists have been retained.

The comical farce-comedy, Burglar Alarm, is the interlude act.

The laughable farce, Rats, with all the company in the cast, concludes the bill and the evening's fun.

The Comique's company is a strong one. It is a neat, compact minor theatre, and for many years has been a popular one.

Eureka Music Hall.

This is one of the neatest and most popular of our minor theatres. Manager Walterstein runs a very strong company.

Mr. Bob McDonald, song and dance artist and comedian, is the new face this week.

Lillie Mason, Laura White, Cora Everett Lulu Howard, Pearl Iole, Stella Merriam, Ed. Soldene, Bob McDonald, Chas. Rice and Geo. O. Dunham.

The first part introduces the entire company in new and pleasing selections. Rice & Everett appear in their original sketch, All Mixed Up, introducing songs, dances and medleys.

The Can-Can is retained on the bill. New songs and dances and all the original business have been introduced, making the bill stronger than ever.

The Eureka gives a matinee every Sunday.

Sunday, June 9th, grand picnic of the Hickory Club at the Seaside Gardens.

Sunday Excursions on the Bay.

The steamer Tamalpais, renovated and placed in complete order, will make family excursions every Sunday during the season to Mare Island, Vallejo and Martinez; leaving Sausalito ferry slip, foot of Clay street, at 10 15 A M, and returning at 7 30 P M. Tickets, for the round trip, 50 cents; children, 25 cents. This includes an enjoyable thirty-mile sail through San Francisco and San Pablo bays and the Straits of Carquinez. The U. S. First Infantry Band will furnish the music. Lunches on the boat at city prices. The comfort of the excursions, under the management of P. H. Hink, will be properly looked after.

EVENING EDITION

THURSDAY.....JUNE 6, 1889

FULL PROGRAMMES of all the Leading Theatres in San Francisco can be found in FIGARO—the only paper that has them.

PROFESSIONAL PICKINGS.

Max Edwards, an old-time Californian, is making bookings for the Bijou in this city at Klaw & Erlanger's Theatrical Exchange, New York

The New York papers say that Ben Stern, formerly of this city and manager of the Carleton Opera Company, "will hereafter handle the affairs of Kajeska, the enormous and brilliantly decorated production which the Miller Brothers of Columbus will place upon the road." What is it, Ben?

John Sparks and Charlie Reed join Harrigan's company in San Francisco July 1st Dan Burke, one of Harrigan's cleverest performers, succeeds the late Michael Bradley as director of dancing in the company. Burke is one of the few who will come to San Francisco with the troupe.

Duncan B. Harrison will play a Summer engagement on the Pacific Slope.

Millie James, the daughter of Louis James, is a poetess.

Gerard Coventry and John Burrill will produce Nanon in England this Summer.

Hilda Thomas has brought suit against Simmonds & Donnelly to recover $475 back salary, which she alleges to be due from the Fashions Company.

Ed and Charley Bert have had their ups and downs in the managerial business; especially their downs. They have lost many rounds in being downed in their wrestlings with theatrical speculations. Still they had courage in defeat, and are now on the top wave of success with their "Peck's Bad Boy," which has been a steady winner since its start last year. The Bad Boy with J. J. Williams as the mischievous one—the original of the part—will sport himself on the Orpheum's stage next week.

The laughable comedy of "The Strategists" will be next week's bill at the Bush, with Marietta Nash and company in the cast.

"The Fairy's Well" is the sign over the entrance to the Alcazar, and everybody that comes in says, "We are glad of it."

Richard Golden has hit a golden lead in his "Old Jed Prouty." It has caught on firmly. It comes to the California next week.

The Worcester Theatre, recently destroyed by fire, will be rebuilt at once and will be one of the finest places of amusement on the New England circuit. Manager Proctor will have it ready for the opening early in the Fall.

Miss Regina Vokes closes her season at Daly's Theatre, N. Y., June 8th, after which she will go to Europe for a short vacation, opening her next tour Sept. 16th at the Park Theatre in Brooklyn. Miss Vokes begins an extended season at Daly's Theatre on April 14th of next year, when Mr. Daly's company will again go to England to fill engagements.

Edgar Selden will star next season in a romantic Irish drama called Will o' the Wisp, under the management of Thomas C. Lombard.

Kate Claxton has arranged with Manager A. M. Palmer for the production of Bootle's Baby at the Madison Square Theatre, N. Y., about August 1st.

It is reported that the New York Casino orchestra musicians are "kicking" because the Hungarian Band on the roof garden does not belong to the musical union. They are on the outside anyhow.

George Edgar Montgomery is to write an epilogue for the part of Viola which will be spoken by Marie Wainwright in Twelfth Night next season.

Digby Bell has had an offer from the Casino management for next season but will probably star in a new musical comedy assisted by Laura Joyce Bell and a good company.

George H. Murray, agent for Gilmore's Twelve Temptations Co., is in the city making preparations for the coming season at the Grand June 16th. Mr. Murray made arrangement with the Union Pacific Railway to ticket the entire party from Omaha to St. Paul, via San Francisco, Los Angeles and Portland, Oregon.

The New York Truth in speaking of Chicago's late and famous Carter divorce case, in which that butterfly actor, Kyrle Bellew, was unpleasantly brought in as co-respondent, says: "What a place Chicago is for sensations! When it comes before the world with a divorce case, it offers one that for unmitigated salaciousness eclipses most previous efforts in the same line. Whether its exhibit be in the line of fires, anarchy, scandals or assassinations, the specimen offered by Chicago is likely to be extraordinary. No sooner is the Carter divorce case over than Chicago says, 'Please look at our Cronin murder mystery;' and certainly that crime is a remarkable one. It may indeed become historical, for its ramifications are various, and none can tell whither they may lead. It is a most melodramatic affair altogether, and smacks more of the secret murders of Italian cities in the middle ages than of prosaic Chicago." This is very true. The records of New York, Boston and Philadelphia combined cannot equal that of Chicago in its startling events. In sensations Chicago is the champion.

Ed. C Payson, programmer and publisher of the J. J. Williams' Comedy Co., has issued a neat pamphlet copy of all the songs sung by Johnnie Williams and his company in Peck's Bad Boy.

The ill-fated tour of J. P. Ennis and a Denver manager in A Tin Soldier has not injured the play, and Hoyt & Thomas will send it out next season.

Pauline L'Allemand will be J. W. Morrisey's prima donna at the Grand Opera House, N. Y. His season commenced June 31 with Martha.

Latest news from New York indicate that the Madison Square School of Acting is to be abandoned. What is to become of poor old Bouci.

Re-opening of the Bijou. Lewis Morrison and a specially selected company from New York will open the new season at the Bijou under the management of its lessee, Mr. J. T. White, in "A Celebrated Case." Saturday evening, June 22nd. Mr. Morrison brings with him as leading man Mr. Joseph Whytall, leading man last season of the Boston Museum, and Miss Selina Fetter, a popular actress who has filled stellar roles, as leading lady. After the "Celebrated Case" will follow the production of "Partners" and "The Tigress," the piece Miss Fetter starred in in the East.

The simultaneous advent of operatic enterprises in New York has made it a difficult matter to secure chorus and ballet girls.

Sol Bloom, treasurer of the Alcazar, has his testimonial Monday night, the first.

Mr. Polk will present his new play, The Silent Partner, at the Alcazar during his engagement which commences June 17th.

Amy Ames will star next season in a new piece by Gratton Donnelly.

Mrs. Nellie Wetherill, who had the misfortune to lose her foot a few years ago, is reported to be dying.

All the Booth-Barrett Company except two remained to go North with Modjeska opening in Seattle June 10th.

Charlotte Thompson has written a society sensational play called Impulse; or, Self Exile, which she expects to produce next season. Wonder if its an Irish play?

George C. Staley, grown and brought up in California, will star next season in an historical play called "A Royal Pass; or, the Exile of Siberia." The "Exile" lead is being muchly worked for next season. We will be lucky if we do not have some one in the emotional play of "His Time was Out; or, the Exile from San Quentin."

"A Midnight Bell" drew so well at the Bijou Theatre, N. Y., that they will try to continue it until well into July.

Playwright Charles Hoyt is at his home among the Yankees, where he is at work on A Texas Steer, trying to bring the animal into subjection for next seasons exhibition.

Maggie Duggan, the dancer, at one time the Ben Butler of high-kickers, is coming to this country again next season.

"Katti, the Family Help," (no connection with the American play of "Kitty"), one of Willie Edouin's English comedy successes, makes its debut here this week at the Bush with Marietta Nash (the best Teddy ever in the "Bunch of Keys"), Geo. Lauri and Harry B. Bell, comedians, in the cast.

SPECIALTY SQUIBS.

Later news from Italy informs us that the old lion that got mad and ate his tamer is convalescent. He found him a dangerously tough subject to digest, though.

Fountain Theatre, Kansas City, June 31: Miss Lizzie Hall, National 4 (Frank Byan, Gill Moulton, Nellie Forester and Eva Forester), Harry M. Price, Marren & Bailey, Miss Leonora, Chris Green, Joe Morton and Old Billy Hayter.

The Perry Bros. and company are in town, off the road for a night or two with their traveling piece, "Two Pair of Kids." They have invested extensively in tickets for the California and other theatres tonight.

Cort's Standard, Seattle, June 31: Matsada, the Jap, and Jas. H. Faulkner, James E. Black, Annie Whitney, Annie Ryner, Dot Melville and the Gottlobs new.

Cort's Standard, Portland, June 3d: Ramza & Arno, Gardner & Bernard and Haley & Flynn new.

The Comique presents an entire new bill this week. Charley Morrell and John Cook contribute excellent spe-

The enormous sale of "SEAL OF NORTH CAROLINA PLUG CUT" is sufficient evidence that it suits the smokers.

AMUSEMENTS, ETC.

Leavitt's New Bush Street Theatre.

Another of Willie Edouin's English comedy pieces, "Katti," the Family Help, is the attraction at the Bush. It abounds in funny features, and shows the ludicrous situations in which two brothers with their wives are placed. One of the brothers has a maid-of-all-work named Katti, who, through her mistakes, is responsible for all sorts of queer scenes and incidents. There is a departure of the entire family to Newport, and after their establishment in a fashionable villa, there they discover that Katti is an heiress in her own right. Of course the little German girl is immediately treated with the greatest deference by her employers who make her one of the family. When it is discovered that the news of her fortune is all a mistake the efforts to recall the favors that have been showered upon her serve to keep the audience in good humor to the end.

Marietta Nash, the original and best of Teddies in "The Bunch of Keys," a bright little woman with a winsome face, a good actress and a specially fine dancer, carries the honors as Katti. George Lauri and Harry B. Bell, two good comedians, have the principal parts as the two Fluffys, and keep the fun alive. Miss Helen Reimer, Miss Vera Van Name and Miss Marie Stanley sustain the female roles very acceptably, as do Messrs M. L. Alsop and Geo. Mitchell as the two young men of the comedy.

The duets and concerted pieces introduced are excellently rendered and are very popular features of "Katti," and Mr. Mitchell's solo contributions deserve their encores.

See cast and list of musical features in programme on first page.

The laughable comedy of "The Strategists" will constitute next week's bill, with Marietta Nash and all the company in the cast.

Benefits for the Sufferers by the Flood

The first benefit tendered in aid of the Johnstown sufferers will take place at the Baldwin Theatre Friday evening, June 7th. A grand orchestral concert by 60 musicians, under the conductorship of Mr. August Hinrichs, will be the attraction presented. Mr. Al Hayman generously donates the use of the theatre.

The California Athletic Club will give a grand athletic entertainment at the Mechanics' Pavilion Saturday evening, June 8th. The best arenic talent of the country will appear.

Wednesday evening, June 12th, a grand popular concert will be given by the Philharmonic Society of San Francisco, at the Grand Opera House, under the directorship of Hermann Brandt assisted by prominent artists.

Alcazar Theatre.

The Fairy's Well, that W. H. Power's Company present this week, is a romantic Irish drama that ingrafts a pretty story founded on the old legend of the Fairy's Well, that if a maid look into it at Halloween at midnight she will see reflected in its clear waters the face of her future husband. The Co. is of unusual excellence and includes a quartette of trained voices, a corps of dancers, and a genuine Irish bag piper. A feature of the production is the beautiful scenery—a car-load being used to illustrate the play.

The serious part of the play is brightened by bits of comedy. The acting is good and the scenery and stage appointments fine. Especially effective is the scene where a grove is changed into a rocky pass with a torrent of real water dashing over it. The rescue of a man who has been swept into this stream is one of the exciting features of the play.

Next week's attraction will be Mr. Henry Lee in his change play, The Cavalier, in which he assumes seven different costumed characters.

Monday evening, June 10th, Mr. Sol. Bloom, the affable treasurer of the Alcazar, will take a benefit.

New California Theatre.

The Bostonians appear at the California Theatre to-night, by general request, in Fatinitza, which will be substituted for The Poacher.

Auber's picturesque opera, Fra Diavolo, will be the bill Friday night; Dorothy for Saturday matinee, and Mignon for the last performance of the Bostonians on Saturday night, with Miss Stone, Miss Cordena and Miss Jessie Bartlett-Davies, the three prima donnas in the cast.

The Bostonians are drawing big houses.

Their season at both theatres [has proven al parts in singing and acting and impress their audiences most favorably with their capabilities in concerted pieces.

Evening prices from 25 cents to $1.

—o—

Richard Golden opens next week in "Old Jed Prouty," a Yankee play, of which the New York Herald said his "Old Jed comes nearer to nature than Denman Thompson's Joshua Whitcomb." It sprang into popularity at once in New York, and as Messrs Harris & Rich, its Eastern proprietors and managers, sends us the New York cast with all its properties and scenic effects intact, we shall have it here at its best.

Seats now on sale.

See extra programme announcement elsewhere in FIGARO.

Standard Theatre.

The Standard Theatre will be re-opened under the management of Mr. Fredrick Mitchell on Saturday night, with Edwin Thorne in The Three Guardsmen as D'Artagnan, the impetuous hero of Dumas' famous story, and the best D'Artagnan on the stage. Mr. Thorne will be supported by J. W. Thompson, one of the best of Athos, Horace Ewing, Edward Loring, E. N. Thayer, Miss Clyde Heron, Miss Belle Chippendale, Miss May Nannery and a capable company. The grand old drama will be finely staged with new scenery and appointments.

For cast see programme in adjacent column.

Mr. W. F. Rochester is the acting manager; a guarantee that everything will be well done.

The season will be at popular prices, 25, 50 and 75 cents, and starts out for an extended one.

The Standard is undergoing a complete renovation. Gangs of workmen are placing the theatre in complete order, inside and out, prior to the opening.

Seats on sale Thursday.

Orpheum Opera House.

This is the last week of the Jack Dempsey All-Star Specialty Company, including Sheffer & Blakely, negro comedians; Nash, the bicycle wonder; Lawler & Thornton, character change artists; J. D. Kelly, Irish comedian; Miss Tillie Morrissey, vocalist; Baker & West, musical artists; the Smiths, musical team, and Dempsey & Costigan, and local talent, George Gannon, Sacramento; Billy Hennessy, Kansas City, and Dan Egan (the Montana Kid), from Butte City, and others, in four-round contests.

—o—

Atkinson's Comedy Company, in "Peck's Bad Boy," with J. J. Williams in the title role, the original of the character, returns to the Orpheum, for one week only, next week. This company is strongly organized in company and specialties. On its first visit here it proved the greatest comedy success ever at the Orpheum, and has done the biggest kind of business everywhere.

We congratulate Managers Edwin and Charley Bert upon having developed so productive a dramatic bonanza.

The Battle of Vicksburg.

The grand panorama of the Battle of Vicksburg at the Panorama Building, corner of Eddy and Mason streets, is one that no American should fail to see. It gives a grand view of the battle with the conflict at its height on the land and the bombardment from the river with the correct positions of the engaging forces and the proper placement of the ironclads in the bombardment. It is a great painting, and excels the Battle of Waterloo in graphic power and vivid reality. Destruction reigns on every side. The burning buildings, the bursting shells, the desperate charges, the hand-to-hand conflicts, and the dying and wounded, all depict with startling realism one of the hottest conflicts in history.

Open from 9 A. M. to 6 P. M.

Morosco's Amphitheatre.

Managers Morosco & Byrnes have put in a most complete fireproof partition between the stage and the auditorium, from wall to wall of their big theatre. It is constructed of iron lathings on both sides of the studding. The decorators have finished the immense ceiling of the theatre with harmonious panels.

This week, Mr. George Turner as Jack Hearne in the great London drama, Romany Rye. Darrell Vinton as Philip Royson and Jas. Carden as Joe Hecketts. Conchita has been specially engaged to play Lura Lee.

The play has been effectively staged and the greatest success of the season is assured.

Manager Morosco understands the tastes of his patrons. He presents attractive plays with a fully competent company, and the results are satisfactory to both manager and people.

Matinees Sundays, at 2 P. M. Admission, 10 cents. Front reserved seats 10 cents extra.

Bella Union Theatre.

This week a fine bill is presented. Ned Thatcher and George Drew, Lang's Comiques, the Crawford Bros. and the Kasten Sisters are the new stars.

The ladies of the company come in for a full share of the applause and crowd the male contingent very closely.

E. Lang's comedy sketch, Neighborly Neighbors," with all the company in the cast, is an important feature of the bill.

J. J. Billadeau has the stage management and Prof. Sorg ably conducts the orchestra.

Thursday evening, June 6th, a grand testimonial benefit will be given the favorite comedian, Lew Spencer. A host of professionals have volunteered for the occasion.

Friday nights are devoted to amateurs, and some of the novices have shown decided talent, and as they are ambitious they will soon be classed among the professionals.

Hallinan's Cremorne Theatre.

Ned Nestell, the Old Soldier, has gone back into harness and is managing the stage in his usual manner, making himself a favorite with all.

Fitz & Devine, the Irish millionaires; Jessie Cogill, vocalist, and Howard & Berkeley, sketch artists, are the new faces this week.

The Great Ellwood, female impersonator; Mattie Wallace, vocalist; Sadie Stevens, Miss Sadie Fairfield, song and dance artiste; May Morrell, serio comic, and Hayes & Marion continue favorites.

A grand glove contest will be the attraction every Tuesday and Friday evening.

Ned Nestell's amusing burlesque, Under the Gas Pipes, with the full company in the cast.

Original Theatre Comique.

The Comique presents an entire new bill this week, with songs and afterpiece. Numerous new novelties are produced by the various artists every evening and especial attention is paid to the first part.

This week the entertainment begins with selections by the entire company. Charles Morrell has new banjo songs and an entire change of witty sayings for the entertainment of the Comique's patrons.

Miss Millie Ravenna makes her first appearance this week. All the favorite vocalists have been retained.

The comical farce-comedy, Burglar Alarm, is the interlude act.

The laughable farce, Rats, with all the company in the cast, concludes the bill and the evening's fun.

The Comique's company is a strong one. It is a neat, compact minor theatre, and for many years has been a popular one.

Eureka Music Hall.

This is one of the neatest and most popular of our minor theatres. Manager Walterstein runs a very strong company.

Mr. Bob McDonald, song and dance artist and comedian, is the new face this week.

Lillie Mason, Laura White, Cora Everett Lulu Howard, Pearl Iola, Stella Merriam, Ed. Soldene, Bob McDonald, Chas. Rice and Geo. O. Dunham.

The first part introduces the entire company in new and pleasing selections. Rice & Everett appear in their original sketch, All Mixed Up, introducing songs, dances and medleys.

The Can-Can is retained on the bill. New songs and dances and all the original business have been introduced, making the bill stronger than ever.

The Eureka gives a matinee every Sunday.

Sunday, June 9th, grand picnic of the Hickory Club at the Seaside Gardens.

Sunday Excursions on the Bay.

The steamer Tamalpais, renovated and placed in complete order, will make family excursions every Sunday during the season to Mare Island, Vallejo and Martinez; leaving Sausalito ferry slip, foot of Clay street, at 10:15 A. M., and returning at 7:30 P. M. Tickets, for the round trip, 50 cents; children, 25 cents. This includes an enjoyable thirty-mile sail through San Francisco and San Pablo bays and the Straits of Carquinez. The U. S. First Infantry Band will furnish the music. Lunches on the boat at city prices. The comfort of the excursions, under the management of P. H. Hink, will be properly looked after.

First excursion on Sunday, May 26th.

The New York Truth says: — "Buried away with his devoted wife in a pretty little cottage at Loch Arbour George S. Knight will spend the Summer surrounded by pleasant people and nothing to remind him of the worries that started him on the down grade. I am told by those who have seen him recently that there is very little perceptible mind weakness. Once in a way he breaks out into a wild lament over the fate of poor Rudolph, as he calls his unfortunate character in Baron Rudolph, but that is all. His wife seems to think that he may be able to resume work again later on, but there are others who do not share her opinion, and among them I am afraid, his physicians.

Charles Alfred Byrne and Gustave Kerker's new comic opera will follow The Brigands at the Casino, New York, so it is stated. The Brigands is drawing crowded houses, and is the most dazzling spectacle ever seen at that house.

Gus Williams will be the highest salaried member of Herrmann's Transatlantic Vau-

FRIDAY.....JUNE 7, 1889

FULL PROGRAMMES of all the Leading Theatre in San Francisco can be found in FIGARO—the only paper that has them.

PROFESSIONAL PICKINGS.

Opera House Block, a fine three-story brick structure owned by Geo F. Frye, and valued at $125,000, went up in the flames at Seattle, as did also Cort's Standard and Smith's Bijou.

Clinton Hall, N. Y., the historic Astor Place Opera House, where the disastrous Forrest-Macready riot occurred in 1849, is to be torn down this Autumn to give way to a more modern structure.

Eleanor Carey has been re-engaged for the Fascination Company for next season.

The offices of Gus Frohman now control a chain of theatres from the Missouri River to San Francisco and return.

All of the costumes, wearing apparel, diamonds and jewelry of the late Mlle. Aimee were lately sold at auction in New York.

Geo. Staley's play. A New York exchange says: "The initial production of A Royal Pass; of, The Exile of Siberia, a romantic, historical comedy-drama in four acts, has received strong commendation from the press where the play has been presented. Geo. C. Staley, late of California, is reported to have made a hit in the dual role of Ivan Zuroff an officer of the Czar's Imperial Guard, and Andreas Hoffer, a Swiss guide and courier. The main incidents of the play are founded on facts which occurred in the life of a Russian officer during the Russo-Turkish war in 1877. The scenes of the play are laid in the Swiss Tyrol and Russia. It is richly costumed after plates imported expressly from Russia and Switzerland. Staley is supported by a selected company, and the play is making its dates ahead."

The fire in Seattle burned every place of amusement and every bank, newspaper office, railroad depot, wharf, freight warehouse, and nearly every business house and hotel in town. Seattle lies literally in ashes, except the resident portion that is on its hills.

John Sparks and Charlie Reed join Harrigan's company in San Francisco July 1st. Dan Burke, one of Harrigan's cleverest performers, succeeds the late Michael Bradley as director of dancing in the company. Burke is one of the few who will come to San Francisco with the troupe.

Duncan B. Harrison will play a Summer engagement on the Pacific Slope.

Ed and Charley Bert have had their ups and downs in the managerial business; especially their downs. They have lost many rounds in being downed in their wrestlings with theatrical speculations. Still they had courage in defeat, and are now on the top wave of success with their "Peck's Bad Boy," which has been a steady winner since its start last year. The Bad Boy with J. J. Williams as the mischievous one—the original of the part—will sport himself on the Orpheum's stage next week.

The laughable comedy of "The Strategists" will be next week's bill at the Bush, with Marietta Nash and company in the cast.

"The Fairy's Well" is the sign over the entrance to the Alcazar, and everybody that comes in says, "We are glad of it."

Richard Golden has hit a golden lead in his "Old Jed Prouty." It has caught on firmly. It comes to the California next week.

George H. Murray, agent for Gilmore's Twelve Temptations Co., is in the city making preparations for the coming season at the Grand June 16th. Mr. Murray made arrangement with the Union Pacific Railway to ticket the entire party from Omaha to St. Paul, via San Francisco, Los Angeles and Portland, Oregon. The transportation of the company and scenery cars is said to have cost over $8,000.

Dockstader's Minstrels will play in New York nearly all of next season.

Clara Morris is rusticating at her home in Riverdale-on-the-Hudson.

Mr. Joe Grismer is in New York, looking for new plays and new printing for the coming season.

Charles Bowser, will probably produce Half Seas Over next season.

Edward Marble has resigned his position

Modjeska and the Booth-Barrett company were to have commenced their Northwestern engagement under Manager John Maguire at Frye's Opera House, Seattle, on Monday night. Luckily they have not reached there. Modjeska costumes all her own pieces, and it is hardly to be supposed that any portion of her costumes even would have been saved from that whirlwind of flames if they had been in Seattle at the time of the fire.

The Paris critics who are whooping over the new California prima donna, Sibyl Sanderson, speak with rapture of her high "Eiffel notes." They may be pretty high, but will not be half as high as her prices when she returns to "dear old California."

The stock season at the Alcazar begins November 4th with L. R. Stockwell in a character comedy part written expressly for him by Chas. H. Hoyt in his latest play, "A Texas Steer." Its first production on any stage.

The New York Truth brings up the question in female political economy:—The burning question which is now agitating the female stars of the stage, says Truth, is whether it is not cheaper to support a husband than to hire a leading man. Our conspicuous actresses do not think that marriage is a failure, and have undertaken to settle this matter in a very practical way. If they get a good leading man, they marry him. That saves a salary. This method used to be carried out in New England with hired help, the farmer generally marrying his cook or his chambermaid, to save fourteen dollars a month. Its application to the stage shows to what practical depths art has descended. Miss Fanny Davenport, who is an expert in this matter, has announced with authority that she finds it much cheaper to marry than to hire; and I dare say the method will now be adopted by most of our leading women who intend to star, and the advice of the dramatic manager will be, "Pick out your husband, and get your printing."

J. K. Emmett has composed another new lullaby entitled, Sleep, Baby, Sleep.

The Jed Prouty company used a lithograph of a pair of boots as an advertisment, and gave no explanation, leaving it to be inferred, that they wiredly signified standing room only, Silence was Golden in this case.

Several beasts escaped from their cage while in a Western town recently, and wandered howling through the streets all night. Many of the older residents remarked that they wished the young men wouldn't be so hilarious getting home nights.

Miss Edwards, an old-time Californian, is making bookings for the Bijou in this city at Klaw & Erlanger's Theatrical Exchange, New York.

The New York papers say that Ben Stern, formerly of this city and manager of the Carleton Opera Company, "will hereafter handle the affairs of Kajanka, the enormous and brilliantly decorated production which the Miller Brothers of Columbus will place upon the road." What is it, Ben?

Latest news from New York indicate that the Madison Square School of Acting is to be abandoned. What is to become of poor old Bouci.

Re-opening of the Bijou. Lewis Morrison and a specially selected company from New York will open the new season at the Bijou under the management of its lessee, Mr. J. T. White, in "A Celebrated Case," Saturday evening, June 22nd. Mr. Morrison brings with him as leading man Mr. Joseph Whytall, leading man last season of the Boston Museum, and Miss Selina Fetter, a popular actress who has filled stellar roles, as leading lady. After the "Celebrated Case" will follow the production of "Partners," and "The Tigress," the piece Miss Fetter starred in in the East.

The simultaneous advent of operatic enterprises in New York has made it a difficult matter to secure chorus and ballet girls.

Sol Bloom, treasurer of the Alcazar, has his testimonial Monday night, the first.

Amy Ames will star next season in a new piece by Gratton Donnelly.

Mrs. Nellie Wetherill, who had the misfortune to lose her foot a few years ago, is reported to be dying.

Charlotte Thompson has written a society sensational play called Impulse; or, Self Exile, which she expects to produce next season. Wonder if its an Irish play?

George C Staley, grown and brought up in California, will star next season in an historical play called "A Royal Pass; or, the Exile of Siberia." The "Exile" lead is being muchly worked for next season. We will be lucky if we do not have some one in the emotional play of "His Time was Out; or, the Exile from San Quentin."

"Katti, the Family Help," (no connection with the American play of "Kitty"), one of Willie Edouin's English comedy successes, makes its debut here this week at the Bush with Marietta Nash (the best Teddy ever in the "Bunch of Keys"), Geo. Lauri and Harry B. Bell, comedians, in the cast.

SPECIALTY SQUIBS.

Later news from Italy informs us that the old lion that got mad and ate his tamer is convalescent. He found him a dangerously tough subject to digest, though.

The Perry Bros. and company are in town, off the road for a night or two with their traveling piece, "Two Pair of Kids."

Cort's Standard, Portland, June 3d: Ramza & Arno, Gardner & Bernard and Haley & Flynn new.

The Comique presents an entire new bill this week. Charley Morrell and John Cook contribute excellent specialty turns, and J. H. Burns is good in

You can't fool this coon with your snide "Plug Cuts;" he smokes "SEAL OF NORTH CAROLINA" and stays right by it, and so do all the old smokers who know a good thing when they see it.

The enormous sale of "SEAL OF NORTH CAROLINA PLUG CUT" is sufficient evidence that it suits the smoker.

Bear in mind that the "Seal of North Carolina" costs you no more than the many

AMUSEMENTS, ETC.

Leavitt's New Bush Street Theatre.

Another of Willie Edouin's English comedy pieces "Katti," the Family Help, is in its last nights at the Bush It abounds in funny features

Marietta Nash, the original and best of Teddies in "The Bunch of Keys," a bright little woman with a winsome face, a good actress and a specially fine dancer, carries the honors as Katti. George Lauri and Harry B. Bell, two good comedians, have the principal parts as the two Fitzdys and keep the fun alive. Miss Helen Reimer, Miss Vera Van Name and Miss Marie Stanley sustain the female roles very acceptably, as do Messrs M L. Alsop and Geo. Mitchell as the two young men of the comedy.

The duets and concerted pieces introduced are excellently rendered and are very popular features of "Katti," and Mr. Mitchell's solo contributions deserve their encores.

See cast and list of musical features in programme on first page.

The laughable comedy of "The Strategists" will constitute next week's bill, with Marietta Nash and all the company in the cast.

Benefits for the Sufferers by the Flood.

The first benefit tendered in aid of the Johnstown sufferers will take place at the Baldwin Theatre this Friday evening. A grand orchestral concert by sixty musicians, under the conductorship of Mr. August Hinrichs, will be the attraction presented Mr. Al Hayman generously donates the use of the theatre.

The California Athletic Club will give a grand athletic entertainment at the Mechanics' Pavilion Monday evening, June 10th. The best boxing talent of the country will appear; including Jack Dempsey, Jimmy Carroll, Tommy Warren, Joseph Acton, La Blanche, McAuliffe, and every "scientific" man in the country of note. The event and the cause should fill the Pavilion.

Hon. W. J. Armstrong will deliver his Cooper Institute Lecture on Russian Nihilists at the Metropolitan Hall, under the auspices of the Abraham Lincoln and Geore H. Thomas Posts, G. A. R., on Monday night. Proceeds for the benefit of the Johnstown sufferers.

Wednesday evening, June 12th, a grand popular concert will be given by the Philharmonic Society of San Francisco, at the Grand Opera House, under the directorship of Hermann Brandt, assisted by prominent artists.

Alcazar Theatre.

The Fairy's Well that W. H. Power's Company present this week, is a romantic Irish drama that engrafts a pretty story founded on the old legend of the Fairy's Well, that if a maid look into it at Halloween at midnight she will see reflected in its clear waters the face of her future husband. The Co. is of unusual excellence and includes a quartette of trained voices, a corps of dancers, and a genuine Irish bag-piper. A feature of the production is the beautiful scenery—a car-load being used to illustrate the play

The serious part of the play is brightened by bits of comedy. The acting is good and the scenery and stage appointments fine. Especially effective is the scene where a grove is changed into a rocky pass with a torrent of real water dashing over it. The rescue of a man who has been swept into this stream is one of the exciting features of the play.

Next week's attraction will be Mr. Henry Lee in his change play, The Cavalier, in which he assumes seven different costumed characters.

Monday evening, June 10th, Mr. Sol. Bloom, the affable treasurer of the Alcazar, will take a benefit

New California Theatre.

The Bostonians are drawing big houses at the California Theatre for their last nights.

Auber's picturesque opera, Fra Diavolo, will be the bill Friday night; Dorothy for Saturday matinee, and Mignon for the last performance of the Bostonians on Saturday night, with Miss Stone, Miss Cordena and Miss Jessie Bartlett-Davies, the three prima donnas in the cast.

Their season at both theatres has proven that they give a very enjoyable rendering of their operas, giving due effects to their individual parts in singing and acting and impress their audiences most favorably with their capabilities in concerted pieces.

Evening prices from 25 cents to $1.

—o—

Richard Golden opens next week in "Old Jed Prouty," a Yankee play of which the New York Herald said his "Old Jed comes nearer to nature than Denman Thompson's Joshua Whitcomb." It sprang into popularity at once in New York, and as Messrs. Harris & Rich, its Eastern proprietors and managers, sends us the New York cast with all its properties and scenic effects intact, we shall have it here at its best.

Seats now on sale.

See extra programme announcement elsewhere in FIGARO.

Standard Theatre.

The Standard Theatre will be re-opened under the management of Mr. Fredrick Mitchell on Saturday night, with Edwin Thorne in The Three Guardsmen as D'Artagnan, the impetuous hero of Dumas' famous story, and the best D'Artagnan on the stage. Mr. Thorne will be supported by J. W. Thompson, one of the best of Athos. Horace Ewing, Edward Loring, F. N. Thayer, Miss Clyde Heron, Miss Belle Chippendale, Miss May Nannery and a capable company. The grand old drama will be finely staged with new scenery and appointments.

For cast see programme in adjacent column.

Mr. W. F. Rochester is the acting manager; a guarantee that everything will be well done.

The season will be at popular prices, 25, 50 and 75 cents, and starts out for an extended one.

The Standard is undergoing a complete renovation. Gangs of workmen are placing the theatre in complete order, inside and out, prior to the opening.

Seats on sale Thursday.

Orpheum Opera House.

This is the last week of the Jack Dempsey All-Star Specialty Company, including Sheffer & Blakely, negro comedians; Nash, the bicycle wonder; Lawler & Thornton, character change artists; J. D Kelly, Irish comedian; Miss Tillie Morrissey, vocalist; Baker & West, musical artists; the Smiths, musical team, and Dempsey & Costigan, and local talent, George Gannon, Sacramento; Billy Hennessy, Kansas City, and Dan Egan (the Montana Kid), from Butte City, and others, in four-round contests.

—o—

Atkinson's Comedy Company, in "Peck's Bad Boy," with J. J. Williams in the title role, the original of the character, returns to the Orpheum, for one week only, next week. This company is strongly organized in company and specialties. On its first visit here it proved the greatest comedy success ever at the Orpheum, and has done the biggest kind of business everywhere.

We congratulate Managers Edwin and Charley Bert upon having developed so productive a dramatic bonanza

The Battle of Vicksburg.

The grand panorama of the Battle of Vicksburg at the Panorama Building, corner of Eddy and Mason streets, is one that no American should fail to see. It gives a grand view of the battle with the conflict at its height on the land and the bombardment from the river with the correct positions of the engaging forces and the proper placement of the ironclads in the bombardment. It is a great painting, and excels the Battle of Waterloo in graphic power and vivid reality. Destruction reigns on every side. The burning buildings, the bursting shells, the desperate charges, the hand-to-hand conflicts, and the dying and wounded, all depict with startling realism one of the hottest conflicts in history.

Open from 9 A. M. to 6 P. M.

Morosco's Amphitheatre.

Managers Morosco & Byrnes have put in a most complete fireproof partition between the stage and the auditorium, from wall to wall of their big theatre. It is constructed of iron lathings on both sides of the studding. The decorators have finished the immense ceiling of the theatre with harmonious panels.

This week, Mr. George Turner as Jack Hearne in the great London drama, Romany Rye. Darrell Vinton as Philip Boyson and Jas. Carden as Joe Hecketts. Conchita has been specially engaged to play Lura Lee.

The play has been effectively staged and the greatest success of the season is assured.

Manager Morosco understands the tastes of his patrons. He presents attractive plays with a fully competent company, and the results are satisfactory to both manager and people.

Matinees Sundays, at 2 P. M. Admission, 10 cents. Front reserved seats 10 cents extra.

Next week, The Confederate Spy will be the attraction.

Bella Union Theatre.

This week a fine bill is presented. Ned Thatcher and George Drew, Lang's Comiques, the Crawford Bros. and the Kasten Sisters are the new stars.

The ladies of the company come in for a full share of the applause and crowd the male contingent very closely.

E. Lang's comedy sketch, Neighborly Neighbors," with all the company in the cast, is an important feature of the bill.

J. J. Billadeau has the stage management and Prof. Sorg ably conducts the orchestra.

Friday nights are devoted to amateurs, and some of the novices have shown decided talent, and as they are ambitious they will soon be classed among the professionals.

Hallinan & Cremorne Theatre.

Ned Nestell, the Old Soldier, has gone back into harness and is managing the stage in his usual manner, making himself a favorite with all.

Fitz & Devine, the Irish millionaires; Jessie Cogill, vocalist, and Howard & Berkeley, sketch artists, are the new faces this week.

The Great Ellwood, female impersonator; Mattie Wallace, vocalist; Sadie Stevens, Miss Sadie Fairfield, song and dance artists; May Morrell, serio comic, and Hayes & Marion continue favorites.

A grand glove contest will be the attraction every Tuesday and Friday evening.

Ned Nestell's amusing burlesque, Under the Gas Pipes, with the full company in the cast, concludes the entertainment.

Original Theatre Comique.

The Comique presents an entire new bill this week, with songs and afterpiece. Numerous new novelties are produced by the various artists every evening and especial attention is paid to the first part.

This week the entertainment begins with selections by the entire company. Charles Morrell has new banjo songs and an entire change of witty sayings for the entertainment of the Comique's patrons.

Miss Millie Ravenna makes her first appearance this week. All the favorite vocalists have been retained.

The comical farce-comedy, Burglar Alarm, is the interlude act.

The laughable farce, Rats, with all the company in the cast, concludes the bill and the evening's fun.

The Comique's company is a strong one. It is a neat, compact minor theatre, and for many years has been a popular one.

Eureka Music Hall.

This is one of the neatest and most popular of our minor theatres. Manager Walterstein runs a very strong company.

Mr. Bob McDonald, song and dance artist and comedian, is the new face this week.

Lillie Mason, Laura White, Cora Everett Lulu Howard, Pearl Iola, Stella Merriam, Ed, Soldene, Bob McDonald, Chas. Rice and Geo. C. Dunham.

The first part introduces the entire company in new and pleasing selections. Rice & Everett appear in their original sketch, All Mixed Up, introducing songs, dances and medleys.

The Can-Can is retained on the bill. New songs and dances and all the original business have been introduced, making the bill stronger than ever.

The Eureka gives a matinee every Sunday.

Sunday, June 9th, grand picnic of the Hickory Club at the Seaside Gardens.

Sunday Excursions on the Bay.

The steamer Tamalpais, renovated and placed in complete order, will make family excursions every Sunday during the season to Mare Island, Vallejo and Martinez; leaving Sausalito ferry slip, foot of Clay street, at 10 15 A M, and returning at 7 30 P M. Tickets, for the round trip, 50 cents; children, 25 cents. This includes an enjoyable thirty-mile sail through San Francisco and San Pablo bays and the Straits of Carquinez The U. S. First Infantry Band will furnish the music. Lunches on the boat at city prices, The comfort of the excursions, under the management of P. H. Hink, will be properly looked after.

Charles Alfred Byrne and Gustave Kerker's new comic opera will follow The Brigands at the Casino, New York, so it is stated. The Brigands is drawing crowded houses, and is the most dazzling spectacle ever seen at that house.

Miss St. George Hussey will be a member of Hoyt's Tin Soldier company next season.

Buffalo Bill is whooping things up in Paris, and it is likely that next season's fashion quotations will run largely to paint, beads and feathers. The costume of corsage bouquet with shoulder straps, so much seen and admired this Winter at the Metropolitan Opera House, New York, will probably prevail, as its severe simplicity partakes largely of the Indian belle's full dress, which consists of a chest protector, and a smile.

Blind Tom was billed to appear at Johnstown on the night of the disaster. He has telegraphed to his friends in New York, that he is safe.

A very singular story is told that George A. Westerkill, of Chicago, fell dead after gazing at a photograph of Lydia Thompson. The telegraphic statements are somewhat vague, but they amount to this: Westerkill attired himself in full dress, with a new shirt and white necktie, put a moss rosebud in his lapel, oiled his mustache took the picture of Lydia Thompson, and slowly raising it to his eyes, fixed his gaze upon it and fell dead. He evidently kept it in the house for that purpose.

FULL PROGRAMMES of all the Leading Theatres in San Francisco can be found in FIGARO—the only paper that has them.

SPECIALTY SQUIBS.

The Orpheum will introduce the Orpheum's own specialty company, organized in New York especially for it, on the 17th inst.

A large number of variety performers [illegible] Standard Theatre, the Bijou Theatre, Seattle, and [illegible] Theatre. The following [illegible] at Cutter's Sacramento [illegible] James E. Brick, [illegible] Hussey, the Lee Rock Brothers, [illegible] Byron, Dot Marion, the Gottliebs, Ralph & Dorsey, Black & Gordon, the [illegible] Bros., Burdett & Nixon, McCoy & McEvoy, Foster & Fowler, Madge Darrow, Ray Hughes, Mollie Leroy and Zeta Vera.

Traveling with Sells & Barrett's Circus about jumped the track three miles above Sacramento, and the excursion people were [illegible] at Placerville [illegible] consequence, much to the disgust of the assembled crowd at Placerville.

Thatcher, Primrose & West's Minstrels—the Primrose of minstrelsy—open at the California on the 24th inst.

F. B. Wardrigh had purchased the creditors' interest in the Bijou Theatre, Seattle, only a short time before the fire, and is a heavy loser thereby.

Dockstader's Minstrels will play in New York nearly all of next season.

Maggie Bursell and Brantford & Reynolds were to have opened at Cort's Standard, Seattle, next week, and Wilson & Cameron and Wm. Devere were to have opened at the Bijou.

Preparations have been going on for weeks for the coming exhibition of the Destruction of Pompeii at Central Park, corner Market and Eighth streets, under the personal supervision of Matt Morgan, the celebrated artist, who is painting the scenery for it. It will certainly be ready for the public before the 4th of July, and will come in very seasonable as a grand pyrotechnical display.

Cort's Standard, Portland, June 10th: Mahoney & Rogers, Alice Hamilton, Jas. Fairbrooks, the Juniors, Coyne Bros. and Wayne & Evans new.

Later news from Italy informs us that Rossi has not gone mad and ate his dinner in consequence. He found him a dangerously tough subject to digest, though.

A Seattle paper states that there are about eighty variety performers left destitute by the Seattle fire. A big benefit is now in order by their fellow professionals in this city in aid of the unfortunates.

The Perry Bros. and company are in Tacoma for a night or two with their traveling piece, "Two Pair of Kids."

Edward Marble has resigned his position with Thatcher, Primrose and West.

Cort's Standard, Portland, June 3d: Ramza & Arno, Gardner & Bernard and Haley & Flynn new.

The Comique presents an entire new bill this week. Charley Morrell and John Cook contribute excellent specialty turns, and J. H. Burns is good in character parts.

Clara Morris is rusticating at her home in Riverdale-on-the-Hudson.

Mr. Joe Grismer is in New York, looking for new plays and new printing for the coming season.

Charles Bowser, will probably produce "Half Sea Over" next season.

Coquelin and Jane Hading began a successful season under Henry E. Abbey's management at the Gaiety Theatre, London, last Monday night.

Worcester, Massachusetts, is to have a much-needed new theare.

Sarah Bernhardt has a new fad. She now has a habit of arising at four o'clock in the morning, dressing herself as a man and prowling about the remote streets and byways of Paris until seven or eight. Then she returns to her home, undresses and goes to bed. She recently remarked that she had thought that she was too old to learn anything new about Paris, but she had been taught a great many facts hitherto unknown to her by her matutinal wanderings.

PROFESSIONAL PICKINGS.

George H. Murray is with us once more George is a hustler, and when he strikes a town there is no resisting him; and if we do he naturally reasons we cannot resist the show he heralds, "The Twelve Temptations"—we would be more than mortal to do so. Mr. Murray represents one of the largest and most complete spectacles and spectacular companies ever sent to this coast. It opens at the Grand Opera House Sunday night, June 16th, and will create a sensation.

The orchestral concert at the Baldwin last night in aid of the Johnstown sufferers drew but a small audience.

The Standard Theatre, that re-opens this evening, bears the legend, "New Standard Theatre," over its doors. Its front has been neatly painted. A rich new carpet covers its entranceway, and its interior has been generally renovated.

There was no attraction at Frye's Opera House, Seattle, on the day of the fire. The Cecilian Opera Company were booked for the 7th, the day after. Manager Maguire's Modjeska season in the Northwestern circuit was to have opened there on June 10th, and Johnson & Slavin's Minstrels, playing the coast under M. B. Leavitt's management, held dates there for the 12th and 13th.

Alf Hayman and Manager Gus Frohman have arrived from the East and are registered at the Baldwin.

Santa Barbara is a bad show town just at present.

Effie Ellsler and company finished their engagement at Seattle before the fire.

Thos. J. Moses, who painted the scenery for the New California, painted the scenes for "The Three Guardsmen" for the opening of the Standard to-night.

The Old Jed Prouty Co. make a clean jump from New York to San Francisco. They are due here to-night.

The Perry Bros. have been very successful with their comedy, "The Two Kids," in the interior, and contemplate taking it East. They are figuring on dates.

The stock company organized in New York for the Bijou Theatre by Mr. Edwards will be due here on Tuesday.

Frank Hoogs, formerly of the Baldwin, will be the treasurer for the new season at the Bijou Theatre.

Gilmore's "Twelve Temptations" Co. come in town on Tuesday, and will utilize the week in placing their scenery and appointments on the big stage of the Grand Opera House, and perfecting their rehearsals for its production on Sunday night, the 16th.

"Bluebeard, Junior," which it is predicted will be a most elaborate and gorgeous spectacular extravaganza, will be produced at the Chicago Opera House on Tuesday, June 11th. Over 200 people will be engaged in the performance. This includes a ballet of 60, and a very full chorus. A very beautiful transformation scene has been prepared and the ballet will rival Kiralfy's best.

Major C. E. Rice's new venture, "McCarthy's Mishaps," has made a big hit in Philadelphia.

Mr. E. E. Hume, advance representative of J. B. Polk, is in town.

Manager M. B. Leavitt telegraphs Manager Gottlob, of the Bush Street Theatre, that he has signed a ten years' lease of the new Windsor Theatre in Chicago. It is to be finished by September and will be one of the handsomest theatres in that city.

The Paris critics who are whooping over the new California prima donna, Sibyl Sanderson, speak with rapture of her high "Eiffel notes." They may be pretty high, but will not be half as high as her prices when she returns to "dear old California."

Mize Edwards, an old-time Californian, is making bookings for the Bijou in this city at Klaw & Erlanger's Theatrical Exchange, New York.

Sol Bloom, treasurer of the Alcazar, has his testimonial Monday night, the first.

Opera House Block, a fine three-story brick structure owned by Geo. F. Frye, and valued at $125,000, went up in the flames at Seattle, as did also Cort's Standard and Smith's Bijou.

Eleanor Carey has been re-engaged for the Fascination Company for next season.

The offices of Gus Frohman now control a chain of theatres from the Missouri River to San Francisco and return.

All of the costumes, wearing apparel, diamonds and jewelry of the late Mlle. Aimee were lately sold at auction in New York.

Ed and Charley Bert have had their ups and downs in the managerial business; especially their downs. They have lost many rounds in being downed in their wrestlings with theatrical speculations. Still they had courage in defeat, and are now on the top wave of success with their "Peck's Bad Boy," which has been a steady winner since its start last year. The Bad Boy with J. J. Williams as the mischievous one—the original of the part—will sport himself on the Orpheum's stage next week.

The laughable comedy of "The Strategists" will be next week's bill at the Bush, with Marietta Nash and company in the cast.

Richard Golden has hit a golden lead in his "Old Jed Prouty." It has caught on firmly. It comes to the California next week.

J. K. Emmett has composed another new lullaby entitled, Sleep, Baby, Sleep.

The Jed Prouty company used a lithograph of a pair of boots as an advertisment, and gave no explanation, leaving it to be inferred, that they wiredly signified stand-

AMUSEMENTS, ETC.

Leavitt's New Bush Street Theatre.

Another of Willie Edouin's English comedy pieces, "Katti," the Family Help, is in its last nights at the Bush. It abounds in funny features.

Marietta Nash, the original and best of Teddies in "The Bunch of Keys," a bright little woman with a winsome face, a good actress and a specially fine dancer, carries the honors as Katti. George Lauri and Harry B. Bell, two good comedians, have the principal parts as the two Fluffys, and keep the fun alive. Miss Helen Reimer, Miss Vera Van Name and Miss Marie Stanley sustain the female roles very acceptably, as do Messrs. M. L. Alsop and Geo. Mitchell as the two young men of the comedy.

The duets and concerted pieces introduced are excellently rendered and are very popular features of "Katti," and Mr. Mitchell's solo contributions deserve their encores.

See cast and list of musical features in programme on first page.

The laughable comedy of "The Strategists" will constitute next week's bill, with Marietta Nash and all the company in the cast.

Benefits for the Sufferers by the Flood.

The California Athletic Club will give a grand athletic entertainment at the Mechanics' Pavilion Monday evening, June 10th. The best boxing talent of the country will appear; including Jack Dempsey, Jimmy Carroll, Tommy Warren, Joseph Acton, La Blanche, McAuliffe, and every "scientific" man in the country of note. The event and the cause should fill the Pavilion.

Hon. W. J. Armstrong will deliver his Cooper Institute Lecture on Russian Nihilists at the Metropolitan Hall, under the auspices of the Abraham Lincoln and Geore H. Thomas Posts, G. A. R., on Monday night. Proceeds for the benefit of the Johnstown sufferers.

Wednesday evening, June 12th, a grand popular concert will be given by the Philharmonic Society of San Francisco, at the Grand Opera House, under the directorship of Hermann Brandt, assisted by prominent artists.

Alcazar Theatre.

The Fairy's Well and W. H. Power's Company bid farewell to San Francisco after Sunday night's performance. They have drawn good business.

The serious part of the play is brightened by bits of comedy. The acting is good and the scenery and stage appointments fine. Especially effective is the scene where a grove is changed into a rocky pass with a torrent of real water dashing over it. The rescue of a man who has been swept into this stream is one of the exciting features of the play.

Next week's attraction will be Mr. Henry Lee in his change play, The Cavalier, in which he assumes seven different costumed characters. Mr. Lee has a strong array of talent in support of this picturesque play. The cast includes Miss Ethel Brandon, Miss Emma Wilmott, L. R. Stockwell, Fred Rose, J. J. Wallace, Harry Mainhall, Albert Hosmer and Louis Belmour.

Monday evening, June 10th, Mr. Sol. Bloom, the affable treasurer of the Alcazar, will take a benefit.

New California Theatre.

The Bostonians have drawn big houses at the California, and have rendered their operas in fine form.

"Mignon" will be sung for the last performance to-night, with Miss Stone, Miss Cordena and Miss Jessie Bartlett-Davies, the three prima donnas in the cast. Every seat is sold for the last night.

—o—

Richard Golden opens next week in "Old Jed Prouty," a Yankee play, of which the New York Herald said his "Old Jed comes nearer to nature than Denman Thompson's Joshua Whitcomb." It sprang into popularity at once in New York, and as Messrs. Harris & Rich, its Eastern proprietors and managers, sends us the New York cast and original properties and scenic effects intact, we shall have it here at its best.

Richard Golden's New Englander anti-dates Joshua Whitcomb, as he first introduced "Old Jed" in a sketch act in St. John, New Brunswick, in 1869. It again cropped out in 1875, but never as a full-fledged dramatic lead until Golden & Gill developed it in its present shape. Its appointments are genuine ones, and belong to the Prouty family, of Bucksport, Maine; the rung used was made by an ancient spinster clypt Tribulation Prouty; the piano, used 100 years ago, was the property of Joshua Prouty; the old boots Golden drags around were worn by George A. Prouty, and the old fire engine Derigo No. 6 did service in Bucksport more than 75 years ago. The properties form quite a study in the antique.

See extra programme announcement elsewhere in FIGARO.

Standard Theatre.

The Standard Theatre will be re-opened under the management of Mr. Fredrick Mitchell this Saturday night, with Edwin Thorne in The Three Guardsmen as D'Artagnan, the impetuous hero of Dumas' famous story, and the best D'Artagnan on the stage. Mr. Thorne will be supported by J. W. Thompson, one of the best of Athos, Horace Ewing, Edward Loring, E. N. Thayer, Miss Clyde Heron, Miss Belle Chippendale, Miss May Nannery and a capable company. The grand old drama will be finely staged with new scenery by Thos. G. Moses, who painted the stock scenes and those for the Booth-Barrett Hamlet at the New California Theatre.

For cast see programme in adjacent column.

Mr. W. F. Rochester is the acting manager; a guarantee that everything will be well done.

The season will be at popular prices, 25, 50 and 75 cents, and starts out for an extended one.

The Standard has undergone a complete renovation. Gangs of workmen have placed the theatre in complete order, inside and out, prior to the opening.

Orpheum Opera House.

This is the last week of the Jack Dempsey All-Star Specialty Company, including Sheffer & Blakely, negro comedians; Nash, the bicycle wonder; Lawler & Thornton, character change artists; J. D Kelly, Irish comedian; Miss Tillie Morrissey, vocalist; Baker & West, musical artists; the Smiths, musical team, and Dempsey & Costigan, and local talent, George Gannon, Sacramento; Billy Hennessy, Kansas City, and Dan Egan (the Montana Kid), from Butte City, and others, in four-round contests.

—o—

Atkinson's Comedy Company, in "Peck's Bad Boy," with J. J. Williams in the title role, the original of the character, returns to the Orpheum, for one week only, next week. This company is strongly organized in company and specialties. On its first visit here it proved the greatest comedy success ever at the Orpheum, and has done the biggest kind of business everywhere.

We congratulate Managers Edwin and Charley Bert upon having developed so productive a dramatic bonanza.

The Battle of Vicksburg.

The grand panorama of the Battle of Vicksburg at the Panorama Building, corner of Eddy and Mason streets, is one that no American should fail to see. It gives a grand view of the battle with the conflict at its height on the land and the bombardment from the river with the correct positions of the engaging forces and the proper placement of the ironclads in the bombardment. It is a great painting, and excels the Battle of Waterloo in graphic power and vivid reality. Destruction reigns on every side. The burning buildings, the bursting shells, the desperate charges, the hand-to-hand conflicts, and the dying and wounded, all depict with startling realism one of the hottest conflicts in history.

Open from 9 A. M. to 6 P. M.

Morosco's Amphitheatre.

Managers Morosco & Byrnes have put in a most complete fireproof partition between the stage and the auditorium, from wall to wall of their big theatre. It is constructed of iron lathings on both sides of the studding. The decorators have finished the immense ceiling of the theatre with harmonious panels.

This week, Mr. George Turner as Jack Hearne in the great London drama, Romany Rye. Darrell Vinton as Philip Royson and Jas. Carden as Joe Heckette. Conchita has been specially engaged to play Lura Lee.

The play has been effectively staged and the greatest success of the season is assured.

Manager Morosco understands the tastes of his patrons. He presents attractive plays with a fully competent company, and the results are satisfactory to both manager and people.

Matinees Sundays, at 2 P. M. Admission, 10 cents. Front reserved seats 10 cents extra.

Next week, The Confederate Spy will be the attraction.

Bella Union Theatre.

This week a fine bill is presented. Ned Thatcher and George Drew Lang's Comiques, the Crawford Bros. and the Kasten Sisters are the new stars.

The ladies of the company come in for a full share of the applause and crowd the male contingent very closely.

E. Lang's comedy sketch, "Neighborly Neighbors," with all his company in the cast, is an important feature of the bill.

Billy Akarman resumes his old position of stage manager next week.

Friday nights are devoted to amateurs, and some of the novices have shown decided talent, and as they are ambitious they will soon be classed among the professionals.

The new people for next week are: Flora Hastings, Conlon & Dougherty and Billy Akarman.

Tuesday evening, June 11th, a grand glove contest will take place between Billy Mahan of San Francisco and Jack Sullivan of San Diego.

Sullivan's Cremorne Theatre.

Ned Nestell, the Old Soldier, has gone back into harness and is managing the stage in his usual manner, making himself a favorite with all.

Fitz & Devine, the Irish millionaires; Jessie Cogill, vocalist, and Howard & Berkeley, sketch artists, are the new faces this week.

The Great Ellwood, female impersonator; Mattie Wallace, vocalist; Sadie Stevens, Miss Sadie Fairfield, song and dance artiste; May Morrell, serio comic, and Hayes & Marion continue favorites.

A grand glove contest will be the attraction every Tuesday and Friday evening.

Ned Nestell's amusing burlesque, Under the Gas Pipes, with the full company in the cast, concludes the entertainment.

Next week another strong bill is presented. Among the people engaged for the week are: Sam Dearing and Conlon & Dougherty are the new faces.

Berkeley & Howard, Fitz & Devine, Hayes & Marion, Sadie Fairfield and May Morrell are still reigning favorites.

Commencing Friday evening, June 14, every Friday night will be set apart for amateur talent. Any one wishing to appear, can do so by applying by letter, or in person, to Manager Nestell.

Original Theatre Comique.

The Comique presents an entire new bill this week, with songs and afterpiece. Numerous new novelties are produced by the various artists every evening and especial attention is paid to the first part.

This week the entertainment begins with selections by the entire company. Charles Morrell has new banjo songs and an entire change of witty sayings for the entertainment of the Comique's patrons.

Miss Millie Ravenna makes her first appearance this week. All the favorite vocalists have been retained.

The comical farce-comedy, Burglar Alarm, is the interlude act.

The laughable farce, Rats, with all the company in the cast, concludes the bill and the evening's fun.

The Comique's company is a strong one. It is a neat, compact minor theatre, and for many years has been a popular one.

Eureka Music Hall.

This is one of the neatest and most popular of our minor theatres. Manager Walterstein runs a very strong company.

Mr. Bob McDonald, song and dance artist and comedian, is the new face this week.

Lillie Mason, Laura White, Cora Everett Lulu Howard, Pearl Iola, Stella Merriam, Ed, Soldene, Bob McDonald, Chas. Rice and Geo. C. Dunham.

The first part introduces the entire company in new and pleasing selections. Rice & Everett appear in their original sketch, All Mixed Up, introducing songs, dances and medleys.

The Can-Can is retained on the bill. New songs and dances and all the original business have been introduced, making the bill stronger than ever.

The Eureka gives a matinee every Sunday.

Sunday, June 9th, grand picnic of the Hickory Club at the Seaside Gardens.

Sunday Excursions on the Bay.

The steamer Tamalpais, renovated and placed in complete order, will make family excursions every Sunday during the season to Mare Island, Vallejo and Martinez; leaving Sausalito ferry slip, foot of Clay street, at 10:15 A. M., and returning at 7:30 P. M. Tickets, for the round trip, 50 cents; children, 25 cents. This includes an enjoyable thirty-mile sail through San Francisco and San Pablo bays and the Straits of Carquinez. The U. S. First Infantry Band will furnish the music. Lunches on the boat at city prices. The comfort of the excursions, under the management of P. H. Hink, will be properly looked after.

The contract between James C. Duff and Henry E. Dixey, under which Mr. Dixey will fill most of the time at the Standard Theatre, New York, next season, was signed May 20 b. It calls for the production of a new burlesque, written by William Gill and Mr. Dixey, to be ready in September. Mr. Duff takes all the risks of the enterprise, furnishing the scenery and costumes, and a company subject to the approval of Mr. Dixey. The contract also gives Mr. Duff the contract to manage Mr. Dixey's tour through the country at the conclusion of his New York engagement. Mr. Dixey takes no risks.

Mrs. Alice Shaw whistled before 300 insane people in Bloomingdale Asylum, New York, last week, and they immediately began making preparations to annihilate her. Persuasion was useless, they made up their minds that Mrs. Shaw had no business to aid to their miseries in that way, and, in spite of the guardians, it became apparent that, unless Mr. Shaw retreated in double-quick order, she would have to suffer pretty rough handling.

M. B. Leavitt has brought suit against Lydia Thompson for $3,500, due him as partner of the Lydia Thompson Burlesque company. Mr. Leavitt lost a great deal of money in pulling the show around the country, and he proposes to make the fair Lydia pay her share of the loss.

After Dark has been an immense success at the People's Theatre, New York, and is sure to be a great money-maker for Mr. Brady next season.

It is said that A. M. Palmer will have no companies on the road next season.

FULL PROGRAMMES of all the Leading Theatre in San Francisco can be found in FIGARO—the only paper that has them.

SPECIALTY SQUIBS.

Billy Mahan and Jack Sullivan, well up in the art of self-defence, have a glove contest at the Bella Union Tuesday night.

The Orpheum will introduce the Orpheum's own specialty company, organized in New York especially for it, on the 17th inst.

A large number of variety performers forming the companies of Cort's Standard Theatre and the Bijou Theatre, Seattle, were sufferers by the fire. The following were the company at Cort's: Sorakichi and Faulkner (the wrestlers) James E. Black, Annie Whitney, the Du Rell Bros., Annie Rynar, Dot Melville, the Gottlobs, Burns & Donnelly, Black & Gordon, the Hanley Bros., Moreland & Nixon, McCoy & McEvoy, Foster & Fowler, Madge Darrell, Ray Filburn, Mollie Leroy and Zola Wera.

The train with Sells & Barrett's Circus aboard jumped the track three miles above Folsom, and the circus people were forced to cancel their date at Placerville and return to Sacramento, much to the disgust of the assembled crowd at Placerville.

Thatcher, Primrose & West's Minstrels—the Primrose of minstrelsy—open at the California on the 24th inst.

Dockstader's Minstrels will play in New York nearly all of next season.

Maggie Bursell and Brantford & Reynolds were to have opened at Cort's Standard, Seattle, this week, and Wilson & Cameron and Wm. Devere were to have opened at the Bijou.

Preparations have been going on for weeks for the coming exhibition of the Destruction of Pompeii at Central Park, corner Market and Eighth streets, under the personal supervision of Matt Morgan, the celebrated artist, who is painting the scenery for it. It will certainly be ready for the public before the 4th of July, and will come in very seasonable as a grand pyrotechnical display.

Cort's Standard, Portland, June 10th: McAvoy & Rogers, Alice Hamilton, Jas. Tenbrooke, the Tudors, Coyne Bros. and Wayne & Evans new.

A dispatch states that there are about eighty variety performers left destitute by the Seattle fire. A big benefit is now in order by their fellow professionals in this city in aid of the unfortunates.

The Perry Bros. and company are in town, off the road for a night or two with their traveling piece, "Two Pair of Kids."

The Comique presents an entire new bill this week. Charley Morrell and John Cook contribute excellent specialty turns, and J. H. Burns is good in character parts.

Donnelly and Girard's new piece, The City Directory, has made a very distinct hit at the Chicago Opera House. Their latest topical song is "I Got It."

A Brooklyn paper says that Mr. Abbey has forbidden Mrs. Potter to talk to reporters, and now the reporters say they were forbidden to talk to Mrs. Potter, long ago.

Blind Tom was billed to appear at Johnstown on the night of the disaster. He has telegraphed to his friends in New York, that he is safe.

The inhabitants of Schweidnitz, Germany, have issued an order that every organ player must keep his instrument in perfect tune, under pain of a severe punishment, and that Sundays and Wednesdays shall be kept as off days, during which the sound of the organ may not be heard in the streets.

If the cable is to be relied upon, George W. Floyd has taken a lease of the Olympic Theatre, in London, for Kate Forsyth. It is not clear what Miss Forsyth intends doing with the place, but if she expects to act and make her expenses out of it that way, she may bid farewell to what little remains of her earnings. The Olympic has never paid very well, even under the most favorable auspices; and Kate Forsyth is not even a favorable auspice for a London star.

Carl Mellocker's new opera, which will open the winter season at the Vienna Theatre, is called Poor Jonathan.

The London Gaiety Burlesque company sailed for England, June 5th, after a very [illegible] season in Australia, [illegible] in consequence of the [illegible] of the Australian [illegible] Company.

PROFESSIONAL PICKINGS.

Miss Isabel Morris and Miss Kate Chester, both well known actresses here, arrived from Australia by the last steamer. Miss Morris was a great favorite in Melbourne, and was the recipient of a most flattering testimonial at the Royal Theatre in that city just previous to her departure. Miss Kate Alma, a popular actress and singer in the Colonies, and Mr. Jerrold Stuart, a clever comedian, were also among the passengers.

The Old Jed Prouty Co. made a clean jump from New York to San Francisco.

The Standard Theatre, that re-opened Saturday night, bears the legend, "New Standard Theatre," over its doors. Its front has been neatly painted. A rich new carpet covers its entranceway, and its interior has been generally renovated.

George H. Murray is with us once more George is a hustler, and when he strikes a town there is no resisting him; and if we do he naturally reasons we cannot resist the show he heralds, "The Twelve Temptations"—we would be more than mortal to do so. Mr. Murray represents one of the largest and most complete spectacles and spectacular companies ever sent to this coast. It opens at the Grand Opera House Sunday night, June 16th, and will create a sensation.

There was no attraction at Frye's Opera House, Seattle, on the day of the fire. The Cecilian Opera Company were booked for the 7th, the day after. Manager Maguire's Modjeska season in the Northwestern circuit was to have opened there on June 10th, and Johnson & Slavin's Minstrels, playing the coast under M. B. Leavitt's management, held dates there for the 12th and 13th.

Alf Hayman and Manager Gus Frohman have arrived from the East and are registered at the Baldwin.

Santa Barbara is a bad show town just at present.

Thos. G. Moses, who painted the scenery for the New California, painted the scenes for "The Three Guardsmen" for the Standard.

The Perry Bros. have been very successful with their comedy, "The Two Pair," in the interior, and contemplate taking it East. They are figuring on dates.

The stock company organized in New York for the Bijou Theatre by Mazo Edwards will be due here on Saturday.

Frank Hoogs, formerly of the Baldwin, will be the treasurer for the new season at the Bijou Theatre.

Gilmore's "Twelve Temptations" Co. come in town on Tuesday, and will be busy in placing their scenery and appointments on the big stage of the Grand Opera House, and rehearsing their spectacle for its production on Sunday night, the 16th.

Re-opening of the Bijou. Lewis Morrison and a specially selected company from New York will open the new season at the Bijou under the management of its lessee, Mr. J. T. White, in "A Celebrated Case," Saturday evening, June 22nd. Mr. Morrison brings with him as leading man Mr. Joseph Whytall, leading man last season of the Boston Museum, and Miss Selina Fetter, a popular actress who has filled stellar roles, as leading lady. After the "Celebrated Case" will follow the production of "Partners," and "The Tigress," the piece Miss Fetter starred in in the East.

Major C. E. Rice's new venture, "McCarthy's Mishaps," has made a big hit in Philadelphia.

Mr. E. E. Hume, advance representative of J. B. Polk, is in town.

Manager M. B. Leavitt telegraphs Manager Gottlob, of the Bush Street Theatre, that he has signed a ten years' lease of the new Windsor Theatre in Chicago. It is to be finished by September and will be one of the handsomest theatres in that city.

The Paris critics who are whooping over the new California prima donna, Sibyl Sanderson, speak with rapture of her high "Eiffel notes." They may be pretty high, but will not be half as high as her prices when she returns to "dear old California."

Mazo Edwards, an old-time Californian, is making bookings for the Bijou in this city at Klaw & Erlanger's Theatrical Exchange, New York.

Eleanor Carey has been re-engaged for the Fascination Company for next season.

The offices of Gus Frohman now control a chain of theatres from the Missouri River to San Francisco and return.

All of the costumes, wearing apparel, diamonds and jewelry of the late Mlle. Aimee were lately sold at auction in New York.

Ed and Charley Bert have had their ups and downs in the managerial business; especially their downs. They have lost many rounds in being downed in their wrestlings with theatrical speculations. Still they had courage in defeat, and are now on the top wave of success with their "Peck's Bad Boy," which has been a steady winner since its start last year. The Bad Boy with J. J. Williams as the mischievous one—the original of the part—will sport himself on the Orpheum's stage this week.

The laughable comedy of "The Strategists" will be this week's bill at the Bush, with Marietta Nash and company in the cast.

Col. John A. McCaull has engaged Geraldine Ulmar as his prima donna for next season.

J. K. Emmett has composed another new lullaby entitled, Sleep, Baby, Sleep.

The Jed Prouty company used a lithograph of a pair of boots as an advertisment, and gave no explanation, leaving it to be inferred that they wiredly signified standard.

AMUSEMENTS, ETC.

Leavitt's New Bush Street Theatre.

Lauri and Bell's Comedy Company in the original version of Haverly's "Strategists" constitute this week's bill, with Harry B. Bell as Jack Rutledge; whose experiments in strategy bring about so many comical episodes, and involve not only himself but the whole company in complications. The comedy gives the company plenty of opportunities, and presents Miss Marietta Nash in the soubrette character of Nellie Howard.

Benefits for the Sufferers by the Flood.

The California Athletic Club will give a grand athletic entertainment at the Mechanics' Pavilion on this Monday evening. The best boxing talent of the country will appear; including Jack Dempsey, Jimmy Carroll, Tommy Warren, Joseph Acton, La Blanche, McAuliffe, and every "scientific" man in the country of note. The event and the cause should fill the Pavilion.

Hon. W. J. Armstrong will deliver his Cooper Institute Lecture on Russian Nihilists at the Metropolitan Hall, under the auspices of the Abraham Lincoln and Geore H. Thomas Posts, G. A. R., this evening. Proceeds for the benefit of the Johnstown sufferers.

Wednesday evening, June 12th, a grand popular concert will be given by the Philharmonic Society of San Francisco, at the Grand Opera House, under the directorship of Hermann Brandt, assisted by prominent artists.

Alcazar Theatre.

This week's attraction will be Mr. Henry Lee in his change play, The Cavalier, in which he assumes seven different costumed characters. Mr. Lee has a strong array of talent in support of this picturesque play. The cast includes Miss Ethel Brandon, Miss Emma Wilmott, L. R. Stockwell, Fred Rose, J. J. Wallace, Harry Mainhall, Albert Hosmer and Louis Belmour.

Benefit of Mr. Sol Bloom to-night.

New California Theatre.

Richard Golden opens this week in "Old Jed Prouty," a Yankee play, of which the New York Herald said his "Old Jed comes nearer to nature than Denman Thompson's Joshua Whitcomb." It sprang into popularity at once in New York, and as Messrs. Harris & Rich, its Eastern proprietors and managers, send us the New York cast, original properties and scenic effects intact, we shall have it here at its best.

Richard Golden's New Englander anti-dates Joshua Whitcomb, as he first introduced "Old Jed" in a sketch act in St. John, New Brunswick, in 1869. It again cropped out in 1875, but never as a full-fledged dramatic lead until Golden & Gill developed it in its present shape. Its appointments are genuine ones, and belong to the Prouty family, of Bucksport, Maine; the rug used was made by an ancient spinster clypt Tribulation Prouty; the piano, used 100 years ago, was the property of Joshua Prouty; the old boots Golden drags around were worn by George A. Prouty, and the old fire engine Derigo No. 6 did service in Bucksport more than 75 years ago. The properties form quite a study in the antique.

Standard Theatre.

The Standard Theatre was re-opened under the management of Mr. Fredrick Mitchell, Saturday night, with Edwin Thorne as D'Artagnan, in The Three Guardsmen, the impetuous hero of Dumas' famous story, and one of its best impersonators on the stage. Mr. Thorne is supported by J. W. Thompson, one of the best of Athos, Horace Ewing, Edward Loring, F. N. Thayer, Miss Clyde Heron, Miss Belle Chippendale, Miss May Nannery and others. The gentlemen do fair work; the ladies render strong support.

The grand old drama is finely staged with new scenery by Thos. G. Moses, who painted the stock scenes and those for the Booth-Barrett Hamlet at the New California Theatre. The drama was effectively given, and the theatre was filled to the doors.

For cast see programme in adjacent column.

Mr. W. F. Rochester is the acting manager; a guarantee that everything will be well done.

The season will be at popular prices, 25, 50 and 75 cents, and starts out for an extended one.

The Standard has undergone a complete renovation. Gangs of workmen have placed the theatre in complete order, inside and out, prior to [illegible]

Orpheum Opera House.

Atkinson's Comedy Company, in "Peck's Bad Boy," with J. J. Williams in the title role, the original of the character, returns to the Orpheum, for one week only, this week. This company is strongly organized in company and specialties. On its first visit here it proved the greatest comedy success ever at the Orpheum, and has done the biggest kind of business everywhere.

We congratulate Managers Edwin and Charley Bert upon having developed so productive a dramatic bonanza.

The Battle of Vicksburg.

The grand panorama of the Battle of Vicksburg at the Panorama Building, corner of Eddy and Mason streets, is one that no American should fail to see. It gives a grand view of the battle with the conflict at its height on the land and the bombardment from the river with the correct positions of the engaging forces and the proper placement of the ironclads in the bombardment. It is a great painting, and excels the Battle of Waterloo in graphic power and vivid reality. Destruction reigns on every side. The burning buildings, the bursting shells, the desperate charges, the hand-to-hand conflicts, and the dying and wounded, all depict with startling realism one of the hottest conflicts in history.

Open from 9 A. M. to 6 P. M.

Morosco's Amphitheatre.

Managers Morosco & Byrnes have put in a most complete fireproof partition between the stage and the auditorium, from wall to wall of their big theatre. It is constructed of iron lathings on both sides of the studding. The decorators have finished the immense ceiling of the theatre with harmonious panels.

This week, The Confederate Spy, a national historical drama, will be the attraction.

Manager Morosco understands the tastes of his patrons. He presents attractive plays with a fully competent company, and the results are satisfactory to both manager and people.

Matinees Sundays, at 2 P. M. Admission, 10 cents. Front reserved seats 10 cents extra.

Bella Union Theatre.

The new people for this week are: Flora Hastings, Helen Conklin, Conlon & Dougherty and Billy Akarman.

The ladies of the company come in for a full share of the applause and crowd the male contingent very closely.

Billy Akarman's funny comedy sketch, The Red-Headed Girl and the White Turkey, and The Sculptor's Studio are important features of the bill.

Billy Akarman resumes his old position of stage manager this week.

Tuesday evening, June 11th, a grand glove contest will take place between Billy Mahan of San Francisco and Jack Sullivan of San Diego.

Friday nights are devoted to amateurs, and some of the novices have shown decided talent, and as they are ambitious they will soon be classed among the professionals.

Hallinan's Cremorne Theatre.

Ned Nestell, the Old Soldier, has gone back into harness and is managing the stage in his usual manner, making himself a favorite with all.

This week another strong bill is presented. Among the people engaged for the week are: Sam Dearing and Conlon & Dougherty the new faces.

Berkeley & Howard, Fitz & Devine, Hayes & Marion, Sadie Fairfield and May Morrell are still reigning favorites.

Jack the Ripper is the comedy for the week.

A grand glove contest will be the attraction every Tuesday and Friday evening.

Commencing Friday evening, June 14, every Friday night will be set apart for amateur talent. Any one wishing to appear, can do so by applying by letter, or in person, to Manager Nestell.

Original Theatre Comique.

The Comique presents an entire new bill this week, with songs and afterpiece. Numerous new novelties are produced by the various artists every evening and especial attention is paid to the first part.

This week the entertainment begins with selections by the entire company. Charles Morrell has new banjo songs and an entire change of witty sayings for the entertainment of the Comique's patrons.

Matt Trayers, the German Democrat, appears this week in original songs and sayings.

The comical farce-comedy, The Serenaders, is the interlude act.

The laughable farce, The Picnic, with all the company in the cast, concludes the bill and the evening's fun.

The Comique's company is a strong one. It is a neat, compact minor theatre, and for many years has been a popular one.

Eureka Music Hall.

This is one of the neatest and most popular of our minor theatres. Manager Walterstein runs a very strong company.

Mr. Chas. Rice becomes stage manager this week.

Lillie Mason, Laura White, Cora Everett, Lulu Howard, Pearl Iola, Stella Merriam, Ed Soldene, W. Baker, Chas. Rice and A. J. McNiece.

The first part introduces the entire company in new and pleasing selections. Rice & Everett appear in their original sketch, Upside Down, introducing songs, dances and medleys, A. J. McNiece gives one of his original specialties, and W. Baker in his lightning change act.

The Can-Can is retained on the bill. New songs and dances and all the original business have been introduced, making the bill stronger than ever.

The Eureka gives a matinee every Sunday.

Sunday, June 16th, grand picnic and ball of the Beer-Brewers' Union at Seaside Gardens.

Sunday Excursions on the Bay.

The steamer Tamalpais, renovated and placed in complete order, will make family excursions every Sunday during the season to Mare Island, Vallejo and Martinez; leaving Sausalito ferry slip, foot of Clay street, at 10 15 A. M., and returning at 7 30 P. M. Tickets, for the round trip, 50 cents; children, 25 cents. This includes an enjoyable thirty-mile sail through San Francisco and San Pablo bays and the Straits of Carquinez. The U. S. First Infantry Band will furnish the music. Lunches on the boat at city prices. The comfort of the excursions, under the management of P. H. Hink, will be properly looked after.

The stock season at the Alcazar begins November 4th with L. R. Stockwell in a character comedy part written expressly for him by Chas. H. Hoyt in his latest play, "A Texas Steer." Its first production on any stage.

Latest news from New York indicate that the Madison Square School of Acting is to be abandoned. What is to become of poor old Bouci.

Clara Morris is rusticating at her home in Riverdale-on-the-Hudson.

Mr. Joe Grismer is in New York, looking for new plays and new printing for the coming season.

Charles Bowser, will probably produce Half Seas Over next season.

Coquelin and Jane Hading began a successful season under Henry E. Abbey's management at the Gaiety Theatre, London, last Monday night.

Worcester, Massachusetts, is to have a much-needed new theare.

Sarah Bernhardt has a new fad. She now has a habit of arising at four o'clock in the morning, dressing herself as a man and prowling about the remote streets and byways of Paris until seven or eight. Then she returns to her home, undresses and goes to bed. She recently remarked that she had thought that she was too old to learn anything new about Paris, but she had been taught a great many facts hitherto unknown to her by her matutinal wanderings.

Sol Berliner has definitely determined to take A Noble Son on the road next season, with E. J. Buckley as the star.

A very singular story is told that George A. Westerkill, of Chicago, fell dead after gazing at a photograph of Lydia Thompson. The telegraphic statements are somewhat vague, but they amount to this: Westerkill attired himself in full dress, with a new shirt and white necktie, put a moss rose bud in his lapel, oiled his mustache took the picture of Lydia Thompson, and slowly raising it to his eyes, fixed his gaze upon it and fell dead. He evidently kept it in the house for that purpose.

The contract between James C. Duff and Henry E. Dixey, under which Mr. Dixey will fill most of the time at the Standard Theatre, New York, next season, was signed May 20th. It calls for the production of a new burlesque, written by William Gill and Mr. Dixey, to be ready in September. Mr. Duff takes all the risks of the enterprise, furnishing the scenery and costumes, and a company subject to the approval of Mr. Dixey. The contract also gives Mr. Duff the contract to manage Mr. Dixey's tour through the country at the conclusion of his New York engagement. Mr. Dixey takes no risks.

The New York Truth brings up the question in female political economy: — The burning question which is now agitating the female stars of the stage, says Truth, is whether it is not cheaper to support a husband than to hire a leading man. Our conspicuous actresses do not think that marriage is a failure, and have undertaken to settle this matter in a very practical way. If they get a good leading man, they marry him. That saves a salary. This method used to be carried out in New England with hired help, the farmer generally marrying his cook or his chambermaid, to save fourteen dollars a month. Its application to the stage shows to what practical depths art has descended. Miss Fanny Davenport, who is an expert in this matter, has announced with authority that she finds it much cheaper to marry than to hire; and I dare say the method will now be adopted by most of our leading women who intend to star, and the advice of the dramatic manager will be, "Pick out your husband, and get your printing."

Mrs. Alice Shaw whistled before 300 insane people in Bloomingdale Asylum, New York, last week, and they immediately began making preparations to annihilate her. Persuasion was useless, they made up their minds that Mrs. Shaw had no business to add to their miseries in that way, and, in spite of the guardians, it became apparent that, unless Mrs. Shaw retreated in double-quick order, she would have to suffer pretty rough handling.

M. B. Leavitt has brought suit against Lydia Thompson for $3 500, due him as partner of the Lydia Thompson Burlesque company. Mr. Leavitt lost a great deal of money in pulling the show around the country, and he proposes to make the fair Lydia pay her share of the loss.

After Dark has been an immense success at the People's Theatre, New York, and is sure to be a great money-maker for Mr. Brady next season.

It is said that A. M. Palmer will have no companies on the road next season.

EVENING EDITION

TUESDAY.....JUNE 11, 1889

FULL PROGRAMMES of all the Leading Theatre in San Francisco can be found in FIGARO—the only paper that has them.

SPECIALTY SQUIBS.

The Biecketts, the well-known aerial artists, are great favorites on the Southern circuit.

Billy Mahan and Jack Sullivan, well up in the art of self-defence, have a glove contest at the Bella Union to-night.

The Orpheum will introduce the Orpheum's own specialty company, organized in New York especially for it, on the 17th inst.

The train with Sells & Barrett's Circus aboard jumped the track three miles above Folsom, and the circus people were forced to cancel their date at Placerville and return to Sacramento, much to the disgust of the assembled crowd at Placerville.

Thatcher, Primrose & West's Minstrels—the Primrose of minstrelsy—open at the California on the 24th inst.

Dockstader's Minstrels will play in New York nearly all of next season.

Preparations have been going on for weeks for the coming exhibition of the Destruction of Pompeii at Central Park, corner Market and Eighth streets, under the personal supervision of Matt Morgan, the celebrated artist, who is painting the scenery for it. It will certainly be ready for the public before the 4th of July, and will come in very seasonable as a grand pyrotechnical display.

Cort's Standard, Portland, June 10th: McAvoy & Rogers, Alice Hamilton, Jas. Tenbrooke, the Tudors, Coyne Bros. and Wayne & Evans new.

The Comique presents an entire new bill this week. Charley Morrell and John Cook contribute excellent specialty turns, and J. H. Burns is good in character parts.

Charlie Reed will be due here on Saturday. He is engaged by the Alcazar management to support Ned Harrigan, to open July 1st for eight weeks.

Eastern divorce lawyers are making an addition to their advertisements. They now read: "Divorces quietly obtained. No publicity. Stage engagements guaranteed."

Donnelly and Girard's new piece, The City Directory, has made a very distinct hit at the Chicago Opera House. Their latest topical song is "I Got It."

A Brooklyn paper says that Mr. Abbey has forbidden Mrs. Potter to talk to reporters, and now the reporters say they were forbidden to talk to Mrs. Potter, long ago.

The Standard Theatre, that re-opened Saturday night, bears the legend, "New Standard Theatre," over its doors. Its front has been neatly painted. A rich new carpet covers its entranceway, and its interior has been generally renovated.

George H. Murray is with us once more. George is a hustler, and when he strikes a town there is no resisting him; and if we do be naturally reasons we cannot resist the show he heralds, "The Twelve Temptations"—we would be more than mortal to do so. Mr. Murray represents one of the largest and most complete spectacles and spectacular companies ever sent to this coast. It opens at the Grand Opera House Sunday night, June 16th, and will create a sensation.

The stock company organized in New York for the Bijou Theatre by Mezz Edwards will be due here on Thursday.

Frank Hoogs, formerly of the Baldwin, will be the treasurer for the new season at the Bijou Theatre.

Gilmore's "Twelve Temptations" Co. arrived in town to-day, and will be busy in placing their scenery and accoutrements on the big stage of the Grand Opera House, and rehearsing their spectacle for its production on Sunday night, the 16th.

Major C. E. Rice's new venture, "McCarthy's Mishaps," has made a big hit in Philadelphia.

Mr. E. E. Rume, advance representative of J. B. Polk, is in town.

The laughable comedy of "The Strategists" will be this week's bill at the Bush, with Marietta Nash and company in the cast.

Recent stories about Harry Courtaine's ill-health are unfounded. He will remain

PROFESSIONAL PICKINGS.

Augustin Daly's Company follows the Lyceum people at the Baldwin. Ada Rehan, John Drew, James Lewis and Mrs. Gilbert, the four principals of the company, remain, but the rank and file are considerably broken up. Virginia Dreher, Effie Shannon, Lizzie St. Quentin, William Gilbert, Otis Skinner, Jos. Holland and several minor people have all either seceded or been counted out since the last California trip.

A fire was discovered in one of the cars of the "Twelve Temptations" spectacle, en route from Salt Lake to this city, but was quickly kicked out. It only burned the edges of some of the "Temptating" scenery.

Lewis Morrison, en route with his New York company to our Bijou Theatre, telegraphs Manager White that they will lay over a day in Chicago, and will turn up all O. K. here on Friday night.

Geo. R. Cain and wife, professionally Miss Jennie Darrah, returned from the East Monday. They left with the Wessells Company on the 18th of August last. George says they came back again, if they did have to raise Cain to do it.

The hip, hip, hurrah, enthusiasm of the Irish race was shown at a recent performance in Dublin, where Scanlan received eleven encores when singing one of his songs. If he had ever got thirteen it would have killed him.

The Eastern papers keep telling us that P. T. Barnum gave $11,000 to the Universalist Church in his home town of Bridgeport, Conn. The Universalist's creed is that there is a place on the other side considerably hotter than St. Louis in July, and that they can save souls from being cast into it. Now, as Barnum has "the biggest show on earth" to be saved, $11,000 isn't much of a fee for insuring the whole job lot after all.

Speaking of Booth's late engagements, a prominent New York journal rings out the danger signal. After stating that the last Booth-Barrett season in New York was a financial failure, and commenting upon the expectations and results of the San Francisco season, it says: "It looks very much as if this season would wind Edwin Booth's professional career up, anyhow. It is patent to his friends that he is no longer sufficiently controllable to do his duty by the public. The press has obligingly glossed over occasions when he appeared upon the stage in a condition unfit for open display of himself, but the public is not inclined to extend its charity beyond reasonable limits for his benefit, when its charity is overtaxed as flagrantly as it has been by him."

Miss Isabel Morris and Miss Kate Coester, both well known actresses here, arrived from Australia by the last steamer. Miss Morris was a great favorite in Melbourne, and was the recipient of a most flattering testimonial at the Royal Theatre in that city just previous to her departure. Miss Kate Alma, a popular actress and singer in the Colonies, and Mr. Jerrold Stuart, a clever comedian, were also among the passengers.

Manager Edward Michael writes that his star, J. W. Pigott, has written a new and original 4-act drama, entitled Which Wins, that will be tried at a matinee at Terry's Theatre, London, June 12th. Mr. Pigott is the author of The Bookmaker, the American right of which has been bought by Nat Goodwin.

Nym Crinkle says, in the New York Mirror: "Dr. Beard, who studied this subject, once told me that the average career of a stage beauty is seven years. Jehosaphat! what a narrow span. She compresses all her triumphs in between adolescence and decline. You can measure her seasons in the number of her corpuscles. The handsomer she is the more ephemeral she is. Your smart, long-lived fellow always cries, 'In the name of all that's enduring bring me a homely woman!' And then he thinks of Cushman and Maggie Mitchell, embalmed geniuses, held in the amber of their own cleverness against all the changes of time. I always feel like shedding a private tear when I see a beautiful girl going into this business. She seems so short-lived. I'm not an old man myself, but what a stream of beauties I have seen go down this roiled current, like the gaudy leaves of autumn! Layer after layer of recollections like dead rose leaves in an old drawer. I never see a superbly fashioned girl come to the stage but I think of Joaquin Miller's line, 'She is damned with the dower of beauty.'"

It is a little two-line dispatch that tells us that John Gilbert is dying in New York. But it means much. John Gilbert is the veteran actor of Wallack's Company, and for more than a quarter of a century was New York's favorite comedian. He was to New York theatregoers what the late William Warren was to those of Boston. He has been in decline for months at his sister's house in New York. He is ripely four score, and weeks ago his physician, Dr. Gerriegan, expressed fears of his pulling through his present sickness at his time of life.

Brander Matthews and George H. Jessop have made a play for Mr. Crane to go it alone. It belongs to the class of plays to which "Forbidden Fruit" belongs, and the leading character is suggestive of Sergeant Buster, one of Crane's earliest and pronounced successes—but then Crane had such a capital foil in Robson in the opposing role. Will he find another like it in his new play?

Johnson & Slavin's Minstrels, playing the coast under M. B. Leavitt's management, hold dates at Seattle for the 12th and 13th.

The Jed Prouty company used a lithograph of a pair of boots as an advertisement, and gave no explanation, leaving it to be inferred, that they wiredly signified stand-

AMUSEMENTS, ETC.

Leavitt's New Bush Street Theatre.

Lauri and Bell's Comedy Company in the original version of Haverly's "Strategists" constitute this week's bill, with Harry S. Bell as Jack Rutledge; whose experiments in strategy bring about so many comical episodes, involve not only himself but the whole company in complications, and become infectious.

The Call says: "Our Strategists is a well-constructed comedy and full of funny surprises, carried on chiefly by the Rutledges, father and son, and each without the knowledge of the other. The house roared with laughter at the different scenes and incidents," and the Chronicle lauds "The Strategists" as "the comedy which in its time has raised as hearty laughter as any piece that was ever played." It certainly is a fund of amusement that keeps its audiences in good humor to the end.

The comedy gives plenty of opportunities for situations, and Harry Bell, Geo. Lauri, Miss Marietta Nash, Miss Van Name and the company generally work them up to the best advantage.

Benefits for the Sufferers by the Flood.

The California Athletic Club gave a grand athletic entertainment at the Mechanics' Pavilion Monday evening. The best boxing talent of the country appeared, including Jack Dempsey, Jimmy Carroll, Tommy Warren, Joseph Acton, La Blanche, McAuliffe, and every "scientific" man in the country of note. The event and the cause filled the Pavilion, and the handsome sum of $3,000 was netted for the Johnstown unfortunates.

Wednesday evening, June 12th, a grand popular concert will be given by the Philharmonic Society of San Francisco, at the Grand Opera House, under the directorship of Hermann Brandt, assisted by prominent artists.

Alcazar Theatre.

This week's attraction will be Mr. Henry Lee in his change play, The Cavalier, in which he assumes seven different costumed characters. Mr. Lee has a strong array of talent in support of this picturesque play. The cast includes Miss Ethel Brandon, Miss Emma Wilmott, L. R. Stockwell, Fred Rose, J. J. Wallace, Harry Mainhall, Albert Hosmer and Louis Belmour.

Mr. Lee is an actor of good dramatic power, he has a good voice and reads well. Of the various disguises he assumes, that of the song vender is the best; but they are all presented with marked fidelity to D'Ennery's idea. Miss Ethel Brandon and Miss Emma Wilmott play their parts admirably. Harry Mainhall, L. R. Stockwell and J. J. Wallace render strong support.

The play is finely staged and every care has been taken by the management to correctness, even in the smallest detail. The Cavalier will run but one week.

J. B. Polk follows in Mixed Pickles, a farce-comedy that has been received with great favor during his tour Westward.

New California Theatre.

Richard Golden opened this week in "Old Jed Prouty," a Yankee play, of which the New York Herald said his "Old Jed comes nearer to nature than Denman Thompson's Joshua Whitcomb." It sprang into popularity at once in New York, and as Messrs. Harris & Rich, its Eastern proprietors and managers, send us the New York cast, original properties and scenic effects intact, we shall have it here at its best.

Richard Golden's New Englander antedates Joshua Whitcomb as he first introduced "Old Jed" in a sketch act in St. John, New Brunswick, in 1869. It again cropped out in 1875, but never as a full-fledged dramatic lead until Golden & Gill developed it in its present shape. Its appointments are genuine ones, and belong to the Prouty family, of Bucksport, Maine; the rug used was made by an ancient spinster clept Tribulation Prouty; the piano, used 100 years ago, was the property of Joshua Prouty; the old boots Golden drags around were worn by George A. Prouty, and the old fire engine Derigo No. 6 did service in Bucksport more than 75 years ago. The properties form quite a study in the antique.

Mr. Golden is natural all through. The character drawing is excellent, and the costumes and make-ups good, and the cast is strong throughout. The piece is as clean and healthy as fresh-mown hay, and will without doubt

Standard Theatre.

The Standard Theatre was re-opened under the management of Mr. Fredrick Mitchell, Saturday night, with Edwin Thorne as D'Artagnan, in The Three Guardsmen, the impetuous hero of Dumas' famous story, and one of its best impersonators on the stage. Mr. Thorne is supported by J. W. Thompson, one of the best of Athos, Horace Ewing, Edward Loring, E. N. Thayer, Miss Clyde Heron, Miss Belle Chippendale, Miss May Nannery and others. The gentlemen do fair work; the ladies render strong support.

The grand old drama is finely staged with new scenery by Thos. G. Moses, who painted the stock scenes and those for the Booth-Barrett Hamlet at the New California Theatre. The drama was effectively given, and the theatre was filled to the doors.

For cast see programme in adjacent column.

Mr. W. F. Rochester is the acting manager; a guarantee that everything will be well done.

The season will be at popular prices, 25, 50 and 75 cents, and starts out for an extended one.

The Standard has undergone a complete renovation. Gangs of workmen have placed the theatre in complete order, inside and out, prior to the opening.

Orpheum Opera House.

Atkinson's Comedy Company, in "Peck's Bad Boy," with J. J. Williams in the title role, the original of the character, returns to the Orpheum, for one week only, this week. This company is strongly organized in company and specialties. On its first visit here it proved the greatest comedy success ever at the Orpheum, and has done the biggest kind of business everywhere.

We congratulate Managers Edwin and Charley Bert upon having developed so productive a dramatic bonanza.

The Battle of Vicksburg.

The grand panorama of the Battle of Vicksburg at the Panorama Building, corner of Eddy and Mason streets, is one that no American should fail to see. It gives a grand view of the battle with the conflict at its height on the land and the bombardment from the river with the correct positions of the engaging forces and the proper placement of the ironclads in the bombardment. It is a great painting, and excels the Battle of Waterloo in graphic power and vivid reality. Destruction reigns on every side. The burning buildings, the bursting shells, the desperate charges, the hand-to-hand conflicts, and the dying and wounded, all depict with startling realism one of the hottest conflicts in history.

Open from 9 A. M. to 6 P. M.

Morosco's Amphitheatre.

Managers Morosco & Byrnes have put in a most complete fireproof partition between the stage and the auditorium, from wall to wall of their big theatre. It is constructed of iron lathings on both sides of the studding. The decorators have finished the immense ceiling of the theatre with harmonious panels.

This week, The Confederate Spy, a national historical drama, will be the attraction.

Manager Morosco understands the tastes of his patrons. He presents attractive plays with a fully competent company, and the results are satisfactory to both manager and people.

Matinees Sundays, at 2 P. M. Admission, 10 cents. Front reserved seats 10 cents extra.

Bella Union Theatre.

The new people for this week are: Flora Hastings, Helen Conklin, Conlon & Dougherty and Billy Akarman.

The ladies of the company come in for a full share of the applause and crowd the male contingent very closely.

Billy Akarman's funny comedy sketch, The Red-Headed Girl and the White Turkey, and The Sculptor's Studio are important features of the bill.

Billy Akarman resumes his old position of stage manager this week.

Tuesday evening, June 11th, a grand glove contest will take place between Billy Mahan of San Francisco and Jack Sullivan of San Diego.

Friday nights are devoted to amateurs, and some of the novices have shown decided talent, and as they are ambitious they will soon be classed among the professionals.

Hallinan's Cremorne Theatre.

Ned Nestell, the Old Soldier, has gone back into harness and is managing the stage in his usual manner, making himself a favorite with all.

This week another strong bill is presented. Among the people engaged for the week are: Sam Dearing and Conlon & Dougherty the new faces.

Berkeley & Howard, Fitz & Devine, Hayes & Marion, Sadie Fairfield and May Morrell are still reigning favorites.

Jack the Ripper is the comedy for the week.

A grand glove contest will be the attraction every Tuesday and Friday evening.

Commencing Friday evening, June 14, every Friday night will be set apart for amateur talent. Any one wishing to appear, can do so by applying by letter, or in person, to Manager Nestell.

Original Theatre Comique.

The Comique presents an entire new bill this week, with songs and afterpiece. Numerous new novelties are produced by the various artists every evening and especial attention is paid to the first part.

This week the entertainment begins with selections by the entire company. Charles Morrell has new banjo songs and an entire change of witty sayings for the entertainment of the Comique's patrons.

Matt Trayers, the German Democrat, appears this week in original songs and sayings.

The comical farce-comedy, The Serenaders, is the interlude act.

The laughable farce, The Picnic, with all the company in the cast, concludes the bill and the evening's fun.

The Comique's company is a strong one. It is a neat, compact minor theatre, and for many years has been a popular one.

Eureka Music Hall.

This is one of the neatest and most popular of our minor theatres. Manager Walterstein runs a very strong company.

Mr. Chas. Rice becomes stage manager this week.

Lulu Howard, Pearl Iols, Stella Merriam, Ed Soldene, W. Baker, Chas. Rice and A. J. McNiece.

The first part introduces the entire company in new and pleasing selections. Rice & Everett appear in their original sketch, Upside Down, introducing songs, dances and medleys, A. J. McNiece gives one of his original specialties, and W. Baker in his lightning change act.

The Can-Can is retained on the bill. New songs and dances and all the original business have been introduced, making the bill stronger than ever.

The Eureka gives a matinee every Sunday.

Sunday, June 16th, grand picnic and ball of the Beer-Brewers' Union at Seaside Gardens.

Sunday Excursions on the Bay.

The steamer Tamalpais, renovated and placed in complete order, will make family excursions every Sunday during the season to Mare Island, Vallejo and Martinez; leaving Sausalito ferry slip, foot of Olay street, at 10 15 A. M., and returning at 7 30 P. M. Tickets, for the round trip, 50 cents; children, 25 cents. This includes an enjoyable thirty-mile sail through San Francisco and San Pablo bays and the Straits of Carquinez. The U. S. First Infantry Band will furnish the music. Lunches on the boat at city prices. The comfort of the excursions, under the management of P. H. Hink, will be properly looked after.

Some of the Eastern critics have accused Mr. Golden of copying Denman Thompson's old New Englander, and in so doing they have shown how little one may know of the subject he writes about. Golden played Prouty in a little sketch years before Joshua Whitcomb grew famous, and he plays the part now just as he did then. He has never seen Mr. Thompson act, but always avoided that pleasure, lest he might drift away from his own idea of the character. Prouty has been Golden's dream from his earliest stage days, and it promises to turn out a Golden dream indeed.

A well-known theatrical manager, who has been out of the country for the past three months, returned last week and on looking over the routes of the dramatic companies found out his wife's address and wrote her a letter. In a few days he received the following answer: "Mr.——, I was more than astonished to receive your letter. You surely have heard of my divorce, and remarriage to Mr.——. With best wishes, yours, M." He had not heard of it; but opened wine for the house.

A very singular story is told that George A. Westerkill, of Chicago, fell dead after gazing at a photograph of Lydia Thompson. The telegraphic statements are somewhat vague, but they amount to this: Westerkill attired himself in full dress, with a new shirt and white necktie, put a moss rosebud in his lapel, dyed his mustache took the picture of Lydia Thompson, and slowly raising it to his eyes, fixed his gaze upon it and fell dead. He evidently kept it in the house for that purpose.

M. B. Leavitt has brought suit against Lydia Thompson for $3 500, due him as partner of the Lydia Thompson Burlesque company. Mr. Leavitt lost a great deal of money in pulling the show around the country, and he proposes to make the fair Lydia pay her share of the loss.

Palmer has arranged with Kate Claxton to produce Bootle's Baby at Madison Sq., New York, about August 1st. The same play is promised us at the Alcazar, in this city, with Mabel Bowman as the child.

George Fawcett Rowe has entirely recovered his health, and will do the United States again in September with Little Em'ly, Brass and Jingles his old stand-bys.

Sol Berliner has definitely determined to take A Noble Son on the road next sea-

EVENING EDITION

WEDNESDAY.....JUNE 12, 1889

FULL PROGRAMMES of all the Leading Theatre in San Francisco can be found in FIGARO—the only paper that has them.

E. L. DAVENPORT.

E. L. Davenport was the Adm. Chichon of the American stage. A man of genius, greatest in versatility and one of our greatest actors. His Hamlet was only excelled in public estimation by Booth's, though many old-time professionals still claim Davenport's Hamlet as the best. When Salvini first came to this country he expressed a desire to be introduced to Davenport, after his wonderful performance as the Prince. He was taken behind the scenes, jumped on our great Hamlet, and simply said, "Anima! anima (Soul! soul!)!" Davenport's versatility was miraculous, and eventually cheapened him. He could play Bill Sykes in a way to make Dickens shiver, and then play Fagan better than J. W. Wallack, which is saying a great deal. No such mixture of tragedy and comedy has been known to our stage. He was as good as Fechter in "Monte Cristo," finer than Booth as Iago, matchless in "Richard III," superior, mentally, to Forrest as Lear and Damon, yet he could play Aranza, light leading gentleman, and low comedy. His Sir Giles Overreach could not have been surpassed. Like all great artists he was always a trifle different. When old, at Booth's theatre, he played Brutus. His magnificent voice was almost gone, but in the quarrel scene he looked like some grand St. Bernard listening to the snarling of Cassius—Barrett. I remember his Louis XI. He was unique and is totally underrated.

SPECIALTY SQUIBS.

The Theatre Royal, Portland, is closed for repairs. It will reopen again in a few weeks.

Theatre Comique, Spokane Falls, June 10th: Foster & Fowler. Talbot & Cunningham, Vanola, the juggler, and McCoy & McEvoy new. A grand matinee benefit tendered the Seattle sufferers will take place June 13th at the Falls City Opera House, under the auspices of the Spokane Fire Department. The McGrane Novelty Co. are among the volunteers.

The Orpheum will introduce "The Orpheum's Own Impersonation," a company organized in New York especially for it, on the 17th inst.

The Blocketts, the well-known ærial artists, are great favorites on the Southern circuit.

Thatcher, Primrose & West's Minstrels—the Primrose of minstrelsy—open at the California on the 24th inst.

Dockstader's Minstrels will play in New York nearly all of next season.

The Comique presents an entire new bill this week. Charley Morrell and John Cook contribute excellent specialty turns, and J. H. Burns is good in character parts.

Charlie Reed will be due here on Saturday. He is engaged by the Alcazar management to support Ned Harrigan, to open July 1st for eight weeks.

Recent stories about Harry Courtaine's ill-health are unfounded. He will remain with Frank Daniels' Little Puck Company next season.

An actor's luck is illustrated by the terrible accident at Johnstown, where a company played, and being too late to catch the train for the next town, hired wagons to transport them just in time to escape certain death. In spite of the fact that actors travel more than any other profession, none seem ever to get hurt in any kind of accident. It's a hard thing to kill an actor.

Dixey opens in his new burlesque at the Standard, New York, next fall. He and William Gill are working hard at the piece. In it Dixey will play a number of characters, but the principal among them will be an old man, a judge.

E. J. Buckley has sailed for San Francisco on the Pacific Mail steamship City of Para.

Barton Hill who has been specially engaged to play the part of Malvolio to Marie Wainwright's Viola next season, was one of the managers of the old California Theatre.

PROFESSIONAL PICKINGS.

J. B. Polk and company arrive to-night direct from Salt Lake.

The Black Flag is underlined as the next attraction at the Standard.

Thatcher, Primrose & West's Minstrels are doing an immense Westward-ho business.

Joseph Murphy will play four weeks at the New California Theatre in July. Mr. Murphy will not play next season. He has become quite an adept at landscape painting, and devotes all his leisure to it.

Patti's eighth farewell season in America will open December 5th.

The first night subscription sale at the Baldwin for the opening of the season and the three first nights of the Lyceum Theatre Co.—The Wife, Sweet Lavender and The Marquise—amounted at noon to-day to $2 170.

Miss Sadie Stringham has been engaged for the Mrs. Bowers Co.

Muldoon, the wrestler, is the principal attraction in J. W. Morrissey's N. Y. production of Martha.

Refusing an encore, Miss Charlotte Behrens is a California young lady of unquestioned dramatic talent who made her debut here as Camille about five years ago. She is one of California's many successes, and now holds the position of leading lady in Mantell's company. The following incident we clip from an Eastern exchange: "During one of Robert Mantell's recent matinee performances of Monbars, a scene was enacted which was not on the play bill, and which will not be repeated even by request. The curtain falls at the end of the last act on the dead body of the villain Laurent, and on Miss Charlotte Behrens, the heroine. In walking backward across the stage, Miss Behrens stumbled over the dead man and sat down with great force and heaviness upon the villain's upturned waistcoat. The involuntary groan of the unfortunate corpse was audible to the whole audience, and in spite of an uproarious demand for an encore, neither of the actors could be tempted to appear again before the curtain.

Lotta's condition of health continues to give considerable uneasiness to her friends. She was on the road to recovery a week or ten days ago, when her own anxiety to get out of the house induced her to do so in the face of her physician's warning. The result was a relapse, and she is now confined absolutely to her room.

Stuart Robson's tour next season will begin in Chicago next September. He will open in a new play by Steele Mackaye, which will probably be named "An Arrant Knave." Mr. Robson will be surrounded by a very strong company, including Mr. Frank Mordaunt, who will appear in Mr. Crane's part in The Henrietta.

A fire was discovered in one of the cars of the "Twelve Temptations" spectacle, en route from Salt Lake to this city, but was quickly kicked out. It only burned the edges of some of the "Temptating" scenery.

Lewis Morrison, en route with his New York company to our Bijou Theatre, telegraphs Manager White that they will lay over a day in Chicago, and will turn up all O. K. here on Friday night.

The hip, hip, hurrah, enthusiasm of the Irish race was shown at a recent performance in Dublin, where Scanlan received eleven encores when singing one of his songs. If he had ever got thirteen it would have killed him.

Miss Isabel Morris and Miss Kate Chester, both well known actresses here, arrived from Australia by the last steamer. Miss Morris was a great favorite in Melbourne, and was the recipient of a most flattering testimonial at the Royal Theatre in that city just previous to her departure. Miss Kate Aimé, a popular actress and singer in the Colonies, and Mr. Jerrold Stuart, a clever comedian, were also among the passengers.

It is a little two-line dispatch that tells us that John Gilbert is dying in New York. But it means much. John Gilbert is the veteran actor of Wallack's Company, and for more than a quarter of a century was New York's favorite comedian. He was to New York theatregoers what the late William Warren was to those of Boston. He has been in decline for months at his sister's house in New York. He is ripely four score, and weeks ago his physician, Dr. Gerriegan, expressed fears of his pulling through his present sickness at his time of life.

Brander Matthews and George H. Jessop have made a play for Mr. Crane to go it alone. It belongs to the class of plays to which "Forbidden Fruit" belongs, and the leading character is suggestive of Sergeant Buster, one of Crane's earliest and pronounced successes—but then Crane had such a capital foil in Robson in the opposing role. Will he find another like it in his new play?

Gilmore's "Twelve Temptations" Co. arrived in town Tuesday, and will be busy in placing their scenery and appointments on the big stage of the Grand Opera House, and rehearsing their spectacle for its production on Sunday night, the 16th.

The laughable comedy of "The Strategists" will be this week's bill at the Bush, with Marietta Nash and company in the cast.

The stock company organized in New York for the Bijou Theatre by Mazo Edwards will be due here on Friday.

Frank Hoogs, formerly of the Baldwin, will be the treasurer for the new season at the Bijou Theatre.

Eastern divorce lawyers are making an addition to their advertisements. They now read: "Divorces quietly obtained.

AMUSEMENTS, ETC.

Leavitt's New Bush Street Theatre.

Lauri and Bell's Comedy Company in the original version of Haverly's "Strategists" constitute this week's bill, with Harry B. Bell as Jack Rutledge; whose experiments in strategy bring about so many comical episodes, involve not only himself but the whole company in complications, and become infectious.

The Call says: "Our Strategists is a well-constructed comedy and full of funny surprises carried on chiefly by the Rutledges, father and son, and even without the knowledge of the other. The house roared with laughter at the different scenes and incidents," and the Chronicle lauds "The Strategists" as "the comedy which in its time has raised as hearty laughter as any piece that was ever played." It certainly is a fund of amusement that keeps its audiences in good humor to the end.

The comedy gives plenty of opportunities for situations, and Harry Bell, Geo. Lauri, Miss Marietta Nash, Miss Van Name and the company generally work them up to the best advantage.

Grand Opera House.

On this Wednesday evening, a grand popular concert will be given by the Philharmonic Society of San Francisco, at the Grand Opera House, under the directorship of Hermann Brandt, assisted by prominent artists, for the benefit of the Pennsylvania sufferers.

Alcazar Theatre.

This week's attraction will be Mr. Henry Lee in his change play, The Cavalier, in which he assumes seven different costumed characters. Mr. Lee has a strong array of talent in support of this picturesque play. The cast includes Miss Ethel Brandon, Miss Emma Wilmott, L. R. Stockwell, Fred Rose, J. J. Wallace, Harry Mainhall, Albert Hosmer and Louis Helmour.

Mr. Lee is an actor of good dramatic power; he has a good voice and reads well. Of the various disguises he assumes, that of the song vender is the best; but they are all presented with marked fidelity to D'Ennery's idea. Miss Ethel Brandon and Miss Emma Wilmott play their parts admirably. Harry Mainhall, L. R. Stockwell and J. J. Wallace render strong support.

The play is finely staged and every care has been taken by the management to correctness, even in the smallest detail. The Cavalier will run but one week.

J. B. Polk follows in Mixed Pickles, a farce-comedy that has been received with great favor in every section of the Union.

New California Theatre.

Richard Golden opened this week in "Old Jed Prouty," a Yankee play, of which the New York Herald said his "Old Jed comes nearer to nature than Denman Thompson's Joshua Whitcomb." It sprang into popularity at once in New York, and as Messrs. Harris & Rich, its Eastern proprietors and managers, send us the New York cast, original properties and scenic effects intact, we have it here at its best.

Richard Golden's New Englander anti-dates Joshua Whitcomb, as he first introduced "Old Jed" in a sketch act in St. John, New Brunswick, in 1869. It again cropped out in 1875, but never as a full-fledged dramatic lead until Golden & Gill developed it in its present shape. Its appointments are genuine ones, and belong to the Prouty family, of Bucksport, Maine; the rug used was made by an ancient spinster clypt Tribulation Prouty; the piano, used 100 years ago, was the property of Joshua Prouty; the old boots Golden drags around were worn by George A. Prouty, and the old fire engine Derigo No. 6 did service in Bucksport more than 75 years ago. The properties form quite a study in the antique.

Mr. Golden is natural all through. The character drawing is excellent, and the costumes and make-ups good. The cast is strong throughout. The piece is as clean and healthy as fresh-mown hay, and will without doubt draw full houses.

Standard Theatre.

The Standard Theatre was re-opened under the management of Mr. Fredrick Mitchell, Saturday night, with Edwin Thorne as D'Artagnan, in The Three Guardsmen, the impetuous hero of Dumas' famous story, and one of its best impersonators on the stage. Mr. Thorne is supported by J. W. Thompson, one of the best of Athos, Horace Ewing, Edward Loring, E. N. Thayer, Miss Clyde Heron, Miss Belle Chippendale, Miss May Nannery and others. The gentlemen do fair work; the ladies render strong support.

The grand old drama is finely staged with [illegible] Thos. G. Moses, who painted he stock scenes and those for the Booth-Barrett Hamlet at the New California Theatre. The drama was effectively given, and business has been satisfactory.

For cast see programme in adjacent column.

Edwin Thorn's strong melodrama, "The Black Flag," effectively cast and carefully produced, will form next week's bill. This drama is one of stirring incidents and intense dramatic interest.

Mr. W. F. Rochester is the acting manager; a guarantee that everything will be well done.

The season will be at popular prices, 25, 50 and 75 cents, and starts out for an extended one.

The Standard has undergone a complete renovation. Gangs of workmen have placed the theatre in complete order, inside and out.

Orpheum Opera House.

Atkinson's Comedy Company, in "Peck's Bad Boy," with J. J. Williams in the title role, the original of the character, returns to the Orpheum, for one week only, this week. This company is strongly organized in company and specialties. On its first visit here it proved the greatest comedy success ever at the Orpheum and has done the biggest kind of business everywhere.

The Orpheum is packed to the doors, and is played so well that the audiences are in laughter half the time.

We congratulate Managers Edwin and Charley Bert upon having developed so productive a dramatic bonanza.

Next week, Managers Walter & Co. present "The Orpheum's Own Importation" of Eastern talent that they estimate highly enough to give to it the title of their popular theatre.

The Battle of Vicksburg.

The grand panorama of the Battle of Vicksburg at the Panorama Building, corner of Eddy and Mason streets, is one that no American should fail to see. It gives a grand view of the battle with the conflict at its height on the land and the bombardment from the river with the correct positions of the engaging forces and the proper placement of the ironclads in the bombardment. It is a great painting, and excels the Battle of Waterloo in graphic power and vivid reality. Destruction reigns on every side. The burning buildings, the bursting shells, the desperate charges, the hand-to-hand conflicts, and the dying and wounded, all depict with startling realism one of the hottest conflicts in history.

Open from 9 A. M. to 6 P. M.

Morosco's Amphitheatre.

Managers Morosco & Byrnes have put in a most complete fireproof partition between the stage and the auditorium, from wall to wall of their big theatre. It is constructed of iron lathings on both sides of the studding. The decorators have finished the immense ceiling of the theatre with harmonious panels.

This week, The Confederate Spy, a national historical drama, will be the attraction.

Manager Morosco understands the tastes of his patrons. He presents attractive plays with a fully competent company, and the results are satisfactory to both manager and people.

Matinees Sundays, at 2 P. M. Admission, 10 cents. Front reserved seats 10 cents extra.

Bella Union Theatre.

The new people for this week are: Flora Hastings, Helen Conklin, Conlon & Dougherty and Billy Akarman.

The ladies of the company come in for a full share of the applause and crowd the male contingent very closely.

Billy Akarman's funny comedy sketch, The Red-Headed Girl and the White Turkey, and The Sculptor's Studio are important features of the bill.

Billy Akarman resumes his old position of stage manager this week.

Friday nights are devoted to amateurs, and some of the novices have shown decided talent, and as they are ambitious they will soon be classed among the professionals.

Hallinan's Cremorne Theatre.

Ned Nestell, the Old Soldier, has gone back into harness and is managing the stage in his usual manner, making himself a favorite with all.

This week another strong bill is presented. Among the people engaged for the week are: Sam Dearing and Conlon & Dougherty the new faces.

Berkeley & Howard, Fitz & Devine, Hayes & Marion, Sadie Fairfield and May Morrell are still reigning favorites.

Jack the Ripper is the comedy for the week.

A grand glove contest will be the attraction every Tuesday and Friday evening.

Commencing Friday evening, June 14, every Friday night will be set apart for amateur talent. Any one wishing to appear, can do so by applying by letter, or in person, to Manager Nestell.

Original Theatre Comique.

The Comique presents an entire new bill this week, with songs and afterpiece. Numerous new novelties are produced by the various artists every evening and especial attention is paid to the first part.

This week the entertainment begins with selections by the entire company. Charles Morrell has new banjo songs and an entire change of witty sayings for the entertainment of the Comique's patrons.

Matt Trayers, the German Democrat, appears this week in original songs and sayings.

The comical farce-comedy, The Serenaders, is the interlude act.

The laughable farce, The Picnic, with all the company in the cast, concludes the bill and the evening's fun.

The Comique's company is a strong one. It is a neat, compact minor theatre, and for many years has been a popular one.

Eureka Music Hall.

This is one of the neatest and most popular of our minor theatres. Manager Walterstein runs a very strong company.

Mr. Chas. Rice becomes stage manager this week.

Lillie Mason, Laura White, Cora Everett, Lulu Howard, Pearl Iola, Stella Merriam, Ed Soldene, W. Baker, Chas. Rice and A. J. McNiece.

The first part introduces the entire company in new and pleasing selections. Rice & Everett appear in their original sketch, Upside Down, introducing songs, dances and medleys, A. J. McNiece gives one of his original specialties, and W. Baker in his lightning change act.

The Can-Can is retained on the bill. New songs and dances and all the original business have been introduced, making the bill stronger than ever.

The Eureka gives a matinee every Sunday.

Sunday, June 16th, grand picnic and ball of the Beer-Brewers' Union at Seaside Gardens.

Sunday Excursions on the Bay.

The steamer Tamalpais, renovated and placed in complete order, will make family excursions every Sunday during the season to Mare Island, Vallejo and Martinez; leaving Sausalito ferry slip, foot of Clay street, at 10.15 A. M., and returning at 7.30 P. M. Tickets, for the round trip, 50 cents; children, 25 cents. This includes an enjoyable thirty-mile sail through San Francisco and San Pablo bays and the Straits of Carquinez. The U. S. First Infantry Band will furnish the music. Lunches on the boat at city prices. The comfort of the excursion, under the management of P. H. Hink, will be properly looked after.

Frank Mayo will make a plunge with Davy Crockett next season. He will open in the old stand-by at Buffalo. His recent season was not profitable. Through several years Mr. Mayo has been trying to make Nordeck a financial success—artistic it certainly was from the outset. The fates were against him, and he now reluctantly shelves the play, and as reluctantly returns to Crockett, of which he long ago tired.

Lost in Africa a spectacular melodrama adopted from the French by Howard P. Taylor, is one of the novelties promised for next season by Frederick W. Bart the veteran California manager. The new play will be given with a strong cast and elaborate, scenic and mechanical effects including a realistic and sensational shipwreck in mid-ocean.

Two members of the original Vokes Family are dead—a brother and a sister. Next season the two surviving members, Rosina and Victoria, will head their own companies in this country. Fawdon Vokes, the fifth member of the famous quintette, was a hired performer, and nothing akin to the family.

George Richards, one of Hoyt and Thomas' comedians, and well known as the Stranger, in A Hole in the Ground, has purchased a summer residence in Coarlestown, N. H., adjoining that of Charles H. Hoyt.

George W. Lederer is nearing London, to engage the best obtainable talent for Herrmann's Transatlantic Vaudevilles.

Some of the Eastern critics have accused Mr. Golden of not copying Denman Thompson's old New Englander and in so doing they have shown how little one may know of the subject he writes about. Golden played Prouty in a little sketch years before Joshua Whitcomb grew famous, and he plays the part now just as he did then. He has never seen Mr. Thompson act, but always avoided that pleasure, lest he might drift away from his own idea of the character. Prouty has been Golden's dream from his earliest stage days, and it promises to turn out a Golden dream indeed.

A well-known theatrical manager, who has been out of the country for the past three months, returned last week and on looking over the routes of the dramatic companies found out his wife's address and wrote her a letter. In a few days he received the following answer: "Mr.——, I was more than astonished to receive your letter. You surely have heard of my divorce, and remarriage to Mr.——. With best wishes, yours, M." He had not heard of it; but opened wine for the house.

Palmer has arranged with Kate Claxton to produce Bootle's Baby at Madison Sq., New York, about August 1st. The same play is promised us at the Alcazar, in this city, with Mabel Bowman as the child.

Sol Berliner has definitely determined to take A Noble Son on the road next season, with E. J. Buckley as the star.

J. K. Emmett has composed another new lullaby entitled, Sleep, Baby, Sleep.

Good Lady (visiting the Home of the Inebriates — Poor man! How he groans! What is the matter with him, nurse? Nurse—He's got the delirium tremens. Good Lady (to man) — My friend, you should give up strong drink. Don't you know that you would be happier, and have more pleasure without it?

EVENING EDITION

THURSDAY.....JUNE 13, 1889

FULL PROGRAMMES of all the Leading Theatre in San Francisco can be found in FIGARO—the only paper that has them.

PROFESSIONAL PICKINGS.

After "Twelve Tempts" at the Grand comes Lillian Gray's Colossal Gaiety Co. Stand from under.

John V. White, a well known Eastern manager, at one time connected with the Madison Square Theatre, now manager of the Bijou Theatre in this city, announces its opening on the 22nd of June, with Lewis Morrison and Co. in The Celebrated Case. Mr. White has taken the Bijou for a term, and has a line of attractions engaged. Frank L. Hoogs is treasurer.

The Tivoli management proposes to celebrate the tenth anniversary of the now famous local opera house by a revival of "Pinafore," with as many of the old singers in the cast as can be gathered together. The anniversary takes place in July.

The Twelve Temptations Co. arrived here Tuesday, and have had ample time to repair the damages done to scenery and costumes by their car catching fire just the other side of Elko. Some of the scenery was blackened and burnt a little on the exposed edges and some of the costumes were damaged. The scenery has been restored and new costumes will be ready, where needed, for the opening Sunday night.

The first night subscription sale at the Baldwin for the opening of the season and the three first nights of the Lyceum Theatre Co.—The Wife, Sweet Lavender and The Marquise—yesterday amounted to over $2 400.

The Black Flag, Thorne's strong piece, will be next week's attraction at the Standard.

Judge Lawrence, of the Supreme Court of New York, has decided in favor of Henry Gillig in a suit against Lawrence Barrett and Edwin Booth. The court held that Barrett pledged to give Gillig personally 10 per cent of his net earnings in return for arranging the acceptance of Barrett's paper. Gillig produced a letter from Barrett to that effect. Gillig's percentage will amount to $20,000. Booth was included in the suit only as a means of ascertaining Barrett's earnings since March, 1885

Lewis Morrison, en route with his New York company to our Bijou Theatre, telegraphs Manager White that they will lay over a day in Chicago, and will turn up all O. K. here on Friday night.

Charlie Reed will be due here on Saturday. He is engaged by the Alcazar management to support Ned Harrigan, to open July 1st for eight weeks.

J. B. Polk and company arrive to-night direct from Salt Lake.

Thatcher, Primrose & West's Minstrels are doing an immense Westward-ho business.

Joseph Murphy will play four weeks at the New California Theatre in July. Mr. Murphy will not play next season. He has become quite an adept at landscape painting, and devotes all his leisure to it.

Miss Sadie Stringham has been engaged for the Mrs. Bowers Co.

Muldoon, the wrestler, is the principal attraction in J. W. Morrissey's N. Y. production of Martha.

Refusing an encore. Miss Charlotte Behrens is a California young lady of unquestioned dramatic talent who made her debut here as Camille about five years ago. She is one of California's many successes, and now holds the position of leading lady in Mantell's company. The following incident we clip from an Eastern exchange: "During one of Robert Mantell's recent matinee performances of Monbars, a scene was enacted which was not on the play bill, and which will not be repeated even by request. The curtain falls at the end of the last act on the dead body of the villain Laurent, and on Miss Charlotte Behrens, the heroine. In walking backward across the stage, Miss Behrens stumbled over the dead man and sat down with great force and heaviness upon the villain's upturned waistcoat. The involuntary groan of the unfortunate corpse was audible to the whole audience, and in spite of an uproarious demand for an encore, neither of the actors could be

THEATRICALS IN AUSTRALIA.

J. B. Gaylord, Barnum's old-time World foraging curiosity-hunter and circus manager, returned from Australia by the last steamer. Mr. Gaylord is at present engaged in the good missionary work of making converts to American shows in the great island continent. He sent Hicks' Minstrels out there early last Summer, and followed later on with the Silbon Combination, playing them jointly under his and Hiscock's management. He returns to arrange a first-class Wild West Show and Hippodrome and take it to Australia, where it must prove a great novelty; as they never had anything of the kind there before. He expects to have it organized and ready for embarkation early in September, and will exhibit it, circus fashion, under an immense tent.

Mr. Gaylord reports that the Silbons' New Zealand season did not make much of a record financially. They opened in too small a house in Sydney to show their act to advantage, but in Her Majesty's, at Melbourne, they had a theatre similar to our Grand Opera House and were in their glory. They did an immense three weeks' business—returns, $15,500.

They played in Adelaide to big business. Here Mr. Gaylord, full of his Wild West Show, sold out to the Silbons and returned to this country. He reports that the Silbons have prospects of playing the country to steady good business under Hiscock's management, and that Moulton & Dashway have proved very big cards in the company everywhere.

Hicks' Minstrels have done first rate and are thinking of returning soon.

THEATRICALS IN MELBOURNE.

At Princess Theatre the attraction was the opera of Pepeti, only a fair success. George C. Miln, the preacher-tragedian, opened at the Opera House, March 16th, in Richard III, and made the greatest hit of any Shakespearean actor since Barry Sullivan, playing to immense business for three weeks. He continued his engagement as Mark Antony, in Julius Cæsar, two weeks to overflowing houses—something unprecedented in Melbourne. One of the papers had a deprecating criticism on his opening, saying that "Shakespeare meant ruin in Melbourne." When Mr. Gaylord left Miln was continuing his success in Hamlet, and kept at the head of his bills that mis-applied quotation. He had cleared $10,000 on his Melbourne engagement before the Hamlet period of it

At the Royal, in Melbourne, Bland Holt opened the season in the drama, "The Ruling Pasha," which proved a non-success. This was followed with "The Union Jack," another new play and another failure.

At the Alexandria, Dampier was playing to good business.

SYDNEY THEATRES.

At the Royal the pantomime of "Sinbad the Sailor" was doing very well.

George Rignold was playing English pieces at Her Majesty's to regular good business.

At the Criterion, Brough and Dot Boucicault were playing "Ma'ma," a comedy, to big business.

At the Gaiety John F. Sheridan was giving them his Widow O'Brien in "Fun on the Bristol" to fair business.

At Adelaide a new comedy company from England was playing with success. So it will be seen that theatrical business in Australia is like our own, generally healthy, with some failures to record.

SPECIALTY SQUIBS.

The Haverly-Cleveland Minstrels closed their season at Lockport, N. Y., June 1st, after being out about forty-six weeks. Mr. Cleveland reports good business throughout the entire season.

Ferguson & Mack's Comedy Co. have made a hit with their new play, "McCarthy's Mishaps," at the Windsor Theatre, N. Y. One of the successful features of the piece is Lizzie Daly's peculiar dance. John Marr, Hughey Dougherty and John Hart are among the people included in the cast.

The Theatre Royal, Portland, is closed for repairs. It will reopen again in a few weeks.

Theatre Comique, Spokane Falls, June 10th: Foster & Fowler, Talbot & Cunningham, Vanola, the juggler, and McCoy & McEvoy new. A grand matinee benefit tendered the Seattle sufferers took place to-day at the Falls City Opera House, under the auspices of the Spokane Fire Department. The McGrane Novelty Co. were among the volunteers.

The Orpheum will introduce "The Orpheum's Own Importation," a company organized in New York especially for it, on the 17th inst.

Dockstader's Minstrels will play in New York nearly all of next season.

The Comique presents an entire new bill this week. Charley Morrell and John Cook contribute excellent specialty turns, and J. H. Burns is good in character parts.

Lotta's condition of health continues to give considerable uneasiness to her friends. She was on the road to recovery a week or ten days ago, when her own anxiety to get out of the house induced her to do so in the face of her physician's warning. The result was a relapse, and she is now confined absolutely to her room.

Stuart Robson's tour next season will begin in Chicago next September. He will open in a new play by Steele Mackaye, which will probably be named "An Arrant Knave." Mr. Robson will be surrounded by a very strong company, including Mr. Frank Mordaunt, who will

AMUSEMENTS, ETC.

Leavitt's New Bush Street Theatre.

Lauri and Bell's Comedy Company in the original version of Haverly's "Strategists" constitute this week's bill, with Harry D. Bell as Jack Rutledge; whose experiments in strategy bring about so many comical episodes, involve not only himself but the whole company in complications, and become infectious.

The Call says: "Our Strategists is a well-constructed comedy and full of funny situations carried on chiefly by the Rutledges, father and son, and each without the knowledge of the other. The house roared with laughter at the different scenes and incidents," and the Chronicle lauds "The Strategists" as "the comedy which in its time has raised as hearty laughter as any piece that was ever played." It certainly is a fund of amusement that keeps its audiences in good humor to the end.

The comedy gives plenty of opportunities for situations, and Harry Bell, Geo. Lauri, Miss Marietta Nash, Miss Van Name and the company generally work them up to the best advantage.

Baldwin Theatre.

The Baldwin Theatre reopens with the commencement of its Seventh Season next week with Dan'l Frohman's New York Lyceum Theatre Company in the domestic comedy of "The Wife." It proved a great card here last Summer, and as it has the same people in the cast again, its success is assured.

Alcazar Theatre.

This week's attraction will be Mr. Henry Lee in his change play, The Cavalier, in which he assumes seven different costumed characters. Mr. Lee has a strong array of talent in support of this picturesque play. The cast includes Miss Ethel Brandon, Miss Emma Wilmott, I. B. Stockwell, Fred Ross, J. J. Wallace, Harry Mainhall, Albert Hosmer and Louis Belmour.

Mr. Lee is an actor of good dramatic power; he has a good voice and reads well. Of the various disguises he assumes, that of the song vender is the best; but they are all presented with marked fidelity to D'Ennery's idea. Miss Ethel Brandon and Miss Emma Wilmott play their parts admirably. Harry Mainhall, I. B. Stockwell and J. J. Wallace render strong support.

The play is finely staged and every care has been taken by the management to correctness, even in the smallest detail. The Cavalier will run but one week

J. B. Polk follows in Mixed Pickles, a farce-comedy that has been received with great favor in every section of the Union.

New California Theatre.

Richard Golden opened this week in "Old Jed Prouty," a Yankee play, of which the New York Herald said his "Old Jed comes nearer to nature than Denman Thompson's Joshua Whitcomb." It sprang into popularity at once in New York, and as Messrs. Harris & Rich, its Eastern proprietors and managers, send us the New York cast, original properties and scenic effects intact, we have it here at its best.

Richard Golden's New Englander anti-dates Joshua Whitcomb, as he first introduced "Old Jed" in a sketch act in St. John, New Brunswick in 1869. It again cropped out in 1875, but never as a full fledged dramatic lead until Golden & Gill developed it in its present shape. Its appointments are genuine ones, and belong to the Prouty family, of Bucksport, Maine; the rug used was made by an ancient spinster clypt Tribulation Prouty; the piano, used 100 years ago, was the property of Joshua Prouty; the old boo's Golden drags around were worn by George A. Prouty, and the old fire engine Derigo No. 6 did service in Bucksport more than 75 years ago. The properties form quite a study in the antique.

Mr. Golden is natural all through. The character drawing is excellent, and the costumes and make-ups good. The cast is strong throughout. The piece is as clean and healthy as fresh mown hay, and will without doubt draw full houses.

Standard Theatre.

The Standard Theatre was re-opened under the management of Mr. Fredrick Mitchell, Saturday night, with Edwin Thorne as D'Artagnan, in The Three Guardsmen, the impetuous hero of Dumas' famous story, and one of its best impersonators on the stage. Mr. Thorne is supported by J. W. Thompson, one of the best of Athos, Horace Ewing, Edward Loring, E. N. Thayer, Miss Clyde Heron, Miss Belle Chippendale, Miss May Nannery and others. The gentlemen do fair work; the ladies render strong support.

The grand old drama is finely staged with new scenery by Thos. G. Moses, who painted the stock scenes and those for the Booth-Barrett Hamlet at the New California Theatre. The drama was effectively given, and business has been satisfactory.

For cast see programme in adjacent column.

Edwin Thorn's strong melodrama, "The Black Flag," effectively cast and carefully produced, will form next week's bill. This drama is one of stirring incidents and intense dramatic interest.

The season will be at popular prices, 25, 50 and 75 cents, and starts out for an extended one.

The Standard has undergone a complete renovation. Gangs of workmen have placed the theatre in complete order, inside and out.

Orpheum Opera House.

Atkinson's Comedy Company, in "Peck's Bad Boy," with J. J. Williams in the title role, the original of the character, returns to the Orpheum, for one week only, this week. This company is strongly organized in company and specialties. On its first visit here it proved the greatest comedy success ever at the Orpheum and has done the biggest kind of business everywhere.

The Orpheum is packed to the doors, and is played so well that the audiences are in laughter half the time.

We congratulate Managers Edwin and Charley Bert upon having developed so productive a dramatic bonanza.

Next week, Managers Walter & Co. present "The Orpheum's Own Importation" of Eastern talent that they estimate highly enough to give to it the title of their popular theatre.

The Battle of Vicksburg.

The grand panorama of the Battle of Vicksburg at the Panorama Building, corner of Eddy and Mason streets, is one that no American should fail to see. It gives a grand view of the battle with the conflict at its height on the land and the bombardment from the river with the correct positions of the engaging forces and the proper placement of the ironclads in the bombardment. It is a great painting, and excels the Battle of Waterloo in graphic power and vivid reality. Destruction reigns on every side. The burning buildings, the bursting shells, the desperate charges, the hand-to-hand conflicts, and the dying and wounded, all depict with startling realism one of the hottest conflicts in history.

Open from 9 A. M. to 6 P. M.

Morosco's Amphitheatre.

Managers Morosco & Byrnes have put in a most complete fireproof partition between the stage and the auditorium, from wall to wall of their big theatre. It is constructed of iron lathings on both sides of the studding. The decorators have finished the immense ceiling of the theatre with harmonious panels.

This week, The Confederate Spy, a national historical drama, will be the attraction.

Manager Morosco understands the tastes of his patrons. He presents attractive plays with a fully competent company, and the results are satisfactory to both manager and people.

Matinees Sundays, at 2 P. M. Admission, 10 cents. Front reserved seats 10 cents extra.

Badger's Park, Oakland.

The Tuolumne Pioneers will hold their Annual Reunion and renew the friendships of "the days of old and days of gold" at Badger's Park, Oakland, on Monday next. It will suffice to say that with Geo. T. Bromley as orator and the genial flow of sociability that characterizes these reunions there will be an enjoyable time generally.

Bella Union Theatre.

The new people for this week are: Flora Hastings, Helen Conklin, Conlon & Dougherty and Billy Akarman.

The ladies of the company come in for a full share of the applause and crowd the male contingent very closely.

Billy Akarman's funny comedy sketch, The Red-Headed Girl and the White Turkey, and The Sculptor's Studio are important features of the bill.

Billy Akarman resumes his old position of stage manager this week.

Friday nights are devoted to amateurs, and some of the novices have shown decided talent, and as they are ambitious they will soon be classed among the professionals.

Hallinan's Cremorne Theatre.

Ned Nestell, the Old Soldier, has gone back into harness and is managing the stage in his usual manner, making himself a favorite with all.

This week another strong bill is presented. Among the people engaged for the week are: Sam Dearing and Conlon & Dougherty the new faces.

Berkeley & Howard, Fitz & Devine, Hayes & Marion, Sadie Fairfield and May Morrell are still reigning favorites.

Jack the Ripper is the comedy for the week.

A grand glove contest will be the attraction every Tuesday and Friday evening.

Commencing Friday evening, June 14, every Friday night will be set apart for amateur talent. Any one wishing to appear, can do so by applying by letter, or in person, to Manager Nestell.

Original Theatre Comique.

The Comique presents an entire new bill this week, with songs and afterpiece. Numerous new novelties are produced by the various artists every evening and especial attention is paid to the first part.

This week the entertainment begins with selections by the entire company. Charles Morrell has new banjo songs and an entire change of witty sayings for the entertainment of the Comique's patrons.

Matt Trayers, the German Democrat, appears this week in original songs and sayings.

The comical farce-comedy, The Serenaders, is the interlude act.

The laughable farce, The Picnic, with all the company in the cast, concludes the bill and the evening's fun.

The Comique's company is a strong one. It is a neat, compact minor theatre, and for many years has been a popular one.

Eureka Music Hall.

This is one of the neatest and most popular of our minor theatres. Manager Walterstein runs a very strong company.

Mr. Chas. Bice becomes stage manager this week.

Lillie Mason, Laura White, Cora Everett, Lulu Howard, Pearl Iola, Stella Merriam, Ed Soldene, W. Baker, Chas. Rice and A. J. McNiece.

The first part introduces the entire company in new and pleasing selections. Rice & Everett appear in their original sketch, Upside Down, introducing songs, dances and medleys, A. J. McNiece gives one of his original specialties, and W. Baker in his lightning change act.

The Can-Can is retained on the bill. New songs and dances and all the original business have been introduced, making the bill stronger than ever.

The Eureka gives a matinee every Sunday.

Sunday, June 16th, grand picnic and ball of the Beer-Brewers' Union at Seaside Gardens.

Sunday Excursions on the Bay.

The steamer Tamalpais, renovated and placed in complete order, will make family excursions every Sunday during the season to Mare Island, Vallejo and Martinez; leaving Sausalito ferry slip, foot of Clay street, at 10 15 A. M., and returning at 7 30 P. M. Tickets, for the round trip, 50 cents; children, 25 cents. This includes an enjoyable thirty-mile sail through San Francisco and San Pablo bays and the Straits of Carquinez. The U. S. First Infantry Band will furnish the music. Lunches on the boat at city prices. The comfort of the excursions, under the management of P. H. Hink, will be properly looked after.

Norman Corke committed suicide in London, England, May 14th, at the age of twenty years. He has been on tour with Miss Thorne's Company, and left the company on the road March 9th, with the object of securing an engagement in London. Becoming depressed, though not for lack of funds, he shot himself through the heart at his lodging house. His mother identified his body at the inquest. The jury returned a verdict of suicide, while of unsound mind. The only suggestion put forth as to the cause of this rash act was that he possessed odd and excitable ways and bad 'false notions' with regard to being a burden to his family. Besides a few trinkets, he left the following letter, addressed to Hattie Corke, his sister, and dated, May 14th: "My dear Het.—I have gone—no, that's very Irish — I am going to that bourne from whence no traveler returneth, and have just taken my last cup of tea with a bitter zest. I have colored the town to such a degree that there is now no paint left in the locker, so I commend myself to Davy Jones. You will not remember my good qualities for I never had any, and my bad ones I will ask you to forget. With much love, I am yours, about to be "kilt entirely."

"Conductor," said the nervous passenger "who is that desperate looking devil at the other end of the car? I never saw a man carry such an outfit of guns and knives before." "Don't be uneasy," replied the conductor, reassuringly "he is a minister of the Gospel on his way to Oklahoma, to conduct open-air services."

Young Mr. Brokaw (who believes in doing everything in a business-like way) — Miss Southmayd, I am matrimonially inclined. You are my choice above all women. I desire to marry you. Is it a go? Miss Southmayd (freezingly) — Yes, sir. There is the door.

Bessie (looking over where her brother John is coloring an Italian sky) — How tired poor John looks. Brother artist (who has his own opinion of art) — Yes, no wonder; isn't that a freight train he's drawing?

An agnostic is one who thinks that he knows all about everything and that other people know nothing about anything.

Patti's great farewell season in America will open December 5th.

An actor's luck is illustrated by the terrible accident at Johnstown, where a company played, and being too late to catch the train for the next town, hired wagons to transport them just in time to escape certain death. In spite of the fact that actors travel more than any other profession, none seem ever to get hurt in any kind of accident. It's a hard thing to kill an actor.

Tacoma, Port Townsend, Victoria, Spokane Falls and Helena, are now recognized as excellent theatrical towns on the Northern Circuit; Seattle will fall again into line as soon as it is rebuilt.

W. W. Furst, leader of the Tivoli orchestra, will produce his own opera, Theodora, at that place some time this month.

The stock company organized in New York for the Bijou Theatre by Mazo Edwards will be due here on Friday.

EVENING EDITION

FRIDAY.....JUNE 14, 1889

FULL PROGRAMMES of all the Leading Theatre in San Francisco can be found in FIGARO—the only paper that has them.

PROFESSIONAL PICKINGS.

The two local people in the cast of The Strategists this week have done good work. Will H. Bray's ballad singing and acting as Our Sergeant and Sam Morris in the comic role of O'Flam won deserved applause.

Miss Anita Fallon is rehearsing her new society play, entitled The Coral Bracelet, at the Bush. It will be the attraction at that theatre for the week of June 24th, with the fair authoress as its heroine, supported by a strong company.

See cast of "The Wife," the opening comedy of the Baldwin Theatre season, in the Baldwin's programme space elsewhere in our columns.

Tom Whiffen, the popular New York actor, has taken a summer off to visit England. His wife is one of the members of Frohman's company and comes here with it.

Hearty Nick Roberts, who "held the fort" at the Bijou during the Emerson Minstrel season, and gave performances by the tallow candles' mellow light, as in god-like Shakespeare's days, as John W. Thompson would say, is now at Niblo's, N. Y., managing a variety organization.

Fred Bert, who will manage Howard Taylor's new play, A Tour of Africa, is spoken of by the New York press as "the veteran California manager." Fred is a young man yet, and though he did embark in managerial business early in years he is not entitled to be ranked as a veteran California manager—without tough experiences in management raise him to a brevet rank of veteran.

Geo. H. Jessop, poet and play-writer, who was a journalist in this city for a number of years, and was one of the coterie of bright journalistic San Francisco Bohemians who flourished here during the McCullough management of the California Theatre, was given a dinner by the Faculty of Trinity College, Dublin, Ireland, last month—a compliment never before conferred on an undergraduate of that conservative institution. Jessop deserves all that talent and fortune can throw in his pathway.

Mrs. Langtry says she will soon leave the stage because she is tired of being talked about. What base ingratitude! If she had never been talked about she would have never been anybody.

Wilson Barrett will ship 180 tons of scenery from England early in the Fall. This comprises the stage garniture of Claudian Hamlet, Ben Machree and Good Old Times.

Dubuque, Iowa, is building a $40,000 opera house.

The Black Flag, Thorne's strong piece, will be next week's attraction at the Standard.

An unfinished libretto, The Saracen Woman, by Wagner, has just been discovered by Herr Greith, of the Munich Cathedral.

Queen Marguerite of Italy is one of the best violoncello players of the day.

Philadelphia will have eighteen theatres in full blast next October.

Parisian society has been agitated because a proposition has been under consideration to present Patti with the Cross of the Legion of Honor. The Frenchmen ask, What has Patti done for France or French art?

Estelle Clayton's new play for next season is called On the Hudson.

After "Twelve Tempts" at the Grand comes Lillian Gray's Colossal Gaiety Co. Stand from under.

John V. White, a well known Eastern manager, at one time connected with the Madison Square Theatre, now manager of the Bijou Theatre in this city, announces its opening on the 22nd of June, with Lewis Morrison and Co. in The Celebrated Case. Mr. White has taken the Bijou for a term, and has a line of attractions engaged. Frank L. Hoogs is treasurer.

The Tivoli management proposes to celebrate the tenth anniversary of the now famous local opera house by a revival of "Pinafore," with as many of the old singers in the cast as can be gathered

THEATRICALS IN AUSTRALIA.

J. B. Gaylord, Barnum's old-time World foraging curiosity-hunter and circus manager, returned from Australia by the last steamer. Mr. Gaylord is at present engaged in the good missionary work of making converts to American shows in the great island continent. He sent Hicks' Minstrels out there early last Summer, and followed later on with the Silbon Combination, playing them jointly under his and Hiscock's management. He returns to arrange a first-class Wild West Show and Hippodrome and take it to Australia, where it must prove a great novelty; as they never had anything of the kind there before. He expects to have it organized and ready for embarkation early in September, and will exhibit it, circus fashion, under an immense tent.

Mr. Gaylord reports that the Silbons' New Zealand season did not make much of a record financially. They opened in too small a house in Sydney to show their act to advantage, but in Her Majesty's, at Melbourne, they had a theatre similar to our Grand Opera House and were in their glory. They did an immense three weeks' business—returns, $15 500.

They played in Adelaide to big business. Here Mr. Gaylord, full of his Wild West Show, sold out to the Silbons and returned to this country. He reports that the Silbons have prospects of playing the country to steady good business under Hiscock's management, and that Moulton & Dashway have proved very big cards in the company everywhere.

Hicks' Minstrels have done first rate and are thinking of returning soon.

THEATRICALS IN MELBOURNE.

At Princess Theatre the attraction was the opera of Pepeti, only a fair success. George C. Miln, the preacher-tragedian, opened at the Opera House, March 16th, in Richard III, and made the greatest hit of any Shakespearean actor since Barry Sullivan, playing to immense business for three weeks. He continued his engagement as Mark Antony, in Julius Cæsar, two weeks to overflowing houses—something unprecedented in Melbourne. One of the papers had a deprecating criticism on his opening, saying that "Shakespeare meant ruin in Melbourne." When Mr. Gaylord left Miln was continuing his success in Hamlet, and kept at the head of his bills that mis-applied quotation. He had cleared $10 000 on his Melbourne engagement before the Hamlet period of it.

At the Royal, in Melbourne, Bland Holt opened the season in the drama, "The Ruling Pasha," which proved a non-success. This was followed with "The Union Jack," another new play and another failure.

At the Alexandria, Dampier was playing to good business.

SYDNEY THEATRES.

At the Royal the pantomime of "Sinbad the Sailor" was doing very well.

George Rignold was playing English pieces at Her Majesty's to regular good business.

At the Criterion, Brough and Dot Boucicault were playing "Ma'ma," a comedy, to big business.

At the Gaiety John F. Sheridan was giving them his Widow O'Brien in "Fun on the Bristol" to fair business.

At Adelaide a new comedy company from England was playing with success. So it will be seen that theatrical business in Australia is like our own, generally healthy, with some failures to record.

SPECIALTY SQUIBS.

Mr. John Perry, of the Perry Bros., left for the East yesterday. Ed. Perry and Irwin T. Bush will leave on the overland to-morrow. The Perry Bros. will make Eastern bookings for their new play, "Two Pair."

Manager Meyer has secured the lease of the Vienna, and it is his intention to keep it dark for the present.

The Putnam Twin Sisters have been engaged for the Summer season at the Star Theatre, Cleveland.

Mlle. Garretta with her troupe of birds and kangaroos is filling a very successful Northern engagement.

The Clifford Sisters, Flora and Rose, are at the Bella Union Theatre, Spokane Falls.

Poor Tony Hart, it is said, is writing a play for next season, in which he has cast himself for parts of a German boy, a negro wench and an Irish washwoman.

The Haverly-Cleveland Minstrels closed their season at Lockport, N. Y., June 1st, after being out about forty-six weeks. Mr. Cleveland reports good business throughout the entire season.

Ferguson & Mack's Comedy Co. have made a hit with their new play, "McCarthy's Mishaps," at the Windsor Theatre, N. Y. One of the successful features of the piece is Lizzie Daly's peculiar dance. John Marr, Hughey Dougherty and John Hart are among the people included in the cast.

The Orpheum will introduce "The Orpheum's Own Importation," a company organized in New York especially for it, on the 17th inst.

Dockstader's Minstrels will play in New York nearly all of next season.

The Comique presents an entire new bill this week. Charley Morrell and John Cook contribute excellent specialty turns, and J. H. Burns is good in character parts.

An Eastern comic paper, speaking of her fondness for animals, say: Mary Anderson's fondest pet is the American golden eagle.

Mrs. James Brown-Potter pronounces it Clawpatra, and Kyrle Bellew says "I

The Twelve Temptations Co. arrived here Tuesday, and have had ample time to repair the damage done to scenery and costumes by their car catching fire just the other side of Elko. Some of the scenery was blackened and burnt a little on the exposed edges and some of the costumes were damaged. The scenery has been restored and new costumes will be ready, where needed, for the opening Sunday night.

Letta's condition of health continues to give considerable uneasiness to her friends. She was on the road to recovery a week or ten days ago, when her own anxiety to get out of the house induced her to do so in the face of her physician's warning. The result was a relapse, and she is now confined absolutely to her room.

FIGARO is the Official Journal of all the Leading Theatres in San Francisco, and the only paper that publishes their full programmes.

AMUSEMENTS, ETC.

Leavitt's New Bush Street Theatre.

Lauri and Bell's Comedy Company in the original version of Haverly's "Strategists" constitute this week's bill, with Harry B. Bell as Jack Rutledge; whose experiments in strategy bring about so many comical episodes, involve not only himself but the whole company in complications, and become infectious.

The Call says: "Our Strategists is a well-constructed comedy and full of funny surprises, carried on chiefly by the Rutledges, father and son, and each without the knowledge of the other. The house roared with laughter at the different scenes and incidents," and the Chronicle lauds "The Strategists" as "the comedy which in its time has raised as hearty laughter as any piece that was ever played." It certainly is a fund of amusement that keeps its audiences in good humor to the end.

The comedy gives plenty of opportunities for situations, and Harry Bell, Geo. Lauri, Miss Marietta Nash, Miss Van Name and the company generally work them up to the best advantage.

Baldwin Theatre.

The Baldwin Theatre reopens with the commencement of its Seventh Season next week with Dan'l Frohman's New York Lyceum Theatre Company in the American society comedy of "The Wife." It proved a great card here last Summer, and as it has the same people in the cast again, its success is assured.

Georgie Cayvan and Herbert Kelcey are the estranged wife and husband; Nelson Wheatcroft the polished, gentlemanly villain, and W. J. Lemoyne the laughable and genial old Major. Charles Dickson and Louise Dillon furnish the piquant comedy element. Henry Miller, Grace Henderson, Mrs. Whiffen, Chas. Walcot and Mrs. Walcot all embody their pleasant impersonations of last year. "The Wife" has only one week allotted to it.

For cast see Baldwin programme in adjoining column.

"Sweet Lavender" will be given, for the first time here, for the second week. This play is the work of Pinero, who is coming into decided prominence as a dramatic author.

Alcazar Theatre.

This week's attraction will be Mr. Henry Lee in his change play, The Cavalier, in which he assumes seven different costumed characters. Mr. Lee has a strong array of talent in support of this picturesque play. The cast includes Miss Ethel Brandon, Miss Emma Wilmott, L. R. Stockwell, Fred Ross, J. J. Wallace, Harry Mainhall, Albert Hosmer and Louis Belmour.

Mr. Lee is an actor of good dramatic power, he has a good voice and reads well. Of the various disguises he assumes, that of the song vender is the best; but they are all presented with marked fidelity to D'Ennery's idea. Miss Ethel Brandon and Miss Emma Wilmott play their parts admirably. Harry Mainhall, L. R. Stockwell and J. J. Wallace render strong support.

The play is finely staged and every care has been taken by the management to correctness, even in the smallest detail. The Cavalier will run but one week.

J. B. Polk follows in Mixed Pickles, a farce-comedy that has been received with great favor in every section of the Union.

New California Theatre.

Richard Golden opened this week in "Old Jed Prouty," a Yankee play, of which the New York Herald said his "Old Jed comes nearer to nature than Denman Thompson's Joshua Whitcomb." It sprang into popularity at once in New York, and as Messrs Harris & Rich, its Eastern proprietors and managers, send us the New York cast, original properties and scenic effects intact, we have it here at its best.

Richard Golden's New Englander anti-dates Joshua Whitcomb as he first introduced "Old Jed" in a sketch act in St. John, New Brunswick, in 1869. It again cropped out in 1875, but never as a full-fledged dramatic lead until Golden & Gill developed it in its present shape. Its appointments are genuine ones, and belong to the Prouty family, of Bucksport, Maine; the rug used was made by an ancient spinster clypt Tribulation Prouty; the piano, used 100 years ago, was the property of Joshua Prouty; the old boots Golden drags around were worn by George A. Prouty, and the old fire engine Derigo No. 6 did service in Bucksport more than 75 years ago. The properties form quite a study in the antique.

Mr. Golden is natural all through. The character drawing is excellent, and the costumes and make-ups good. The cast is strong throughout. The piece is as clean and healthy as fresh-mown hay, and will without doubt

Standard Theatre.

The Standard Theatre was re-opened under the management of Mr. Fredrick Mitchell, Saturday night, with Edwin Thorne as D'Artagnan, in The Three Guardsmen, the impetuous hero of Dumas' famous story, and one of its best impersonators on the stage. Mr. Thorne is supported by J. W. Thompson, one of the best of Athos, Horace Ewing, Edward Loring, E. N. Thayer, Miss Clyde Heron, Miss Belle Chippendale, Miss May Nannery and others. The gentlemen do fair work; the ladies render strong support.

The grand old drama is finely staged with new scenery by Thos. G. Moses, who painted the stock scenes and those for the Booth-Barrett Hamlet at the New California Theatre. The drama was effectively given, and business has been satisfactory.

For cast see programme in adjacent column.

Edwin Thorn's strong melodrama, "The Black Flag," effectively cast and carefully produced, will form next week's bill. This drama is one of stirring incidents and intense dramatic interest.

The season will be at popular prices, 25, 50 and 75 cents, and starts out for an extended one.

The Standard has undergone a complete renovation. Gangs of workmen have placed the theatre in complete order, inside and out.

Orpheum Opera House.

Atkinson's Comedy Company, in "Peck's Bad Boy," with J. J. Williams in the title role, the original of the character, returns to the Orpheum, for one week only, this week. This company is strongly organized in company and specialties. On its first visit here it proved the greatest comedy success ever at the Orpheum and has done the biggest kind of business everywhere.

The Orpheum is packed to the doors, and is played so well that the audiences are in laughter half the time.

We congratulate Managers Edwin and Charley Bert upon having developed so productive a dramatic bonanza.

Next week, Managers Walter & Co. present "The Orpheum's Own Importation" of Eastern talent that they estimate highly enough to give to it the title of their popular theatre.

The Battle of Vicksburg.

The grand panorama of the Battle of Vicksburg at the Panorama Building, corner of Eddy and Mason streets, is one that no American should fail to see. It gives a grand view of the battle with the conflict at its height on the land and the bombardment from the river with the correct positions of the engaging forces and the proper placement of the ironclads in the bombardment. It is a great painting, and excels the Battle of Waterloo in graphic power and vivid reality. Destruction reigns on every side. The burning buildings, the bursting shells, the desperate charges, the hand-to-hand conflicts, and the dying and wounded, all depict with startling realism one of the hottest conflicts in history.

Open from 9 A. M. to 6 P. M.

Morosco's Amphitheatre.

Managers Morosco & Byrnes have put in a most complete fireproof partition between the stage and the auditorium, from wall to wall of their big theatre. It is constructed of iron lathings on both sides of the studding. The decorators have finished the immense ceiling of the theatre with harmonious panels.

This week, The Confederate Spy, a national historical drama, will be the attraction.

Manager Morosco understands the tastes of his patrons. He presents attractive plays with a fully competent company, and the results are satisfactory to both manager and people.

Matinees Sundays, at 2 P. M. Admission, 10 cents. Front reserved seats 10 cents extra.

Badger's Park, Oakland.

The Tuolumne Pioneers will hold their Annual Reunion and renew the friendships of "the days of old and days of gold" at Badger's Park, Oakland, on Monday next. It will suffice to say that with Geo. T. Bromley as orator and the genial flow of sociability that characterizes these reunions there will be an enjoyable time generally.

Bella Union Theatre.

The new people for this week are: Flora Hastings, Helen Conklin, Conlon & Dougherty and Billy Akarman.

The ladies of the company come in for a full share of the applause and crowd the male contingent very closely.

Billy Akarman's funny comedy sketch, The Red-Headed Girl and the White Turkey, and The Sculptor's Studio are important features of the bill.

Billy Akarman resumes his old position of stage manager this week.

Friday nights are devoted to amateurs, and some of the novices have shown decided talent, and as they are ambitious they will soon be classed among the professionals.

Ballinan's Cremorne Theatre.

Ned Nestell, the Old Soldier, has gone back into harness and is managing the stage in his usual manner, making himself a favorite with all.

This week another strong bill is presented. Among the people engaged for the week are: Sam Dearing and Conlon & Dougherty the new faces.

Berkeley & Howard, Fitz & Devine, Hayes & Marion, Sadie Fairfield and May Morrell are still reigning favorites.

Jack the Ripper is the comedy for the week.

A grand glove contest will be the attraction every Tuesday and Friday evening.

Commencing Friday evening, June 14, every Friday night will be set apart for amateur talent. Any one wishing to appear, can do so by applying by letter, or in person, to Manager Nestell.

Original Theatre Comique.

The Comique presents an entire new bill this week, with songs and afterpiece. Numerous new novelties are produced by the various artists every evening and especial attention is paid to the first part.

This week the entertainment begins with selections by the entire company. Charles Morrell has new banjo songs and an entire change of witty sayings for the entertainment of the Comique's patrons.

Matt Trayers, the German Democrat, appears [illegible] original songs and sayings.

The comical farce-comedy, The Serenaders, is the interlude act.

The laughable farce, The Picnic, with all the company in the cast, concludes the bill and the evening's fun.

The Comique's company is a strong one. It is a neat, compact minor theatre, and for many years has been a popular one.

Eureka Music Hall.

This is one of the neatest and most popular of our minor theatres. Manager Walterstein runs a very strong company.

Mr. Chas. Rice becomes stage manager this week.

Lillie Mason, Laura White, Cora Everett Lulu Howard, Pearl Iola, Stella Merriam, Ed Soldene, W. Baker, Chas. Rice and A. J. McNiece.

The first part introduces the entire company in new and pleasing selections. Rice & Everett appear in their original sketch, Upside Down, introducing songs, dances and medleys, A. J. McNiece gives one of his original specialties, and W. Baker in his lightning change act.

The Can-Can is retained on the bill. New songs and dances and all the original business have been introduced, making the bill stronger than ever.

The Eureka gives a matinee every Sunday.

Sunday, June 16th, grand picnic and ball of the Beer-Brewers' Union at Seaside Gardens.

Sunday Excursions on the Bay.

The steamer Tamalpais, renovated and placed in complete order, will make family excursions every Sunday during the season to Mare Island, Vallejo and Martinez; leaving Sausalito ferry slip, foot of Clay street, at 10 15 A. M., and returning at 7 30 P. M. Tickets, for the round trip, 50 cents; children, 25 cents. This includes an enjoyable thirty-mile sail through San Francisco and San Pablo bays and the Straits of Carquinez. The U. S. First Infantry Band will furnish the music. Lunches on the boat at city prices. The comfort of the excursions, under the management of F. H. Hink, will be properly looked after.

Mr. Gillette's experience at the Union Square Theatre, New York, is very characteristic of the actor. He made a good deal of money with his play of Held by the Enemy, which is a good play, and he fired it all in on Robert Elsmere, which is a bad play, but he has more faith in the bad play than in the good, and so he hired the Union Square Theatre for eight weeks and played the piece two. Then he and his backer had to scratch for the rent, and ended it all by giving notes. This reminds one of Denman Thompson, who will make probably two hundred thousand dollars on The Old Homestead, and some day will put it all up on a horserace, and then go to work again at the bottom; or Henry Dixey who ought to have made a clean hundred thousand dollars on Adonis, but who never has more than ten dollars at his command owing to his luxurious habits. About one actor in fifty ever saves any money. About forty-nine in fifty make plenty of it. We have a glowing specimen of mingled improvidence and penuriousness in Alvin Joslin, who will work ten years like a slave in order to buy a ten thousand dollar diamond, and there is now walking about Union Square a loudly-dressed comedian with fifteen thousand dollars in his breast pocket, ready to dump the whole sum on some snide enterprise or put it on a scrapping match.

W. W. Furst, leader of the Tivoli orchestra, will produce his own opera, Theodora, at that place some time this month.

The stock company organized in New York for the Bijou Theatre by Mazie Edwards arrive here to-night.

Patti's eighth farewell season in America will open December 5th.

E. J. Buckley has sailed for San Francisco on the Pacific Mail steamship City of Para.

Colonel Mapleson is again about to bloom out as an American operatic manager. His company will be mainly composed of new singers. A new soprano, Mlle. Marie Titiens, will make her debut next season.

Charlie Reed will be due here on Saturday. He is engaged by the Alcazar management to support Ned Harrigan, to open July 1st for eight weeks.

Joseph Murphy will play four weeks at the New California Theatre in July. Mr. Murphy will not play next season. He has become quite an adept at landscape painting, and devotes all his leisure to it.

FULL PROGRAMMES of all the Leading Theatre in San Francisco can be found in FIGARO—the only paper that has them.

SPECIALTY SQUIBS.

Edward Latelle, the well known blackface comedian and banjo player, has returned from his trip in the interior with the Beach Musical Comedy Company. Mr. Latelle reports business as only about fair, but little money in the country.

Olympic Theatre, Ashland, Wis., June 10th: Smith & Campbell, Lew Baker, Lillie Billington, Gould & Bert, Bertie La Point, Willard & Hall and Miss Pearl Carlton. Friday, June 14th, was the occasion of a grand testimonial benefit to John H. Clark and Fred Tebo, scientific boxers.

Fashion Theatre, San Antonio, Texas, June 10th: Frank Lavarnie and Jessie Le Seur, the Wambolds, Kelly & Wolf, Dan Creelan and Miss Elsa Moore; Wiley Hamilton, stage manager.

Mr. John Perry, of the Perry Bros., left for the East Thursday. Ed. Perry and Irwin T. Bush will leave on the overland this P. M. The Perry Bros. will make Eastern bookings for their new play, "Two Pair."

Manager Meyer has secured the lease of the Vienna, and it is his intention to keep it dark for the present.

The Putnam Twin Sisters have been engaged for the summer season at the Star Theatre, Cleveland.

Mlle. Garretta with her troupe of birds and kangaroos is filling a very successful Northern engagement.

The Clifford Sisters, Flora and Rose, are at the Bella Union Theatre, Spokane Falls.

Poor Tony Hart, it is said, is writing a play for next season, in which he has cast himself for parts of a German boy, a negro wench and an Irish washwoman.

The Haverly-Cleveland Minstrels closed their season at Lockport, N. Y., June 1st, after being out about forty-six weeks. Mr. Cleveland reports good business throughout the entire season.

The Orpheum will introduce "The Orpheum's Own Importation," a company organized in New York especially for it, on the 17th inst.

Dockstader's Minstrels will play in New York nearly all of next season.

The Comique presents an entire new bill this week. Charley, Morrell and John Cook contribute excellent specialty turns, and J. H. Burns is good in character parts.

Wilson Barrett will ship 180 tons of scenery from England early in the Fall. This comprises the stage garniture of Claudian, Hamlet, Ben Machree and Good Old Times.

Dubuque, Iowa, is building a $40,000 opera house.

The Black Flag, Thorne's strong piece, will be next week's attraction at the Standard.

Parisian society has been agitated because a proposition has been under consideration to present Patti with the Cross of the Legion of Honor. The Frenchmen ask, What has Patti done for France or French art?

Estelle Clayton's new play for next season is called On the Hudson.

Geo. H. Jessop, poet and play-writer, who was a journalist in this city for a number of years, and was one of the coterie of bright journalistic San Francisco Bohemians who flourished here during the McCullough management of the California Theatre, was given a dinner by the Faculty of Trinity College, Dublin, Ireland, last month—a compliment never before conferred on an undergraduate of that conservative institution. Jessop deserves all that talent and fortune can throw in his pathway.

A series of comic operas are to be given at Heinzberg's West Brighton Casino, Coney Island, New York, begining June 22d. The list includes Giroflé-Girofla, The Chimes of Normandy, Olivette and other popular operas. Claude H. Brooke is to manage the company, of which Annie Miss Isaac will be the prima donna. Others in the cast are Henri Laurent, tenor and stage director; Julia Glover, Jules Clousot, C. St. Martin, W. A. Shaw and a chorus of thirty.

PROFESSIONAL PICKINGS.

Los Angeles was in the general cancellation made by Mary Anderson. Booth and Barrett cancelled their dates there when in this city, along with all outside dates on the coast, and Nat Goodwin, booked there for the 10th, 11th and 12th, played them the unprofessional trick of jumping his dates without giving them a days advance notice. His advance sale was $500. Just as the box office opened on the 10th came the Goodwin knock-out in the form of a telegram from the low comedian, dated at Reno, Nevada, saying that by the advice of his physician he was on his way East. This made the Angelites anything but angelical in temper. They d—darned Goodwin, and conspired together to get up a conciliatory benefit to Manager Wyatt as a reflection on Goodwin lightly Bones. They have one consolation left—they have Padelford, the very orange bloom of opera primas, to open the opera season on the 23d inst.

John V. White, a well known Eastern manager, at one time connected with the Madison Square Theatre, now manager of the Bijou Theatre in this city, announces its opening on the 22nd of June, with Lewis Morrison and Co. in "The Partners." Mr. White has taken the Bijou for a term, and has a line of attractions engaged. Frank L. Hoogs is treasurer. The New York nucleus of the company, consisting of Lewis Morrison, Stella Rees (leading lady), Joseph Wytall (leading man), Florence Roberts and Samuel Edwards (comedian), arrived on Friday.

Miss Marie Tietjens, who is a niece of the celebrated prima donna of that name, has made her debut in London with moderate success.

Rose Coghlan will make a pleasure tour to the Yosemite Valley this Summer before she opens in this city, at the Baldwin Theatre, on August 15th.

A washing compound firm recently hired twelve bald-headed men to sit together in the orchestra chairs of an Eastern theatre each with a legend pasted on his head. That advertiser ought to be in the show business.

Clara Morris is at her home in Riverdale on the Hudson. Almost every pleasant day she takes a canter up to Yonkers on a heavy-hoofed horse, and when the weather is inclement she remains indoors, talking to her parrot and playing with her dogs.

Divided skirts come pretty near being Chinese trousers, and the announcement that they are to be adopted by the United Protective Association of Ballet Girls falls with a dull thud upon the hearts of the thin-roofed patrons of the orchestra chairs.

Etelka Gerster has a home on a mountain top in Italy. It is so difficult of access that days pass without any visitors relieving the monotony of her solitude. Her health is so precarious that she has about abandoned all hope of again singing in public.

Eva Clayton, eldest daughter of Dion Boucicault, widow of John Clayton, who was in the stock company at Booth's Theatre fifteen years ago, recently became the wife of young Harry Eversfield, who played the part of the harum-scarum boy in The Gold Mine.

A new tenor may be heard in Boston next season. Frank Hunter, of Pittsburg, has been studying in Italy and London for the past four years. He is several inches over six feet in height, his voice is of high range, and he will be a high tenor every way.

The stage wardrobe and jewels of the late Marie Aimee were sold at auction in New York and realized about $6,000.

Palmer's Theatre, N. Y., was sold at auction to Mrs. Octavia Moss for $200,000

Dockstader's Minstrels realized nearly $1,000 for the Johnstown sufferers from their benefit performance at Boston.

Mme. Maurice Bernhardt, daughter-in-law of Sarah Bernhardt, has just made Dona Sol a grandmother.

The stock company organized in New York for the Bijou Theatre by Mazie Edwards arrived here Friday.

The two local people in the cast of The Strategists this week have done good work. Will H. Bray's ballad singing and acting as Our Sergeant and Sam Morris in the comic role of O'Flam won deserved applause.

Miss Anita Fallon is rehearsing her new society play, entitled The Coral Bracelet, at the Bush. It will be the attraction at that theatre for the week of June 24th, with the fair authoress as its heroine, supported by a strong company.

See cast of "The Wife," the opening comedy of the Baldwin Theatre season, in the Baldwin's programme space elsewhere in our columns.

Tom Whiffen, the popular New York actor, has taken a summer off to visit England. His wife is one of the members of Frohman's company and comes here with it.

Hearty Nick Roberts, who "held the fort" at the Bijou during the Emerson Minstrel season, and gave performances by the tallow candles' mellow light, as in god-like Shakespeare's days, as John W. Thompson would say, is now at Niblo's, N. Y., managing a variety organization.

Fred Bert, who will manage Howard Taylor's new play, A Tour of Africa, is spoken of by the New York press as "the veteran California manager." Fred is a young man yet, and though he did embark in managerial business early in years he is not entitled to be ranked as a veteran California manager—without tough experiences in management raise him to a brevet rank of veteran.

Mrs. Langtry says she will soon leave the stage because she is tired of being talked about. What base ingratitude!

The Twelve Temptations Co. arrived here Tuesday, and have had ample time to repair the damages done to scenery and costumes by their car catching fire just the other side of Elko. Some of the scenery was blackened and burnt a little on the exposed edges and some of the costumes were damaged. The scenery has been restored and new costumes will be ready, where needed, for the opening Sunday night.

Tacoma, Port Townsend, Victoria, Spokane Falls and Helena, are now recognized as excellent theatrical towns on the Northern Circuit; Seattle will fall again into line as soon as it is rebuilt.

An Eastern comic paper, speaking of her fondness for animals, says: Mary Anderson's fondest pet is the American golden eagle.

Mrs. James Brown-Potter pronounces it Clawpatra, and Kyrie Bellew says "I cawnt tawk." Verily, the Broad A clubs are making progress.

After "Twelve Tempts" at the Grand comes Lillian Gray's Colossal Gaiety Co.

FIGARO is the Official Journal of all the Leading Theatres in San Francisco, and the only paper that publishes their full programmes.

AMUSEMENTS, ETC.

Leavitt's New Bush Street Theatre.

Lauri and Bell's Comedy Company in the original version of Haverly's "Strategists" will be given to-night and Sunday night.

The Call says: "Our Strategists is a well-constructed comedy and full of funny surprises, carried on chiefly by the Rutledges, father and son, and each without the knowledge of the other. The house roared with laughter at the different scenes and incidents."

The Bush will be closed for the purpose of making some needed stage improvements next week.

Miss Anita Fallon, a talented young emotional actress, in her new society play, entitled "The Coral Bracelet," adapted from the French, will be the attraction at the Bush for the week of June 24th.

"The Coral Bracelet" will be carefully produced with new scenery and stage appointments. Miss Fallon will be supported by that excellent actor, Neil Warner and a good company.

Baldwin Theatre.

The Baldwin Theatre reopens with the commencement of its Seventh Season next week with Dan'l Frohman's New York Lyceum Theatre Company in the American society comedy of "The Wife." It proved a great card here last Summer, and as it has the same people in the cast again, its success is assured.

Georgie Cayvan and Herbert Kelcey are the estranged wife and husband; Nelson Wheatcroft the polished, gentlemanly villain, and W. J. Lemoyne the laughable and genial old Major. Charles Dickson and Louise Dillon furnish the piquant comedy element. Henry Miller, Grace Henderson, Mrs. Whiffen, Chas. Walcot and Mrs. Walcot all embody their pleasant impersonations of last year. "The Wife" has only one week allotted to it.

For cast see Baldwin programme in adjoining column.

"Sweet Lavender" will be given, for the first time here, for the second week. This play is the work of Pinero, who is coming into decided prominence as a dramatic author.

Alcazar Theatre.

This week's attraction has been Mr. Henry Lee in his change play, The Cavalier, in which he assumes seven different costumed characters. Mr. Lee has a strong array of talent in support of this picturesque play. The cast includes Miss Ethel Brandon, Miss Emma Wilmot, L. R. Stockwell, Fred Rose, J. J. Wallace, Harry Meinhall, Albert Hosmer and Louis Bonnar.

Mr. Lee is an actor of good dramatic power, and has a good voice and reads well. The play is finely staged and every care has been taken by the management to correctness, even in the smallest detail. The Cavalier has its last performance Sunday night.

J. B. Polk's pungent farce-comedy, "Mixed Pickles" that has been received with great favor in every section of the Union, will be the repast at the Alcazar next week.

The cast is evenly balanced, four ladies and four gentlemen, giving Pickles its spice by their piquant acting. The ingredients are very palatable, and Polk's "Mixed Pickles" will be found a fine amusement relish.

New California Theatre.

Richard Golden opened this week in "Old Jed Prouty," a Yankee play, of which the New York Herald said his "Old Jed comes nearer to nature than Denman Thompson's Joshua Whitcomb." It sprang into popularity at once in New York and as Messrs Harris & Rich, its Eastern proprietors and managers, send us the New York cast, original properties and scenic effects intact, we have it here at its best.

Richard Golden's New Englander anti-dates Joshua Whitcomb, as he first introduced "Old Jed" in a sketch act in St. John, New Brunswick in 1867. It again cropped out in 1875, but never as a full-fledged dramatic lead until Golden & Gill developed it in its present shape. Its appointments are genuine ones, and belong to the Prouty family, of Bucksport, Maine; the rag mat was made by an ancient spinster clypt Tribulation Prouty; the piano, used 100 years ago, was the property of Joshua Prouty; the old boots Golden drags around were worn by George A. Prouty, and the old fire engine Derigo No. 3 did service in Bucksport more than 75 years ago. The properties form quite a study in the antique.

Mr. Golden is natural all through. The character drawing is excellent, and the costumes and make ups good. The cast is strong throughout. The piece is as clean and healthy as fresh-mown hay, and will without doubt draw full houses.

Standard Theatre.

The Standard Theatre has given us a week of Mr. Edwin Thorne as D'Artagnan, in "The Three Guardsmen," the impetuous hero of Dumas' famous story, and one of its best impersonators on the stage. Mr. Thorne is supported by J. W. Thompson, one of the best of Athos, Horace Ewing, Edward Loring, E. N. Thayer, Miss Clyde Heron, Miss Belle Chippendale, Miss May Nannery and others. The gentlemen do fair work; the ladies render strong support.

The grand old drama is finely staged with new scenery. Business has been satisfactory.

Edwin Thorn's strong melodrama, "The Black Flag," effectively cast and carefully produced, will form next week's bill. This drama is one of stirring incidents and intense dramatic interest.

Popular prices, 25, 50 and 75 cents.

The Standard has undergone a complete renovation. The theatre has been placed in complete order, inside and out.

Orpheum Opera House.

Atkinson's Comedy Company, in "Peck's Bad Boy," with J. J. Williams in the title role, the original of the character, returned to the Orpheum, for one week only, this week.

The Orpheum has been packed to the doors, and the piece is played so well that the audiences are in laughter half the time.

Last performance of the "Bad Boy" on Sunday night.

Next week, Managers Walter & Co. present "The Orpheum's Own Importation" of Eastern talent that they estimate highly enough to give to it the title of their popular theatre.

The company consists of the Orpheum Quintette, the Carle Family, musical grotesques; Signorina Alma; Mr. James Rielly, comedian; Frank Dare, gymnast; Drawee, the contortionist; Franks & Marion; The Bicketts; Griffin & Langan, and Miss Josephine Soltez, vocalists, are among the people engaged.

Prof. Jean Weitzman will give an exhibition every evening at 7 o'clock, and Sunday at 1 P. M., crossing on a wire stretched from the top of the Orpheum building across the street to the old Government building, 150 feet in the air and 250 in length; besides, his marvelous stage performance on the tight-rope.

The Battle of Vicksburg.

The grand panorama of the Battle of Vicksburg at the Panorama Building, corner of Eddy and Mason streets, is one that no American should fail to see. It gives a grand view of the battle with the conflict at its height on the land and the bombardment from the river with the correct positions of the engaging forces and the proper placement of the ironclads in the bombardment. It is a great painting, and excels the Battle of Waterloo in graphic power and vivid reality. Destruction reigns on every side. The burning buildings, the bursting shells, the desperate charges, the hand-to-hand conflicts, and the dying and wounded, all depict with startling realism one of the hottest conflicts in history.

Open from 9 A. M. to 6 P. M.

Morosco's Amphitheatre.

Managers Morosco & Byrnes have put in a most complete fireproof partition between the stage and the auditorium, from wall to wall of their big theatre. It is constructed of iron lathings on both sides of the studding. The decorators have finished the immense ceiling of the theatre with harmonious panels.

This week, The Confederate Spy, a national historical drama, will be the attraction.

Manager Morosco understands the tastes of his patrons. He presents attractive plays with a fully competent company, and the results are satisfactory to both manager and people.

Matinees Sundays, at 2 P. M. Admission, 10 cents. Front reserved seats 10 cents extra.

Next week, Miss Lora Hollis will be the star in Darrell Vinton's new play, The Man of Gold.

Badger's Park, Oakland.

The Tuolumne Pioneers will hold their Annual Reunion and renew the friendships of "the days of old and days of gold" at Badger's Park, Oakland, on Monday next. It will suffice to say that with Geo. T. Bromley as orator and the genial flow of sociability that characterizes these reunions there will be an enjoyable time generally.

Bella Union Theatre.

The new people for this week are: Flora Hastings, Helen Conklin, Conlon & Dougherty and Billy Akarman.

The ladies of the company come in for a full share of the applause and crowd the male contingent very closely.

Billy Akarman's funny comedy sketch, The Red-Headed Girl and the White Turkey, and The Sculptor's Studio are important features of the bill.

Billy Akarman resumes his old position of stage manager this week.

Friday nights are devoted to amateurs, and some of the novices have shown decided talent, and as they are ambitious they will soon be classed among the professionals.

A host of new faces for next week: The Millar Bros., the Suanettes, the Stetson Sisters, Drummond & Stable, the Herbert Sisters, Judd London, Kitty Roslin and Birth Weston, all in new and attractive specialties.

Mr. Akarman puts on another new comedy with all the company in the cast.

Thursday evening, June 20th, a grand benefit is to be given to Dan Regan (the Montana Kid), who will box four rounds with Mike Lucie Goldsmith, Hennessy, the O'Sullivans and many others have volunteered for the occasion.

Hallinan's Cremorne Theatre.

Ned Nestell, the Old Soldier, has gone back into harness and is managing the stage in his usual manner, making himself a favorite with all.

This week another strong bill is presented. Among the people engaged for the week are: Sam Dearing and Conlon & Dougherty the new faces.

Berkeley & Howard, Fitz & Devine, Hayes & Marion, Sadie Fairfield and May Morrell are still reigning favorites.

Jack the Ripper is the comedy for the week.

A grand glove contest will be the attraction every Tuesday and Friday evening.

Commencing Friday evening, June 14, every Friday night will be set apart for amateur talent. Any one wishing to appear, can do so by applying by letter, or in person, to Manager Nestell.

Next week eight new stars are added to the bill: Big Bertha, Wellington (the lady contortionist), Hopper & Hall, Crawford Bros., and Fulcard & Dana (artistic club swingers).

Original Theatre Comique.

The Comique presents an entire new bill this week, with songs and afterpiece. Numerous new novelties are produced by the various artists every evening and especial attention is paid to the first part.

This week the entertainment begins with selections by the entire company. Charles Morrell has new banjo songs and an entire change of witty sayings for the entertainment of the Comique's patrons.

Matt Trayers, the German Democrat, appears this week in original songs and sayings.

The comical farce-comedy, The Serenaders, is the intervude act.

The laughable farce, The Picnic, with all the company in the cast, concludes the bill and the evening's fun.

The Comique's company is a strong one. It is a neat, compact minor theatre, and for many years has been a popular one.

Eureka Music Hall.

This is one of the neatest and most popular of our minor theatres. Manager Walterstein runs a very strong company.

Mr. Chas. Rice becomes stage manager this week.

Lillie Mason, Laura White, Cora Everett, Lulu Howard, Pearl Iola, Stella Merriam, Ed Soldene, W. Baker, Chas. Rice and A. J. McNiece.

The first part introduces the entire company in new and pleasing selections. Rice & Everett appear in their original sketch, Upside Down, introducing songs, dances and medleys, A. J. McNiece gives one of his original specialties, and W. Baker in his lightning change act.

The Can-Can is retained on the bill. New songs and dances and all the original business have been introduced, making the bill stronger than ever.

The Eureka gives a matinee every Sunday.

Sunday, June 16th, grand picnic and ball of the Beer-Brewers' Union at Seaside Gardens.

Sunday Excursions on the Bay.

The steamer Tamalpais, renovated and placed in complete order, will make family excursions every Sunday during the season to Mare Island, Vallejo and Martinez; leaving Sausalito ferry slip, foot of Clay street, at 10 15 A M, and returning at 7 30 P M. Tickets, for the round trip, 50 cents; children, 25 cents. This includes an enjoyable thirty-mile sail through San Francisco and San Pablo bays and the Straits of Carquinez. The U. S. First Infantry Band will furnish the music. Lunches on the boat at city prices. The comfort of the excursions, under the management of P. H. Hink, will be properly looked after.

A "Honeymoon Hotel" has been erected in Devonshire, England, where young married couples are invited to come and enjoy the peculiar felicities that ought to attend love's young dream. The equipments of this house are peculiar, great stress being laid upon the chambers and the water accommodations, every room being supplied with purling brooks, or something that passes for that sort of thing, and moonlight effects produced by electric light. Nightingales sing in the bath room, and cream caramels are served for breakfast. The servants are attired as Greek shepherdesses, and statues of Cupid and Venus decorate all the hallways. There is thus about the new hotel, a soft, mushy atmosphere that keeps up the delicate sentiment that man experiences when he swings on the front gate, and plays the accordion in the wet grass under his love's window.

Recently, six sea lions were shipped from San Francisco to New York, by express consigned to Herrmann Reiche, the Park, Row animal importer. While en route a baby sea lion was born. The infant arrived at Hoboken, N. J., May 30th, in anything but a robust condition, owing to the fact that its mother was unable to care for it, because of the exhaustion produced by travel. Mr. Reiche desires to put it with a litter of pups that the mother may bring it up with them, therefore he is looking for a St. Bernard or Newfoundland, which is in condition to adopt the baby sea lion.

Herrmann the magician, has shut down on the custom of passing the profesh. He compelled a delegation from Daly's to pay at the Fifth-avenue the other night, and the sock and buskin people became indignant.

EVENING EDITION

MONDAY.....JUNE 17, 1889

FULL PROGRAMMES of all the Leading Theatre in San Francisco can be found in FIGARO—the only paper that has them.

SPECIALTY SQUIBS.

Johnnie C in and John P Brace returned from Seattle to-day. They talk of doubling up as "Two of the Burnt Oats." They saved their wardrobes.

Edward Leslie, the well known blackface comedian and banjo player, has returned from his trip in the interior with the Beach Musical Comedy Company. Mr. Leslie reports business pretty about fair, but little money in the country.

Mason & Zazelle, Grant & Martin, the Four Carls, Jean Collins, Brown & Mason and Bertha Waring got in from the North, mostly from Seattle, to-day.

Olympic Theatre, Ashland, Wis., June 10th: Smith & Campbell, Low Baker, Lillie Billington, Gould & Bert, Bertie La Point, Willard & Hall and Miss Pearl Carlton. Friday, June 14th, was the occasion of a grand testimonial benefit to John H. Clark and Fred Tebo, scientific boxers.

Fashion Theatre, San Antonio, Texas, June 10th: Frank Lavarnie and Jessie Le Seur, the Wambolds, Kelly & Wolf, Dan Creelan and Miss Elsa Moore; Wiley Hamilton, stage manager.

Mr. John Perry, of the Perry Bros., left for the East Thursday. Ed. Perry and Irwin T. Bush left on Saturday. The Perry Bros. will make Eastern bookings for their new play, "Two Pair."

Manager Meyer has secured the lease of the Vienna, and it is his intention to keep it dark for the present.

The Putnam Twin Sisters have been engaged for the Summer season at the Star Theatre, Cleveland.

Mlle. Garretta with her troupe of birds and kangaroos is filling a very successful Northern engagement.

The Clifford Sisters, Flora and Rose, are at the Bella Union Theatre, Spokane Falls.

Poor Tony Hart, it is said, is writing a play for next season, in which he has cast himself for parts of a German boy, a negro wench and an Irish washwoman.

The Haverly-Cleveland Minstrels closed their season at Lockport, N. Y., June 1st, after being out about forty-six weeks. Mr. Cleveland reports good business throughout the entire season.

The Orpheum will introduce "The Orpheum's Own Importation," a company organized in New York especially for it, this week.

Dockstader's Minstrels will play in New York nearly all of next season.

The Comique presents an entire new bill this week. Charley Morrell and John Cook contribute excellent specialty turns, and J. H. Burns is good in character parts.

The Black Flag, Thorne's strong piece, will be this week's attraction at the Standard.

A series of comic operas are to be given at Herzberg's West Brighton Casino, Coney Island, New York, begining June 22d. The list includes Girofle-Girofla, The Chimes of Normandy, Olivette and other popular operas. Claude H. Brooke is to manage the company, of which Annie Miss Leat will be the prima donna. Others in the cast are Henri Laurent, tenor and stage director; Julia Gower, Jules Clossen, C. St. Martin, W. A. Shaw and a chorus of sixty voices. Edmund M. Rosner has signed as musical director.

As an actor William F. Burton deserves to be ranked as one of the funniest comedians connected with the American stage. He was thoroughly educated. To the time of his last illness—heart disease—his facial power, what the French call mobile, was greater than that of any performer I ever saw. Even Liston was inferior to him in this. His harmonic art was far beyond mediocrity. He could create a part. His Ambrose Sleek and his Toodles were as much creations of his as the men who wrote the plays in which they appear. His repertory was extensive, and he never spared labor upon anything he took in hand. One fault of his must not be omitted—a fault which low comedians in general, who are popular with audiences, have a tendency to run into. He had the habit of giving too much breadth—in fact of throwing unnecessary coarseness into some of his impersonations.

PROFESSIONAL PICKINGS.

George Caine and Jennie Darragh have signed with Ida Van Siclen for her interior season. Mr. Caine goes out as leading man.

Cordray's Museé and Theatre, corner Third and Yamhill streets, Portland, Or., opens July 1st with the Essie Tittel Co. George Y. Stevens, stage manager.

The Twelve Temptations opened to a crowded house Sunday night at the Grand. It is a compound of specialty, ballet and spectacular. If the good business continues a nice little plum will fall into the pockets of the management.

Hearty Nick Roberts, who "held the fort" at the Bijou during the Emerson Minstrel season, arrived from the East Sunday to take the management of the great out-door spectacle at Central Park, "The Last Days of Pompeii," which will be ready for exhibition about the last of the month.

Mr. J. H. Decker, general business manager of Thatcher, Primrose & West's Minstrels, who open at the California next week, is in town engineering their army of paper.

Mr. Albert Hosmer, a popular local actor, has been engaged to take the leading role in "The Twelve Temptations," and is the bright particular star of the company.

Mr. Charles Arnold has signed for a three years tour of America under the management of Simmonds & Brown, appearing in his great play of "Hans, the Boatman," by Clay M. Greene. Hans is a sort of Rip Van Winkle, an easy, careless, happy-go-lucky fellow who is the favorite companion of every child that comes near him. Though but a poor boatman, he wins the love of a woman above him in social status, and marrying her, takes her to his lowly home in the Adirondack Mountains. Here disappointment awaits her, for Hans gives all his spare time to his little playmates, and she worries for the world, and finally elopes with a former lover. Hans' remorse at his forgetfulness and neglect induces him to strive to win her back; and he makes a bonfire of the toys and knickknacks he has used with his loved little playfellows, but a powder-horn, concealed by his own little son, causes an explosion, and poor Hans is blinded, and is afterward seen, led by his intelligent dumb companion—a St. Bernard dog—on the weary search for his wife. Of course she returns, and he recovers his sight, and happiness is restored to both.

Miss Marie Tietjens, who is a niece of the celebrated prima donna of that name, has made her debut in London with moderate success.

Rose Cogblan will make a pleasure tour to the Yosemite Valley this Summer before she opens in this city, at the Baldwin Theatre, on August 15th.

A washing compound firm recently hired twelve bald-headed men to sit together in the orchestra chairs of an Eastern theatre each with a legend pasted on his head. That advertiser ought to be in the show business.

Eva Clayton, eldest daughter of Dion Boucicault, widow of John Clayton, who was in the stock company at Booth's Theatre fifteen years ago, recently became the wife of young Harry Eversfield, who played the part of the harum-scarum boy in The Gold Mine.

A new tenor may be heard in Boston next season. Frank Hunter, of Pittsburg, has been studying in Italy and London for the past four years. He is several inches over six feet in height, his voice is of high range, and he will be a high tenor every way.

The stage wardrobe and jewels of the late Marie Aimee were sold at auction in New York and realized about $6,000.

Palmer's Theatre, N. Y., was sold at auction to Mrs. Octavia Moss for $200,000

Dockstader's Minstrels realized nearly $1,000 for the Johnstown sufferers from their benefit performance at Boston.

Mme. Maurice Bernhardt, daughter-in-law of Sarah Bernhardt, has just made Dona Sol a grandmother.

After "Twelve Tempts" at the Grand comes Lillian Gray's Colossal Gaiety Co. Stand from under.

Miss Anita Fallon is rehearsing her new society play, entitled The Coral Bracelet, at the Bush. It will be the attraction at that theatre for the week of June 24th, with the fair authoress as its heroine, supported by a strong company.

See cast of "The Wife," the opening comedy of the Baldwin Theatre season, in the Baldwin's programme space elsewhere in our columns.

Fred Bert, who will manage Howard Taylor's new play, A Tour of Africa, is spoken of by the New York press as "the veteran California manager." Fred is a young man yet, and though he did embark in managerial business early in years he is not entitled to be ranked as a veteran California manager—without tough experiences in manag ment raise him to a brevet rank of veteran.

Mrs. Langtry says she will soon leave the stage because she is tired of being talked about. What base ingratitude! If she had never been talked about she would have never been anybody.

Wilson Barrett will ship 180 tons of scenery from England early in the Fall. This comprises the stage garniture of Claudian, Hamlet, Ben Machree and Good Old Times.

Estelle Clayton's new play for next season is called On the Hudson.

Parisian society has been agitated because a proposition has been under consideration to present Patti with the Cross of the Legion of Honor. The Frenchmen

George S. Knight is booked for a performance at Asbury Park, N. J., late in the Summer, and says that he will show the Australians Baron Rudolph next Fall. He continues to improve in health, and takes daily spins through Asbury Park on a bycicle. Mrs. George S. Knight will go out alone next season, presenting two new plays by George R. Simms. Her season opens Sept. 15th at Denver, under the management of Frank W. Paul.

W. L. Vose, formerly an operatic singer, but for the past year assistant manager of Fred Long's Asbury Park Theatre, New Jersey, has struck luck after years of hard effort. He has been advised that he will receive $16 800 from the government, a pension and back pay due his father, who was a soldier in the late Rebellion.

Miss Annie O'Neil, the charming and popular ingenue of Harrigan's Park Theatre, has been secured for next season by Manager Daniel Frohman, and will appear with Sothern at the Lyceum, New York, in August.

EVENING EDITION

SUNDAY.....JUNE 17, 1889

FIGARO is the Official Journal of all the Leading Theatres in San Francisco, and the only paper that publishes their full programmes.

AMUSEMENTS, ETC.

Leavitt's New Bush Street Theatre.

The Bush will be closed for the purpose of making some needed stage improvements this week.

Miss Anita Fallon, a talented young emotional actress in her new society play, entitled "The Coral Bracelet," adapted from the French, will be the attraction at the Bush next week.

"The Coral Bracelet" will be carefully produced with new scenery and stage appointments. Miss Fallon will be supported by that excellent actor, Neil Warner and a good company.

Duncan B. Harrison will inaugurate the regular season at the Bush on Monday evening, July 1st, with the production of his sensational military drama of "The Paymaster." Mr. Harrison brings with him his competent company in support and all the fine scenery and stage appointments used in the Eastern production of his play.

Baldwin Theatre.

The Baldwin Theatre reopens with the commencement of its Seventh Season this week with Dan'l Frohman's New York Lyceum Theatre Company in the American society comedy of "The Wife." It proved a great card here last Summer, and as it has the same people in the cast again, its success is assured.

Georgie Cayvan and Herbert Kelcey are the estranged wife and husband; Nelson Wheatcroft the polished, gentlemanly villain, and W. J. Le Moyne the laughable and genial old Major. Charles Dickson and Louise Dillon furnish the piquant comedy element. Henry Miller Grace Henderson, Mrs. Whiffen, Chas. Walcot and Mrs. Walcot all embody their pleasant impersonations of last year. "The Wife" has only this week allotted to it.

For cast see Baldwin programme in adjoining column.

"Sweet Lavender" will be given, for the first time here, for the second week. This play is the work of Pinero, who is coming into decided prominence as a dramatic author.

Alcazar Theatre.

J. B. Polk's pungent farce-comedy, "Mixed Pickles," that has been received with great favor in every section of the Union, will be he repeat at the Alcazar this week.

The cast is evenly balanced, four ladies and four gentlemen, giving Pickles its spice by their piquant acting. The ingredients are very palatable, and Polk's "Mixed Pickles" will be found to be a fine amusement relish and be much sought after this week.

New California Theatre.

Richard Golden closes this week in "Old Jed Prouty," a Yankee play, of which the New York Herald said his "Old Jed comes nearer to nature than Denman Thompson's Joshua Whitcomb." It sprang into popularity at once in New York, and business has been very satisfactory at the California.

Richard Golden's New Englander anti-dates Joshua Whitcomb, as he first introduced "Old Jed" in a sketch act in St. John, New Brunswick in 1869. It again cropped out in 1875, but never as a full-fledged dramatic lead until Golden & Gill developed it in its present shape. Its appointments are genuine ones, and belong to the Prouty family, of Bucksport, Maine; the rug used was made by an ancient spinster clypt Tribulation Prouty; the piano, used 100 years ago, was the property of Joshua Prouty; the old boots Golden drags around were worn by George A. Prouty, and the old fire engine Deriso No. 3 did service in Bucksport more than 75 years ago. The properties form quite a study in the antique.

Mr. Golden is natural all through. The character drawing is excellent, and the costumes and make ups good. The cast is strong throughout. The piece is as clean and healthy as fresh-mown hay, and will without doubt draw well for its last week.

Those bright lights (in black) of minstrelsy, Thatcher, Primrose & West and company, open their season at the California next week.

Standard Theatre.

Edwin Thorn's strong melodrama, "The Black Flag," effectively cast and carefully produced forms this week's bill. This drama is full of stirring incidents and intense dramatic interest, and ought to fill the Standard every night. It has been Mr. Thorne's standby in his starring seasons in the East. His Harry Glynden, the brave coast guardsman, is a fine dramatic impersonation.

Mr. Thorne is supported by J. W. Thompson, E. N. Thayer, F. D. Summerfield, John H. Armstrong, Geo. M. Hermance, Miss Clyde Heron, Miss Kitty Belmour, Miss May Nannery and others.

Popular prices, 25, 50 and 75 cents.

The Standard has undergone a complete renovation. The theatre has been refurnished in comfortable style, and the stage has been enlarged and improved. The Standard is now one of the most comfortable theatres in the city.

Bijou Theatre.

John T. White, a well known Eastern manager, at one time connected with the Madison Square Theatre, has taken the management of the Bijou Theatre and opens his season Saturday night with Lewis Morrison and company in D'Ennery's great play "A Celebrated Case." Manager White has taken the Bijou for an extended term, and has a line of attractions engaged. Frank L. Hoogs is treasurer.

The Bijou starts in with every prospect of success. The New York nucleus of the company, consisting of Lewis Morrison, Stella Rees (leading lady), Russ Whytall (leading man), Florence Roberts (juvenile) and Samuel Edwards (comedian), arrived on Friday. The full cast of the play appears in the Bijou programme space elsewhere in FIGARO.

Morrison has always ranked as the best actor of polished, gentlemanly villains on our stage and as Count De Morney he is unrivalled anywhere. The play is effectively cast throughout, and will be handsomely staged.

First "Celebrated Case" matinee on Saturday, June 29th.

Popular prices will rule: 25, 50 and 75 cents. Matinees, 25 and 50 cents.

Orpheum Opera House.

This week, Managers Walter & Co. present "The Orpheum's Own Importation" of Eastern talent that they estimate highly enough to give to it the title of their popular theatre.

The company consists of the Orpheum Quintette, the Carle Family, musical grotesques; Signorina Alma; Mr. James Reilly, comedian; Frank Dare, gymnast; Drawee, the juggler; Franks and Marion; The Bicketts; Griffin & Langan, and Miss Josephine Soltez, vocaliste, and others.

Prof. Jean Weitzman will give an exhibition every evening at 7 o'clock, and Sunday at 1 P. M., crossing on a wire stretched from the top of the Orpheum building across the street to the old Government building, 150 feet in the air and 250 in length; besides, his marvelous stage performance on the tight-rope.

The Battle of Vicksburg.

The grand panorama of the Battle of Vicksburg at the Panorama Building, corner of Eddy and Mason streets, is one that no American should fail to see. It gives a grand view of the battle with the conflict at its height on the land and the bombardment from the river with the correct positions of the engaging forces and the proper placement of the ironclads in the bombardment. It is a great painting, and excels the Battle of Waterloo in graphic power and vivid reality. Destruction reigns on every side. The burning buildings, the bursting shells, the desperate charges, the hand-to-hand conflicts, and the dying and wounded, all depict with startling realism one of the hottest conflicts in history.

Open from 9 A. M. to 6 P. M.

Morosco's Amphitheatre.

Managers Morosco & Byrnes have put in a most complete fireproof partition between the stage and the auditorium, from wall to wall of their big theatre. It is constructed of iron lathings on both sides of the studding. The decorators have finished the immense ceiling of the theatre with harmonious panels.

This week Miss Lora Hollis will be the star in Darrell Vinton's new play, The Man of Gold.

Manager Morosco understands the tastes of his patrons. He presents attractive plays with a fully competent company, and the results are satisfactory to both manager and people.

Matinees Sundays, at 2 P. M. Admission, 10 cents. Front reserved seats 10 cents extra.

Bella Union Theatre.

A host of new faces for this week: The Millar Bros., the Suanettes, the Stetson Sisters, Drummond & Stahle, the Herbert Sisters, Judd London, Kitty Roslin and Birth Weston, all in new and attractive specialties.

Mr. Akerman puts on another new comedy with all the company in the cast.

The ladies of the company come in for a full share of the applause and crowd the male contingent very closely.

Thursday evening, June 20th, a grand benefit is to be given to Dan Regan (the Montana Kid), who will box four rounds with Mike Lucie Goldsmith, Hennessy, the O'Sullivans and many others have volunteered for the occasion.

Friday nights are devoted to amateurs, and some of the novices have shown decided talent, and as they are ambitious they will soon be classed among the professionals.

Hallinan's Cremorne Theatre.

Ned Nestell, the Old Soldier, has gone back into harness and is managing the stage in his usual manner, making himself a favorite with all.

This week eight new stars are added to the bill: Big Bertha, Wellington (the lady contortionist), Hopper & Hall, Crawford Bros., and Fulcard & Dana (artistic club swingers).

Hayes & Marion, Sadie Fairfield and May Morrell are still reigning favorites.

A grand glove contest will be the attraction every Tuesday and Friday evening.

Friday nights are set apart for amateur talent. Any one wishing to appear, can do so by applying by letter, or in person, to Manager Nestell.

Original Theatre Comique.

The Comique presents an entire new bill this week, with songs and afterpiece. Numerous new novelties are produced by the various artists every evening and especial attention is paid to the first part.

This week the entertainment begins with selections by the entire company.

Matt Trayers, the German Democrat, appears this week in original songs and sayings.

The comical farce-comedy, Congressional Servants, is the interlude act.

The laughable farce, Skirmishing, with all the company in the cast, concludes the bill and the evening's fun.

The Comique's company is a strong one. It is a neat, compact little theatre, and for many years has been a popular one.

Eureka Music Hall.

This is one of the neatest and most popular of our minor theatres. Manager Walterstein runs a very strong company.

Laura Manning, Laura White, Rosa Karten, Fanny Karten, Georgie Kaine, Bob McDonald, W. Baker, and Chas. Rice make up the company this week.

The Karten Sisters, Mamie Sanford, Stella Walton and Bob McDonald make their first appearance this week.

The first part introduces the entire company in new and pleasing selections.

The Can-Can is retained on the bill. New songs and dances and all the original business have been introduced, making the bill stronger than ever.

The Eureka gives a matinee every Sunday.

Sunday, June 23d, grand picnic of the Golden Era Social Club at Seaside Gardens.

Sunday Excursions on the Bay.

The steamer Tamalpais, renovated and placed in complete order, will make family excursions every Sunday during the season to Mare Island, Vallejo and Martinez; leaving Sausalito ferry slip, foot of Clay street, at 10.15 A. M., and returning at 7.30 P. M. Tickets, for the round trip, 50 cents; children, 25 cents. This includes an enjoyable thirty-mile sail through San Francisco and San Pablo bays and the Straits of Carquinez. The U. S. First Infantry Band will furnish the music. Lunches on the boat at city prices. The comfort of the excursions, under the management of P. H. Hink, will be properly looked after.

KIRBY'S "DEATH!"

"Wake me up when Kirby dies!"
Kirby was a Bowery mime,
And a Roscius in its eyes,
With the Bowery in its prime!

"Wake me up when Kirby dies!"
Said the gods unto the gods,
As they closed their sleepy eyes.
And each ragged Homer nods.

"Wake me up when Kirby dies!"
Was his mimic "death" a "show?"
Did he show th' whites o' his eyes,
And into "convulsions" go?

"Wake me up when Kirby dies!"
Artist he, or artisan;
Was their genius in his eye?
Was he less or more than man?

Did he "die" by fits and starts,
To the music of the fiddle?
Showing "death" in all its parts,
In a serio-comic riddle?

Was his "death" the best of him,
With the artificial rift?
Ranting was the best of him—
Whiskey knocked him out of lift!

Was his "acting" bad or good?
Was his life as was his death?
Was his "art" misunderstood?
Was his soul a stibbolleth?

Who can answer, now he plays
Well his part in heavenly scenes;
Mayn't, under Shakespeare's rays,
Mid the stage's kings and queens!

Now he understands it all—
Seeing with anointed eyes;
E'er I make my final "fall,"
Wake me up when Kirby dies!

Or, the rather job, the joy
That I impersonation give!
To exhibit rapture dying slowly,
Wake me up when Kirby lives!

For he liveth, never fear!
And best impersonates;
One's taste, and in a sphere
In the presence of the Fates!

Recently, six sea lions were shipped from San Francisco to New York, by express consigned to Herrmann Reiche, the Park Row animal importer. While en route a baby sea lion was born. The infant arrived at Hoboken, N. J., May 30th, in anything but a robust condition, owing to the fact that its mother was unable to care for it, because of the exhaustion produced by travel. Mr. Reiche desires to put it with a litter of pups that the mother may bring it up with them, therefore he is looking for a St. Bernard or Newfoundland, which is in condition to adopt the baby sea lion.

Herrmann the magician, has shut down on the custom of passing the profesh. He compelled a delegation from Daly's to pay at the Fifth Avenue the other night, and the suck and bu-kin people became indignant.

SPECIALTY SQUIBS.

Phil J. Stressinger is organizing a musical and specialty company of first-class talent to make an extended tour through Northern California, Oregon, Washington Territory and Montana.

May Brandon, the petite song and dance artiste, is filling a highly successful engagement at the Mascot Theatre, Galveston, Texas.

Standard Theatre, Portland, June 17: Durrell Bros., Dot Melville and Annie Ryner new.

Among the people at the Arion Theatre, Butte City, were Eva Woods, Elma Forrest, Kittie Williams, Symonds & Hughes, Young Rastus, Dollie Weston, Allie McClellan, Kittie Chapman and Frank Binney.

Johnnie Cain and John P. Brace returned from Seattle Monday. They talk of doubling up as "Two of the Burnt Outs." They saved their wardrobes.

Manager Meyer has secured the lease of the Vienna, and it is his intention to keep it dark for the present.

The Putnam Twin Sisters have been engaged for the Summer season at the Star Theatre, Cleveland.

Mason & Zazelle, Grant & Martin, the Four Carls, Jean Collins, Brown & Mason and Bertha Waring got in from the North, mostly from Seattle, Monday.

Mlle. Garretta with her troupe of birds and kangaroos is filling a very successful Northern engagement.

Poor Tony Hart, it is said, is writing a play for next season, in which he has cast himself for parts of a German boy, a negro wench and an Irish washwoman.

The Orpheum will introduce "The Orpheum's Own Importation," a company organized in New York especially for it, this week.

Dockstader's Minstrels will play in New York nearly all of next season.

The Comique presents an entire new bill this week. Charley Morrell and John Cook contribute excellent specialty turns, and J. H. Burns is good in character parts.

Estelle Clayton's new play for next season is called On the Hudson.

Mr. Charles Arnold has signed for a three years tour of America under the management of Simmonds & Brown, appearing in his great play of "Hans, the Boatman," by Clay M. Greene. Hans is a sort of Rip Van Winkle, an easy, careless, happy-go-lucky fellow who is the favorite companion of every child that comes near him. Though but a poor boatman, he wins the love of a woman above him in social status, and marrying her, takes her to his lowly home in the Adirondack Mountains. Here disappointment awaits her, for Hans gives all his spare time to his little playmates, and she wearies for the world, and finally elopes with a former lover. Hans' remorse at his forgetfulness and neglect induces him to strive to win her back; and he makes a bonfire of the toys and knick-knacks he has used with his loved little playfellows, but a powder-horn, concealed by his own little son, causes an explosion, and poor Hans is blinded, and is afterward seen, led by his intelligent dumb companion—a St. Bernard dog—on the weary search for his wife. Of ocurse she returns, and he recovers his sight, and happiness is restored to both.

As an actor William F. Burton deserves to be remembered as one of the funniest comedians connected with the American stage. He was thoroughly educated. To the time of his last illness—heart disease—his facial power, what the French call mobile, was greater than that of any performer I ever saw. Even Liston was inferior to him in this. But Burton's art was far beyond grimace. He could create a part. His Aminidab Sleek and his Toodles were as much creations of his as the men who wrote the plays in which they appear. His repertory was extensive, and he never spared labor upon anything he took in hand. One fault of his must not be omitted—a fault which low comedians in general, who are popular with audiences, have a tendency to run into. He had the habit of giving too much breadth—in fact of throw-

PROFESSIONAL PICKINGS.

Seats are on sale for the Lewis Morrison season at the Bijou.

George Wessells has been engaged in the East specially to play Gouroc in Paul Kauvar. George will instill an added bitterness to the part.

A strong company have been engaged through the Mark Thall Dramatic Exchange to support Miss Anita Fallon in her adaption from the French society play, "The Coral Bracelet," at the Bush next week.

Mr. Duncan B. Harrison, who comes to the Bush June 24th, is one of the finest looking men on the American stage. "The Paymaster" has been favorably received all over the country.

Manager John T. White, lately from the Madison Square Theatre, New York, the new manager of the Bijou Theatre on Market street, opens his season on Saturday night with Lewis Morrison, supported by a company made up of New York and local talent, in the sterling play of "A Celebrated Case." The full cast appears in the Bijou programme space in an adjoing column.

Chas. Shields, the scenic artist at Morosco's, has just finished a new curtain for that popular East-side theatre. The subject is the Berkshire Hills, Mass. The curtain is a very handsome one. It is a credit to both artist and theatre.

On Monday evening, June 24th, every theatre in town will be open and bidding for a portion of the public's patronage.

The Spring Valley Water Co, intend to commence work on their new building on Geary street, on the ground now occupied by the Wigwam. It is probable that Manager Meyer will then confine himself exclusively to the Vienna and bring it into notice as a popular resort.

Col. J. M. Wood, the architect, has returned from a visit of inspection to the New Broadway Theatre he is building at Denver for Manager Leavitt, and still insists it will be the handsomest theatre in the country. It will be finished about Sept. 1st.

Willie P. Sweatnam, Billy Rice, Billy Emerson and Hughey Dougherty, all high-priced minstrel comedians, are among those already signed for the Haverly-Cleveland Minstrel Company next season. Emerson is a $500-a-week man.

Another new comic opera is promised at the Tivoli in July.

From present appearances the production of "The Last Days of Pompeii" will be on a scale of great magnificence, surpassing anything of the kind ever attempted on the coast. The hippodrome races are sure to draw large numbers of the racing contingency. Central Park is well sheltered from the winds, nearly out of the line of the heavy fogs and easy of access.

John Gilbert, the well known actor, died June 17th, in Boston, at the ripe old age of 79. Mr Gilbert commenced his theatrical career when only 18 years old, appearing at the old Tremont Theatre, Boston, as Sir Edward Mortimer in The Iron Chest, and Jaffier in Venice Preserved. After a successful season there, he went to New Orleans and played under the management of J. H. Caldwell. It was there he showed his ability in delineation of old men's characters, in which role he remained without a peer. After a few years he returned to Boston and supported Booth, Charlotte Cushman, Wallack, Forrest and many other celebrities of that time. His Sir Anthony Absolute, Sir Peter Teazle, Hardcastle and Jesse Rural were wonderful performances. Mr. Gilbert joined Wallack's N. Y. Co. in 1862 and continued a member until its dissolution in 1888. Mr. Gilbert leaves quite a comfortable fortune, which it is to be hoped will fall to his wife, who has long been a member of Augustus Daly's company, honored and loved by all who know her.

Hoyt's serious play of New England life, "A Midnight Bell," that had its first performance last Summer at the Alcazar, has just rounded its 100th night at the Bijou Theatre, New York. The following San Franciscans are in the New York cast: Annie Adams as the old maid Maud Adams as the minister's sister and George Trader, the original Ned of the Alcazar cast. Eugene Canfield is now the country boy and Isabella Coe the schoolma'am. George Richards, the stranger of "A Hole in the Ground," will shortly go in the cast as the deacon, and will fit the character to a nicety.

George Caine and Jennie Darragh have signed with Ida Van Siclen for her interior season. Mr. Caine goes out as leading man.

Cordray's Musee and Theatre, corner Third and Yamhill streets, Portland, Or., opens July 1st with the Essie Tittel Co. George Y. Stevens, stage manager.

Hearty Nick Roberts, who "held the fort" at the Bijou during the Emerson Minstrel season, arrived from the East Sunday.

Mr. J. H. Decker, general business manager of Thatcher, Primrose & West's Minstrels, who open at the California next week, is in town engineering their army of paper.

Rose Coghlan will make a pleasure tour to the Yosemite Valley this Summer before she opens in this city, at the Baldwin Theatre, on August 15th.

A washing compound firm recently hired twelve bald-headed men to sit together in the orchestra chairs of an Eastern theatre each with a legend pasted on his head. That advertiser ought to be in the show business.

After "Twelve Tempts" at the Grand comes Lillian Gray's Colossal Gaiety Co. Stand from under.

The Black Flag, Thorne's strong piece, will be this week's attraction at the George S. Knight is booked for a performance at Asbury Park, N. J., la e in the Summer, and says that he will show the Australians Baron Rudolph next Fall. He continues to improve in health, and takes daily spins through Asbury Park on a bycicle. Mrs. George S. Knight will go out alone next season, presenting two new plays by George R. Simms. Her season opens Sept. 15th at Denver, under the management of Frank W. Paul.

Miss Annie O'Neil, the charming and popular ingenue of Harrigan's Park Theatre, has been secured for next season by Manager Daniel Frohman, and will appear with Sothern at the Lyceum, New York, in August.

Miss Anita Fallon is rehearsing her new society play, entitled The Coral Bracelet, at the Bush. It will be the attraction at that theatre for the week of June 24th, with the fair anthoress as its heroine, supported by a strong company.

AMUSEMENTS, ETC.

Leavitt's New Bush Street Theatre.

The Bush will be closed for the purpose of making some needed stage improvements this week.

Miss Anita Fallon, a talented young emotional actress, in her new society play, entitled "The Coral Bracelet," adapted from the French, will be the attraction at the Bush next week.

"The Coral Bracelet" will be carefully produced with new scenery and stage appointments. Miss Fallon will be supported by that excellent actor, Neil Warner and a good company.

Duncan B. Harrison will inaugurate the regular season at the Bush on Monday evening, July 1st, with the production of his sensational military drama of "The Paymaster." Mr. Harrison brings with him his competent company in support and all the fine scenery and stage appointments used in the Eastern production of his play.

Baldwin Theatre.

The Baldwin Theatre reopens with the commencement of its Seventh Season this week with Dan'l Frohman's New York Lyceum Theatre Company in the American society comedy of "The Wife." It proved a great card here last Summer, and as it has the same people in the cast again, its success is assured.

Georgie Cayvan and Herbert Kelcey are the estranged wife and husband; Nelson Wheatcroft the polished, gentlemanly villain, and W. J. Le Moyne the laughable and genial old Major. Charles Dickson and Louise Dillon furnish the piquant comedy element. Henry Miller, Grace Henderson, Mrs. Whiffen, Chas. Walcot and Mrs. Walcot all embody their pleasant impersonations of last year. The company are perfectly at home in their characters and strive to make the most of them. The result is a very finished and enjoyable performance.

"The Wife" has only this week allotted to it.

For cast see Baldwin programme in adjoining column.

"Sweet Lavender" will be given, for the first time here, for the second week. This play is the work of Pinero, who is coming into decided prominence as a dramatic author.

Alcazar Theatre.

J. B. Polk's pungent farce-comedy, "Mixed Pickles," that has been received with great favor in every section of the Union, will be the repast at the Alcazar this week.

The cast is evenly balanced, four ladies and four gentlemen, giving Pickles its spice by their piquant acting. The ingredients are very palatable, and Polk's "Mixed Pickles" will be found to be a fine amusement relish and be much sought after this week.

The comedy, which has been several years before the public, has the self-preserving qualities of being a lively and amusing one, and besides it has in Mr. Polk an admirable comedian, whose character assumptions are clearly outlined, versatile and graphic. Mr. Polk has able support in Mrs. Polk, a good actress and singer, and his very clever company.

"The Silent Partner," a new comedy, will have its first performance by Mr. Polk and company next week.

New California Theatre.

Richard Golden closes this week in "Old Jed Prouty," a Yankee play, of which the New York Herald said his "Old Jed comes nearer to nature than Denman Thompson's Joshua Whitcomb." It sprang into popularity at once in New York, and business has been very satisfactory at the California.

Richard Golden's New Englander anti-dates Joshua Whitcomb, as he first introduced "Old Jed" in a sketch act in St. John, New Brunswick, in 1869. It again cropped out in 1875, but never as a full-fledged dramatic lead until Golden & Gill developed it in its present shape. Its appointments are genuine ones, and belong to the Prouty family, of Bucksport, Maine; the rug used was made by an ancient spinster clypt Tribulation Prouty; the piano, used 100 years ago, was the property of Joshua Prouty; the old boots Golden drags around were worn by George A. Prouty, and the old fire engine Derigo No. 6 did service in Bucksport more than 75 years ago. The properties form quite a study in the antique.

Mr. Golden is natural all through. The character drawing is excellent, and the costumes and make-ups good. The cast is strong throughout. The piece is as clean and healthy as fresh-mown hay, and will without doubt draw well for its last week.

Those bright lights (in black) of minstrelsy, Thatcher, Primrose & West and company, open their season at the California next week.

Grand Opera House.

William J. Gilmore's grand spectacle, "The Twelve Temptations," is filling the promises of its announcements. It is a great combination show, embracing a full acting company in a romantic story of occult forces ably written and dramatically planned out by Chas. H. Yale. It presents the weird scenery of the frigid zone and the gorgeous scenery of the tropical one. We have picturesque dramatic episodes, combats with fiery dragons, beautiful ballets, comic pantomime scenes, taking specialties, magnificent scenery, appointments and costumes, and all that goes to make up a grand spectacle.

In the third act there is the "Ballet of All Nations," a gorgeous spectacle that will be remembered by all who have seen it. The piece closes with a transformation scene of bewildering richness. The attendance is very large.

Tickets, 25, 50, 75 cents and $1. Matinees, Wednesday and Saturdays.

Standard Theatre.

Edwin Thorn's strong melodrama, "The Black Flag," effectively cast and carefully produced, forms this week's bill. This drama is one of stirring incidents and intense dramatic interest, and ought to fill the Standard every night. It has been Mr. Thorne's standby in his starring seasons in the East. His Harry Glyndon, the brave coast guardsman, is a fine dramatic impersonation. He sustains the part in a manly, heroic way, and carries the sympathies of his audiences with him through all its vicissitudes.

Mr. Thorne is supported by J. W. Thompson, E. N. Thayer, F. D. Summerfield, John H. Armstrong, Geo. M. Hermance, Miss Clyde Heron, Miss Kitty Belmour, Miss May Nannery and others.

Popular prices, 25, 50 and 75 cents.

The Standard has undergone a complete renovation. The theatre has been placed in complete order, inside and out.

Bijou Theatre.

John T. White, a well known Eastern manager, at one time connected with the Madison Square Theatre, has taken the management of the Bijou Theatre and opens his season Saturday night with Lewis Morrison and company in D'Ennerery's great play, "A Celebrated Case." Manager White has taken the Bijou for an extended term, and has a line of attractions engaged. Frank L. Hoogs is treasurer.

The Bijou starts in with every prospect of success. The New York nucleus of the company, consisting of Lewis Morrison, Stella Rees (leading lady), Russ Whytall (leading man), Florence Roberts (juvenile) and Samuel Edwards (comedian), arrived on Friday. The full cast of the play appears in the Bijou programme space elsewhere in FIGARO.

Morrison has always ranked as the best actor of polished, gentlemanly villains on our stage and as Count De Morney he is unrivalled anywhere. The play is effectively cast throughout, and will be handsomely staged.

First "Celebrated Case" matinee on Saturday, June 29th.

Seats now on sale.

Popular prices will rule: 25, 50 and 75 cents. Matinees, 25 and 50 cents.

Orpheum Opera House.

This week, Managers Walter & Co. present "The Orpheum's Own Importation" of Eastern talent that they estimate highly enough to give to it the title of their popular theatre.

The company consists of the Cosmopolitan Quintette, the Carle Family, musical grotesques; Signorina Alma; Mr. James Rielly, comedian; Frank Dare, gymnast; Drawee, the juggler; Franks and Marion; The Bicketts; Griffin & Langan, one of whom does some remarkable patter dancing, and others.

Frank Dare's act is a study of physical powers; the Carle family—two ladies and two gentlemen—is novel, artistic and musically. Prof. Weitzman is as much at home on his rope as the others are on the stage, and James Reilly, a former member of Emerson's Minstrels, brings down the house with his capital singing and character delineations. The fine-formed Bicketts do a dashing trapeze act; Franks & Marion are as clever, neat and finished as ever in their sketch, and the whole performance winds up with the Cosmopolitan Quintette, in well rendered and elegantly costumed operatic scenes, concluding with a National tableau.

Prof. Jean Weitzman will give an exhibition every evening at 7 o'clock, and Sunday at 1 P. M., crossing on a wire stretched from the top of the Orpheum building across the street to the old Government building, 150 feet in the air and 250 in length; besides, his marvelous stage performance on the tight-rope. The street is crowded every night to see the Professor.

The Battle of Vicksburg.

The grand panorama of the Battle of Vicksburg at the Panorama Building, corner of Eddy and Mason streets, is one that no American should fail to see. It gives a grand view of the battle with the conflict at its height on the land and the bombardment from the river with the correct positions of the engaging forces and the proper placement of the ironclads in the bombardment. It is a great painting, and excels the Battle of Waterloo in graphic power and vivid reality. Destruction reigns on every side. The burning buildings, the bursting shells, the desperate charges, the hand-to-hand conflicts, and the dying and wounded, all depict with startling realism one of the hottest conflicts in history.

Open from 9 A. M. to 6 P. M.

Morosco's Amphitheatre.

Managers Morosco & Byrnes have put in a most complete fireproof partition between the stage and the auditorium, from wall to wall of their big theatre. It is constructed of iron lathings on both sides of the studding. The decorators have finished the immense ceiling of the theatre with harmonious panels.

This week, Miss Lora Hollis will be the star in Darrell Vinton's play, The Man of Gold. The play is one of the mining camp and it is replete with romance and song. Darrell Vinton makes a good Tender Jim, and Jas. Carden plays Smokey as well as Mordaunt could have done it. Miss Lora Hollis is very acceptable as Fanny, beside being the handsomest leading lady Manager Morosco has ever had.

The company are well chosen and the piece

Manager Morosco understands the tastes of his patrons. He presents attractive plays with a fully competent company, and the results are satisfactory to both manager and people.

Matinees Sundays, at 2 P. M. Admission, 10 cents. Front reserved seats 10 cents extra.

Bella Union Theatre.

A host of new faces for this week: The Millar Bros., the Suanettes, the Stetson Sisters, Drummond & Stable, the Herbert Sisters, Judd London, Kitty Roslin and Birtha Weston, all in new and attractive specialties.

Mr. Akarman puts on another new comedy with all the company in the cast.

The ladies of the company come in for a full share of the applause and crowd the male contingent very closely.

Thursday evening, June 20th, a grand benefit is to be given to Dan Regan (the Montana Kid), who will box four rounds with Mike Lucie Goldsmith, Hennessy, the O'Sullivans and many others have volunteered for the occasion.

Friday nights are devoted to amateurs, and some of the novices have shown decided talent, and as they are ambitious they will soon be classed among the professionals.

Hallinan's Cremorne Theatre.

Ned Nestell, the Old Soldier, has gone back into harness and is managing the stage in his usual manner, making himself a favorite with all.

This week eight new stars are added to the bill: Big Bertha, Wellington (the lady contortionist), Hopper & Hall, Crawford Bros., and Fulcard & Dana (artistic club swingers).

Hayes & Marion, Sadie Fairfield and May Morrell are still reigning favorites.

A grand glove contest will be the attraction every Tuesday and Friday evening.

Friday nights are set apart for amateur talent. Any one wishing to appear, can do so by applying by letter, or in person, to Manager Nestell.

Original Theatre Comique.

The Comique presents an entire new bill this week, with songs and afterpiece. Numerous new novelties are produced by the various artists every evening and especial attention is paid to the first part.

This week the entertainment begins with selections by the entire company.

Matt Trayers, the German Democrat, appears this week in original songs and sayings.

The comical farce-comedy, Congressional Servants, is the interlude act.

The laughable farce, Skirmishing, with all the company in the cast, concludes the bill and the evening's fun.

The Comique's company is a strong one. It is a neat, compact minor theatre, and for many years has been a popular one.

Eureka Music Hall.

This is one of the neatest and most popular of our minor theatres. Manager Walterstein runs a very strong company.

Laura Manning, Laura White, Rosa Karten, Stella Merriam, Mamie Sanford, Stella Walton, Fanny Karten, Georgie Kaine, Bob McDonald, W. Baker, and Chas. Rice make up the company this week.

The Karten Sisters, Mamie Sanford, Stella Walton and Bob McDonald make their first appearance this week.

The first part introduces the entire company in new and pleasing selections.

The Can-Can is retained on the bill. New songs and dances and all the original business have been introduced, making the bill stronger than ever.

The Eureka gives a matinee every Sunday.

Sunday, June 23d, grand picnic of the Golden Era Social Club at Seaside Gardens.

EVENING EDITION

WEDNESDAY.....JUNE 19, 1889

FULL PROGRAMMES of all the Leading Theatre in San Francisco can be found in FIGARO—the only paper that has them.

PROFESSIONAL PICKINGS.

Stella Rees, Mr. Lewis Morrison's leading lady, was born in Indianapolis. She was leading lady for Edmund Collier for one season, and last Winter was a member of Joseph Jefferson's company.

"Ardriell," the new comic opera, is not a success.

Robert Mantell will open in San Francisco July 8th.

Fred. W. Bert will give a production of Lost in Africa next season.

Alexander Salvini will not travel with his father next season, but will remain a member of the Madison Square Co. He says that the only part of any consequence he would have in all of his father's repertoire would be that of Iago.

The brightest thing around the Alcazar is Mark Thall's new $600 headlight. It looms up like the lighthouse on Alcatraz.

Mr. Dan Collyer will star next season in The Country Boy. It is the piece recently played by Miss Maud Granger under the title of Two Lives. Mr. Collyer made a great hit in his part in this production, and the play has been remodeled for him.

Rose Coghlan will make a pleasure tour to the Yosemite Valley this Summer before she opens in this city, at the Baldwin Theatre, on August 15th.

See cast of Miss Anita Fallon's new society play, adapted from the French, entitled The Coral Bracelet; or Irene's Vow, to be produced at the Bush, Monday night, in programme space on first page.

A good company and good management will give the Bijou a better outlook this summer.

Frank Dare, the excellent horizontal-bar gymnast here with Kiralfy, is one of the new Orpheum Company.

John J. Jennings, one of the best character actors San Francisco knows, is hesitating over a summer professional visit to this city.

For new company at the Bijou, run your eyes over the cast of The Celebrated Case, the opening piece, Saturday night, elsewhere in FIGARO.

Jeffreys Lewis has gone East.

Mrs. Potter and Kyrie Bellew sailed for Havre on the same steamer.

Charley Reed is with us again. He plays at the Alcazar with Harrigan next month.

W. T. Carleton has a new soprano for next season—Alice Carl. At last accounts Clara Lane has been re-engaged, so it is likely Miss Carl succeeds Miss Vincent. Carleton does not mention his new comedian yet. Drew goes to the Brass Monkey. He has been with Carleton four years.

The Biche aus Bois (Fairy of the Wood), from which Jarrett and Palmer derived Leo and Lotus at Niblo's twenty years ago, is to be revived at the Porte St. Martin Theatre, Paris.

Manager Abbey has guaranteed the Italian tenor Tamagno $100,000 to sing fifty nights during Patti's four months' American tour, it being understood that he is not to sing on the same nights as Patti.

George Richards has assumed the part of the Deacon in A Midnight Bell for the remainder of its run at the Bijou Theatre, New York. He is also engaged for the next season's tour of Mr. Hoyt's successful comedy.

Kajanka, the new spectacle, which will be made known in Columbus, O., September 16th, promises to be one of the most magnificent productions of next season. Seventy-five people will be employed in the representation, including a novel European specialty.

Manager Buford's Night Off company closed its season of thirty-seven weeks at Altoona June 1st. The organization has made a wonderful tour having traveled upwards of thirty thousand miles — from the Atlantic to the Pacific, and from Mexico to Canada. The company has played in twenty-seven States, and in one hundred and sixty-nine cities and towns, and lost but one night. It was the first attraction in Jacksonville, Fla., after the quarantine was raised, and the only company starting from New York that played Victoria and Vancouver.

W. W. Furst, leader of the Tivoli orchestra, will produce his own opera, Theodora, at that place some time this month.

Prosecuting Attorney — Now, Uncle Mose, you said that both shots were fired simultaneously? Uncle Mose—No, sah; I nebber said no sech words. I said de fo' shots wuz fired at de same time; dat's what George Caine and Jennie Darragh have signed with the Essie Tittel Co. in place of Ida Van Siclen, as was formerly announced. Mr. Caine goes as leading man. The company is engaged to open the season at the new Musee and Theatre, Portland, on July 1st.

The Dramatic News is the authority for the statement that John A. Stevens' trip to our coast has not been abandoned, but that Mr. Stevens, Miss Carrie Turner and another important player will come to California very shortly under the management of M. B. Leavitt. Mr. Sol Berliner will be interested in the venture. The company will consist of ten people, and they will produce a number of Mr. Stevens' successful plays at the Bush St. Theatre.

Seats are on sale for the Lewis Morrison season at the Bijou.

George Wessells has been engaged in the East specially to play Gouroc in Paul Kauvar. George will instill an added bitterness to the part.

A strong company has been engaged through the Mark Thall Dramatic Exchange to support Miss Anita Fallon in her adaption from the French of the society play, "The Coral Bracelet," at the Bush next week. See cast on first page.

Mr. Duncan B. Harrison, who comes to the Bush June 24th, is one of the finest looking men on the American stage. "The Paymaster" has been favorably received all over the country.

Manager John T. White, lately from the Madison Square Theatre, New York, the new manager of the Bijou Theatre on Market street, opens his season on Saturday night with Lewis Morrison, supported by a company made up of New York and local talent, in the sterling play of "A Celebrated Case." The full cast appears in the Bijou programme space in an adjoining column.

Chas. Shields, the scenic artist at Morosco's, has just finished a new curtain for that popular East-side theatre. The subject is the Berkshire Hills, Mass. The curtain is a very handsome one. It is a credit to both artist and theatre.

On Monday evening, June 24th, every theatre in town will be open and bidding for a portion of the public's patronage.

The Spring Valley Water Co. intend to commence work on their new building on Geary street, on the ground now occupied by the Wigwam. It is probable that Manager Meyer will then confine himself exclusively to the Vienna and bring it into notice as a popular resort.

Col. J. M. Wood, the architect, has returned from a visit of inspection to the New Broadway Theatre he is building at Denver for Manager Leavitt, and still insists it will be the handsomest theatre in the country. It will be finished about Sept. 1st.

Willis P. Sweatnam, Billy Rice, Billy Emerson and Hughey Dougherty, all high-priced minstrel comedians, are among those already signed for the Haverly-Cleveland Minstrel Company next season. Emerson is a $500-a-week man.

Another new comic opera is promised at the Tivoli in July.

From present appearances the production of "The Last Days of Pompeii" will be on a scale of great magnificence, surpassing anything of the kind ever attempted on the coast. The hippodrome races are sure to draw large numbers of the racing contingency. Central Park is well sheltered from the winds, nearly out of the line of the heavy fogs and easy of access.

John Gilbert, the well known actor, died June 17th, in Boston, at the ripe old age of 79. Mr. Gilbert commenced his theatrical career when only 18 years old, appearing at the old Tremont Theatre, Boston, as Sir Edward Mortimer in The Iron Chest, and Jaffar in Venice Preserved. After a successful season there, he went to New Orleans and played under the management of J. H. Caldwell. It was there he showed his ability in delineation of old men's characters, in which role he remained without a peer. After a few years he returned to Boston and supported Booth, Charlotte Cushman, Wallack, Forrest and many other celebrities of that time. His Sir Anthony Absolute, Sir Peter Teazle, Hardcastle and Jesse Rural were wonderful performances. Mr. Gilbert joined Wallack's N. Y. Co. in 1862 and continued a member until its dissolution in 1888. Mr. Gilbert leaves quite a comfortable fortune, which it is to be hoped will fall to his wife, who has long been a member of Augustus Daly's company, honored and loved by all who know her.

Miss Anita Fallon is rehearsing her new society play, entitled The Coral Bracelet, at the Bush. It will be the attraction at that theatre for the week of June 24th, with the fair authoress as its heroine, supported by a strong company.

Estelle Clayton's new play for next season is called On the Hudson.

Hoyt's serious play of New England life, "A Midnight Bell," that had its first performance last Summer at the Alcazar, has just rounded its 100th night at the Bijou Theatre, New York. The following San Franciscans are in the New York cast: Annie Adams as the old maid, Maud Adams as the minister's sister and George Trader, the original Ned of the Alcazar cast, Eugene Canfield is now the country boy and Isabella Coe the schoolma'am. George Richards, the stranger of "A Hole in the Ground," will shortly go in the cast as the deacon, and will fit the character to a nicety.

After "Twelve Tempts" at the Grand comes Lillian Gray's Colossal Gaiety Co. Stand from under.

The Black Flag, Thorne's strong piece, will be this week's attraction at the Standard.

James O'Neil will stick to Monte Cristo for the rest of his life. It has made him

SPECIALTY SQUIBS.

George H. Rice, proprietor of the Elite Varieties, corner of Geary and Dupont streets, was shot dead, without warning, by Joseph Wallace last evening about 8 o'clock, just as he entered his house. Wallace's act seems to have been entirely unexpected, and was a brutal and murderous one.

According to the stories of witnesses Wallace came to the Elite and took a stand on the stairs leading from the sidewalk to the theatre. Rice came in later. As he was near the foot of the steps and was passing the point where Wallace stood the latter stuck out his foot and tripped him up. Rice went stumbling down to the bottom and turned around, laughing at the trick Wallace had played upon him. As he looked up the stairs, however, he found it anything but a joke. Wallace had his pistol out and without a word opened fire. Rice fell to the floor, crying: "For God's sake, Joe, what's the matter?" Paying no heed to this, Wallace fired again and again upon the prostrate man until he had emptied four chambers of his revolver. He then walked coolly up the steps and surrendered himself to two citizens, and subsequently to a police officer.

The deceased was a very quiet small sized man. Wallace is a stout, strongly built man. After eight years service on the regular police force he was removed. Rice gave him the position of special officer in his house, which he held at the time he committed the cowardly murder.

The Na Lani Ebiku Club of Honolulu, who sang at the Orpheum a few weeks ago, joined Gallagher, Jenkins & Stanley's Specialty Co. in Honolulu, June 1st, where they played to a large audience in the Hawaiian Opera House.

Phil J. Stressinger is organizing a musical and specialty company of first-class talent to make an extended tour through Northern California, Oregon, Washington Territory and Montana.

The Stanleys, Gallagher & Jenkins and Ada Devere arrived on the last steamer from Honolulu. They report that the trip to the Islands had sufficient variety in it to make it quite lively.

May Brandon, the petite song and dance artiste, is filling a highly successful engagement at the Mascot Theatre, Galveston, Texas.

Standard Theatre, Portland, June 17: Durrell Bros., Dot Melville and Annie Ryner new.

Among the people at the Arion Theatre, Butte City, were Eva Woods, Elma Forrest, Kittie Williams, Symonds & Hughes, Young Rastus, Dollie Weston, Allie McClellan, Kittie Chapman and Frank Binney.

Johnnie Cain and John P. Brace returned from Seattle Monday. They talk of doubling up as "Two of the Burnt Outs." They saved their wardrobes.

The Putnam Twin Sisters have been engaged for the Summer season at the Star Theatre, Cleveland.

Mason & Zazelle, Grant & Martin, the Four Carle, Jean Collins, Brown & Mason and Bertha Waring got in from the North, mostly from Seattle, Monday.

The Orpheum will introduce "The Orpheum's Own Importation," a company organized in New York especially for it, this week.

AMUSEMENTS, ETC.

Leavitt's New Bush Street Theatre.

Miss Anita Fallon, a talented young emotional actress, produces her new society play—the lady's own adaptation from the French—entitled "The Coral Bracelet; or, Irene's Vow," on Monday evening. This promises to be the society event of the week, as the society four hundred will be out in full force on Monday night at the Bush. Stage whispers speak most favorably of the piece.

"The Coral Bracelet" will be carefully produced with new scenery and stage appointments. Miss Fallon will be supported by that excellent actor, Neil Warner and a good company.

See cast of "The Coral Bracelet" on first page of FIGARO.

Duncan B. Harrison will inaugurate the regular season at the Bush on Monday evening, July 1st, with the production of his sensational military drama of "The Paymaster." Mr. Harrison brings with him his competent company in support and all the fine scenery and stage appointments used in the Eastern production of his play.

Baldwin Theatre.

The Baldwin Theatre reopens with the commencement of its Seventh Season this week with Dan'l Frohman's New York Lyceum Theatre Company in the American society comedy of "The Wife." It proved a great card here last Summer, and as it has the same people in the cast again, its success is assured.

Georgie Cayvan and Herbert Kelcey are the estranged wife and husband; Nelson Wheatcroft the polished, gentlemanly villain, and W. J. Le Moyne the laughable and genial old Major. Charles Dickson and Louise Dillon furnish the piquant comedy element. Henry Miller Grace Henderson, Mrs. Whiffin, Chas. Walcot and Mrs. Walcot all embody their pleasant impersonations of last year. The company are perfectly at home in their characters and strive to make the most of them. The result is a very finished and enjoyable performance.

"The Wife" has only this week allotted to it.

For cast see Baldwin programme in adjoining column.

"Sweet Lavender" will be given, for the first time here, for the second week. This play is the work of Pinero, who is coming into decided prominence as a dramatic author.

Alcazar Theatre.

J. H. Polk's pungent farce-comedy, "Mixed Pickles," that has been received with great favor in every section of the Union, will be the repast at the Alcazar this week.

The cast is evenly balanced, four ladies and four gentlemen, giving Pickles its spice by their piquant acting. The ingredients are very palatable, and Polk's "Mixed Pickles" will be found to be a fine amusement relish and be much sought after this week.

The comedy, which has been several years before the public, has the self-preserving qualities of being a lively and amusing one, and besides it has in Mr. Polk an admirable comedian, whose character assumptions are clearly outlined, versatile and graphic. Mr. Polk has able support in Mrs. Polk, a good actress and singer, and his very clever company.

"The Silent Partner," a new comedy, will have its first performance by Mr. Polk and company next week.

New California Theatre.

Richard Golden closes this week in "Old Jed Prouty," a Yankee play, of which the New York Herald said his "Old Jed comes nearer to nature than Denman Thompson's Joshua Whitcomb." It sprang into popularity at once in New York, and business has been very satisfactory at the California.

Mr. Golden is natural all through. The character drawing is excellent, and the costumes and make-ups good. The cast is strong throughout. The piece is as clean and healthy as fresh-mown hay, and will without doubt draw well for its last week.

Those bright lights (in black) of minstrelsy, Thatcher, Primrose & West and company, open

Grand Opera House.

William J. Gilmore's grand spectacle, "The Twelve Temptations," is filling the promises of its announcements. It is a great combination show, embracing a full acting company in a romantic story of occult forces ably written and dramatically planned out by Chas. H. Yale. It presents the weird scenery of the frigid zone and the gorgeous scenery of the tropical one. We have picturesque dramatic episodes, combats with fiery dragons, beautiful ballets, comic pantomime scenes, taking specialties, magnificent scenery, appointments and costumes, and all that goes to make up a grand spectacle.

In the third act there is the "Ballet of All Nations," a gorgeous spectacle that will be remembered by all who have seen it. The piece closes with a transformation scene of bewildering richness. The attendance is very large.

Tickets, 25, 50, 75 cents and $1. Matinees, Wednesday and Saturdays.

Standard Theatre.

Edwin Thorn's strong melodrama, "The Black Flag," effectively cast and carefully produced, forms this week's bill. This drama is one of stirring incidents and intense dramatic interest, and ought to fill the Standard every night. It has been Mr. Thorne's standby in his starring seasons in the East. His Harry Glyndon, the brave coast guardsman, is a fine dramatic impersonation. He sustains the part in a manly, heroic way, and carries the sympathies of his audiences with him through all its vicissitudes.

Mr. Thorne is supported by J. W. Thompson, E. N. Thayer, F. D. Summerfield, John H. Armstrong, Geo. M. Hermance, Miss Clyde Heron, Miss Kitty Belmour, Miss May Nannery and others.

Popular prices, 25, 50 and 75 cents.

The Standard has undergone a complete renovation. The theatre has been placed in complete order, inside and out.

Bijou Theatre.

John T. White, a well known Eastern manager, at one time connected with the Madison Square Theatre, has taken the management of the Bijou Theatre and opens his season Saturday night with Lewis Morrison and company in D'Ennerery's great play, "A Celebrated Case." Manager White has taken the Bijou for an extended term, and has a line of attractions engaged. Frank L. Hoogs is treasurer.

The Bijou starts in with every prospect of success. The New York nucleus of the company, consisting of Lewis Morrison, Stella Rees (leading lady), Russ Whytall (leading man), Florence Roberts (juvenile) and Samuel Edwards (comedian), arrived on Friday. The full cast of the play appears in the Bijou programme space elsewhere in FIGARO.

Morrison has always ranked as the best actor of polished, gentlemanly villains on our stage, and as Count De Morney he is unrivalled anywhere. The play is effectively cast throughout, and will be handsomely staged.

First "Celebrated Case" matinee on Saturday, June 29th.

Seats now on sale.

Popular prices will rule: 25, 50 and 75 cents. Matinees, 25 and 50 cents.

Orpheum Opera House.

This week, Managers Walter & Co. present "The Orpheum's Own Importation" of Eastern talent that they estimate highly enough to give to it the title of their popular theatre.

The company consists of the Cosmopolitan Quintette, the Carle Family, musical grotesques; Signorina Alma; Mr. James Rielly, comedian; Frank Dare, gymnast; Drawee, the juggler; Franks and Marion; The Bicketts; Griffin & Langan, one of whom does some remarkable patter dancing, and others.

Frank Dare's act is a study of physical powers; the Carle family—two ladies and two gentlemen—are novel, artistic and musically. Prof Weitzman is as much at home on his rope as the others are on the stage, and James Reilly, a former member of Emerson's Minstrels, brings down the house with his capital singing and character delineations. The fine-formed Bicketts do a dashing trapeze act; Franks & Marion are as clever, neat and finished as ever in their sketch, and the whole performance winds up with the Cosmopolitan Quintette, in well rendered and elegantly costumed operatic scenes, concluding with a National tableau.

Prof. Jean Weitzman will give an exhibition every evening at 7 o'clock, and Sunday at 1 P. M., crossing on a wire stretched from the top of the Orpheum building across the street to the old Government building, 150 feet in the air and 250 in length; besides, his marvelous stage performance on the tight-rope. The street is crowded every night to see the Professor.

The Battle of Vicksburg.

The grand panorama of the Battle of Vicksburg at the Panorama Building, corner of Eddy and Mason streets, is one that no American should fail to see. It gives a grand view of the battle with the conflict at its height on the land and the bombardment from the river with the correct positions of the engaging forces and the proper placement of the ironclads in the bombardment. It is a great painting, and excels the Battle of Waterloo in graphic power and vivid reality. Destruction reigns on every side. The burning buildings, the bursting shells, the desperate charges, the hand-to-hand conflicts, and the dying and wounded, all depict with startling realism one of the hottest conflicts in history.

Open from 9 A. M. to 6 P. M.

Morosco's Amphitheatre.

Managers Morosco & Byrnes have put in a most complete fireproof partition between the stage and the auditorium, from wall to wall of their big theatre. It is constructed of iron lathings on both sides of the studding. The decorators have finished the immense ceiling of the theatre with harmonious panels.

This week, Miss Lora Hollis will be the star in Darrell Vinton's play, The Man of Gold. The play is one of the mining camp and it is replete with romance and song. Darrell Vinton makes a good Tender Jim, and Jas. Carden plays Smokey as well as Mordaunt could have done it. Miss Lora Hollis is very acceptable as Fanny, besides being the handsomest leading lady Manager Morosco has ever had.

The company are well chosen and the piece

Manager Morosco understands the tastes of his patrons. He presents attractive plays with a fully competent company, and the results are satisfactory to both manager and people.

Matinees Sundays, at 2 P. M. Admission, 10 cents. Front reserved seats 10 cents extra.

Bella Union Theatre.

A host of new faces for this week: The Miller Bros., the Suanettes, the Stetson Sisters, Drummond & Stable, the Herbert Sisters, Judd London, Kitty Roslin and Birtha Weston, all in new and attractive specialties.

Mr. Akarman puts on another new comedy with all the company in the cast.

The ladies of the company come in for a full share of the applause and crowd the male contingent very closely.

Thursday evening, June 20th, a grand benefit is to be given to Dan Regan (the Montana Kid), who will box four rounds with Mike Lucie Goldsmith, Hennessy, the O'Sullivans and many others have volunteered for the occasion.

Friday nights are devoted to amateurs, and some of the novices have shown decided talent, and as they are ambitious they will soon be classed among the professionals.

Halligan's Cremorne Theatre.

Ned Nestell, the Old Soldier, has gone back into harness and is managing the stage in his usual manner, making himself a favorite with all.

This week eight new stars are added to the bill: Big Berths, Wellington (the lady contortionist), Hopper & Hall, Crawford Bros., and Fulcard & Dana (artistic club swingers).

Hayes & Marion, Sadie Fairfield and May Morrell are still reigning favorites.

A grand glove contest will be the attraction every Tuesday and Friday evening.

Friday nights are set apart for amateur talent. Any one wishing to appear, can do so by applying by letter, or in person, to Manager Nestell.

Original Theatre Comique.

The Comique presents an entire new bill this week, with songs and afterpiece. Numerous new novelties are produced by the various artists every evening and especial attention is paid to the first part.

This week the entertainment begins with selections by the entire company.

Matt Trayers, the German Democrat, appears this week in original songs and sayings.

The comical farce-comedy, Congressional Servants, is the interlude act.

The laughable farce, Skirmishing, with all the company in the cast, concludes the bill and the evening's fun.

The Comique's company is a strong one. It is a neat, compact minor theatre, and for many years has been a popular one.

Eureka Music Hall.

This is one of the neatest and most popular of our minor theatres. Manager Walterstein runs a very strong company.

Laura Manning, Laura White, Rosa Karten, Stella Merriam, Mamie Sanford, Stella Walton, Fanny Karten, Georgie Kaine, Bob McDonald, W. Baker, and Chas. Rice make up the company this week.

The Karten Sisters, Mamie Sanford, Stella Walton and Bob McDonald make their first appearance this week.

The first part introduces the entire company in new and pleasing selections.

The Can-Can is retained on the bill. New songs and dances and all the original business have been introduced, making the bill stronger than ever.

The Eureka gives a matinee every Sunday.
